New service offers books

■ Beginning Jan. 10, books will be available at Plummer and Oklee

by Kathi Carlson
Reporter

Readers in the Oklee and Plummer areas who miss the services of the Northwest Regional Library Bookmobile will appreciate the fact that they will soon have new, albeit different, library services in their communities.

Beginning Thursday, January 10, books will be available for check out at the libraries of the Plummer and Oklee schools.

The NWRL Bookmobile served the Oklee and Plummer communities until March of last year when the service was discontinued when funding approved by Red Lake County's board of commissioners did not meet the budget for the service. When this occurred, the NWRL board directed Manager Bob Jacquet-Kalinoski to develop an alternative service for the rural residents of Red Lake County.

With the help of former board member Carole Konickson and current board member Judy Schue, Jacquet-Kalinoski developed a pilot to produce mini public library collections for the school media centers in Plummer and Oklee. Funding for the program was secured through a federal grant, and the NWRL board of directors approved the project.

Beginning January 10, collections of 500 books will be available at each school. The collections will include titles for adults and children as well as videos and books-on-tape. Each month, part of the collections will rotate. After the books have

Youth enjoy public ice rinks

Austin Odbarg and Matthew Odetta compete for the hockey puck as Brandan Skime takes a break. The youth were playing on the outdoor ice sheet at Engelstad Park in Thief River Falls Thursday afternoon. Even though there were two games taking place at the same time on the same sheet of ice, it seemed to work out. According to the warming house attendant, ever since it turned cold kids have been visiting the park regularly. In fact, she said the colder it gets, the busier it gets. This park has lights and the warming house is open from 3 to 9 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 1 to 9 p.m. on Saturdays and Sundays. In addition to the ice sheet for hockey, there's an ice sheet for recreational skating next to it.

TRF to host 2002 Crops Clinic Jan. 9

Clinics also planned for Twin Valley and Fergus Falls

Farmers interested in keeping themselves updated on new agricultural research, as well as recent crop pest problems, will want to attend a regional crop clinic in their area. A crop clinic in Thief River Falls will be held January 9 at the Evergreen Eating Emporium from 8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. Additional clinics are also scheduled for January 8 in Fergus Falls, January 10 in Hallock, and January 11 in Twin Valley.

The program is sectioned into two simultaneously running programs for both the morning and afternoon sessions, so participants can pick programs that best meet their specific needs. While some topics will be repeated through this process, others will only be offered once.

Morning sessions include: discussions on food-quality grain and how we make these determinations; insect pests old and new, including the potential threat from the soybean aphid, and managing difficult weeds; and a look at how current tillage practices have changed the weeds farmers are trying to control.

The second and consecutively-running morning program includes discussions on improving wheat protein with nitrogen applications; an update on current wheat disease issues; and an update on ongoing research into the use of tile drainage in northwest Minnesota.

Afternoon sessions include: additional sessions on the world wheat market and why wheat can sometimes be difficult to sell; fertilizer placement with air seeders; and updates on identity-preserved grain and quality storage issues.

Presentations will be made by Gary Fulcher, University of Minnesota Cereal Grains specialist; Ian MacRae, Extension entomologist; Carlyle Holen, IPM

Keeping WATCH AROUND THE REGION

DL resident enters race

Detroit Lakes - Brad Monson of Detroit Lakes is the second Republican to enter the race for Minnesota's 7th Congressional District.

Monson, 35, calls himself a "constitutional conservative" and says he wants less regulation from the federal government. This is his first run for public office. Becker County Record

Farm offers winter fun

Bagley - Tim and Deb Skadberg originated in South Dakota and spent 20 years in Colorado before landing in Bagley where they have started a new venture, Covered Bridge Farm.

A dozen horses, both Belgians and Percherons, are used to pull sleighs that accommodate up to 20 people. There is also a skating rink at the farm, and the Skadbergs rent out their heated barn for parties and gatherings. Farmers Independent

Police academy for citizens

Crookston - Beginning January 17, a Citizens' Police Academy, sponsored by the Polk County Triad, will be offered to the public.

Participants in the fun and educational program can expect to learn about the "hows" and "whys" of the police and sheriff's departments.

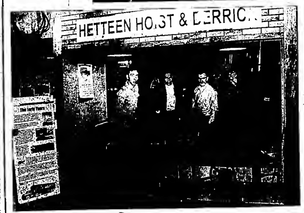
Citizens who live and work in the Crookston area and family members of law enforcement officers will be given preference when the 25 participants are selected. Crookston Daily Times

Couple builds "rink of dreams"

Bemidji - With the help of their neighbors, Bryan and Kris Hammitt built a hockey rink on their property this summer for their Bel-Tree Drive Northeast neighborhood.

Amenities include a 115-by-65-foot sheet of ice, regulation size boards and goals, three high-powered halogen lamps on 20-foot poles for night use, a fish house converted into a warming house complete with propane heaters and benches, and a homemade Zamboni-like machine to make ice for the rink. The Pioneer

Newspaper makes move



Fosston - After doing business in the same location for nearly a century, The Thirteen Towns newspaper will move from its building on Second Avenue NW to Johnson Avenue across from the downtown Fosston mall.

The decision to move was spurred by the fact that the age of the historic building does not justify its needed renovations and the availability of the larger and newer building. Formerly the building housed True Value Hardware and First National Bank when the Hwy. 2 facility was undergoing renovations. The Thirteen Towns

Polaris offers historic diversion for winter blues

▶ The Polaris X-2 that set a land record of more than 100 miles per hour in the early 1970's is among the many displays at the Polaris Experience Center in Roseau.

Polaris's story begins with the Hetteen brothers, Allan (left) and Edgar, and their brother-in-law/partner, David Johnson. Sacrifices were made with Johnson sending $11 of his monthly service pay home to help meet the struggling young company's payroll. Although hard work and commitment are the keys to the company's success, Johnson tells that it was the fact that he was too lazy to walk that inspired him to build a snowmobile.

POLARIS

New Experience Center provides a "way out"

by Kathi Carlson
Reporter

If you're looking for a way out, you might want to check out the new Polaris Experience Center in Roseau, an interpretive center that not only tracks the amazing history of Polaris Industries but also shares the company's vision for the future.

More than 900 people signed the guest book last weekend when the Experience Center held its grand opening in conjunction with Roseau's annual Frostbite Days celebration.

Traffic was also good during the holiday season when numerous families visited the center. Lyle Grindy is the facilitator at the center and says family interest is natural in Roseau, since nearly everyone who lives in the community or is related to someone in the area has ties to Polaris Industries.

Occupying about 4,000 square feet, the Experience Center is located kitty-corner to Roseau's Polaris production facility in the old creamery building. According to Grindy, the historic building was two days from the wrecking ball when owners Bill Hagen and John Miller donated the building and the land that it sits on to Reed River Development, a group of approximately 20 local investors who renovated the property. In addition to the Experience Center, other tenants in the complex include Pam's Pantry, a gourmet shop owned by Pam Hetteen, and Branigan's at The Creamery, an upscale restaurant chain based in Winnipeg.

While perhaps the charm of the historic building lends itself more to the businesses located there, it's not lost in Polaris's interpretive center. Those enjoying DVD's of old footage in its mini-theater only have to look up to admire tin ceiling tiles that are approaching the century mark.

Grindy feels fortunate that Polaris located its Experience Center in Roseau rather than Medina where, since 2000, the company's corporate headquarters are located. Others obviously agreed that the center belongs where the company, named for the North Star, originated.

From the moment one enters the Experience Center, he or she is met by Polaris's history in a variety of forms. The second-ever Polaris snowmobile, built by Allan Hetteen in 1956, is on display, and visitors learn that the first snowmobile, sold to help meet the struggling new company's payroll, was eventually lost in a fire. The diorama display of Hetteen Hoist & Derrick includes, in its background, an old photograph of Polaris founders Allan and Edgar Hetteen and David Johnson blown up to life-size.

A display that includes one of the three snowmobiles used in the 1960 expedition in Alaska represents the daring adventure that brought

SOUPÇON

Sherry LaCoursiere
email: lacourt@spacestar.net

Soups are a perfect food for the cold weather - nutritious and full of flavor - they'll banish the cold weather blues in a hurry:

CREAMED CABBAGE SOUP

2 (14 1/2 ounce) cans chicken broth
2 ribs celery, chopped
1 medium head cabbage, shredded (3 pounds)
1 medium onion, chopped
1 carrot, chopped
1/4 cup margarine
3 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
2 cups light cream
1 cup milk
2 cups chopped cooked ham
1/2 teaspoon thyme
Chopped fresh parsley

In large soup kettle, combine broth, celery, cabbage, onion and carrot. Bring to a boil.

Reduce heat, cover and simmer for 15-20 minutes or until vegetables are tender.

Meanwhile, melt margarine in medium saucepan. Add flour, salt and pepper. Stir to form a smooth paste. Combine cream and milk. Gradually add to flour mixture, stirring constantly. Cook and stir until thickened. Continue cooking 1 minute longer. Gradually stir into vegetable mixture.

Add ham and thyme. Heat through. Garnish with parsley.

Meat and potatoes with a tang - served in a big bowl:

BEAN AND SAUSAGE SOUP

1 (24 ounce can vegetable juice cocktail (V-8)
1 (15 ounce) can chili beans with chili gravy
2 cups frozen, loose-pack hash brown potatoes with onions and peppers (O'Brien potatoes)
8 ounces fully cooked Polish sausage or fully cooked, smoked turkey sausage, halved lengthwise and sliced 1/4 inch thick
1/2 cup shredded cheddar cheese

In large saucepan, combine vegetable juice cocktail, undrained beans, potatoes and sausage. Bring to boil.

Reduce heat and simmer 10 minutes or until potatoes are tender and mixture is heated through.

Sprinkle each serving with a little cheddar cheese.

This isn't your everyday soup - serve it for a special occasion or to special guests:

QUICK CRAB SOUP

1 quart light cream or half and half
3 (3 ounce) packages cream cheese with chives
2 (10 1/4 ounce) cans condensed cream of celery soup
2 (10 1/4 ounce) cans condensed cream of tomato soup
1 pound lump crabmeat, fresh or frozen
1/2 cup dry sherry
1 cup sour cream
Chopped fresh chives

Combine cream, cream cheese and soups in Dutch oven. Heat over low heat until warm, stirring occasionally with wire whisk. Stir in crabmeat and sherry.

Heat until steaming and crabmeat is cooked through. Spoon into bowls. Top each with sour cream and chopped chives. Serve immediately.

Recipe serves 12.

This is a quick everyday soup that you should be able to make from ingredients you have on hand:

HAMBURGER SOUP

1 pound ground beef
1 onion, chopped
1 (16 ounce) can whole tomatoes
2 beef bouillon cubes
1 teaspoon salt
1 bay leaf
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
4 cups water
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1 cup uncooked egg noodles
1/2 teaspoon dried thyme
3/4 cup sliced celery
1 (10 ounce) package frozen mixed vegetables

Cook beef and onion over medium heat until brown. Drain and discard pan drippings.

Add tomatoes, bouillon cubes, salt, bay leaf, Worcestershire sauce, water and pepper. Cover and simmer for 30 minutes.

Add remaining ingredients. Bring to a boil and simmer, uncovered, for about 20 minutes, stirring occasionally.

If you've never made homemade mushroom soup but wanted to, here's the recipe for you:

MUSHROOM SOUP

1/2 cup diced onions
1/2 cup diced celery
2 1/2 cups fresh mushrooms
1 clove garlic, finely chopped
1/4 teaspoon dried parsley
1 crushed bay leaf
1 tablespoon butter
1 1/2 cups diced potatoes
1 can beef broth
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1 cup half and half
Salt and pepper to taste

Sauté onions, celery, mushrooms, garlic, parsley and bay leaf in butter until tender. Add potatoes and cover with beef broth. Simmer 30 minutes.

Combine cornstarch with half and half. Add to soup and cook until thickened, stirring to prevent sticking. Cook another 2 minutes. Salt and pepper to taste.

Minestrone is filled with good things - a thick, hearty soup that makes a great meal.

MINESTRONE WITH BEANS

2 tablespoons olive or vegetable oil
1 large onion, chopped
2 stalks celery, sliced
2 garlic cloves, minced
3 cups coarsely chopped cabbage
2 medium carrots, sliced
3 (14 1/2 ounce) cans beef broth
2 cups water
1 1/2 teaspoons dried Italian seasoning
1/4 teaspoon pepper
2 cups frozen cut green beans
2 small zucchini, sliced
2 (15.5 ounce) cans red beans, drained and rinsed
1 cup uncooked rotini (spiral pasta)

Heat oil in Dutch oven over medium-high heat until hot. Add onion, celery and garlic. Cook and stir 2-3 minutes or until onion is tender.

Add cabbage, carrots, broth, water, seasoning and pepper. Mix well. Bring to a boil. Reduce heat, cover and simmer 15 minutes, stirring occasionally.

Return to a boil. Add all remaining ingredients, mixing well. Simmer, uncovered, for 10-15 minutes or until vegetables and rotini are tender, stirring occasionally. If desired, season to taste with salt and pepper.

EDITORIAL OPINIONS

Dave Hill, Editor

Editorial opinion published under this heading is intended to stimulate thinking and discussion among our readers. Unless specified otherwise, the editorials are written by Editor Dave Hill and do not represent opinion of other staff members. Have we taken our extension educator system for granted?

It's more than 4-H!

Perhaps because so few realize the value of our Extension Service, that no public outcry has been heard concerning plans to eliminate as much as 25 percent of service providers. As one who has had regular contact with Minnesota Extension Educators, I add my voice to those who think the University of Minnesota should slow down and re-evaluate its decision to "streamline" the Extension Service.

The University of Minnesota states it has established a three-year plan for change. Unfortunately, for county extension educators and residents of northwest Minnesota, the process that began sometime around September ends this February with termination slips. If my recollection is accurate, I don't recall the Extension Service ever moving this fast, or ever failing to take into account the opinions of the citizens of Minnesota as much as they have now.

"Streamlining" in this instance is the equivalent of gutting the program. I have a young friend who likes to cut to the chase or cut through the verbiage to get at what people really are trying to say. He would probably call this is a "self-serve" plan — we provide information, you do the work. Unfortunately, many people in northwest Minnesota do not have the expertise, or the time to operate a "self-serve" plan.

One could hardly miss the fact that the Minnesota Extension Service has changed its method of program delivery, and internal function over the years. I'm just getting used to the concept of "Clusters," for example. Change is never easy, yet a sign of a healthy organization is its willingness to adjust to change. Many of those changes were grassroot changes — changes that came about because of new demands from the public served by the Minnesota Extension Service. Isn't that how change is supposed to take place?

Under the plan, Minnesota counties will continue to function as a platform for the delivery of programs, however, educators will be based regionally rather than serving an individual county. Pennington County has benefited greatly from the services of three extension educators. Handling the work and delivering the programs of one county is massive. Of these three individuals I can say I have never heard them say "no" to a request from the county board. In fact, I can say for a certainty that they have handled their duties with enthusiasm, and have accepted responsibilities that I think most would turn down. I think it would be accurate, as well, to say that they have never turned down a challenge. They have been responsible for helping the county obtain thousands of dollars in grants, manage 4-H programs, county fair projects, household hazardous waste programs, livestock and dairy programs, research water and pollution issues, keep the county up-to-date on rule and regulation changes, and research best agricultural practices and much, much more. I cannot imagine how difficult it will be for future extension educators to handle county fair matters and 4-H programs alone, for example. That is what is being proposed here. Instead of three extension educators in Pennington County, for example, we could be sharing one with several counties.

The official announcement stating its reason for change included this phrase: "our current financial model is not sustainable." I have a few other comments, which begin with a question: was the Extension Service ever designed to operate as a profitable enterprise? The "service" is provided to citizens of Minnesota, and this service has greatly enhanced their lives, and improved the profitability of their farms and businesses in an ever-competitive market. What value do we place on that?

I think the University of Minnesota Extension Service should step back and review its decision to "streamline" the system. While not intending its role to be any less important, gutting the ranks of those who provide the programs and services will do just that.

LETTERS

To the Editor:

This is in response to the letter to the editor about not being proud of Thief River Falls. There are some issues that were in the letter that I feel need to be addressed.

Yes, we are the big school in the tournament; however, when I took over the girls program six years ago, we had some great competitive games in the tournament. That last couple of years it has been very evident that the other schools have struggled with numbers and are playing younger kids. However, the MCC coaches didn't seem to mind playing us. They also expressed that part of their number problem was that some of their students were opting not to play basketball.

For the past two years, I have talked to the sponsors of the tournament, which School District 564 has nothing to do with, about changing the format of the tournament or trying to get bigger schools to come. However, as stated in the letter, this is a community tournament, and some of their bigger sponsors are in Thief River Falls as well as the surrounding area. Also, it is a recruiting tool for Northland Community and Technical College, so they want to stay with the local teams. By the way, there are currently four Thief River Falls girls playing for the Pioneers. We at Thief River Falls have a geographic problem that many people in Minnesota don't sympathize with, especially the Minnesota State High School League.

This year we were moved back to AAA after being AA for the past two years. This creates some scheduling headaches for us. You told us to go out and play some different schools — we play all of those schools you mentioned in your letter, most of them twice, with the exception of Moorhead. We dropped them from our schedule two years ago to pick up the AA schools in our section. Now I may have to try and pick them up again, which isn't easy because that forces them to drop teams as well. I have written letters and made phone calls asking AAA schools like Little Falls, St. Cloud and Alexandria to play us, but they don't want anything to do with us. Believe me, I am looking for alternatives to the tournament at the college, but it is not easy. For us to play in a tournament would mean spending two to three nights in a motel, which isn't in our budget. Now that North Dakota is playing their season at the same time as we are, I am hopeful that we will be able to pick up games with teams like Grand Forks Central or Red River.

I wish you would have kept your letter to the issue of size, and had not attacked myself and my team. I don't like my girls being called a bunch of hackers. We are an athletic team that takes pride in aggressive defense. Yes, I do have a good bench so that if we do get in foul trouble I feel comfortable playing them, which I did. I don't feel that we flaunted to trophy — this isn't varsity basketball; we play to win no matter what the size of the school.

Again, I don't plan the tournament so to imply that our program is so weak that in order to feel good we play teams two classes below ours is wrong. You asked, "What did we learn in this tournament:" Early in the season we try to learn from every game we play. In this tournament we learned that we need to work on our offense — not pick up bad habits! You are right — if we would have played great, and had I not played my bench as much as I did, our scores may have been a lot higher. If that be the case, we would have gotten a lot more letters than yours in the paper for running up the score on the small schools!

Your comment about going to Grand Forks or other towns to get into tournaments and spending your money there was made without investigation. There are no other tournaments around to get into. The Warren tournament is the only other tournament in the area; it currently has two premier "A" teams in Fosston and Kittson Central. I have suggested that we combine the two tournaments so that the top four teams from each merge together to play each other each year. But that suggestion hasn't gone very far.

I think you could have used better ways of venting your frustration. For one thing, you could have called me, and I would have explained our situation. Did you talk to the AD at the college, or John Praska at KTRF? They are the sponsors and set up the tournament. Did you talk to the other coaches involved? Some coaches like to play against competitive teams; they feel it's a good test that will hopefully make their teams better. For example, I have picked up Fosston this year; perhaps I shouldn't have, since they are an "A" school, which by what your wrote, I shouldn't play against because we are a higher level team! I would pick them and Kittson Central over any AA or AAA school that we play this year.

I have touched on a few issues that I hope will persuade you to some day be proud of Thief River Falls again. The students and athletes of Thief River Falls are a classy group of kids, and I am very proud to coach and teach here.

Sincerely,
Coach Jeff Loe

TRF girls are looking at changes in lines

■ Prowlers lose pair of hockey games at Detroit Lakes tourney

Tim Magnusson figured to alter his line-up after the Thief River Falls head coach watched the Prowlers lose to Litchfield/Dassel-Cokato and Fergus Falls at the Dec. 27-28 Detroit Lakes Invitational girls high school hockey tournament.

The Prowlers lost a 5-0 semifinal decision to the Dragons and dropped a 5-2 third place match-up vs. Fergus Falls in the four-team event.

Magnusson said he would use practice to try out a few new line-up wrinkles prior to the Prowlers' next scheduled start Tuesday at home against Moorhead.

"We probably played our worst two games of the season," offered Magnusson after the tournament outing. "We don't play again until Tuesday, so I'm going to change things up this week and see how that works."

The losses dropped the Prowlers below for the first time this year at 7-8.

Detroit Lakes, a 2-1 semifinal winner over Fergus Falls, beat Litchfield/Dassel-Cokato 10-1 in the championship game

Rams handle Prowlers

Statistical advantages added up to a 52-34 Roseau win over visiting Thief River Falls Thursday in girls high school basketball.

"You don't have 24 turnovers to your opponent's 12, shoot 30 percent to your opponent's 36 percent, and only get to the free throw line four times to your opponent's 24 times and win games," explained Thief River Falls coach Jeff Loe.

The Rams led at the quarter stops 17-11, 32-19 and 42-27.

"We were out-played and out-hustled the whole first half," said Loe. "We got behind early and hit the panic button, then played out of control the rest of the game."

The Prowlers were 15-for-41 from the field and 1-for-4 at the free throw line. The Ram went 19-for-53 from the floor and 13-for-24 at the line. A 34-30 Thief River Falls rebound edge was erased by the turnovers.

Stefanie Timmersman scored a game-high 18 points for the Rams. Meghan Nelson led the Prowlers with 12 points. Chelsea Haviland grabbed 11 rebounds for the visitors.

Thief River Falls saw a seven-game win streak came to an end with the loss that dropped the Prowlers to 7-2 for the year.

Shorthanded Gators beaten by Wolfpack

A young Badger/Greenbush-Middle River girls high school basketball team became even younger Thursday when juniors Breanna Holm (illness) and Amanda Randall (injury) missed the Gators' game against Kittson Central. A team that doesn't have a senior on the roster played much of the game with three freshmen and two sophomores on the floor. And as a result, the highly-regarded Wolfpack had an easy time of it, winning 74-34.

It was the first game since Dec. 18 for the Gators, who fell to 4-5 with the loss.

"That's not the way you want to come back from vacation," acknowledged Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Tom Neibauer. "They (Wolfpack) are hard to beat at their place. They hit everything they put up in the first half."

Kittson Central had quarter leads of 27-14, 38-22 and 62-29.

The Wolfpack put four players in double figures, led by Katie Visness with 24 points. Kierah Kimbrough led the Gators with 16 points.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle was 16-for-49 from the field (33 percent) and 2-for-5 at the free throw line, where Kittson Central had a 9-for-16 night.

The Gators will play again Thursday at Marshall County Central.

MCC girls lose 46-29 contest vs. Warroad

Twenty-one percent shooting stopped the Marshall County Central offense Thursday in a 46-29 girls high school basketball loss to Warroad in Newfolden.

"They played hard," reported Marshall County Central assistant coach Jake Rantanen, who was filling in for head coach Tom Mjelde. "It was a great defensive effort, but our shots just wouldn't fall."

The Nordics made just 10 of 47 field goal attempts while trailing at the quarter stops 13-6, 22-15 and 32-23.

Warroad, led by Donna Thunder with 22 points, had a 44 percent 18-for-41 shooting night.

Jordan Holthusen had a double-double for the Nordics with 15 points and 11 rebounds. Alicia Halvorson led the Marshall County Central defense, according to Rantanen.

Marshall County Central finished with a 41-25 rebound advantage, but they also topped the turnover charts 14-9. It was a stand-off at the free throw line, where the Nordics were 9-for-15 and the visitors went 9-for-13.

The 4-5 Nordics play Tri-County today (Saturday) at Karlstad.

RLCC starts New Year with win over Knights

AnnaMarie Fore scored 19 points and Michelle Halvorson made an injury-related delayed season debut with a strong defensive performance Thursday as the Red Lake County Central girls resumed their 2001-02 high school basketball schedule with a 59-55 victory over Climax/Fisher at Plummer.

The game featured an 18-point turnaround as the Mustangs turned a seven-point first quarter deficit into an 11-point fourth quarter lead.

Climax/Fisher led 21-18 at the first quarter stop and carried a 31-29 edge into halftime before falling behind 43-41 through three quarters.

Megan Gunderson joined Fore in double figures for the Mustangs with 12 points. Kirby Newhouse scored 21 points, Brenda Slyt 17 and Nikki Peterson 11 for the Knights.

Red Lake County Central drew plenty of fouls, but had trouble converting on a 19-for-39 free throw night. Climax/Fisher also struggled at the line with a 5-for-15 showing.

"We ran about four different offenses and did a good job on that end," said Red Lake County Central coach Rick Koivisto. "But we really got out-rebounded."

Halvorson played with a wrist brace, limiting her offensive production, but she was a presence on the other end of the court, according to Koivisto. "You could just see our defense pick up when she came into the game," he said.

The win improved the Mustangs' record to 3-6.

Mustangs resume schedule against unbeaten Nordics

Red Lake County Central ended the 2001 portion of the 2001-02 boys high school basketball schedule with a win, but the chances of building some momentum off a 47-43 victory over Hill City in the third place game of the Dec. 21-22 Roseau Invitational faced two obstacles – a two-week holiday break and an unbeaten Marshall County Central team that awaited the Mustangs Friday when the schedule resumed.

The host Rams beat Red Lake County Central 61-38 in the first round of the four-team, two-day Roseau Invitational before the Mustangs ended a five-game losing streak and improved to 2-6 with the win over Hill City the next day.

Roseau followed the semifinal win over Red Lake County with a championship game victory over Pine River-Backus.

Paul Rudebusch scored 21 points and Mike Welch had 11 as Roseau built first-night quarter leads of 18-7, 33-25 and 44-32 over Red Lake County Central. The Mustangs were led by Carl Dugstad with 15 points.

"They (Rams) shot the lights out in the first half," noted Red Lake County Central coach Randy Huie. "They shot 79 percent in the first half and 64 percent for the game. It's tough to beat a team that shoots like that."

Roseau hit 25 of 39 field goal attempts, while Red Lake County Central turned in a 34 percent 14-for-41 shooting performance. From the free throw line, the Rams were 7-for-12 and the Mustangs went 7-for-9. Roseau finished with a 25-10 rebound advantage. Turnovers were even at 15-apiece.

Dugstad and Ryan Paradis scored 13 points each and Nick Brustad came up with a 12-point, 10-rebound game in the Red Lake County Central win over Hill City.

The Mustangs had leads of 13-9 and 24-18 at the first two quarter stops, but Hill City pulled into a 30-30 third quarter tie.

Denny Holsman scored 17 points and pulled down 17 rebounds for Hill City.

"This was a nice victory before the break," said Huie. "It's better to finish third than fourth. The kids gave a nice effort coming off a busy week."

Free throw shooting was the difference. Red Lake County Central had a 10-for-15 game at the line, where Hill City went 5-for-10.

Red Lake County Central was 15-for-47 from the field (32 percent); Hill City went 18-for-50 (36 percent).

Hill City had a 31-27 rebound edge, but also finished with more turnovers, 16-11.

snowmobiling into the future. Edgar Hetteen was joined by Earling Falk of Roseau and Rudy and Bessie Billberg of Alaska in a 1,200-mile, 21-day trip that took them from Bethel to Fairbanks. Grindy points out how the foursome had literally risked their lives to prove the value of the equipment they believed in.

Another blown-up photograph shows a larger group of Polaris snowmobiles and their riders when the trip was repeated 40 years later for an even nobler cause. In 2000, a group that included Hetteen and co-founder David Johnson made the Alaskan trek to raise money for Amyotrophic lateral sclerosis (ALS), a debilitating disease commonly referred to as "Lou Gehrig's disease."

Displays depicting scenes complemented with actual machines from the 1960's and 70's depict how the recreational appeal of snowmobiling was expanded and snowmobile racing came into being. The trophies of legendary racers including Bob Eastman and "Smilin' Jim" Bernat are displayed, as is a wall-size photograph that was autographed by numerous racers during the center's grand opening celebration. Among the race sleds displayed is the Polaris X-2, the sled that Snowmobile Racing Hall of Famer Dorothy Mercer of Nevada set a record with in 1973 at over 100 miles per hour.

Old 8mm film and video tape have been set to music and transferred to the eight DVD's that are available for viewing in the Experience Center's North Star mini-theater. All with different themes, the favorite thus far is entitled "Thrills and Spills" and includes the antics of the Polaris Thrill Team of the late 1960's. Dubbed the "greatest show on snow," the team appeared at festivals and snowmobile races, entertaining spectators by jumping cars, doing barrel rolls, driving through walls of fire and conquering the "giant loop."

Polaris' evolution into the world of all-terrain vehicles includes the first ATV ridden off the assembly line by Governor Rudy Perpich on March 12, 1985. The success of the ATV venture evidenced itself this past summer when Polaris rolled its one-millionth ATV off its assembly line.

Displays of Polaris's new machines include its latest snowmobile, ATV and personal watercraft models, as well as its Victory motorcycle. The motorcycle was introduced in 1997 when Indy driver Al Unser Jr. rode a V92C into Planet Hollywood at Mall of America. Full-scale production of the motorcycle began on July 4, 1998 at Polaris' Spirit Lake, Iowa production facility.

Those interested in the mechanical aspects of Polaris equipment will appreciate the cut-away displays that include engines, transmissions and the like along with an actual snowmobile. On the wall in this area are 23 of Polaris' patents.

At the end of the tour around the Experience Center, visitors have the opportunity to view the recently produced film that wraps it all up with the Polaris "Get Away" theme. Whether it is on a snowmobile, ATV, personal watercraft or motorcycle, Polaris encourages its customers to get away from the hustle and bustle of the real world and enjoy themselves. Along with some spectacular scenic footage, the film includes clips of employees – from production workers to Polaris's young president, Tom Tiller, who joined the company in 1998 – all offering insight into what "getting away" means to them.

Grindy says the Experience Center is a "labor of pride" of Polaris employees. Many, he says, were responsible for helping put it together. Among those who had the opportunity to share their personal artistic talents was Donnie Johnson of Polaris's technical service department who created two outstanding displays. His fall display that features the Sportsman ATV is detailed right down to a couple of trees felled by beavers, and his inclined snowmobile display includes tracks in the snow and rocks along its edge that he creatively fashioned from seat cushion foam.

While admission is free, visitors' signatures in the guest book are required. A donation container is also available and will help support the center as will its small gift shop. As visitors leave, they have one last chance to admire the red, white and blue Freedom ATV model that was built on September 12 after the tragedies in New York, Pennsylvania and Washington, D.C.

Grindy will remind you that Polaris equipment is used for more than sport. In 1958, the U.S. Air Force used a Polaris Sno-Traveler to get within 400 miles of the North Pole, despite a temperature of 48-below. Today, American service members are using Polaris ATV's in Afghanistan with snowmobiles on the way.

The Polaris Experience Center is open seven days a week from noon to 8 p.m., with tours of the Polaris production facility beginning at the center weekdays at 4 p.m.

Those who visit the center once will probably visit it again as it's difficult to take it all in during one visit. Polaris employees, Grindy says, frequently enjoy lunch at Branigans at the Creamery and then stop by The Experience Center before returning to their jobs. For them, the Polaris Experience Center is a symbol of pride, a history they helped create, and a future of which they will be a part.

Along with relics of its past, the Polaris Experience Center displays Polaris's new models, including the V92C Victory motorcycle. Since the motorcycle was introduced in 1997 and production began in 1998, it has been the recipient of numerous awards.

been rotated to each of the media centers, they will become a part of the permanent collection of the Red Lake Falls Public Library, which, in the future, will also provide programming to Oklee and Plummer residents.

To begin with, the media specialists at the schools will handle book checkout manually, and residents wishing to place requests for titles in other libraries in NWRL will be able to do so by contacting the administrative headquarters in Thief River Falls. Eventually, computers will be placed in each facility that will enable patrons to view the electronic database and place their requests on-line. Future improvements may also provide for automated checkout services.

Northwest Regional Library is one of Minnesota's 12 regional public library systems. NWRL serves Pennington, Red Lake, Marshall, Kittson and Roseau counties with libraries in Hallock, Warren, Warroad, Roseau, Greenbush, Red Lake Falls and Thief River Falls. Currently, Bookmobile service continues in Marshall and Kittson counties.

Each of the libraries has its own staff to perform the day-to-day operations of each of the libraries, and NWRL administrative staff is responsible for the overall operation of the system, including budgeting, personnel, planning, programming, marketing, delivery, processing materials, processing interlibrary loan requests, automation, continuing education and more. As director for NWRL, Jouquet-Kallnoski is also involved in regional and statewide cooperative planning between regional library systems to provide the summer children's reading program, continuing education, grants, automation services, legislative initiatives as well as other services and programs.

In budgeting for Northwest Regional Library, Jouquet-Kalinoski works with county commissioners in each of the five counties NWRL serves as well as city councils in, with the exception of Thief River Falls, communities that are served by a public library branch.

TRF hockey JV squad sweeps tourney starts

Goal production increased each day for Thief River Falls in the junior varsity portion of the Dec. 27-29 Grand Forks Hockey World/Bauer Invitational high school hockey tournament.

The Prowlers went 3-0 in the three-day, eight-team event by beating Bismarck 4-1, Crookston 6-1 and Minot 9-2.

Preston Johnson, Todd Swanson, Chase Holmes, and Jeremy Gerardy scored goals in the Bismarck game. Justin Klinkhammer and Ben Weigelt had a combined 17 saves in the Thief River Falls nets.

Swanson, Johnson and Gerardy added second-day goals vs. Crookston, and were joined in the scoring column by Anthony Olson, Travis Klinkhammer and Shane Loeffler. Shawn Olson and Weigelt teamed up to stop 18 shots.

Instead of playing a championship-style bracket, the junior varsity schedule duplicated the varsity match-ups during the tournament.

THE LYON'S SHARE

Tim Lyon

Whirrrr, Whirrrrr, Whirrrrrrrrr...

"Is it safe?" asks the merciless Dr. Szell, a former dentist for Germany's World War II SS.

"How would I know? I don't even know what 'it' is," responds a confused and frightened New York graduate student Babe (Dustin Hoffman) in the 1976 thriller Marathon Man. "I can't tell you if 'it's safe' until I know what 'it' is."

Szell, you see, is smuggling diamonds into the United States and is concerned that the coast is anything but clear. He feels that Babe might have pertinent information, while, in fact, Babe is clueless. In this particularly memorable scene, Babe is strapped rigidly to a chair, his mouth wedged wide open, while Szell performs Novocain-free dental surgery on him. The doctor has drilled through the enamel of several of his "patient's" teeth and exposed the ultra-sensitive nerve endings that lie beneath. Each unacceptable answer from Babe is greeted with a stomach wrenching, painful probe of one of those vulnerable spots.

"Is it safe?" repeats Szell.

"No, it's definitely not safe. In fact it's incredibly dangerous," guesses Babe, desperately looking for any answer that might end the torture. "Arrrggghh!!!"

"Is it safe?"

"Yes, it's very safe," Babe affirms, "Dwwwggl!" only to be greeted with another prod.

The excruciating scene goes on for what seems like days and is probably a major reason for America's lack of good dental hygiene and their irrational fear of dentists.

This winter, Dr. Szell, it seems, has traded diamonds for ice-fishing.

The phone rings incessantly these days. Occasionally a reservation is taken, but most often it's a call from a "tire-kicker," anxious to fish and looking for a report on the slowly evolving ice-quality.

"Is it safe?" they ask.

"Ice is never safe," I answer matter-of-factly, "but I'm out there fishing."

"Is it safe?" they repeat, and the first twinges of pain scurry through me incisors.

"Well, at least where I've drilled holes there's 14 inches of good black ice, but I can't vouch for anywhere else."

"Is it safe?" is the refrain, and a jolt of fire streaks beneath my molars.

"No, it's not safe everywhere. Different areas freeze at different rates."

"Is it safe?" The tears form in the corners of my eyes and I struggle to keep from biting the inside of my mouth.

"Yes, it's safe for four wheelers and snowmobiles and some smaller rigs, but I'd check thoroughly before going out with bigger stuff."

"Is it safe?" I bang the receiver against the side of my head in an attempt to distract my brain from the overwhelming pain that is filling my jaw. Visions of a "root-canal" with a Phillips head screwdriver cross my mind.

"No, it's definitely not safe to go the same places and do the same things you did on the ice a year ago at this time. It had been near 40 below then."

"Is it safe?" I drop to my knees, desperately squeezing the sides of my face and contemplating the pleasant prospect of dentures by next winter. The phone bounces clumsily across the kitchen floor and I look for a rational thought amidst my agony. What is the answer that this person wants?

"Yes, it's safe. The ice is good and you can catch some fish. Just pay attention and bring along as much common sense as you do beer."

"O.K. Sounds good. Thanks for the information."

The pain stops. The focus returns to both my brain and my eyes. I wiggle my jaw and whisper a silent prayer of thanks before speaking into the mouthpiece one last time.

"You bet. Thanks for calling and hope you have good fishing, Dr. Szell."

Truck weight load increases go into affect statewide

Starting Wednesday, January 2, 2002, southern Minnesota's weight load increase went into effect and trucks may now increase their weight loads statewide, according to the Minnesota Department of Transportation (Mn/DOT). Weight load increases were approved for the northern section of Minnesota starting Thursday, December 27.

Truckers need a permit from the Mn/DOT permit office if they are traveling on interstate highways. On other roads, trucks need to have Mn/DOT weight registrations to carry increased weight loads.

This is the first year that a freezing temperature index model has been used to determine when winter load increases can be announced. In prior years, a set calendar date was used that did not take into account weather fluctuations. This change is a direct result of research conducted that will result in reduced damage to highways statewide and still allow the trucking industry to utilize trucks' optimal full capacity during the duration of the increased load limits period.

Mn/DOT announces an increased weight load for trucks once temperatures are forecast for a seven-day period of below freezing. The start of the winter load increase period is determined for each frost zone using measured and forecast daily temperatures for several cities within each zone.

The intent is to use the advance forecast temperatures to ensure that thawing is not likely and that future freezing will ensure that the pavement structures will maintain adequate strength, through increasing frost depth, to carry the larger loads.

Trucks still may carry not more than a 10 percent increase in load weight than is legal during warmer temperatures. Mn/DOT will give a three-day advance notice when winter load increases are to be ended. More information is available from 1-800-723-6543 or at http://mnroad.dot.state.mn.us.

U of M Extension Service announces plan for change

The University of Minnesota Extension Service is changing in response to the needs and issues of the 21st Century, including changing Minnesota demographics and flat funding. Extension has created a three-year plan for change that commits to maintaining county-based programming, creating a specific program plan for the unique needs of the seven-county metro area, diversifying programs, streamlining the workforce, and increasing organizational flexibility to enable quick response to changing needs.

"Extension is a vital part of the university and of the State of Minnesota," said University of Minnesota President Mark Yudof. "Although Extension may provide services differently in the future, we do not expect its role to be any less important. The changes Extension is embarking upon will ensure it is financially sound and can continue to serve the people of Minnesota and their communities."

The three-year plan continues the University of Minnesota's strong links to agriculture, says Dr. Charles H. Casey, Extension dean and director. "But the plan also positions us to better address the larger array of problems faced by children, youth and families, as well as natural resource and environmental concerns, and economic and community development issues," he says. "The new Extension offers an outreach portfolio that more fully engages the total university with the people of the state."

All Extension programs will be under three arenas: (1) Community development and vitality, (2) Land, food and environment, and (3) Youth development and family living. "The plan calls for focused, high quality programs that tie directly to the University of Minnesota's research base," Casey says. "As a result, some programs and activities will be discontinued. Our current financial model is not sustainable. Declining public support is a budget reality that must be addressed."

Minnesota's population is more urban and diverse than ever. "All publicly funded activities are under increasing scrutiny to demonstrate relevance, and Extension cannot expect increased support from traditional federal and state sources," Casey says.

Extension plans to create a $5 million investment pool by 2004 to invest in critical issues programming, staff development and technology, and to leverage other resources. To reach financial targets, there will be some reduction in workforce. Some reductions will come from attrition, while others will be decided based on program priorities and fiscal targets.

The plan calls for 20 percent of Extension programs to be accessible through information technology by 2005. "The idea is to build on web-based successes such as our nationally recognized Master Gardener training program," Casey says.

Minnesota counties will continue to be Extension's primary program delivery partner, Casey says. Extension educators will use their expertise regionally rather than serving individual counties. In addition, counties may choose to have program assistants manage and deliver the 4-H program. A new seven-county Twin Cities metro area program plan will be developed to address the specific needs of urban and suburban audiences.

The plan also calls for new systems for program evaluation and a commitment to annually replace at least five percent of existing programs. Casey says, "While we face immediate budget constraints, the organizational changes identified in the plan will make Extension more effective and flexible in bringing the value of a research university to the people of the state."

Tough road ahead

■ Legislators see a tough road ahead in next legislative session

Senator LeRoy Stumpf predicts a tough road ahead for Minnesota legislators this year. The main issue facing legislators this year will be how to deal with the state's projected budget shortfall of $1.9 billion.

Senator LeRoy Stumpf and Representative Tim Finseth met with the Thief River Falls City Council and directors of several departments prior to the regularly scheduled council meeting Tuesday.

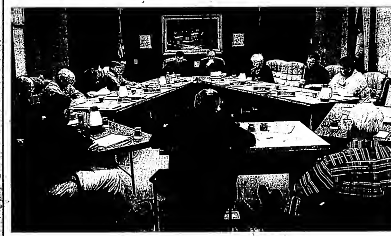
Sen. Stumpf sees Governor Ventura's demand for action on the budget deficit in one week as political posturing; and Rep. Finseth isn't in a mood to rush into things.

Rep. Finseth said that residents of Minnesota have to keep in mind that there will be another forecast in February and before legislators dive in and make changes, they need to have all the figures before them.

Sen. Stumpf definitely sees a tough road ahead, but the Governor's demand for action in the first week as simply posturing. He explained that the Governor could have used his executive authority he has threatened to use after the first week, to adjust the budget back in July when numbers started to slip. Now, he said, he wants to push the legislature to find a solution to a complex problem in one week, and that, he said, is simply not going to happen.

Solutions?

While Stumpf is not willing to rule out tax increases, and said everything should be on the table, he suggested an increase in the gas tax.



Rep. Finseth, on the other hand, was less enthusiastic for tax increases, and said he didn't think there were the votes to pass a gas tax increase. He said truckers have a tough time now, and a tax increase would cause even more harm. But, Finseth sees potential for a bonding bill.

Sen. Stumpf is more supportive of a gas tax increase because, he explained, the last time the gas tax was adjusted was in the 1980's. Inflation, he explained, eats up about one cent of the gas tax each year. So far, he said, the state has lost about 12 cents from the tax.

One area both agree on is cuts to current programs. Both Finseth and Stumpf believe there may be some areas that could be cut.

Local Government Aid (LGA) is one of the potential cuts favored by the Governor, and this has local city council representatives concerned.

Representative Tim Finseth and Sen. LeRoy Stumpf visited with the Thief River Falls City Council and city staff during a meeting Tuesday night. The legislators discussed a number of options that they will look at this year.

Assisted living housing option keeps seniors at home longer

by Kathi Carlson
Reporter

As older Americans claim a bigger piece of the population pie, nearly every aspect of society is affected, and challenges are faced by policy-makers, families, businesses and health care providers. Among these challenges is the housing issue.

The development of assisted living/housing with services in subsidized residential centers was the topic of a meeting in Thief River Falls Thursday attended by social service workers, housing officials, health care representatives and other interested parties. Meetings, coordinated by the NW Area Agency on Aging, were also held Wednesday in Red Lake Falls and Ada.

NW Area Agency on Aging contracted with Jay Anderson to provide information at the technical assistance meetings. Anderson is a housing developer contracted to Arrowhead Area Agency on Aging's Senior Agenda for Independent Living (SAIL) program. His work experience includes working as a supervisor of adult services in St. Louis County where he was involved with the development of assisted living/housing with services in subsidized apartments.

Topics discussed at Thursday's meeting included need, benefits, the process involved in implementing service, how providers are identified, and working with social service.

What is assisted living?

Assisted living, referred to as "housing with services" in Minnesota, is an increasingly popular housing option for elderly individuals. Generally the term refers to the provision of supportive and health-related services to consumers in a variety of homelike or community settings. While consumer choice and control are usually part of the definition, there is no set standard for the term assisted living.

In Minnesota, the Department of Human Services defines assisted living as "a group of services provided for or arranged by the management of a housing with services establishment or a residential center or contracted for by the county with a Class A home care agency. Services provided or arranged for by the assisted living provider may include supervision, supportive services; individualized home care aide tasked and individualized home management tasks."

The vast majority of assisted living settings in Minnesota are registered as housing with services establishments with services regulated under home care licensure requirements. The state requires facilities that provide two or more supportive services or one or more health-related services to residents who are primarily elderly (at least 80 percent who are 55 years and older) to register with the Minnesota Department of Health (MDA) as housing with services

The baggage x-ray equipment has been delivered to the Thief River Falls Regional Airport, and the new passenger security area is in the process of being completed.

New security room at airport near completion

■ X-ray equipment is delivered

January 15 is the deadline for the completion of a new secure passenger waiting room at the Thief River Falls Regional Airport.

Ron Lindberg, public works director for Thief River Falls, said "the advantage to traveling from Thief River Falls Regional Airport is that the parking is free, it's close to the terminal, and once you've passed through the security check, you don't have to go through security screening at the Minneapolis-Saint Paul Airport."

As a result of new requirements, Thief River Falls had to install a secure room for passengers at the airport along with all of the security equipment. The security equipment has been delivered and is expected to be in use by February 1, after inspection by the Federal Aviation Administration.

Lindberg said Camp's Custom Remodeling of Thief River Falls constructed the walls, TR Glass the store front walls, and the Thief River Falls Utilities department completed the electrical wiring. The total cost of the project is expected to be in the range of $15,000, but the city has requested an 80 percent funding from the state. Lindberg expects the city's final contribution to be around $3,000, and that the electrical work could be part of the city's contribution.

Once the x-ray screening equipment is installed, Mesaba and Northwest will take over the screening of passengers and luggage.

While construction has posed a minor inconvenience to passengers, it will be a worthwhile investment for passengers flying from Thief River Falls in the near future.

Thefts under investigation

Gonvick - Two thefts that occurred in Gonvick on Sunday, January 6, are under investigation according to Gonvick Police officer Jim Juve.

At The Trap, the glass on the front door was broken, and the ATM machine was taken off the wall along with the cash that was left in the machine. Tools that were used were left at the site.

In another incident that evening, a pop machine in front of Main Street Service was broken into and the cash removed. The Leader Record

Life saved Christmas Day

Mahnomen - The quick actions of a Native American girl helped save the life of a Shooting Star Casino patron on Christmas Day.

Fifteen-year-old Cassie Belsheim of Isanti was swimming with friends in the Shooting Star pool when she noticed an Asian woman who had gone under the water and wasn't coming up.

Cassie dove in, swam to the woman and pulled the woman to an area where other family members and casino personnel were able to help her get the woman out.

Belsheim learned to swim in Strawberry Lake on the White Earth Indian Reservation when she was four years old. She is currently on the swim team at Cambridge-Isanti High School where she is a freshman. The Mahnomen Pioneer

Governor proposes to spread the pain

(Editor's note: The following is taken from the Governor's speech given Thursday, January 10. The complete text of the message can be found at www.mnxserver.mn.us/governor. In a speech Thursday, the Governor proposed cuts of $700 million to the general budget. Many of these cuts will have a significant impact on city and county government budgets in northwestern Minnesota.)

A week ago today I delivered the State of the State to give people a basic understanding of the budget shortfall facing our state.

Now comes the hard part.

What you will get today is the result of some very hard work by some very talented and very dedicated public servants working for the Ventura Administration.

It is a big problem.

A $1.95 billion dollar shortfall for this biennium — and $1.25 billion dollars for each of the next two following years.

And no matter how many times someone wishes, it is not going away unless we make the tough decisions to solve the problem.

The November forecast that projects an almost two billion dollar shortfall is already counting on the country coming out of the recession by March of this year.

And, contrary to speculation, the most recent revenue information we have indicates that nothing has changed.

The wishful thinkers who argue that we should do nothing because an improving economy will solve our problem do not get it.

Reality is this: Revenues lost to a recession are never regained. Period.

And even if economic growth is "normal" in the next biennium we will have less money because the growth comes from a lower base.

The bottom line is: If you look at the problem honestly and not through politically colored glasses — we need a permanent fix.

I asked my staff to calculate how much money would be lost for every week's delay. The answer is shocking: $3.7 million a week in lost revenue which would then result in higher spending cuts for every week the legislature fails to act.

Now is the time for straightforward, pragmatic and definitive action.

First, we must cut spending.

In 2002 and 2003 I am proposing cuts of $700 million dollars to the general budget.

Because we have less than eighteen months left in the current biennium I intend to lessen the pain in '02 and '03 by taking advantage of some one-time balances, drawing down the budget reserve and refinancing some road projects with highway bonds.

Keep in mind though that an integral part of this solution is a

Newspapers lost in the mail

In the past couple of days several Rural Route 2 Goodridge subscribers to the Thief River Falls Times have called to complain that they did not receive their Wednesday newspaper.

We thank you for your understanding and appreciate your calls. In our investigation, we have only been able to determine that after the mailbag of newspapers was delivered to the post office it disappeared.

As soon as we learned of the loss of the newspapers, we bundled up some newspapers for these subscribers and mailed them again. The Goodridge post office reported Friday morning that they had received the new bundles of newspapers.

The first bundle of newspapers are still missing, and may yet be delivered, so it is very possible that these subscribers will receive two copies of the same newspaper.

Once again, we thank you for your patience and understanding. If you are so inclined, complaint forms can be obtained at your post office.

Crookston - Kate Morberg is the new city editor at the Crookston Times.

Morberg grew up in Mentor and graduated from Fertile-Beltrami High School. She completed an internship at Richards Publishing in Gonvick last summer while studying at UND.

After graduating with a degree in communications, she worked at the Thief River Falls Times and Northern Watch prior to accepting the Crookston position. Crookston Daily Times

SOUPÇON

Sherry LaCoursiere

I was going to do some soup recipes, but why have winter soup recipes when the weather is not like winter at all? Today's unusual recipes are from the Fosston Embassy Community Center Cook Book.

This is Arvid Clementson's recipe for Potato Dumplings. He says they are a Norwegian delicacy. "Like lutefisk, Norwegians become addicted to these dumplings, especially during winter months, and need a fix at least once a week." This recipe is a little different from the potato dumplings I make, but my recipe is a "tech of this and a tech of that," and nearly impossible to measure:

POTET KLUB

8 cups raw potatoes, grated
4 cups flour plus
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1 pound cooked ham

Cut 1/2 pound of ham into cubes. Grind remainder. Except for cubed ham, mix all ingredients together. Shape into balls and put cubes of ham in center of dumpling. Add enough flour to keep from sticking.

Drop in boiling, ham-flavored water. Stir occasionally to prevent dumplings from sticking to the bottom of kettle. Cook about 1 hour. Serve with melted butter.

(I would advise adding enough flour to keep from falling apart when dropped in water and keep from sticking in bottom of pot. If possible, use a nonstick pot. -SL)

Here is another recipe for potato dumplings by Hilma Stadstad. This one doesn't have the ham in the middle but also sounds good. I like what Hilma says about who you should invite to your potato dumpling dinner:

POTATO DUMPLINGS

8 cups grated or ground potatoes
1 tablespoon plus 1 teaspoon salt
4 cups flour (plus)

Mix all ingredients. Use a large kettle to boil pork hocks.

Test potato mixture to see if it keeps shape in the water. If not, add more flour. Boil until done, about 1 hour. Hilma says to serve with butter and salad and to "invite only friends who delight in them (the potato dumplings), preferably Norwegians."

This is a recipe from Mavis Brekke. Doesn't it sound delicious, but certainly not for those who are watching our weight:

CHEESY BAKED HASHBROWNS

2 pounds hash brown potatoes
1/2 cup melted butter
1 can cream of chicken soup
8 ounces grated American cheese
1 teaspoon salt
1 pint sour cream
1 tablespoon chopped onion
Melted butter
Crushed potato chips

Place potatoes in greased 9x13 inch pan. Mix remaining ingredients together and spread over potatoes. Top with melted butter that has been combined with crushed potato chips. Bake at 350 degrees for 40-60 minutes.

Here's a tasty (and pretty) veggie salad for you from Elvie Wilberg:

4 pounds carrots, diced.
1 large green pepper, cut into strips
1 large onion, cut into rings
3 stalks celery, diced
1 can tomato soup
1/2 cup oil
1/2 cup vinegar
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt

Cook carrots for 15 minutes. Drain. Mix with green pepper and onion. In saucepan, mix tomato soup, oil, vinegar, sugar and salt. Bring to a boil, then pour over vegetables. Recipe makes 3 quarts of salad.

Here's a winter salad from Agnes Clausen to chase away the blahs - It's something nice to go with those substantial hot dishes we're having now:

LOW CALORIE FRUIT SALAD

8 cups tart red apples, diced
2 cups red grapes, cut in half
1 (20 ounce) can pineapple chunks, drained (reserve liquid)
1 1/2 cup almonds
Dressing:
Juice from pineapple
1/4 cup butter
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 tablespoons cornstarch
2 tablespoons water
1/2 cup low calorie mayonnaise or salad dressing
1/2 cup plain yogurt (or lemon yogurt)

Combine apples, grapes, pineapple chunks and yogurt.

For dressing, heat pineapple juice, butter and lemon juice to boiling. Mix cornstarch and water and add to boiling mixture. Cook until thickened. Chill and then add mayonnaise and yogurt. If lemon yogurt is used, it isn't necessary to use lemon juice.

Fresh broccoli makes this salad special for winter eating. It's from Agnes Clausen:

BROCCOLI SALAD

1 head broccoli
1 cup raisins
1/4 cup chopped onions
8 slices crisp fried bacon, crumbled
Dressing:
1 cup mayonnaise or salad dressing
1/4 cup sugar
2 tablespoons vinegar

Break or cut broccoli into small pieces. Mix with raisins and onion. Combine dressing ingredients and pour over, mixing well. Refrigerate for at least 4 hours. Just before serving, add crumbled bacon.

This recipe was submitted by Verna Sather. She sold it will make pancakes for 1 or 2 people:

EMBASSY PANCAKES

1 egg
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup buttermilk
1 cup flour
1 teaspoon soda

Stir all ingredients together until blended. Do not beat. Batter will be lumpy.

And this is another type of pancake recipe from Maybelle Thorson:

FLUFFY PANCAKES

9 or 10 inch Pyrex pie plate
2 tablespoons butter
2 eggs
Dash of salt
1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup flour
Sugar and cinnamon

Melt butter in bottom of pie plate. Combine remaining ingredients in blender and blend. Sprinkle with mixture of cinnamon and sugar. Pour into center of pie pan and bake at 450 degrees for 15 minutes. The pancake will sink. Add strawberries or whatever you wish.

Make these little pizzas for special occasions. It was submitted by Mavis Brekke:

VEGETABLE PIZZA

2 packages refrigerated crescent rolls
8 ounces cream cheese, softened
1/2 cup mayonnaise or salad dressing (or half mayonnaise, half yogurt)
8 ounces sour cream
1 package Hidden Valley dressing mix
Lettuce, celery, carrots, onions, other vegetables of choice
1 cup grated Cheddar cheese

Lay crescent rolls flat on cookie sheet. Bake according to directions on package until golden brown. Cool.

Combine cream cheese, mayonnaise, sour cream, Hidden Valley mix and spread on flat rolls. Layer each kind of vegetable on top. Sprinkle each with cheddar cheese.

Meeting today at Old Mill park

Friends of Old Mill State Park invite interested parties to attend a short meeting today (Saturday, January 12) at 1 p.m. in the warming (picnic) shelter at the park.

The main focus of the meeting will be water quality of the pool as it relates to safety, aesthetics and visitor enjoyment at the park. Additional topics will include future land acquisition to increase recreational opportunities at the park and linking the park to area recreational sites.

The warming/picnic shelter is one of the WPA stone buildings of the 1940's. It has been insulated, and two wood stoves have been installed in the building but are not operational all the time. Those attending the meeting are encouraged to dress in layers as they would to enjoy the outdoor weather this time of year.

Vehicle permits are required to enter all Minnesota State Parks and may be purchased at the park office. A daily permit is $4 and an annual permit is $20.

Sewing guild meets January 17

The Northern Valley Neighborhood Group of the American Sewing Guild will hold its monthly meeting at 7 p.m. on Thursday, January 17, at Country Place Apartments at the junction of Hwys. 32 and 2 in Erskine.

Anyone interested in learning more about the American Sewing Guild is encouraged to call Dianne Christopherson at (218) 563-3377 or Gayle Pearce at (218) 687-4727.

Ski event off for today, on for Feb. 9

The Candlelight Cross Country Ski event scheduled for today (Saturday, January 12) at Old Mill State Park has been canceled due to low snowfall levels. While seven miles of ski trail had been track set as of January 7, they are in poor condition with some grassy spots and twigs on them.

A Cross Country Candlelight Ski event remains scheduled for February 9 from 7 to 10 p.m. at Old Mill State Park. Due to the phase of the moon and lack of snow, the route will be shorter this year with more candles strategically placed to guide skiers through the night.

Participants are invited to bring potluck treats and snacks to share. Hot apple cider, compliments of Friends of Old Mill, will be provided.

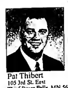
While the ski event is free, vehicle permits are required to enter all Minnesota State Parks. A daily permit can be purchased for $4, and an annual permit is $20. Great MN Ski Passes are also required. A daily pass, which can be purchased at the park office, is $3. Annual and three-year ski passes can also be purchased wherever Electronic License Systems are available or on the DNR web site at www.dnr.state.mn.us.

Ski rentals are available at the park office.

For more information about the event, call park manager Mary Broten at (218) 437-8174. The event will be cancelled should the wind chill or temperatures drop below minus-10 at noon or should the snow melt. Notices of cancellation will be sent to local radio stations, and information will be posted at the park.

Leadership 2002 conference in TRF January 16

Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce, Minnesota Chamber of Commerce and Civil Justice Coalition will be hosting a leadership conference Wednesday, January 16, from 7:30 to 8:30 a.m. at the Best Western in Thief River Falls.



Leadership 2002 is an open invitation to residents and members of the Chamber of Commerce to become involved in promoting tort reform and greater participation in the political process. No political experience is needed.

Minnesota's legal system is in dire need of reform. We all pay the price for frivolous lawsuits brought against our schools, businesses, non-profits and government entities through higher prices, higher taxes and/or reduced services. Last session, the Coalition achieved victory by passing joint and several liability reform legislation out of the House on a 68-62 vote. But that will not be good enough in 2002. We need grassroots pressure from home to help force a floor vote in the Senate.

Please join the one-hour program on Wednesday, January 16, at the Best Western in Thief River Falls from 7:30 to 8:30 a.m. A complimentary continental breakfast will be served. Please RSVP by calling the Chamber of Commerce at 681-3720.

Fourtown/Grygla Sportsman Club meets Tuesday

EDITORIAL OPINIONS

Our icy world has been turned upside down

It's almost as if the weather map has been turned upside down. Last week, northwestern Minnesota enjoyed temperatures not normally seen until March or April. . . and this is January.

The warm weather has been great for county highway costs, heating costs, exercising, health and car maintenance.

On the other hand,it hasn't been good for vendors of snowmobiles, snow blowers, warm weather clothing, and ice skates, to name a few.

It can also be dangerous.

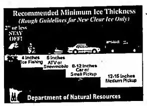
I know that issuing a warning that the ice is not safe is not the sort of thing that Pennington County Sheriff Mike Hruby likes to report. In fact, every sheriff I've met would rather chew an arm off than walk into a cafe in northwestern Minnesota after issuing an ice safety warning. There are so many experts on the subject in northwestern Minnesota that you risk a severe tongue lashing or beating with lutefisk from every person you meet if you happen to issue a warning.

I received a short introduction to "Ice 101" a couple of years ago while visiting with some scientists studying the effects of sand on ice. Remember, a couple of years ago when they were in Thief River Falls trying to determine whether it was feasible and effective to put sand on the ice? Supposedly this would help it break up and prevent ice jams and resulting floods. I learned from these people that there are different types and characteristics of ice — avoid honeycombed ice, for example.

According to another publication of the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources, "You can't tell the strength of ice just by its appearance, the daily temperature, thickness, or whether the ice is or isn't covered with snow. Strength of ice, in fact, is based upon all four factors — plus the depth of water under the ice, size of water body, water chemistry, distribution of the load of the ice, and local climactic factors."

Common sense should tell us that slush shows a weakening of ice, and if the shoreline ice is cracked and squishy to stay away from it, and to not go on ice during thaws. Sometimes, though, a short occurs between what we know is good for us and what we want. That's when winter is "on thin ice."

For many a warm winter is an enjoyable reprieve and they wish it would stay; but for others, a warm, dry winter is devastating economically, and potentially life threatening. We had one example last weekend of why law enforcement officials never say, "the ice is 100 percent safe."



The Minnesota Department of Natural Resources offers the following as recommended minimum ice thickness, and the following handy-dandy chart:

• Four inches of new clear ice is the minimum thickness for travel on foot.

• Five inches is minimum for snowmobiles and ATVs.

• Eight to twelve inches for cars or small trucks.

(Remember that these thicknesses are merely guidelines for new clear solid ice. Many factors other than thickness can cause ice to be unsafe, as so many learned the hard way in Detroit Lakes.)

Contact your legislators

Don't let this legislative session pass without making your voice heard. Over the years we've lost influence in northwestern Minnesota because of an unfortunate shift in population and a poor agricultural economy, and we're not about to gain any influence. In fact, all indications are that in the next redistricting effort that will begin to take shape this March, we'll lose even more influence.

At a recent meeting with Senator LeRoy Stumpf and Representative Tim Finseth, we were encouraged to contact them. A busy schedule of meetings rarely allow our legislators time at their desks, so they would also appreciate a visit from time to time. When we struggle to understand why we seem largely ignored in northwestern Minnesota, perhaps we should learn what it's like to be in the capitol halls.

What would you have to write about?

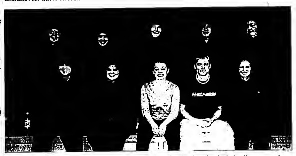
How about:

• the tax cut you didn't see on your preliminary tax statement;

• sales taxes, and why there's a tax on bread from the store's bakery, but not bread from a commercial operation?

• the importance of Local Government Aid to your community;

• how state action or inaction is personally affecting your life, or,



• tell them what a good job they're doing.

Here are their addresses:

Sen. LeRoy Stumpf, G-24 Capitol, 75 Constitution Ave., Saint Paul, MN 55155-1606; or call (651) 296-8660;

Tim Finseth, State Office Building, Room 517, Saint Paul Minnesota 55155, or call (651) 296-9918;

NCTC spring semester student orientation Monday

Northland Community and Technical College (NCTC) in Thief River Falls will conduct an Orientation Day for all new incoming students at the college from noon to 1:30 p.m. on Monday, January 14. The orientation is designed to assist new students through their transition to college.

Dr. Orley Gunderson, president of the college, will welcome new students, along with Student Senate President Gabe Teneyuque, and Gene Klinke, director of enrollment management at NCTC.

Presentations will be given by representatives from registration, counseling, advising, financial aid, the learning center, the business office, computer operations and human resources.

Gene Klinke, organizer of the event, urges all new students to attend. "This brief session provides new students with valuable information on their rights and their responsibilities as a student at NCTC," he said. "Each presenter will make a short presentation and share information about the school's resources, while answering questions from those attending."

Orientation Day registration begins at noon in the student commons. The program will take place from 12:15 to 1:30 p.m., also in the commons. Tours of the campus will be available including the newly-opened science wing and learning center, and student ID pictures will be taken from 2 to 5 p.m.

Students attending are invited to bring their parents, and/or guests. A question and answer session will be held at 1:15 p.m. on the main campus and from 3 to 4 p.m. at the airport campus.

For more information, call the NCTC Admissions office at 218-681-0854, or 1-800-959-6282. The TTY number is 218-681-0990.

"Warden who?"
"Warden you like to let me in and see if you're doing anything illegal in this fish house?"

Dumb humor, perhaps, but it's a scene that will probably play itself out more than once on Minnesota's lakes this winter thanks to a recent decision by the state's Court of Appeals. The ruling, which was handed down in response to a fish house drug bust back in 2000, demands that a game warden obtain either permission from the occupants or a search warrant before entering a fish house to inspect for illegality. In essence, the court viewed the confines of the fish house in the same light that it considered a private residence. And while legal challenges to the interpretation are a future inevitability, changes in both enforcement practices and fishing techniques are every bit as much a sure thing. I, for one, will be sorry.

Gone, at least for the immediate future, are the traditional embarrassing chuckles that accompanied the "checks" of the past. No more riderless snowmobiles careening recklessly past fish house windows, followed by the sliding, milling, helmeted figure of a snow covered warden as he desperately tried to regain his footing and his dignity before rushing hell-bent and headlong through the door hoping against hope that enough "surprise" remained to still catch you with one too many lines through the ice.

And gone are the blushes you offered up when the warden actually managed to pull off the same death-defying snowmobile jump successfully and caught you reeling your third line so frantically fast that the jig hit the eye tip with enough force to catapult the minnow skyward off the hook and onto the entering enforcement's face mask.

Gone are the giggles we got when we watched a warden race briskly into the shack containing last Saturday's newlywed couple only to exit in even quicker fashion, obviously having stumbled into an embrace so amorous that it was probably outlawed in seven southern states.

I'm also sorry that the practical value of those checks will be gone. No longer are there easy assurances that limits, for instance, will be observed. If the fish bite well, a fish house simply becomes a convenient storage facility until the legalities of transportation can be worked out.

The number of lines allowed per angler, a longtime bone of contention in Minnesota, will become a moot discussion, no longer regulated by any factor other than the personal whims of an opinionated, if ill-informed, fisherman.

In fact, the court's decision to allow sportsmen to carry their privacy along in their wallet right next to their fishing license makes most winter fishing laws little more than a question of personal preference. Enforcement becomes simply a matter of self-restraint.

And when the practical value of the warden's presence has disappeared, it only makes sense that his actual presence on the lake becomes more of a public luxury than necessity. Reasonably, the only person who is going to say "Enter" when the knock comes at the door is someone who isn't doing anything wrong in the first place. Like the lake arguments about Customs check-ins several years back, the only ones who'll comply are honest people.

And where does the line get drawn in terms of the definition of the "abode"? If a fish house protects our rights to privacy on the water today, is it unreasonable to believe that a cabin on a boat should be accorded similar considerations during the summer months? Or the confines of a pick-up cab when deer season is taking place? And what's wrong with these privacy demands extending to a cardboard box or underneath the shadows of a blanket? Such precedence has already been established for the homeless on city streets across the U.S.

"Knock, knock."
"Who's there?"
"Warden."
"Warden who?"
"Warden you like to reconsider where we're going here?"

One act play contest held in Oklee January 19

Oklee High School will host the Subsection One Act Play Contest January 19, at 12:30 p.m in the school gymnasium. The public is invited to attend.

Students from Red Lake Falls, Oklee and Marshall County Central will be competing in the play. Two of these schools will be advancing to the Section One Act Play Contest that will be held in East Grand Forks on January 25.

There is no admission to these one act plays. There are a couple of rules that need to be followed however: no flash pictures; no one may enter or leave once a play begins; and no talking during a performance.

After each play, the judges will have a chance to talk to the performers with a critique. After all of the plays are completed, the schools will discover which play will advance to the next level. Only one play will advance from the section contest to the region contest and from the region contest, only one play will advance to state.

MCC boys beat Grygla-Gatzke 78-59 in 31A showdown...

Nordics win streak is intact

Round I went to Marshall County Central Tuesday when the undefeated Nordics stopped once-beaten Grygla-Gatzke 78-59 in a match-up of Sub-Section 31A boys high school basketball title contenders at Newfolden.

Andy Larson scored 26 points, Matt Wagner 15, Justin Magner 12, and Josh Larson 10 for the 11-0 Nordics, who led at the quarter stops 11-7, 34-21 and 52-43. Tony Nordby had a 22-point game for the 6-2 Eagles, while Geoffrey Larson chipped in with 11.

The two teams are scheduled to meet again Friday, Feb. 1, in Grygla.

"It was a big game," said Marshall County Central coach Ron Ueland. "It's special when you can beat a quality team like that."

A good portion of the game was spent at the free throw line, where the two teams were a combined 46-for-65. The Nordics, with Andy Larson going 12-for-12, made 23 of 29 foul shots. The Eagles, with Nordby hitting 16 of 19, went 23-for-36 at the line.

"It wasn't the kind of game you might of expected," admitted Ueland. "I thought it would be smoother. Instead, it was a game of spurts, and most of those spurts lasted only a minute or two."

The number of free throws reflected the intensity of the match-up, according to Grygla-Gatzke coach Vern Johnson. "It's a good rivalry," he said. "It was a physical game, not dirty, just physical. Both teams played hard."

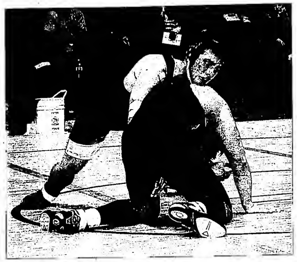
Ueland agreed. "It was a rough, physical game," he said. "Neither side wanted to give an inch."

The Nordics led much of the way, but could not put the Eagles away until the end. The breakaway kicked in after a Nordby basket that would have chopped the Marshall County County Central lead to four points was taken away on an offensive foul call.

"That was a key play right there," acknowledged Ueland, who watched the Nordics out-score the Eagles 26-16 in the fourth quarter.

Marshall County Central was 26-for-55 from the field (47 percent); Grygla-Gatzke went 16-for-47 (34 percent). The winners topped the turnover charts 25-12, but they also finished with a 37-20 rebound advantage. Seventeen of those were offensive rebounds.

"They (Nordics) did a tremendous job on the boards, especially on the offensive end," noted Johnson, "and their defense was very solid."



"We made up for the losses (turnovers) by playing good defense and by being better on the boards," explained Ueland.

NCTC men win easily, 83-55

Reggie Gaddis scored 20 points and Jerry Shorter netted 19 to lead the Northland Community and Technical College men's basketball team to an 83-55 Wednesday win over Providence (Man.) College.

It was the end of a lengthy holiday break and the final nonconference tune-up for the 8-2 Pioneers, who were preparing for their Friday/Saturday 2001-02 Minnesota Community College Conference Northern Division openers at Mesabi Range and Vermilion.

Northland took control early with a 47-30 halftime lead.

"We got the rust off," said Northland coach Rick Nikunen, whose team was playing for the first time since Dec. 20. "It was real sloppy at times. With a big lead early, you get out of your regular rotation."

It was the second win of the season over Providence for the Pioneers, who opened the schedule with a 106-49 victory at Otterbourne.

Dan Hostrup, a Kittson County North graduate, led Providence with a game-high 29 points.

Against Mesabi Range and Vermilion, the Pioneers were facing teams with just one loss apiece in nonconference play. Northland will follow the road trip with weekend Northern Division games at home against Hibbing and Rainy River Jan. 18-19.

Fourth quarter nets TRF win vs. Bagley

Thief River Falls erased a four-point third quarter deficit by out-scoring Bagley 21-12 over the final eight minutes Thursday as the Prowlers beat the host Flyers 49-44 in girls high school basketball.

Bagley led 11-10 at the end of the first quarter, was ahead 20-14 at halftime and had a 32-28 third quarter edge.

"We struggled offensively, especially in the second quarter," reported Thief River Falls coach Jeff Loe. "We got some good looks, but just couldn't put the ball in the hoop. I was pleased that we didn't panic."

Meghan Nelson scored 25 points and pulled down eight rebounds for the Prowlers. Other key contributions came from Nikki Tvedt with 11 points, Chelsea Haviland with 11 rebounds and Brenda Kopari with five assists.

Liz Fore had a 23-point game for the Flyers.

Thief River Falls was 18-for-56 from the field (32 percent) and 13-for-26 at the free throw line. Bagley went 17-for-39 from the floor (44 percent) and 7-for-14 at the line. The Prowlers finished with a 35-34 rebound edge.

Pioneers remain undefeated with a 72-29 blowout

Unbeaten status of the Northland Community and Technical College women's basketball team wasn't challenged Wednesday as the Pioneers rolled to a one-sided 76-29 win over visiting Providence College of Manitoba.

The winners, showing no ill effects of a long holiday lay-off, jumped out to a 40-12 halftime lead.

"For not playing in almost a month, I was pretty happy with the way we played," said Northland coach Mike Zachow. "I though we played pretty well."

Eleven Northland players put their names in the scoring column, led by Misten Hoie with 16 points.

Northland was 32-for-89 from the field (36 percent). Providence struggled through 14-for-59 shooting (24 percent).

A 48-43 Providence rebound advantage was erased by 39 turnovers. Northland lost the ball just eight times.

Northland won in similar 83-21 fashion when the two teams met in the Pioneers' 2001-02 season opener back on Nov. 16.

The Pioneers carried an 8-0 record into Minnesota Community College Conference Northern Division-opening weekend games at Mesabi Range and Vermilion.

Falcons fall to Prowlers 44-24

Thief River Falls has elevated its high school wrestling program to the point where opponents, challenged to try find a way to beat the Prowlers, are juggling line-ups. Fertile-Beltrami tried it Thursday, but to no avail, as the visiting Falcons fell 44-24.

The win boosted the Prowlers' dual meet record to 8-2 heading into a Friday match at Roseau. They will be back home Thursday for a 7:45 contest against Badger/Greenbush-Middle River.

"It went just about the way I thought it would go," said Thief River Falls coach Rick Yanke. "They tried a couple of switches in their line-up, but it didn't work. It's nice to see other teams making changes like that."

Fertile-Beltrami had a couple of early leads on a night that opened with the normal match-ending heavyweight encounter before going back to the traditional rotation. The Falcons' Tim Fuch won that one on a pin, and teammate Jason Bakke did likewise at 119.

But Thief River Falls picked up points on a pin by Colt Bergeron at 103 and a 10-0 decision by Daniel LeDuc at 112, then followed Bakke's win that gave the visitors a brief 14-12 lead with a 9-0 Beau Abrahamson decision at 125, then back-to-back pins by Zach Anderson at 130 and Jeremy Anderson at 135 for a 26-12 scoreboard advantage.

Pins by the Falcons' Garth Peterson and Eric Lindberg at 140 and 145, respectively, chopped the difference to 26-24 before the Prowlers' Phil Hermanson delivered what might have been the biggest points of the night at 152.

Trailing Jason Klimek 2-1 after one period, Hermanson recorded a pin 51 seconds into the second period to push the Prowlers' lead to 32-24. The Falcons then conceded by forfeiting at 160 to make it a 16-point spread with just two matches left.

The Prowlers capped the night by winning both of those as Adam Lian came out a 9-6 winner at 171 and Aric Berg emerged an 8-4 victor at 189.

"The pin by Phil Hermanson was important," acknowledged Yanke. "Those were big points for us. And the win by Adam Lian was nice because that was one of the (line-up) changes they made."

Prowlers double Pirates, 4-2

■ Thief River Falls boys win Section 8A hockey match-up

It wasn't a complete game, but Thief River Falls turned in 30 minutes worth of strong play, according to head coach Scott Bergland following the Prowlers' 4-2 Section 8A boys high school hockey win at Crookston.

"We played really well the second and third periods," said Bergland. "The first period we stood around a little, but we played well the rest of the night."

Aaron Bendickson scored two goals for the Prowlers, while Dane Kjono and Danny Almquist both scored once.

It was another strong night for Bendickson, a sophomore who leads the Prowlers in scoring and heads a line that includes Almquist and Robby Anderson, a pair of seniors. "That line is doing a nice job," noted Bergland. "They all bring something to the rink. Aaron is a playmaker; Danny has the speed; and Robby is the banger."

Goalie Ben Worker figured into the mix, too, with a 22-save performance. "Ben has been playing well all year," said Bergland.

After a scoreless first period, the Prowlers went ahead on second period goals by Kjono and Bendickson.

The Pirates' Adam Olmstad chopped the difference in half just 24 seconds into the third period, but goals by Almquist and Bendickson put the Prowlers in control.

It was the fourth straight win for the 11-4 Prowlers, who beat the Pirates 7-2 in a holiday tournament match-up at Grand Forks. It was only their only outing of the week. Thief River Falls will host Moorhead and Warroad in Tuesday-Thursday games, respectively, at the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center.

First period - none.

Spuds skate past Prowlers

Tanaya Reitz and her Moorhead linemates did a job on Thief River Falls Tuesday as the Spuds beat the host Prowlers 9-3 in girls high school hockey.

Reitz, a senior center, scored five goals to lead an attack that provided Moorhead with a 4-2 first period lead and an 8-2 second period cushion. Kirsten Paulson scored a pair of goals for the winners, while Miranda Koenig and Abby Cline both netted one.

"We had no answer for their first line," said Thief River Falls coach Tim Magnusson. "We could play with the rest of their team, but not that line."

Steph Hoard, Kara Larson and Kendra Mooney scored goals for the Prowlers, who lost their third straight game and fell to 7-9 for the year.

"We played okay," said Magnusson. "We had some girls playing new positions and we were missing some kids because of illness and injury."

Scoring

RLCC boys inconsistent in 65-43 Mahnomen loss

Red Lake County Central was 2-for-4 Tuesday against Mahnomen, according to Mustangs coach Randy Hme, who said his team played well in the second and fourth quarters, but not-so-well in the first and third periods. The inconsistency added up to a 65-43 Red Lake County Central loss in a game played at Oklee.

Mahnomen raced to a 20-3 first quarter lead, maintained a 36-18 halftime spread, then opened up a 50-24 third quarter gap.

"We played well for two quarters," noted Hme. "The other two quarters, we didn't get the job done. We turned the ball over too much and we were out-rebounded."

Carl Dagstad of Red Lake County Central and Eric Schaumburg of Mahnomen shared game-high scoring honors with 22 points apiece. Dagstad added 10 rebounds to complete a double-double.

The Mustangs shot 33 percent from the field (17/52) and went 5-for-7 at the free throw line. The winners shot 38 percent from the floor (29/76) and had a quiet 2-for-4 free throw night.

Mahnomen finished with a 41-25 rebound advantage. Red Lake County Central topped the turnover charts 22-12.

The loss dropped the Mustangs to 2-8.

MCC is winner over B/G-MR girls, 53-41

A 13-point, 10-rebound game by Jordan Holthusen and 16 points from point guard Alicia Halvorson sparked Marshall County Central past Badger/Greenbush-Middle River 53-41 Thursday in girls high school basketball.

The Nordics led at the quarter stops 15-10, 35-19 and 48-31.

"We probably played our best basketball of the year in the first half," pointed out Marshall County Central coach Tom Mjelde. "We weren't quite as sharp in the second half, but overall, I was pleased with the way we played. It was a good effort on our part."

Kierah Kimbrough of Badger/Greenbush-Middle River led all scorers with 19 points.

"Obviously our first half defense wasn't very good," said Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Tom Neihauer. "We got it corrected at halftime, but we let them get too far ahead."

The Gators did chop a 21-point deficit to an eight-point difference heading into the stretch run, but the Nordics' Moren Steinhauer and Jana Lokstad came through with key baskets to slow the Badger/Greenbush-Middle River comeback, pointed out Mjelde.

Marshall County Central shot 45 percent from the field (20/44), while Badger/Greenbush-Middle River shot only 33 percent (15/45). At the free throw line, the Nordics were 10-for-17; the Gators 11-for-14. The winners finished with a 27-24 rebound edge, but also had more turnovers, 18-10.

It was the third meeting of the year between the two teams. The Gators won a 45-33 season-opening match-up, but the Nordics came out a 41-34 winner when they ran into each other at a holiday tournament hosted by Northland Community and Technical College in mid-December.

The Nordics improved to 7-5 with the win. The loss dropped the Gators to 4-6.

Eagles' second half produces 53-39 win against RLCC girls

Second half trouble resulted in a 53-39 Red Lake County Central girls high school basketball loss at East Grand Forks Sacred Heart Thursday.

The Mustangs led 12-8 at the end of the first quarter. It was a 23-23 halftime tie. The Eagles had a 30-16 second half scoring edge.

"We didn't execute in the second half," explained Red Lake County Central coach Rick Koivisto.

Actually, the Mustangs' problems started at the end of the first half when Sacred Heart scored six straight points to finish the quarter for the intermission tie. The Eagles then opened the second half with another 6-0 spurt.

Red Lake County Central, now 5-7, was 16-for-52 from the field and 4-for-9 at the free throw line. Sacred Heart went 23-for-53 from the floor and 6-for-17 at the line.

Defense sets up RLCC offense

■ Mustangs' press, fast break tops EGF girls

Strong defense helped set up the Red Lake County Central offense Tuesday as the Mustangs beat East Grand Forks 63-43 in girls high school basketball at Plummer.

The winners turned an 8-7 first quarter edge into a 29-17 halftime spread and a 41-26 third quarter gap.

"We played really good defense for 3 1/2 quarters," pointed out Red Lake County Central coach Rick Koivisto. "Our press was effective, and we were able to handle their press. Our quickness is really helping on both ends of the court."

A balanced Red Lake County Central attack featured AnnaMarie Fore with 15 points, Brittany Berberich 14 and Kelsey Lambert 12. Michelle Halvorson added eight points and seven assists to the offense. Kellie Tice and Abby Evavold scored 10 points each for the Green Wave.

Red Lake County Central went 22-for-64 from the field (34 percent) and made 13 of 22 free throw attempts. East Grand Forks was 18-for-46 from the floor (39 percent) and 4-for-8 at the line. Nine rebounds by Berberich helped give the Mustangs a 27-26 edge on the boards. The Green Wave had twice as many turnovers than the Mustangs, 20-10.

It was win No. 5 against six losses for the Mustangs.

Nordics beat KCN girls 54-35

Three Marshall County Central scorers hit double figures Tuesday as the Nordics picked up a 54-35 girls high school basketball win over host Kittson County North.

Kari Holmstrom led the winners with 14 points, while Morea Steinhauer and Jana Lokstad both netted 10. Jennifer Hostrup scored a game-high 16 points for the Cougars, but none of her teammates joined the double figure club.

Alicia Halvorson ran the Nordics' offense and finished the game with 10 assists.

Marshall County Central grabbed a 17-9 first quarter lead, had a 30-15 halftime cushion and carried a 38-21 advantage into the final quarter.

The Nordics shot 38 percent from the field (20/52) and made 11 of 20 free throw attempts. The Cougars shot just 27 percent from the floor (8/30) while going 7-for-16 at the line.

"We could have shot better," acknowledged Marshall County Central coach Tom Mjelde. "We passed the ball well, but we had a lot of shots inside that just wouldn't go in. We need to finish. We have to score on those."

The Nordics out-rebounded the Cougars 30-20, getting almost half of those (14) on the offensive boards.

Kittson County North wound up with 18 turnovers. Marshall County Central lost the ball 16 times. "We have to do a better job taking care of the ball," noted Mjelde. "That's still too many turnovers; we'd like to cut that in half."

It was the sixth win in 11 starts for the Nordics.

Ponies run by Gators

Nathan Steer scored 25 points, pulled down 15 rebounds and blocked three shots before heading to the bench midway through the fourth quarter Tuesday in a 69-39 Warren-Alvarado-Oslo boys high school basketball win over host Badger/Greenbush-Middle River.

"Steer just dominated," reported Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Eldon Sparby. "We had some shots early that wouldn't fall, then they blocked a couple. After that we were intimated. We were never in the game."

The Ponies started with a 13-2 first quarter lead. The Gators, whose first points came on a pair of free throws with two seconds left in the opening period, trailed 31-10 at halftime and faced a 57-19 third quarter deficit.

"It was total struggle," acknowledged Sparby. "We couldn't get anything going offensively. It was never a contest. They (Ponies) came to play."

Tim Dion scored 10 points to lead what offense the Gators could muster.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River was 13-for-43 from the field (30 percent) and 10-for-18 at the free throw line. The Gators were out-rebounded 41-30 and had 23 of the game's 33 turnovers.

Warren-Alvarado-Oslo went 28-for-51 from the floor (55 percent) and 9-for-18 at the line.

It was the second victory of the year over the 2-9 Gators for the Ponies, who won an earlier meeting 91-68.

Huskies resume play with a 47-39 win over Kittson County North

It wasn't pretty, but it was a win said Goodridge coach Eric Mickelson after watching the Huskies beat Kittson County North 47-39 in Monday boys high school basketball at Lancaster.

"Poor," described Mickelson as his team returned to action for the first time since Dec. 18. "It was a sluggish game; not real smooth. But it goes down as a win, and we won't argue with that."

Casey Jones scored 22 points and Joe Rubischko had 11 for the Huskies, who posted quarter leads of 8-4, 27-19 and 37-31. Seth Whitlock led the Cougars with 13 points – all coming in the first half.

Goodridge shot 47 percent from the field (18/38); Kittson County North shot just 26 percent (10/39). The Huskies struggled through an 11-for-24 showing at the free throw line, where the Cougars had a 14-for-20 night.

Jones and Rubischko both pulled down eight rebounds as Goodridge won the rebound battle 24-16. But the Huskies also topped the turnover charts, 20-10.

The win improved the Huskies' record to 5-2. They played without the services of Dustin Kolrba, a 6-2 senior, who suffered a knee injury in practice and is expected to be sidelined for two-to-three weeks.

establishments.

Health-related services include professional nursing services, home health aide tasks, home care aide tasks and central storage of medication for residents.

Supportive services include help with personal laundry, handling or assisting with personal funds or arranging for medical services, health-related services, social services or transportation to medical or social service appointments.

As of October 2000, 643 housing with services establishments were registered with MDH. Exempt are nursing homes, family adult foster care homes, certain board and lodging establishments and other specific facilities.

Who lives in these facilities?

A national survey by the National Center for Assisted Living conducted in 1998 provides the following information on assisted living residents:

- The average assisted living resident is 83 years of age.
- Seventy-four percent of assisted living residents are women, and 26 percent are male.
- On average, residents need help with 1.7 activities of daily living. Twenty-six percent of the residents require no assistance with the activities of daily living.
- Fifty-eight percent of assisted living residents moved to the facility from their own homes while 42 percent moved in nearly equal numbers from nursing facilities, another assisted living residence and hospitals.
- Reasons for leaving assisted living residents are entering a nursing home (43 percent), death (22 percent) and returning to one's own home (13 percent).
- The average length of stay in an assisted living facility is almost three years.

What services are provided?

A 1999 survey by the Minnesota Health and Housing Alliance identified the most commonly offered services. Included among the most common services are housekeeping, meals, personal laundry, recreational activities, blood pressure checks, grooming and 24-hour emergency response.

In addition to socialization, other supportive services may include helping clients set up meetings and appointments and arranging for or providing transportation. Other home care and health care aide tasks are individualized according to clients' needs as are incidental nursing services. Assisted living facilities may also provide for the central storage of medication, and in the case of "assisted living plus" services, 24-hour supervision.

How are services provided?

Services are contracted through a licensed provider. The most common licenses for housing with services establishments are the Class A home care provider license, Class E assisted living license and Assisted Living Home Care Provider license.

A provider with a Class A or professional home care agency license can provide all home care services in a place of residence, including a residential center. A residential center is a building or complex of contiguous or adjacent buildings in which clients own or rent distinct living units. Class A license services include nursing, various therapies, nutritional services, medical social services, home health aide tasks or the provision of medical supplies and equipment when accompanied by the provision of a home care service.

A provider with a Class E, or assisting living program license, can provide services only to residents of a residential center. For the purpose of the Class E license, assisted living services means individualized home care aide tasks or home management tasks.

A provider with an assisted living home care provider license can provide assisted living home care services to residents of housing with services establishments. Assisting living home care services means a nursing service, delegated nursing service or other service provided by an unlicensed person, such as home health aide and home care aide tasks, or the central storage of medications.

Who pays for the services?

In the case of subsidized housing establishments, the elderly waiver and alternative care programs pay for different packages of assisted living services. Payment rates are negotiated with county human service agencies, subject to program maximums. Rates vary by the type of service package, the health care needs of the client as measured by the individual's case-mix classification, and, in the case of assisted living and residential care packages, by geographic location of the facility based upon the three geographic regions used to set nursing facility rates.

In the case of non-subsidized housing, the client pays for services out of his or her own pocket.

Is there a need for assisted living in northwestern Minnesota?

While several residential centers are exploring the possibilities of assisted living, there are currently only a handful of locations offering assisted living in the seven-county area served by NW Area Agency on Aging.

As the State of Minnesota seeks to reduce the number of nursing home beds, provisions for alternative housing options and services becomes more urgent especially when one considers population trends.

In 2000, an estimated 35 million Americans were age 65 or older, accounting for 13 percent of the population. Baby Boomers will begin turning 65 in 2011, and by the year 2030, it is estimated that one in five people will be 65 or older.

The fastest growing segment of the older population is the 85 and older. Making up an estimated two percent of the population in 2000, this segment is expected to increase to almost five percent of the U.S. population by 2050.

For senior citizens, assisted living offers opportunities for them to maintain their independence while providing them with the individualized services they need. Residents living in assisted living facilities have the option of utilizing services with the reassurance that, should the time come when they need such services, they will be available.

very specific plan to partially restore the budget reserve by the first year of the next biennium.

The impact of these proposals is that in '04 and '05 the one time money is not available and therefore spending cuts of $1.3 billion dollars make up a greater part of the solution in the next biennium.

While these cuts are substantial and widespread I believe they are fair.

For example, my departments will experience permanent cuts of anywhere from 5 to 10 percent and my office specifically will be cut a full 10 percent.

This will result in some programs and many staff positions either eliminated or left unfilled.

The Governor noted that tax reform provided school districts with the same amount of money, so if districts are experiencing a shortage it's because "some districts anticipated extra growth in revenues and taxes that voters didn't approve."

Believe me, I asked myself the question many times over the past few months. But I still don't have the answer. What I know is that K-12 education funding takes up over 40 percent of the state's total budget and while most districts seem to be doing fine, many districts appear to be in financial dire straits.

Of course this debate will go on forever. But, in the meantime, we must act and we must solve this budget problem. Therefore my plan recommends less than a one percent cut to the K-12 budget in '02/'03 and a 2.6 percent cut in '04/'05.

In the interest of not directly hurting the students we will not reduce the basic per pupil funding in the state general education formula.

And then there was Health and Human Services.

In this area I made an effort to be very careful not to affect the most vulnerable in our society. For example I let stand the increase to nursing home workers that was provided in last year's legislation. In addition, I stayed away from programs that are helping to provide health care to our poorest children.

And finally, as I said in my state of the state all levels of government must share in this solution. Therefore I am asking that cities and counties accept relatively small reductions in state aid.

To do this we have devised a system that will protect those cities and counties that have shown restraint by limiting their increases in levies and overall revenue. However, we are recommending a reduction to cities that will, on average, amount to 5.1% of their overall property tax levy and state aid revenue base.

For counties, the reduction will amount to an average of 2.8 percent.

Next year's state aids and property tax revenue collected by cities will increase by an average of almost nine percent. For counties it is scheduled to grow by over six percent. That would indicate to me that most cities and counties have the ability to adjust their budgets to offset the effects of the recession.

Of course many will complain that this reduction will only result in property taxes going up. In some cases they may be right, but in most cases that should only happen as a last resort.

In an effort to restrain cities and counties from automatically raising property taxes and to encourage citizen involvement, I am recommending that voter approval be required in some circumstances where counties and cities attempt to increase levies to make up for their reduction in state aids.

Again, that's local control.

And finally, I would like to address the issue of local government fund balances:

My plan does not directly "raid" any local government fund balances - but it does expect local governments to make use of their reserves to tide them over the short run while they make their own permanent decisions about taxes and spending - just as the state will be doing.

We are also giving local governments more flexibility to use these reserves by moving up half of July's state aid payments to March.

Taxes

In order to balance this solution and mitigate the stress on programs such as nursing homes and schools, I am recommending that we raise the tax on gasoline, cigarette and tobacco products, expand the sales tax to a limited number of services and items and make some very targeted changes in the individual and corporate income tax.

The cigarette tax is a consumption tax that is paid by choice. And just as important is that a tax increase on cigarettes and tobacco products will have a significant long-term positive impact on health care costs.

The gas tax increase of 5 cents and the indexing of the tax will allow us to backfill most of the general fund dollars that pay for the reductions you receive for your car license tabs and in the future fund additional highway projects.

Transportation and transit was another one of those very difficult areas to consider for cuts.

In my first budget I worked hard to convince the legislature that our transportation and transit needs are great and proposed permanent funding that would meet the needs of a multi-modal transportation system for years to come.

The legislature failed to pass my plan and now it is two years later and we are still trying to find adequate funding.

While we have made some progress, we have not made enough, and therefore I believe it is imperative that we not cut any transportation projects or transit services.

This gas tax increase will be the first in 13 years and by indexing the tax to the rate of inflation we will provide stability to a transportation-funding source and preserve its purchasing power.

By making careful use of our reserves I have held spending cuts and revenue increases in the current biennium to an absolute minimum. However, as I said all along, in order to preserve our triple 'A' credit rating we must structurally balance the budget out four years.

For those who would do it differently I would give this advice: As I went through this process I determined that everything had to be on the table. And, in the end, "everything" in this budget is touched.

However, let me warn you that if the legislature does not take a balanced approach, areas of the budget that many of you have proclaimed "off limits," like education and nursing homes, may necessarily take a much bigger hit.

I am asking the legislature to take some time to analyze these recommendations and be prepared to act in the first week of February. Remember, there is a presumption that the legislature will adopt this plan in early February in order to spread out the impact of the spending cuts and begin the flow of new revenues.

If you do not act on the complete package, I will act on those parts of the package that I can. After that, we will all have to deal with the very serious consequences for the remainder of our budget.

Legislators see tough road

"We couldn't make up even a five percent cut in LGA," said Thief River Falls Mayor Mark Borsheim.

LGA makes up about one fourth, or $2,153,571, of the city's governmental fund revenue. Five percent would amount to a little over $107,000. On the other hand, a one percent increase in the city's levy will raise only $15,000.

Governor Ventura has sought approval for cuts in LGA by stating that cities have excessive amounts in reserve.

Borsheim said the city has a reasonable amount in reserves, but not an excessive amount.

That was echoed by City Administrator Roger DeLap who said, "we use them and have a reason for them. Our reserves are adequate, but not excessive." DeLap supported his statement with information tallying the city's estimated quick assets and fund reserves.

Tax bill adjustments?

Last year's tax bill was comprehensive and complicated, said Sen. Stumpf. Stumpf made that comment in response to questions about why taxes did not decrease as promised. He also added that the state is just now seeing some of the results of that tax bill.

Mayor Borsheim pointed out that, for homeowners in Thief River Falls to see a tax cut, they need to have homes valued at $76,000 or better. The average value of a home in Thief River Falls is $57,000, consequently, few saw a reduction in their taxes.

Stumpf also acknowledged that one tax cut having a significant impact on northwestern Minnesota counties was the cuts given to pipeline companies. In Clearwater county, for example, Sen. Stumpf said that pipelines make up about 25 percent of the entire property value in the county. When taxes on the pipelines were cut by as much as 20 percent, these counties were faced with only one option — raise taxes.

An unusual problem area receiving widespread media attention has to do with bread. Bread manufactured and sold in a supermarket is not being taxed, while bread made in the bakery of the same supermarket is taxed. Stumpf noted that this is happening with other products, as well, and needs to be addressed by the legislature.

Sen. Stumpf and Rep. Finseth said adjustments and corrections might have to be made to elements of the tax bill to correct some inequities. This happened, said Stumpf, because the legislature had no model on which to test the impact of the cuts.

At the conclusion of the meeting Stumpf and Finseth invited local representatives to visit them at the capital and encouraged cities to work together to lobby the legislature.

Superman sweeps shootout

Submitted copy

After getting nary a win at the World Snowmobile Association's (WSA) Snocross Worldwide Championship opener in Duluth, Ski-Doo's Blair Morgan rectified that oddity with a sweep of both Pro classes at the Fourth Annual Arctic Cat Deadwood Shootout, sponsored by the Deadwood Chamber of Commerce, Bud Light and C&A Pro Skier at the Deer Mountain Ski Resort. Even though nearly a half-foot of snow fell during the weekend, there wasn't much snow at the start of the event, so the track was significantly smaller than the usual layout. But, with some great cooperation and creativity, it proved extremely challenging.

While Morgan was the only second qualifier in the Pro stock class, he was able to get a strong holeshot, and he, Tucker Hibbert, Arctic, and Toni Haikonen, Arctic, led up the hill. Aaron Scheele, Arctic, and Dennis Eckstrom, Ski-Doo, battled intensely for fourth. As Morgan opened up a slight lead, Eckstrom got by Scheele.

Hibbert started to close on Morgan, but when he got close, he had to move off Morgan's line to find a way past, and he'd drop back. That pattern continued until Morgan started to double some of the big holes early on the run up the hill, and Hibbert just didn't seem to get the bite off the corner to build up adequate speed to follow suit. Then, they both hit traffic, and Morgan slipped through effectively, and got the protection he needed and drew away to the win. The only other change in the order was Carl Schubitzke, who battled his way into fifth on his Polaris.

Morgan did go undefeated in the Pro open class qualifying rounds, but it wasn't easy as a number of riders notched heat wins, and there were others showing some serious speed after an off weekend in Duluth, including the Yamaha of Cris Vincent. But, it was Kurt Crapo, Polaris, that exploded up the hill and into an early lead. Morgan tried a move in the final corner but almost off-loaded and settled in to resume the attack. Schubitzke was a strong third, with Vincent and Nathan Titus, Polaris, in a titanic battle for fourth.

The next lap, same corner, Morgan got it right, squared underneath Crapo, got to the throttle earlier and blew down the run to the finish like. Crapo and Schubitzke stayed close until all three hit traffic, and Morgan's form continued as he made some brilliantly decisive moves and open an unassailable lead. The top three remained unchanged to the finish, but about mid-race Titus had an off on the top of the course, but Vincent had no rest as Noel Kohanski, Polaris, picked up the fight. They swapped positions, but Vincent finally came through for fourth.

In the Duyco Pro Women final, Amanda Johnson, Arctic, outdueled Lissa Toneray, Arctic, for the win, with Jolene Bute's Cat third. The Pro vet final produced the most exciting finish of the day as Dennis Dumas, Polaris, caught and passed Jesse Strege, Polaris, at the line for the win, with Tracy Smith, Arctic in third.

The only other double winner of the weekend was Billy Waldoch, Ski-Doo, who claimed both the Sport 500 and Sport 600 finals.

The next round of the WSA Snocross Worldwide Championship is the Polaris Canterbury Snocross January 12-13 in Shakopee.

Governor's proposal cuts LGA

LGA or State aid plays a major role in supporting city budgets

by David Hill
Editor

Cuts in Local Government Aid could have a significant impact on rural northwestern Minnesota. A 9.8 percent reduction in aid to Thief River Falls seems small in comparison to what other cities in the region could be faced with.

Last week, Governor Ventura proposed cutting nearly $74 million from Local Government Aid (LGA). According to a summary of those cuts, there are two components to reductions in LGA: a uniform reduction applied to all cities, and a reduction targeting cities with "excessive" increases in their 2002 levy plus aid revenues. The uniform cut amounts to a two percent cut in the levy plus aid. The "excessive" increase component, which applies to cities with a population greater than 1,000 and cities with a Pay 2002 levy plus aid increase greater than 4.5 percent, which is the three-year statewide average growth in households, plus inflation.

Recently, calculations and data from the Minnesota Department of Revenue were summarized by Flaherty and Hood, lobbyists for the Coalition of Greater Minnesota Cities. The information shows that the Governor's proposed cut would result in a loss of $225,927 or a 9.8 percent cut in aid to Thief River Falls in 2002. In 2003, the City of Thief River Falls would lose another $160,529 in aid.

While a 9.8 percent reduction may seem significant, other cities in the region would not fare as well.

According to the same estimates, the City of East Grand Forks would experience cuts of $483,947 or 18.7 percent in 2002. In 2003, East Grand Forks would lose another $200,176 in aid.

Crookston would fare a little better, losing $229,227 in 2002, a 7.3 percent cut, and another $124,715 in 2003.

Roseau would lose $240,470 or see a cut of 40.9 percent in 2002, and lose another $71,907 in 2003.

Warroad would lose $155,593 or see a 32.1 percent cut in 2002, and another $45,713 in 2003.

Detroit Lakes would lose $243,428 or 14.5 percent in 2002, and another $266,526 in 2003.

Ice road open, caution advised

International Falls - Koochiching County Sheriff Duane Nelson lifted a ban on vehicle traffic on Rainy Lake Monday. Barricades placed on accesses to the lake last week have been taken down, but extreme caution is still advised when traveling on area lakes.

Officials checking Rainy Lake found most of the lake to have ice thicknesses measuring 12-16 inches. Some areas, however, remain hazardous.

An ice ridge that runs north and south east of the Birch Point area is still very hazardous, according to the sheriff. "There's only a couple inches of ice there," Nelson said. "That's even hazardous to people walking." The Daily Journal

Bird seed strip remains a mystery

Grygla - A strip of seed dumped along township roads east of Grygla remains a mystery to area residents. While no one knows when or why the seed was intentionally dumped, Wally Byklum followed its trail and discovered that it was spread along the edge of the road for 15 miles through Lee, Hamre, Spruce Grove and Benville townships.

Byklum contacted several area agencies, and in light of recent chemical scares, delivered a sample to Roseau for testing. Although he was told the mixture contained no harmful chemicals, the fact that sweet clover seed was the main component added to the mystery. Because sweet clover seed is very expensive, a 15-mile strip would not have been cheap.

Extension agents said the only explanation they can think of is that someone wanted to feed the birds. Byklum was also told that beekeepers might also be tempted to spread seed that will blossom and attract bees. The Grygla Eagle

Clearwater County plans celebration

Bagley - Committees are hard at work, planning activities for this spring and summer that will commemorate Clearwater County's 100th anniversary.

Sponsoring organizations are the Clearwater County Board of Commissioners and Clearwater County Historical Society. Activities planned so far include an open house reception at the courthouse, a centennial picnic, a parade, Gonvick's Rodeo Days in July and Pumpkin Days in September, Shevlin's Sawdust Daze in July, and the Clearwater County Fair in the early fall. The Leader-Record

Senior to oversee senior center

Hallock - Elaine Baker, a senior citizen herself, began her duties as site manager of the new Hallock Area Senior Citizen Center on January 7.

In addition to being the LSS meal site, the new center houses a manager's office, large community room, kitchen, game/pool room, computer lab and craft area/store.

Baker's duties include overseeing the meal program, scheduling activities, public relations, coordinating volunteers, administration and office receptionist work. Dawn Lindstrom has been hired as the cook, and Yvonne Carriere will be the custodian. Kittson County Enterprise

Omdahl passion brings sanctuary to wildlife

Eldora and Stella Omdahl named Conservation Cooperators

by Kathi Carlson
Reporter

A man has made at least a start on discovering the meaning of human life when he plants shade trees under which he knows full well he will never sit. – D. Elton Trueblood

Had Dr. Trueblood been referring to a single man when he penned those words, he might have been speaking of Eldor Omdahl of rural Warren. During the course of his life, Eldor has planted trees by the thousands, including many that the 92-year-old probably never expected to see in their maturity.

Eldor and his wife, Stella, were honored recently as West Polk County's Conservation Cooperators for 2001 at the Minnesota Association of Soil and Water Conservation Districts Annual Convention in Bloomington.

For the Omdahls, conservation is much more than a practice. It's a passionate way of life they chose to share with others. In 1981, Eldor and Stella gave 640 acres of their land to the Agassiz Audubon Society for the establishment of a wildlife sanctuary.

Twenty years later, the 800-acre Wetlands, Pines and Prairie Audubon Sanctuary is an environmental education center, enjoyed by people of all ages and primarily serving the counties of Kittson, Marshall, Pennington, Polk, Norman, Red Lake and Roseau in Minnesota and Walsh, Grand Forks and Pembina counties in North Dakota.

When Eldor's grandfather, John Hanson, emigrated from Norway in 1893 and homesteaded the 160 acres that surround the sanctuary headquarters, he found a mixture of prairie, wetland and aspen parkland.

Eldor was born and raised about two miles "down the road" from the sanctuary. After leaving the area for approximately 10 years, he returned to northern Minnesota to farm. By then, the land his grandfather homesteaded had passed through several owners, including the Federal Land Bank during difficult financial times. When he purchased the farm in 1949, Eldor began planting trees that same year and in 1959, he began developing ponds and waterways for the purpose of retaining water, a sharp contrast to the prevailing practice of draining wetlands. Through the years, he continued to employ wise the conservation practices that not only reduced soil erosion but attracted the wildlife he loves.

Eldor's wife of 32 years shares his passion for the land and the plants and creatures that flourish there. Ten years his junior, Stella predicted that, when they married, they would probably have, at most,

Although rather poor at making predictions, Stella Omdahl has been a fitting partner for her husband, Eldor, sharing his passion for all living things. The Omdahls of rural Warren were honored recently as West Polk County's Conservation Cooperators for 2001 at the Minnesota Soil and Water Conservation Districts annual convention in the Twin Cities. In 1981, Eldor and Stella donated 640 acres of their farm land to the Agassiz Audubon Society for the establishment of the Wetlands, Pines and Prairie Audubon Sanctuary. The Omdahls continue to live at the sanctuary where last summer, they posed for this photograph. When they planted the jack pines in 1985, Stella reminded Eldor that he probably wouldn't live long enough to enjoy their shade. He, however, proved her wrong and, at 92, continues to plant trees and exercise the other sound conservation practices that made him and Stella worthy of their distinction as Conservation Cooperators.

Human drama unfolds at hockey game

by David Hill
Editor

Thief River Falls Prowlers Hockey team had taken an early lead Thursday night against the Warroad Warriors, only to watch it erode. With a few remaining precious seconds left in the 3-2 game at Thief River Falls, the Prowlers pulled their goalie and went on the attack. What happened with 31 seconds remaining in the game is being described as chaotic and crazy.

With 31 seconds remaining, Warroad Senior Chris Knapp of Park Rapids took a hit and went into the boards — head first.

Seconds later 17-year-old Justin Gallagher collapsed in the stands.

Warroad Hockey Coach Cary Eades, whose own professional hockey career ended in December of 1983 with a spinal injury, said it was a nightmare for the fans and players on both sides.

Eades said Friday morning that replays show it was not a malicious hit that put Knapp into the boards. It was the type of accidental hit that takes place in a contact sport. He said he appreciated the fact that the players on the Thief River Falls side showed concern for the downed player.

Eades said Knapp is going to be okay. He's going to miss some hockey but that's not real important considering what could have happened. It's his understanding that Knapp is in a neck brace and has a neck sprain.

There are all kinds of rumors about what happened to Justin Gallagher. His mother, Esther Gallagher, said they are still trying to determine what happened. She said Justin was taken to the hospital emergency room, and was later released to go home. She said she expects more tests to be conducted. In the meantime he is getting plenty of rest.

Jim Sims, Athletic Director for School District 564 in Thief River Falls, said it looked chaotic with EMTs and medical staff helping a player stretched out on the ice, and a fan in the stands. Sims noted it was very cramped in the small staff room discussing the incidents with three officials, two parents, medical staff and coaches. He said the facility is not able to accommodate such incidents. But Sims was very thankful and appreciative of the cooperation displayed by staff, players and fans.

With the events that took place in the remaining seconds of the game, the outcome of the game suddenly became a lot less important.

New Zealander enjoys his visit to Minnesota

by David Hill
Editor

While it may be true that Neil Elrick likes to travel because he likes to see what other people do, it seems many people are interested in watching him and learning more about where he came from – New Zealand. This is particularly true of the young students of St. Bernard's Catholic School in Thief River Falls.

Elrick, a self-employed handyman of sorts from North Island, Rotorua, New Zealand, a community of about 35,000, met Kari Wichterman of Thief River Falls last year in New Zealand where she was teaching third, fourth and fifth grade students. Kari was staying with his relatives, so Elrick spent a little time with her and decided he wanted to learn a little more about this woman and where she came from. He started the process of getting a work visa, which is no easy task, and in May of last year, after successfully obtaining the work visa, he packed his bags and headed to the United States. The first stop was in Kansas, but Elrick eventually made his way to Thief River Falls.

"Boy, the kids sure ask a lot of questions – about animals, what the country's like, and lots of questions about types of cars," said Elrick in a thick accent.

Really, though, the two countries are pretty much alike, he Neil Elrick of New Zealand has been visiting Thief River Falls. During his visit he spent a considerable amount of time talking with students from St. Bernard's. While at St. Bernard's he taught the students how to play cricket and other games. In the picture above, he's holding the bat they use to play cricket. He came to Thief River Falls after meeting Kari Wichterman in New Zealand. Wichterman was teaching school in New Zealand at the time.

SOUPÇON

Sherry LaCoursiere
email: lacoursi@spacestar.net

Now it's definitely soup weather. Try one of these soups this weekend.

Roasting the meat and bones with the vegetables makes for a tasty broth in this hearty soup:

CZECHOSLOVAKIAN CABBAGE SOUP

2 pounds beef soup bones
1 cup chopped onion
3 carrots, pared and coarsely chopped
2 cloves garlic, chopped
1 bay leaf
2 pounds beef short ribs
1 teaspoon dried thyme
1/2 teaspoon paprika
8 cups water
8 cups coarsely chopped cabbage (1 head)
2 cans (1 pound) tomatoes
2 teaspoons salt
1/2 to 3/4 teaspoon Tabasco sauce
1/4 cup chopped parsley
3 tablespoons lemon juice
3 tablespoons sugar
1 can (1 pound) sauerkraut

Place beef bones, onion, carrots, garlic and bay leaf in roasting pan. Top with short ribs. Sprinkle with thyme and paprika. Roast, uncovered, in 450 degree oven for 20-30 minutes or until meat is brown.

Transfer meat and vegetables into large kettle. Using a small amount of water, scrape browned meat bits from roasting pan into kettle. Add water, cabbage, tomatoes, salt and Tabasco. Bring to boil. Cover and simmer 1 1/2 hours.

Skim fat. Add parsley, lemon juice, sugar and sauerkraut. Cook, uncovered, for 1 hour. Remove bones and short ribs from kettle. Cool slightly. Remove meat from bones and cut meat into cubes. Return to kettle. Cook 5 minutes longer. (Recipe serves 12.)

This tasty soup will be a hit - serve it for lunch or for a main dish supper:

CHEDDAR CHOWDER

2 cups water
2 cups diced potatoes
1/2 cup diced carrots
1/2 cup diced celery
1/4 cup chopped onion
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
White Sauce:
1/4 cup butter
1/4 cup flour
2 cups milk
2 cups cheddar cheese, grated
1 cup cubed ham

Combine water, potatoes, carrots, celery, onion, salt and pepper in large kettle. Boil 10-12 minutes.

Meanwhile, in small saucepan, make white sauce by melting the butter. Add flour and stir smooth, about 1 minute. Slowly add milk. Cook until thickened. Add grated cheese to white sauce and stir until melted.

Add white sauce and cubed ham to vegetables that have not been drained. Heat thoroughly. (Recipe serves 6.)

Before we know it, Lent will be upon us. Here's an idea for Friday supper:

FISH AND CHEESE CHOWDER

1 pound fish fillets, fresh or frozen
2 tablespoons butter
6 tablespoons chopped onion
1 cup chopped carrot
6 tablespoons chopped celery
1/4 cup flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
Dash paprika
1 (10 ounces each) cans chicken broth, undiluted
3 cups milk
1 cup grated processed cheese

Thaw frozen fish fillets enough to allow cutting, about 30 minutes. Cut fish into 1 inch cubes.

Melt butter in large saucepan. Add onion, carrot and celery. Cook until onion is transparent. Blend in flour, salt and paprika. Cook 1 minute, stirring constantly.

Gradually add chicken broth and milk. Cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Add fish and simmer until fish flakes easily (5 minutes for fresh, 10 for frozen). Add cheese and stir until melted. Serve hot. (Recipe makes 2 1/2 quarts.)

Use little frozen meatballs to make this favorite soup - your family will love it:

MEATBALL PASTA SOUP

1 tablespoon olive or vegetable oil
1 medium onion, chopped
1 small green bell pepper, coarsely chopped
2 garlic cloves, minced
4 cups water
2 (14 1/2 ounce) cans Italian-style stewed tomatoes, cut up but not drained
1 (18 ounce) package frozen cooked meatballs or Italian meatballs, thawed
2 teaspoons paprika
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon turmeric
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 1/2 ounce (1/2 cup) elbow macaroni or rotini

Heat oil in large saucepan. Add onion, bell pepper and garlic. Cook and stir 2-3 minutes, until vegetables are crisp-tender.

Add all remaining ingredients except macaroni. Mix well. Bring to a boil, then reduce heat, cover and simmer 10 minutes.

Add macaroni and cook, uncovered, 10-15 minutes or until macaroni is tender. (Recipe makes 6 servings.) Soup thickens after storing, so gently add broth or water when reheating it.

Quick - make this fancy French soup for the two of you in the blink of an eye:

QUICK ONION SOUP

1 (18.5 ounce) can French onion soup
1/2 cup shredded Swiss or Gruyere cheese
1 tablespoon grated Parmesan cheese
2 (1/2 inch thick) slices of French bread, toasted

Pour soup into small saucepan. Heat over medium high heat until hot, stirring occasionally.

In small bowl, combine cheeses, mixing well.

To serve, place 2 ovenproof bowls on cookie sheet. Ladle soup into bowls. Top each with a slice of toasted bread. Sprinkle each with about 1/4 cup cheese mixture.

Broil 3-5 inches from heat for 1-3 minutes or until cheese bubbles. Serve immediately.

In a news release from the Coalition of Greater Minnesota Cities, Coalition President Robert Demuth, mayor of Worthington, proposed repealing last year's property tax reforms, and criticized the Governor's plan to cut $74 million in LGA.

"By cutting $74 million from LGA, the governor is pushing service cuts and tax increases on the poorest areas of the state," Demuth said. "This governor apparently can afford to spend $80 million on mass transit for the Twin Cities, but he cannot afford tax relief for the folks in Greater Minnesota."

Demuth also called the proposal to cut aid a "ploy" or "gimmick" to use city budget reserves to solve a state problem.

Thief River Falls Mayor Mark Borsheim said the Governor's proposal includes a one-time cut in 2002, and a permanent cut in 2003. What many don't realize is that the one-time cut for 2002 would come out of a budget already established by the city, which leaves the city with no way to go back and recoup the loss. For emphasis, Borsheim explained that, for the City of Thief River Falls to make up that loss, the city's levy would have to increase 17 percent.

Local Government Aid supports jobs and services including Streets, Parks, Fire, Police Engineering and Government buildings. If these cuts go through it will mean severe cuts in personnel and services.

Borsheim warns that, "We'll be scrambling if this goes through."

Borsheim doesn't believe the Governor's complete proposal will be approved. Realistically, however, he believes the city will lose some aid, perhaps as much as $100,000. Even that amount is a lot to cut from the budget of a small community.

Unemployment climbs in MN, but still under U.S. level

Minnesota Department of Economic Security Commissioner Earl Wilson has announced that Minnesota's seasonally adjusted unemployment rate for December was 4.0 percent. The December rate was up by two-tenths percent from November, but is still well under the national rate of 5.8 percent.

Nonfarm employment fell by a seasonally adjusted two-tenths percent in December, the same pace as last month and the seventh consecutive month of decline. Manufacturing, services, and trade lost the most jobs numerically.

The state's unadjusted unemployment rate was 3.7 percent in December, up by three-tenths percent from November.

"Minnesota will confront the current economic challenge head-on — with optimism, hard work and unified effort," said Governor Jesse Ventura.

Don't alter history to satisfy our vision

Recently I was discussing news events taking place in our communities with another individual, when he asked whether our communities were building a memorial to events of Sept. 11.

I was temporarily stumped. "Well. . . no," I said quizzically and wondering whether we should, and wondering whether I had somehow failed in my duty as an editor. "No one has suggested that we build a memorial to the victims of Sept. 11."

"Victims?" he asked. "What about any memorials to the spirit of the American People."

"Uhh. . . no, not that I know of," I said.

It's really not such a bad idea — building a memorial to the strength and determination of the American People in the face of adversity. But what would that be? And should it be built now when personal lives and business are still being rebuilt?

Monday night I took a picture at the VFW, Post 2793, in Thief River Falls of three men who were raising money for a World War II Veterans Memorial in Minnesota. Isn't it a bit of a shame, even downright embarrassing, that we're just getting around to building a World War II memorial?

I suppose we could justify our lapse in judgment by saying it takes time to think of an appropriate memorial, time to let wounds heal, or time enough for us to judge its historical import. Maybe that's part of the reason the proposal for the Sept. 11 memorial is receiving so much flak. I also think it's because the proposal of a memorial depicting three individuals of different nationalities raising the American flag over the sight of the Twin Towers confuses reality with symbolism.

Most of us have seen the picture that has apparently inspired the artist — three men raising the flag over a pile of rubble. It was a great picture that inspired millions of Americans. To me it seemed to say, "We're proud to be Americans, and no matter what you throw at us, be it bombs or airplanes, our spirit and determination will not fail." I didn't notice the nationality of the men in the picture. I know that they were firemen. I doubt the photographer noticed the nationality of the men raising the flag or thought to place the men in a different pose. I doubt the men raising the flag even thought about it, or what pose would look best.

In the space of a few minutes and seconds, three men took an action that is now immortalized in a photograph.

Should that photograph now be the blueprint for a memorial that symbolizes the spirit of a nation if it alters its historical accuracy?

No.

The artist or committee in charge of the memorial project should think of something else that symbolically represents the spirit of a nation under attack. And if it was the intent of the artist or committee to be politically correct and create something that represents the entire nation, well then, why aren't disabled people, native Americans, or women represented?

I think we can all understand the symbolic intent of the artist or committee because as a Nation we were united in our efforts and determination. But, when we get right down to it, I just don't think we should alter a picture or event to justify our personal vision of what history should reflect, or protect someone's delicate ego. How will we learn? How will we grow? How will we be judged?

Tom and Diane Kolstoe, 39 cows, 85 percent in milk, producing an average of 56 pounds of milk, 2.1 pounds of fat and 1.8 pounds of protein; 13. E. Duane and Faith Knott, 89 cows, with 90 percent in milk, producing an average of 54 pounds of milk, 1.8 pounds of fat and 1.6 pounds of protein; 14. Excel Dairy, 1,076 cows, 85 percent in milk, producing an average of 53 pounds of milk, 1.9 pounds of fat and 1.6 pounds of protein; 15 (three-way tie) David Oslund, 205 cows, 90 percent in milk, producing an average of 51 pounds of milk, 1.9 pounds of fat and 1.6 pounds of protein; Leonard and Marge Geske, 46 cows, 87 percent in milk, producing an average of 51 pounds of milk, 1.9 pounds of fat and 1.5 pounds of protein; and Herb Torsveit, 25 cows, 92 percent in milk, producing an average of 51 pounds of milk, 1.6 pounds of fat and 1.5 pounds of protein.

The herd averages are affected by the number of dry cows in the herd. The amount of milk or butterfat is averaged out over all the cows. This gives the farmer a record of the earning power of the herd for the month. If too many cows are included in the herd, then the average for the month may be low, even though the cow that is milking produces a lot of milk.

State to tighten identification procedures

Minnesota Homeland Security Director and Commissioner of Public Safety Charlie Weaver announced Thursday new equipment, training procedures and legislative initiatives to combat terrorism and reduce identity fraud in Minnesota.

The Driver and Vehicle Services Division of the Department of Public Safety (DVS) reports that in 2001, more than 4,500 applications were denied. . . about 75 percent of them because of suspicion of fraudulent documentation. DVS will employ new mag-strip readers, black lights and even magnifying glasses to spot fake IDs.

DVS employees will also begin frontline training this month based on programs developed by the federal Immigration and Naturalization Services (INS).

In addition to new training and equipment, Weaver said that Governor Ventura will include in his anti-terrorism package two initiatives aimed at stopping identity fraud.

The first initiative would tie the expiration of a Minnesota ID to the length of legal residence. Currently, anyone in the United States on a limited residency document (visa) is able to obtain a driver's license valid for a full four years, regardless of when the visa expires. Weaver's proposal would match the time of the valid driver's license with the length of the document.

The second legislative proposal would require each person seeking a Minnesota license or ID to present more than just an out-of-state license as evidence of identity. Currently, a person may obtain a Minnesota driver's license or ID card by simply presenting a driver's license from another state. Under Weaver's proposal, people with out-of-state licenses would have to present a second primary form of identification, such as a valid passport or birth certificate, in order to receive a Minnesota driver's license or ID card.

"The unfortunate fact is that we simply can no longer rely on another state's license to guarantee a persons identity," said Weaver. "In today's world, we need to be absolutely certain about the integrity of Minnesota's driver's license, and must take every necessary step to ensure that we know the identity of each person to whom we are giving a license."

It's All About The Numbers

There are lots of ways to gauge the quality of your fishing. When it's the middle of July and the big fish are going strong off the deep rocks, for instance, I like to reflect on "size." The unavoidable restrictions of lengthy mid-summer travel, frequent snags, meticulously constructed drift patterns and a hop-scotching path across a dozen different reefs make numbers like "30-40 fish" less likely than the impressive nature of a handful of quality fish. When it's early September and the walleyes are about as concentrated in any one spot as the random droppings of a diuretic cow, I like to turn the focus to "variety." A few walleyes, a couple perch, several sauger, a handful of northerns, and one big sturgeon generally make up a good early fall day. Of course there are those sporadic days, available at just about any time of year, when almost nothing other than light lake breezes come across the gunwales. On those occasions I try to highlight the less fishy aspects of a day on Lake of the Woods. The scenery, the weather, or the good company; anything to distract from the lack of catch and the insistent grumbling from the back of the boat.

And in late January it always turns into a numbers game. Slowly disappearing are the early winter buckets of eye-popping walleyes. Gone are the random, if regular, addition of a nice northern or two to add to an already impressive catch. What the next few weeks have to offer is the plain old possibility of sauger-induced bobber movement.

Yes, size will be lacking. Remember, these are sauger, not walleye, and their genetic predisposition tops them out somewhere between one and two pounds. Yes, variety will be a little on the short side, as well, with the occasional burbot or perch thrown in as a bonus. But from a sheer numbers standpoint this can be a tough time of year to beat.

For example, I had two guys in a fish house yesterday. Both were competent anglers and managed to keep the beer consumption to a level where it didn't interfere with their ability to fish. They ended up catching 72 fish. That's 36 fish per man which outstrips just about any torrid early June day I can recall. The number may seem high at first, though I would argue that it's an accurate reflection of what Lake of the Woods is consistently capable of at this time of year. It's a far more believable average when you consider the whole picture.

These two guys didn't keep the 72 fish. In fact, they only had a combined total of 13 1-1/2 pound saugers and a smallish walleye in their pail at the end of the day and were not overwhelmed enough with the fishing to offer me any more than a handshake as a tip. They'd been up several times before and seemed to understand that this was a normal mid-winter day for Lake of the Woods. The vast majority of their catch had been 7-10 inch saugers that had bit so lightly you could barely see the bobber bounce. Sometimes they had to jig two to three feet off the bottom to find active midday fish and they'd change jig styles and colors every 15 minutes if something didn't produce. They worked hard to wade through the "distraction" of schools of smaller fish and caught enough keepers for a meal with a few to take home. The end-result was adequate, if not overwhelming.

My point is, once again, that we are in the midst of our traditional high-end "numbers" game, though perhaps at the low-end of the "size" spectrum. The walleyes have become sluggish and sought suspended waters for several weeks of mid-winter lethargy. Armed with a Vexilar and the patience and touch of a neuro-surgeon, a few stubborn fishermen might access them. The line-peeling excitement of northerns through the ice will have to wait till the advent of the March runoff. And the annual barrage of spring crappies and jumbo perch need several weeks of increase in sun height before kicking into full swing.

But if you're interested in simple totals, now is perhaps your best opportunity. They might not be huge, but it'll give you something to talk about late next summer when you're stumbling through a day that offers you little more than pleasant scenery and warm breezes.

NCTC women roll to 107-22 win vs. Winnipeg squad

It was no contest Tuesday when the Northland Community and Technical College women's basketball team met Canadian Mennonite University in Winnipeg, Man. The Pioneers pushed their record to 11-0 with a 107-22 rout over a CMU team making its season debut.

It was 40-0 before the host school got on the scoreboard, and it was 52-8 at halftime.

While the game might have lacked competitiveness for a team that is currently ranked No. 5 in the National Junior College Athletic Association Division III polls, Northland coach Mike Zachow still found value in the trip. "Everybody got to play," he said. "Everybody got to play at least 10 minutes, and nobody played more than 20 minutes. It was a chance to see some different combinations on the floor, and to have some fun. With the winning streak and the national ranking, some of the girls might have been feeling a little pressure. This trip gave them a chance to relax a bit and have some fun again."

All 14 Pioneers put their names in the scoring column. Five of them reached double figures as Sara Gross scored 14 points, Nicole Wiseth and Jenny Weiss both netted 11, while Kylie Rogalla and Nikki Gustafson picked up 10 each.

Northland shot 51 percent from the field (48/95) while going 3-for-7 at the free throw line. The Pioneers finished with a 43-25 rebound advantage.

Canadian Mennonite shot 19 percent from the floor (6/31) and had a 9-for-14 free throw game.

Northland converted 51 CMU turnovers into 71 points. The Pioneers lost the ball just nine times.

Moorhead center Scott Bjorklund had a step on a Thief River Falls defender as he put a backhand shot past goalie Ben Worker during for a first period goal in Tuesday's boys high school hockey game at the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center. Bjorklund had a six-point night with three goals and three assists in the Spuds' 8-2 win over the Prowlers.

Spuds blitz TRF skaters 8-2

Moorhead had not one, but two hat trick performances Tuesday as Scott Bjorklund and Kevin Smith scored three goals each in the Spuds' 8-2 boys high school hockey win over host Thief River Falls.

Bjorklund added three assists for a six-point night. Jeff Bernstrom, who joined Bjorklund and Smith on the Spuds' all-senior top line, picked up two assists, giving that trio an 11-point night.

Terry Kragero and Matt Hayek completed the scoring for the winners. Justin Barron and Brian Quinn were the goal scorers for the Prowlers, fell behind 3-1 in the first period and trailed 8-1 at the second intermission.

It took Moorhead all of six seconds to get on the scoreboard. The Prowlers won the opening draw, but promptly turned the puck over at their blueline, giving Smith a clear shot at Thief River Falls goalie Ben Worker.

Skating shorthanded, Moorhead went up 2-0 when Bjorklund fed the puck out of the corner on to the stick of an uncovered Smith in front of the net at 6:30.

That same power play produced the Prowlers' first goal as Barron flipped a wrist shot past Moorhead goalie Chad Beiswenger at 7:23.

However, just 57 seconds later Bernstrom picked up a loose puck behind the Thief River Falls net and fed Bjorklund for a point-blank backhand.

If the Prowlers harbored hopes of staging a second period comeback, they were dashed when the Spuds made it a rout by scoring four times in a 2:48 span to set up third period running time.

Buzzing the Thief River Falls zone, Moorhead went up 4-1 when Kragero slipped an ice-hugger through traffic and under Worker at 4:42.

A penalty called after the goal resulted in a Moorhead power play, and the Spuds needed only 22 seconds to convert as Bjorklund scored on a rebound.

Moments later the Prowlers found themselves again skating shorthanded, and Moorhead capitalized by setting up Hayek for a tap-in at 6:13.

A Moorhead rush produced a rebound goal for Bjorklund at 7:30 to make it a 7-1 game.

"We didn't show up," said Thief River Falls coach Scott Bergland. "We didn't give ourselves a chance to win. Moorhead has a good team; they had a lot to do with it. When you don't come ready to play against a team like that, you're going to get spanked, and we got spanked big time tonight."

Smith completed his hat trick one minute into the third period, and Quinn finished the scoring off a scramble in front of the Moorhead net at 13:45.

The loss snapped a four-game win streak for the 11-5 Prowlers.

A poke-check by Moorhead goalie Chad Beiswanger knocked a scoring opportunity away from Thief River Falls' Danny Almquist during the second period in Tuesday's high school hockey game at the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center. The Spuds beat the Prowlers 8-2.

Nordics run past Gators 81-55

Josh Larson completed a rare triple-double Tuesday when the Marshall County Central senior scored 12 points, grabbed 15 rebounds and handed out 11 assists in the Nordics' 81-55 boys high school basketball win over rival Badger/Greenbush-Middle River.

"Josh Larson was unbelievable," said Gators coach Eldon Sparby. "We knew going in he was the key. But we couldn't stop him. He was the difference in the game."

While he stood out, Josh Larson had a little help as the Nordics extended their season-opening winning streak to 13 games. Six Marshall County Central scorers hit double figures in a balanced attack that included 13 points by Garrett Swan; 12 each from Matt Wagner, Justin Magner and Josh Larson; and 10 apiece by Jake Anderson and Andy Larson.

"We stayed with them for a while, but they're a better team than us," acknowledged Sparby.

The Gators trailed 17-8 at the end of the first quarter, but were within 27-24 and sitting at the free throw line with two minutes left in the first half. That's when the bottom fell out as the Nordics finished with a 10-0 run for a 37-24 halftime gap.

"It got away from us those last two minutes of the first half, and we never got it back," said Sparby, whose team faced a 57-37 third quarter deficit.

David Mattson scored 14 points to lead the Gators.

While the Nordics turned the ball over 21 times, a 41-18 rebound advantage fueled the Nordics' fast break and led to a 58 percent 32-for-55 shooting performance.

"We've got to do better than that," said Marshall County Central coach Ron Ueland, looking at the turnover figures. "They put a lot of pressure on our rebounders and got some turnovers. But once we got by that and got the ball down the court, we got some easy shots. We just kind of overpowered them."

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River shot 36 percent from the field (21/59). The Gators, who had just 10 turnovers, were 13-for-18 at the free throw line, where the Nordics made 15 of 20 attempts.

The 10-point game by Andy Larson was just the second time he's been held under 20 this winter, pointed out Ueland, who expressed concern after the game about a foot injury suffered during the game by his season-long scoring leader.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River fell to 2-12 with the loss.

TRF swimmers have 5-0 dual record

Unbeaten in dual meet competition, the Thief River Falls boys high school swim team will make its third and final home appearance of the 2001-02 season Tuesday when the Prowlers host Park Rapids Area at 5:30 p.m. in the Franklin Middle School pool.

Thief River Falls won a close 95-84 decision when the two teams met earlier this month in the Panthers' pool.

The Prowlers pushed their record to 5-0 Tuesday with a 112-73 victory at Bemidji.

Jason Swenson (200 I.M., 100 breaststroke) and Nathan Browning (50 freestyle, 100 backstroke) were double-event winners for the Prowlers.

Chad Rosencrans supplied the Prowlers with first place points in diving, and all three relay races were won by Thief River Falls.

The Prowlers turned in 11 personal-best performances.

A small delegation of Thief River Falls junior varsity swimmers were out-scored 70-18.

Prowlers repeat win over Lakers

A 41-39 Thief River Falls win at Detroit Lakes Jan. 4 was repeated Tuesday when the identical score gave the Prowlers a home-and-home regular season series sweep in the North Sub-Section 8AAA girls high school basketball rivalry.

Chelsea Haviland came up with a double-double for the winners with 11 points and 10 rebounds. Teammate Meghan Nelson added 12 points and seven rebounds to the Prowlers' totals.

Angie Thielen scored 14 points for the Lakers, who grabbed a 17-11 first quarter lead, but fell behind 28-24 at halftime and trailed 34-29 through three quarters. Detroit Lakes did go back on top by three in the final quarter, but couldn't hold off Thief River Falls down the stretch.

"It was good to see us come back after a slow start," said Thief River Falls coach Jeff Loe. "We kept our composure when we fell behind in the fourth quarter."

The Prowlers struggled through a 28 percent 17-for-61 shooting performance from the field, but they did go 6-for-9 at the free throw line and cut their turnovers – a season-long problem area – to just 12.

Detroit Lakes shot 34 percent from the floor (15/44) and matched the Prowlers' 6-for-9 free throw shooting. But the Lakers turned it over 21 times, negating a 32-28 rebound edge.

The win improved the Prowlers' record to 10-3.

TRF basketball games vs. Rams, Pirates will be twinbill match-ups

Thief River Falls boys and girls high school basketball schedule will feature a pair of doubleheader match-ups Jan. 22 at home against Roseau and Jan. 24 at Crookston.

Tuesday, the Prowlers-Rams girls varsity game will start at 6 p.m. and the boys varsity game start time is listed as 7:45 p.m.

Thursday, it'll be another 6 p.m. tip-off for the Prowlers-Pirates girls varsity, followed by a 7:30 p.m. boys varsity contest.

All four junior varsity games are scheduled to be played at 4:30 p.m. at various gyms.

Rebound edge leads to a 64-59 Jacks win

Bemidji converted a 36-26 rebound advantage into a 64-59 boys high school basketball win over Thief River Falls Tuesday.

Jason Fairchild scored 22 points and Brett Skarnes had 10 for the Lumberjacks, who led 15-11 at the end of the first quarter and carried a 29-23 edge into halftime before opening up a 46-33 third quarter spread.

"We had about a four-minute run in the third quarter that hurt us," explained Thief River Falls coach Chris McLean. "Other than that, I thought we played them pretty even. The rebounds hurt, and we didn't have an answer for Fairchild. He beat us on the inside and on the outside."

Thief River Falls' offense was led by Nick Ricks with 23 points, Tyler Bosh 14 and Jason Koch 10.

Thief River Falls shot only 31 percent from the field (17/54), while Bemidji shot 46 percent (21/46).

The two teams combined to shoot 53 free throws, with the Prowlers making 18 of 27 attempts and the Lumberjacks hitting 14 of 26.

"We did a good job getting to the line" noted McLean, whose team fell to 2-9. "We're getting better, but so is the competition."

Eagles sweep series with Warroad...

Grygla-Gatzke wins low-scoring games

Grygla-Gatzke has failed to score more than 35 points in two boys high school basketball games against Warroad this winter. Yet the Eagles have a pair of wins in the home-and-home series. Tuesday, Grygla-Gatzke won 35-34 in overtime. The Eagles won in similar low-scoring 35-32 fashion when they met back on Dec. 8.

"Both teams found shots hard to come by," explained Grygla-Gatzke coach Vern Johnson. "Nothing came easy for either side. Warroad was especially patient on offense, and as the game went along, we became more and more patient ourselves."

Grygla-Gatzke led 12-8 at the end of the first quarter and had a 22-18 halftime edge. Warroad went ahead 29-26 in the third quarter. It was a 32-32 tie at the end of regulation time when a contested 12-to-14-foot jumper by the Eagles missed the mark at the buzzer.

Overtime produced just two baskets – the first by Ryan Orvis of Warroad with 1:50 remaining, and the second a 3-pointer by Tony Nordby of Grygla-Gatzke with 1:10 left.

Turnovers, fouls and missed free throws made for an interesting final minute, but none of the action resulted in points.

Nordby finished with a game-high 14 points. Teammate Cory Ostby netted 12. Kent Peterson led Warroad with 11 points.

Grygla-Gatzke was 14-for-40 from the field (35 percent) and 5-for-8 at the free throw line. Warroad went 14-for-34 from the floor (41 percent) and 5-for-7 at the line. Warroad finished with a 29-22 rebound edge. Turnovers were even at 20-apiece.

RLCC shooters shine

Kelsey Lambert hit five 3-point baskets en route to a game-high 19-point performance Tuesday that sparked Red Lake County Central past Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke 61-43 in girls high school basketball at Goodridge.

With Lambert leading the way, the Mustangs knocked down seven 3-pointers as part of a 50 percent 24-for-48 shooting performance.

"That's the best we've shot all year," pointed out Red Lake County Central coach Rick Koivisto, who got additional double figure scoring from Michelle Halvorson (14), AnnaMarie Fore (10) and Brittany Berberich (10).

Red Lake County Central turned a 13-10 first quarter edge into a 30-15 halftime cushion. It was 43-29 through three quarters.

"We played pretty good dense in the second quarter," noted Koivisto.

Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke shot 33 percent from the field (16/48).

"We're struggling offensively," admitted Wolverines coach Justin Lunsetter. "We can't put the ball in the basket."

Bethany Tharaldson scored 14 points to lead the Wolverines, who beat the Mustangs 50-44 earlier this season.

Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke went 10-for-19 at the free throw line, where Red Lake County Central was 6-for-9. The Mustangs finished with a 25-15 rebound advantage. The Wolverines had more turnovers, 29-18.

It might have been a costly win for the Mustangs, who lost Berberich to a fourth quarter ankle injury.

Warroad comeback beats Prowlers 3-2

Thief River Falls' early-season ride to the top of the Section 8A boys high school hockey standings hit a speed bump Thursday when Warroad rallied from a 2-0 first period deficit to beat the Prowlers 3-2 at the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center – site of the 2002 post-season playoffs.

At 11-5 for the year and 5-0 against Section 8A competition, the Prowlers had a leg up on the rest of the northwestern Minnesota hockey field. Included in that record was a 4-1 win at Warroad back on Dec. 4.

When Jeff Schneider and Jared Altepeter scored just 18 seconds apart early in the first period, the Prowlers appeared ready to solidify its No. 1 status.

Instead, a come-from-behind effort by Warroad showed that Section 8A is still a multiple-team race.

"It's disappointing to lose, but give Warroad credit," said Thief River Falls coach Scott Bergland. "They have a very good team. I thought we played hard. It was a good high school hockey game. Both teams had chances to win."

Scoring began when Schneider, standing alone in the slot area, latched on to a puck that had squirted out of a pack of players bunched along the boards. The junior forward went in alone on Warroad goalie Adam Thiele, beating him with a hard wrist shot at 5:56.

Moments later the Prowlers were right back at it. Control of the center ice draw, a quick shot and two pokes at rebounds resulted in 2-0 lead on a goal by Altepeter at 6:14.

Warroad kept it close, however, when James Knudsen was allowed to skate untouched through the Thief River Falls zone before setting up Travis Cole for a point-blank shot at 10:16.

It was a 2-2 game when Tony Thorsten scored at 10:04 of the second period. Thief River Falls goalie Ben Worker became tangled in traffic on the play, and Thorsten was there to stuff the rebound behind the netminder.

A third period power play goal won it for the visitors as Tony Selvog controlled the puck around the Thief River Falls net before taking a shot that Worker knocked down, but couldn't control. The goalie found himself sprawled on the ice as a patient Selvog lifted a wrist shot into the net.

Worker was pulled for an extra attacker with a minute to play. Thief River Falls forced three face-offs in the Warroad zone in the last 58 seconds, but couldn't come up with the equalizer.

The shots were even at 22-apiece.

"We played a complete game," noted Bergland. "We had five-six good chances to score, but we couldn't put it away."

The Prowlers play at East Grand Forks Tuesday and at Grand Forks Central Saturday.

Scoring

First period - TRF, Jeff Schneider (Jared Altepeter), 5:56; TRF, Altepeter (Robby Anderson-Justin Barron), 6:14; Warroad, Travis Cole (James Knudsen), 10:10.

Third period - Warroad, Tony Selvog (un), 1:42.

Goalie saves - TRF, Ben Worker 7-3-9–19. Warroad, Adam Thiele 6-8-6–20.

Prowlers out-score B/G-MR mat squad

More evidence that Thief River Falls has become a legitimate high school wrestling power surfaced Thursday when the Prowlers build a 25-point lead and finished with a 37-24 dual meet win over perennially strong Badger/Greenbush-Middle River.

"The worm has turned," offered Thief River Falls coach Rick Yanke. "It refers to the turning of a caterpillar in its cocoon. Long story behind that, but I've been waiting four years to us it."

It was the eighth straight dual win for the host Prowlers, hiking their record to 10-2 for the year.

"It seems like a huge monkey off our backs," said Yanke after beating the Gators. "We have been trying to show we are a dominant team, but it always came back to.... can you beat Greenbush. They have been the team to beat for so many years. I'm proud of our guys, not just for the win, but for the way they did it, and the class they showed. It would have been easy for the kids to become poor sports and brag, or act inappropriate, but not these guys. They acted as respectful young men, and that is something that I am very proud of."

Top performances, according to Yanke, were turned in by Colt Bergeron (103), Chris Bergeron (112), Zach Anderson (135), Gavin Martell (145), Jon Swanson (160), and Aric Berg (171).

Colt Bergeron challenged state champion Gabe Mooney, Martell recovered after being put on his back for a pin; Swanson beat Tony Jenson in a match featuring a pair of top-five ranked wrestlers; and Berg, who moved to Thief River Falls from Greenbush as a sophomore, completed the Thief River Falls scoring with a pin.

Ponies handle Eagles

Warren-Alvarado-Oslo, behind 23 points by Nathan Steer and 57 percent shooting (32/56) rolled to a 78-48 boys high school basketball win over Grygla-Gatzke Thursday.

The Ponies had quarter leads of 16-11, 34-22 and 61-37.

"They just ran us over," reported Grygla-Gatzke coach Vern Johnson. "We ran into a buzz saw. There was not one area of the game where they didn't dominate."

Tony Nordby scored 18 points to lead the Eagles, who shot 32 percent from the field (16/50). They were 12-for-15 at the free throw line, where the Ponies had a 7-for-11 night.

Warren-Alvarado-Oslo finished with only a 30-27 rebound edge, but the Ponies did a lot of damage on the offensive boards, noted Johnson, whose 8-3 team topped the turnover charts 13-12.

Fosston beats RLCC

Fosston spotted Red Lake County Central an early lead, but stormed back to beat the visiting Mustangs 63-44 Thursday in boys high school basketball.

The Mustangs opened the game with a 7-2 edge, but were out-scored 18-2 the rest of the quarter to trail 20-9 at the first stop. The Greyhounds were up 35-24 at halftime and enjoyed a 56-36 third quarter cushion.

Early-game trouble has plagued the 2-10 Mustangs this winter, pointed out coach Randy Huie. "The black cloud is still over our first quarter," he said. "Too many turnovers and not enough rebounds."

Red Lake County Central shot 39 percent from the field (12/43) and went 5-for-10 at the free throw line. Fosston shot 43 percent from the floor (28/65) and had a 4-for-10 free throw game. The Greyhounds dominated the boards, 45-23. The Mustangs had more turnovers, 19-8.

Unbeaten Fosston, the No. 1-ranked team in Minnesota girls Class A high school basketball, added Red Lake County Central to its state-record winning streak Thursday, 69-32.

"They dominated from the start," said Mustangs coach Rick Koivisto after watching his team fall behind at the quarters 20-5, 55-13 and 64-22.

Four Greyhounds scored in double figures, led by Kelly Roysland with 23 points. AnnaMarie Fore scored 10 points to lead the 6-8 Mustangs, who played without injured Brittany Berberich, their scoring and rebounding leader.

Red Lake County Central was 14-for-42 from the field (33 percent) and 2-for-6 at the free throw line. Fosston went 30-for-62 from the floor (48 percent) and made 4 of 8 free throw attempts. The Greyhounds finished with a 27-20 rebound edge over the Mustangs, who topped the turnovers 27-7.

NMU bill totals decrease due to lower gas prices

Northern Minnesota Utilities residential customers' bills for January gas usage will average 58 percent less than the same period a year ago, a company official said recently.

During the 2000-2001 winter season, historically high wholesale natural gas prices caused customers of U.S. utilities, such as NMU, to experience significantly higher gas bills. Since early 2001, gas prices have declined sharply, bringing bill relief to consumers, according to Rury Lenton, community relations director for the company.

"Based on current market conditions, we expect our natural gas customers to continue to see much lower prices during the rest of the winter heating season," Lenton said.

For January gas usage, a residential customer of NMU using 188 ccf (one ccf equals 100 cubic feet) of gas would pay $113.86, a decrease of $158.51 or 58 percent below the bill for January usage in 2001.

"Northern Minnesota Utilities provides gas it purchases for customers without a price mark-up," Lenton said. "The company's rate of earnings is regulated by state and local government agencies and is based on delivering gas to customers."

Lenton explained that lower U.S. gas prices are caused mainly by the following factors:

- U.S. gas storage supplies are at record-high levels about 50 percent above the same time last year. As a result, more gas supply is available for winter usage.
- Milder winter weather has caused lower demand for natural gas for heating.
- An overall decline in the U.S. economy has decreased gas usage, causing downward pressure on gas prices.

Lenton said NMU obtains 50 to 60 percent of its gas supply for customers at market prices, and the remainder from fixed price contracts and gas placed in storage facilities for customer use during the winter.

Lenton explained that gas service bills are composed of three main components: gas cost, transportation and distribution.

On average, gas commodity costs comprise 60 percent of the customer's bill. Transportation of gas from the wellhead where it is produced comprises about 20 percent of the bill. Another 20 percent of the customer's bill is for the distribution of gas into local communities, and includes such services as meter reading and system maintenance. Transportation and distribution costs are regulated by federal and state agencies.

NMU provides natural gas service to 36,000 customers in Minnesota. It is a division of Kansas City-based UtiliCorp United, a multinational energy company with more than four million customers. UtiliCorp operates in the United States, Canada, the United Kingdom, New Zealand, Australia and parts of Europe.

Wellstone staff to update region on Telework Act

Josh Syrjamaki, of Senator Paul Wellstone's staff, will visit the Crookston area on Wednesday, January 23, 2002 from 6 to 10 p.m. in the Food Service room 131, on the University of Minnesota, Crookston (UMC) campus.

Syrjamaki will be on hand to conduct a follow-up round table discussion regarding the Rural Telework Initiative included in the new Senate version of the Farm Bill. The goal of the discussion will be to update area residents on the Initiative as it is being considered by Congress. This Initiative, if passed, would provide seed money to local communities to establish good-paying telework jobs for rural America.

"I invite any interested community member to join us at UMC, especially those who attended the initial round table discussion," Syrjamaki said. "Senator Wellstone has asked that I keep you appraised of the initiative's progress and to listen to constituents and provide constructive feedback as this bill moves forward."

RSVP is requested prior to January 21st if you are attending. Phone 281-8459, or email gschuster@ngplains.org

25 years together. Happily, she was wrong in not only that prediction, but also one she made when they planted a stand of jack pines in 1985. "You'll never live to enjoy the shade of these trees," Stella says she told Eldor. Evidence of the error of those words exists in a photograph taken of the couple this past summer as they posed with a new sign in front of the now towering pines.

Eldor and Stella reside in one of two houses located at the sanctuary headquarters. Sanctuary Director Blane Klemek, his wife and stepson occupy the other house on the property. When Eldor and Stella had their home built, it is obvious that they did so with the outdoors in mind. Whether in the large kitchen or great room, its open floor plan allows one to look out large windows and glass doors and enjoy the pond and trees that surround it as well as the activity at nearby bird feeders. Although equipped with electric heat, homey warmth is enjoyed near the wood stove in the great room and from the old cook stove in the kitchen that Stella lights every morning to "take the chill off."

Through the windows of the Omdahl home and throughout the sanctuary, white-tailed deer, moose and numerous species of fur-bearing mammals are frequently observed. As for birds, over 163 species have been observed there, including nesting long-eared owls, wood ducks, sand hill cranes and black-billed magpies. During this year's Christmas Bird Count, Eldor says observers spotted the most birds ever when they counted 31 species. Among them were the common red poles that, during this particular year, have sought winter refuge at the sanctuary.

The sanctuary is open to the public for camping, hiking, picnicking, canoeing, wildlife viewing and birding, and cross-country skiing.

A trek around the meandering two-mile Bluebird Trail will afford hikers and, during most winters, cross-country skiers the opportunity to observe a variety of wildlife and habitat, including restored prairies, brush land, created wetlands and waterways, native and non-native mixed deciduous and coniferous woodlots and shelterbelts and plantings of fruit-bearing trees and shrubs. Those who embark on the "Landscaping for Wildlife" self-guided interpretive trail designed to teach visitors about modern wildlife management techniques can also observe the changing habitats and landscapes.

Whether the purpose is enjoyment, education or a combination of both, clubs and organizations as well as groups of schoolchildren are encouraged to utilize the sanctuary. The barn, which was built around 1915, has been renovated to create a rustic visitor center. It includes a large meeting room where groups can gather for meetings or classroom instruction, as well as a rest room, office and Magpie's Nest Gift Shop.

Agassiz Audubon Society, a chapter of the National Audubon Society, operates the sanctuary that serves as a headquarters from which the it provides a variety of regional on- and off-site programming.

The sanctuary is self-funding and relies on a variety of resources for its income. Tax-deductible memberships, used to provide programming, are encouraged among those who share a common concern for the environment. Membership categories include individual/family, $20; business/organization, $20, donor, $25; sustaining, $50, and patron, $100.

An endowment fund established by the Omdahls allows the Agassiz Audubon Society to employ a full-time director to manage the sanctuary's natural resources and administer its programs. Blane Klemek came to the sanctuary in May of 2000. His qualifications include a biology degree in fisheries and wildlife from the University of North Dakota as well as a strong appreciation for the sanctuary and agricultural land that surrounds it. Blane is also a big fan of the Omdahls, admiring their dedication to conservation, appreciative of their generosity and amazed by their youthful vitality.

Although Eldor enjoys sharing memories of the past, he will also tell you about all he has planned for the future. For example, he expresses an interest in building a bat cave at the sanctuary, and he continues to plant trees. Having signed up for a conservation program, he's required to plant 4,300 trees this year on agricultural land he owns and rents out in Pennington County.

After having wintered in Florida for many years, Eldor and Stella have remained a little closer to home for the past two years. Last year, they enjoyed an Amtrak trip that took them to several southern and West Coast states. Along with other members of the Agassiz Audubon Society, they look forward to the organization's annual banquet that, for the first time, will be held in Thief River Falls on April 2. The event will commemorate the Wetland, Pines and Prairie Audubon Sanctuary's 20th anniversary and feature entertainment by singer, songwriter and naturalist Charlie MaGuire.

Surrounded by the rich agricultural land that is part of the world-renowned Red River Valley, the WPP Audubon Sanctuary is truly, as Blane Klemek refers to it, a "diamond in the rough." Adding to the uniqueness of the site are its human inhabitants, Eldor and Stella Omdahl.

Obvious is their love for every living thing, from the trees, shrubs and native prairie grasses they've planted to the creatures, large and small, that find refuge at the sanctuary. Obvious, too, is the fact that, through their tireless conservation efforts, these fine folks discovered Dr. Trueblood's "meaning of human life" many, many years ago.

added. The holidays are pretty much the same, except they don't have a Fourth of July or Thanksgiving, of course; and the television shows are pretty much the same, except the United States has more.

The youngsters really seemed to take a liking to Elrick, calling him Neil and asking more questions than he could probably answer in a lifetime. Maybe it's because he is from a different country, and speaks with an unfamiliar accent, that sounds like Crocodile Dundee. Maybe it was because of his height – possibly 5-foot, four-inches, and can see eye to eye with many of them. Maybe it's because the kids have a thirst for knowledge and different cultures, just like Elrick. It wasn't much of a bother, though. After spending so much time around youngsters, Elrick concluded that they're all pretty much alike no matter where you live.

While there are many similarities between countries, there are differences. Elrick pointed out that New Zealand has rugby, cricket, and football, and the United States has baseball, football and soccer. While football in New Zealand is the same as soccer in the United States, and there are similarities between rugby and football, and cricket and baseball, the sports are quite different. Of the sports, Elrick said he is more perplexed by our version of football.

But for Elrick, the most interesting difference was climate. Elrick had never seen snow.

Imagine living in a climate that remains at a relatively warm 25 degrees Celsius, or about 77 degrees Fahrenheit all the time, and in a community located at the base of a volcano.

In northwestern Minnesota it seems we either curse the snow and ice or pray for it, but never have we looked at it like a man does who has never seen it before. Even now — in the depth of winter — the wonderment in his eyes still shines brightly.

"It's a lot colder than I thought," he said with enthusiasm.

Snowboarding was another activity he experienced during his visit. Elrick said that except for the falling down part, he would like to do that again.

Kari Wichterman, affectionately known as "Miss Wish," by her students at St. Bernard's school, is the school's physical education instructor. Miss Wish said Elrick has shared a lot of information from his culture and country with the students. Before Christmas, he taught them how to play touch rugby, and after Christmas he taught them how to play cricket.

While Elrick has enjoyed his stay, it's almost time for him to return to New Zealand. He said he has thoroughly enjoyed his visit and thanks the people of the community for being such gracious hosts.

Business planning grants reopened for MN dairy farmers

To help dairy farmers stay competitive in the 21st Century global marketplace, the Minnesota Department of Agriculture (MDA) reminded dairy farmers today that grants are still available to help them pay for the development of business plans.

Through funds appropriated during the 2001 special legislative session, the Dairy Development and Profitability Enhancement Program was awarded $200,000 in grant dollars to cover half the cost of a comprehensive business plan that evaluates farm start-up, modernization and expansion. The grants are distributed at a maximum of $5,000 per dairy producer. Planning grant funds were temporarily frozen recently due to the state's current budget shortfall, but they are again available. There is currently only $100,000 left to be distributed on a first-come, first-serve basis.

Minnesota Agriculture Commissioner Gene Hugoson says these grants are a boost to Minnesota's dairy community.

"Twenty-four farmers have already taken advantage of the grants to help them find ways to make operational changes in a cost-effective manner," Commissioner Hugoson said. "If all of their plans go forward, these grants will have helped farmers plan for the addition of 3,180 cows to the state. That's a significant reinvestment in a $3.6 billion state industry that has been threatened for the last decade by continued declines in farm and cow numbers."

The Minnesota Dairy Business Planning Grant Program is modeled after Wisconsin's highly-successful Dairy 2020 Early Planning Grant Program.

MDA Project Consultant David Weinand says the grants help pay for important planning expenses, such as pre-engineering, long range financial planning (related to expansion and modernization) or consultation in regard to transferring the operation to the next generation. He said that in addition to planning for operation expansion, some farmers have used the grants to explore cost-effective ways to comply with new feedlot rules.

Weinand says that, although many dairy operations are looking to expand, that doesn't guarantee them for grant eligibility. The grants are open to any sized operation that is exploring operational changes, but the funds can only be used to help pay for the consulting fees related to making those changes. The funds cannot be used to pay for cows, concrete or equipment.

Farmers interested in a "Dairy Business Planning Grant" application should call Weinand at 651-215-3946 or mail him at 90 West Plato Blvd., St. Paul, MN 55107.

New process to be introduced at TRF blood drive

United Blood Services of Fargo announces the introduction of an Automated Red Cell Program. The technology has been utilized in-bank at United Blood Services in Fargo, and will be introduced at the blood drive in Thief River Falls at Redeemer Lutheran Church Tuesday, January 22 from 1 p.m. to 7 p.m. and Wednesday, January 23 from 7 a.m. to noon.

This high-tech process makes it possible for donors to give two units of red cells or red cells and plasma in only one visit, thereby making a double impact for the patient. The technology will be used in-bank at United Blood Services in Fargo and on mobile blood drives throughout the tri-state area.

"This technology allows us to potentially double the number of donations from basically the same universe of donors. It will be especially productive to utilize this technology in communities where our mobile blood drives are scheduled less frequently each year," said Elaine Kucera, UBS Technical Director.

Over 60 percent of all needed transfusion units are red cells, which carry the hemoglobin and oxygen while plasma carries the nutrients and replaces volume. And while all blood types are needed, 45 percent of the population are "Type O," and therefore the most commonly transfused blood type. The red cell apheresis approach is especially beneficial to the local blood supply because it allows blood centers to maximize collections of specific blood types. It also means added convenience for local donors, whose time is at a premium.

Many donors find their donation experience more satisfying via apheresis or automation than a regular whole blood donation because a smaller needle is used. The donor receives back his or her plasma and 500 mls of saline with the two-unit procedure, or red cells and saline with the red cell/plasma donation. Additionally, the donor makes double the impact to patients in need of blood.

In order for donors to qualify to be an Automated Double Red Cell Program donor, they must be in good health, at least 17 years old and have a minimum hematocrit of 40 percent. Men must weigh at least 130 pounds and be at least 5-feet 1-inch, while females must weigh a minimum of 150 pounds and be at least 5-feet 5-inches in height. Type "O" donors will be specifically targeted for this program.

United Blood Services has offices in Fargo, Bismarck, Minot and Aberdeen, collecting an average of 250 blood donations each day to help save the lives of patients in 74 area hospitals. Each center serves as their community's only non-profit blood provider, and together they are part of the national United Blood Services network, which helps save and sustain the lives of patients in 18 states.

Extension changes come into focus

By Kathi Carlson
Reporter

Before breaking into smaller discussion groups, Cluster 5 county commissioners and Extension committee members sat elbow-to-elbow in a meeting room at the Evergreen Eating Emporium Thursday to hear University of Minnesota Extension personnel discuss changes that will take place under the University's plan to restructure its Extension Service.

Among the purposes of the meeting was to gather input from Extension partners as to how some of the proposed changes should be implemented.

Prior to a presentation by Assistant Dean and Director Jeanne Markell from the St. Paul campus, Pennington County Commissioner Bob Carlson encouraged those in attendance to have open minds and a positive attitude about the inevitable changes. "The train left the depot in December," Carlson said, "and it's moving fast." He further stressed that everyone needs to work together in the spirit of cooperation.

Markell began her presentation by assuring the group that it is the University's intention to build a stronger, viable statewide Extension Service supported by the University Board of Regents and President Yudof. She emphasized too that Extension remains committed to a locally based and driven service that will help communities throughout the state tap into the research and expertise of the University.

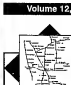
Strategic changes, Markell told the group, are being made for the purpose of reducing a projected budget deficit. Currently, federal, state and local support is not keeping up with the increased costs, and if the current budget is maintained, Extension will have a $6 million deficit by 2006.

Because 90 percent of Extension's budget is spent on personnel, it seeks to reduce those costs by 17 percent by 2006 while creating a $5 million investment pool to support new programs. Staff reductions will take place through retirement, restructuring and reducing positions.

The plan calls for the creation of a network of county Extension directors who will assess each county's needs and University of Minnesota resources to address priorities in individual local communities. Extension educators will work regionally with close ties to campus faculty in designing and delivering programs. Program assistants will manage the 4-H Youth Development and Nutrition Education programs locally. The plan also calls for the continued administrative leadership of district directors.

Extension's local presence will be preserved. The role of local county Extension committees, Markell said, will be more vital than ever. County Extension directors will serve two-county pairings, and regional Extension educators will be housed in county Extension offices. County-level 4-H program assistants will be assisted by two new professional positions: regional 4-H educators will work on the local level while serving multiple counties and regional youth development educators who will train, consult, apply research, evaluate and facilitate.

As the University continues to invest in Extension, coupling its funds with funds leveraged from federal, state, county and private sources, the Extension will proactively seek additional annual funding in the amount of $2.5 million from new grants, contracts, fund-raising and fees. Markell cited an example of possible fees, telling her audience that there have been several instances when people, seeking to take the University's popular Master Gardener course, have offered to pay a fee to be moved to the top of the course waiting list.



As it has communicated with county commissioners and citizens from across the state, the University has determined that as populations and local industries, such as agriculture, change, so do needs. Markell said that at least 60 percent of farm household income now comes from off-farm resources, and therefore, it is critical that communities maintain off-farm business and employment opportunities. To help rural areas achieve this goal and meet other challenges, Extension's approach needs to be flexible, focused and specialized.

Extension programming will focus on three core areas. Community Development and Vitality will focus on business development, e-commerce and diversity. Land, Food and Envi-

Maps proposing the new county Extension director configuration were distributed to those attending a meeting of county Extension committees and University of Minnesota representatives in Thief River Falls Thursday. Discussion centered around the University of Minnesota's plan to restructure its Extension Service. The University's plan calls for a 17 percent reduction in Extension's personnel costs by 2006.

96-year-old fares well after surgery

Bagley - While he may be the oldest patient to have had surgery at Clearwater County Memorial Hospital, 96-year-old Norman Johnson's recovery would be the envy of many half his age.

Johnson is currently recovering from a hemicolectomy to treat cancer. The procedure involves removal of part of the colon.

After completing his recovery, he plans to return to his home at Parkview Apartments in Bagley. Farmers Independent

Welcome program revived in Fosston

Fosston - With leadership from the Community Club and city council, Fosston has revived a Welcome Wagon-type program that will greet new residents to the community.

All retail, professional and service businesses are being asked to join the effort with gift contributions and a small fee that will cover expenses.

In addition to gift certificates, the "Fosston Welcomes You" packet will include informational brochures and printed maps outlining the business district and medical centers. The Thirteen Towns

Borgen selected for ExCEL award

Greenbush - Badger junior Katherine Borgen is one of 40 Minnesota students who has been selected to received the 2002 ExCEL award.

The program is a unique recognition program designed for high school juniors who are active in athletic and fine arts activities, demonstrate leadership qualities and are model citizens in their local communities. The Tribune

Students protest lunch program

Baudette - Last week students at Lake of the Woods School protested a new change in the school's lunch program.

As of January 16, students were no longer able to take two helpings of the entree while going through the lunch line for the first time.

The school's reasoning for the change was because it is having problems with some families who are not keeping their lunch bills current.

Unhappy with the change, two juniors instigated a protest, encouraging students not to eat lunch at school on January 16.

Student council meetings were held and recommendations to remedy the situation were made. The Baudette Region

Sportsmanship emphasis of policy

Grygla - A four-page brochure outlines the new "Good Sportsmanship Plan," recently developed by a committee representing the Grygla school board.

The plan outlines a code of conduct for every entity involved in a sport, including school board, administrators, student participants, coaches, cheerleaders, pep band, officials, workers and spectators.

The main objective of the new policy is to insure that good sportsmanship is displayed at all Grygla School events. The Grygla Eagle

Kenneth Poole of Thief River Falls was one of the first people in Thief River Falls to donate blood through the new Haemonetics MCS+ machine during a blood drive Tuesday at Redeemer Lutheran Church. This high-tech process makes it possible for donors to give two units of red cells or red cells and plasma in only one visit, thereby making a double impact for the patient. This is not a new process, but it is the first time the process has been used in this region.

Area residents exposed to high-tech blood machine

by David Hill
Editor

Kenneth Poole of Thief River Falls was one of the first customers try out the new blood donation machine brought to Thief River Falls Tuesday by United Blood Services. The new Haemonetics MCS+ machine makes it possible for one donor to give two units of red cells or red cells and plasma in only one visit.

The high-tech process available with this machine separates the red cells from plasma and saline, divides the red cells into two units and returns the plasma and 500 ml of saline back to the donor.

Technicians said it's easier on the donor, not only because a smaller needle is used, but because the plasma and saline is returned to the donor. As a result, the donor should feel better at the end of the process.

It's a process that's also better for recipients. Technicians stated that normally, two units of red blood cells are ordered for each patient. This process makes it possible for the recipient to receive a donation from the same donor.

A news release from United Blood Services also explains, that over 60 percent of all needed transfusion units are red cells, which carry the hemoglobin and oxygen while plasma carries the nutrients and replaces volume. And while all blood types are needed, 45 percent of the population are "Type O," and therefore the most commonly transfused blood type. The red cell apheresis approach is especially beneficial to the local blood supply because it allows blood centers to maximize collections of specific blood types. It also means added convenience for local donors, whose time is at a premium.

Another advantage of the process is that it allows United Blood Services to obtain twice as many donations from the same donors. This is particularly beneficial where United Blood Service visits are less frequent.

The donation process takes a little longer. Technicians stated that the process takes about 36 minutes, which is about 15 minutes longer than the traditional process. Additionally, donors who use this process are not allowed to make another donation for 16 weeks. Using the older process, donors could make another donation after eight weeks.

There are other conditions placed on donors. In order for donors to qualify to be an Automated Double Red Cell Program donor, they must be in good health, be at least 17 years old and have a minimum hematocrit of 40 percent. Men must weigh at least 130 pounds and be at least 5-feet 1-inch, while females must weigh a minimum of 150 pounds and be at least 5-feet 5-inches in height. Type "O" donors will be specifically targeted for this program because type "O" is the most commonly transfused blood type.

For donors the pay is still the same — cookies, juice, and satisfaction. For first-time donors using the new machine, there's a T-shirt too.

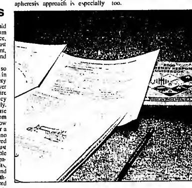
Officials attend hazardous awareness class

by David Hill
Editor

Tank cars filled with a variety of dangerous chemicals pass through communities every day, and it seems that, unless one ruptures and lives are at risk, we don't pay attention to what those containers are carrying. Wednesday evening at Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls, emergency first responders from throughout the region gained valuable information that will allow them to identify what those containers carry.

Following the accident in Minot, N.D., which claimed the life of one and injured hundreds, people are wondering whether their community is prepared to deal with this type of situation.

James Mozey of the Grand Forks Air Force Base fire department and instructor for the Hazardous First Responder class held at the college that night, said the region probably exceeds levels of knowledgeable first responders who can identify hazards. What the region lacks is an adequate number of operations and technical responders. Operations and technical level responders, he explained, operate in teams and are trained to not only identify hazards but respond to incidents and clean up hazardous materials.



Pennington County Sheriff Michael Hraby is Pennington County's Emergency Management director. Hraby has completed requirements for hazardous materials certification, but has not received his certification yet. Hraby is probably only one of a very short list of individuals in the region with this certification.

In an effort to add more knowledgeable staff, Hraby and Thief River Falls Police Chief Jim Haugen said the departments are trying to make sure that many other officers receive hazardous materials training too. Wednesday night, as many as 12 officers from the departments and Thief River Falls Fire department participated in the class.

Other communities in the region also sent representatives to participate in the course. Mozey said there were representatives from McIntosh, Oklee Ambulance, Karlstad Fire Department, East Grand Forks Police Department, Stephen Fire Department, and Warren Fire Department.

In addition to training, like so many emergency response teams in the region, the Pennington County Sheriff's department, Thief River Falls Police Department and Fire department conduct emergency management exercises annually. Hraby and Haugen said they use the information obtained from these exercises to determine how they could be better prepared for a disaster, but both admit, there's no way departments can be prepared for all eventualities. There's just not the money or staffing possible to accomplish that goal. It is expensive. The cost of protective suits, for example, begins at around $800. Most departments in northwestern Minnesota cannot afford that, and rely heavily on contracts with trained response teams, the Back in the 60's, fondue was all the rage. If you saved that old fondue pot somewhere, drag it out, cuz it's all the rage again. In case you lost all your good recipes, here are some you might like to try.

Serve your "new age" fondue with bread or toast chunks (best if homemade), crackers, pretzels, chips, bread sticks, meats or vegetables or even French fries.

If you don't have a fondue pot, use a casserole or chafing dish or a double boiler to try the recipes - then go out and get one of those fancy new pots they have now.

Here's one for beginners - once you have it mastered, add some other flavorings or try different cheeses:

BASIC CHEESE FONDUE
2 cups milk
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
2 teaspoons ground dry mustard
1 clove garlic, peeled and crushed
3 tablespoons flour
6 cups shredded Cheddar cheese

In medium saucepan over low heat, mix milk, Worcestershire, mustard, garlic and flour. Heat until almost boiling.

Gradually stir in Cheddar and continue to heat until cheese has melted. Keep mixture warm and melted in a fondue dish.

Here's a more everyday fondue that you can make any time:

CHEESE FONDUE #1
1 cup dry white wine
8 ounces shredded Swiss cheese
8 ounces shredded Gruyere cheese
2 tablespoons flour
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg (preferably fresh)
1 (1 pound) loaf French bread, cut into cubes (or Italian bread)

Simmer wine in fondue pot. Add cheeses, 1 pound at a time. Stir after each addition until cheese is melted.

Stir in flour, then salt and nutmeg. Serve with French bread.

Be fancy and serve this with sliced (small size) French bread instead of cubes.

CHEESE AND TOMATO FONDUE
2 tablespoons butter
2 cloves garlic, pressed
1/2 teaspoon minced onion
3 small tomatoes, seeded and chopped
1 1/2 cups dry white wine
1 pound Gruyere cheese, shredded
1/2 pound Swiss cheese, shredded

In fondue pot or double boiler over medium heat, melt butter. Stir in garlic and onion. Cook slowly and stir until vegetables are soft.

Mix in tomatoes and cook another 3 minutes. Add wine. Continue stirring until wine reaches a near boil.

Remove from heat and stir in cheeses until they are melted.

Make it this way once and then start changing the veggies and cheeses to those that your family likes - this is a very versatile fondue:

CREAMY VEGGIE FONDUE
1/4 cup milk
1/4 cup white wine
1 (8 ounce) package shredded Cheddar cheese
1 (8 ounce) package shredded Monterrey Jack cheese
1 (8 ounce) package cream cheese, softened
1/4 cup chopped green onions
1/4 cup frozen chopped spinach, thawed and well-drained
1 teaspoon ground dry mustard
1 teaspoon ground cayenne pepper
1 teaspoon garlic powder
1 teaspoon coarsely ground black pepper

In medium saucepan over medium heat, mix milk, wine, Cheddar, Monterrey Jack and cream cheese. Cook, stirring frequently, until melted, about 10 minutes.

Stir in onions, spinach, mustard, cayenne pepper, garlic powder and pepper. Continue cooking until all ingredients are well blended, about 10 minutes.

Transfer to a double boiler or fondue pot to keep warm while serving.

Call it "fundue" or call it a dip, you can use alcohol-free beer in this one if you don't want alcohol. Dip your favorite ready-made pretzels or maybe make your own out of some of that frozen bread dough (just be sure to sprinkle them with the coarse salt you can find in the store):

COLD BEER "FONDUE"
2 (8 ounce) packages cream cheese, softened
1 (1 ounce) package dry Ranch dressing mix
2 cups shredded Cheddar cheese
1/3 cup beer

In medium bowl, combine cream cheese and dressing mix. Stir in Cheddar and then beer. Mixture will appear mushy. Cover bowl and refrigerate for at least 3 hours or overnight, if possible.

This fondue is a little bit fancy - maybe a good one for guests:

CHEESE FONDUE #2
1 pound Swiss cheese, diced
1 cup dry white wine
1 1/2 tablespoons potato flour
1 pinch ground nutmeg
Salt and pepper to taste
2 tablespoons brandy
1 (1 pound) loaf French or Italian bread, cut into 1 inch cubes
1 clove garlic
Kirsch

Rub inside of fondue pot (or casserole/chafing dish) with garlic clove. If using a chafing dish, add just enough water to cover the bottom of the pan.

Dredge diced cheese in potato flour and set aside.

Pour brandy into dish and heat. When brandy is heated, add coated cheese. Bring to slow simmer, stirring with a wire whisk until cheese is melted and mixture is well-blended. Season with nutmeg, salt and pepper. When ready to serve, add Kirsch.

Can't resist giving you a rye bread recipe to use for these fondues - I haven't tried it yet, but I plan to this weekend for my son-in-law's birthday. It sounds good to me:

RYE BEER BREAD
2 cups rye flour
1 1/2 cups room temperature beer
2 (.25 ounce) packages active dry yeast
2 tablespoons sugar
1 tablespoon salt
2 tablespoons shortening
1 egg
3 cups bread flour
1 tablespoon caraway seed (optional)
1 tablespoon cornmeal

Combine rye flour, beer and yeast in large bowl. Cover with plastic wrap and set out overnight. Do not refrigerate.

The next day, add sugar, salt, shortening and egg. Beat with mixer until smooth. Stir in caraway seeds if you want them. Add enough white flour to make a soft dough.

Knead on a lightly floured surface until smooth, about 10 minutes. Place in greased bowl and turn to oil the surface. Let rise in warm place about 1 hour, until doubled.

Punch down dough and divide in half. Shape into round or oblong loaves and place on greased baking sheets sprinkled with corn meal. Let rise 30 minutes.

Bake at 400 degrees for 30 minutes.

Firemen raise funds for camera

Red Lake Falls - A fund-raising supper this evening (Saturday, January 26) will be held in hopes of raising $2,000 to go towards the purchase of a thermal imaging camera for the Red Lake Falls Fire Department.

The cost of the camera is between $12,000 and $25,000, which is considerably outside the fire department's budget, according to Fire Chief Dan Geller.

The department has already raised $1,500 and has commitments for donations from the Red Lake Falls Lions and American Legion. Red Lake Electric donated $750.

At its January 14 meeting, the Red Lake Falls City Council agreed that it will co-sign a note at the Red Lake County Bank enabling the fire department to purchase the camera now. Red Lake Falls Gazette

Kindergarten topic of meeting

Warren - All-day, every-day kindergarten was the topic of a meeting for parents in the Warren/Oslo/Alvarado school district Thursday evening.

Parents heard presentations from a Stephen/Argyle teacher and principal about their school's current first-year experience with all-day, every-day kindergarten.

The W/O/A school board has given its go-ahead to implement the change but wants to make sure the plan has the support of parents. In addition to the opportunity to attend the meeting, parents will also be surveyed. Warren Sheaf

The Annual Crack and Bang Show

In March, it's easy to tell when I've got someone with a little West Coast background in one of the fish houses. When the lake-wide sheet of ice does it early Spring creak, groan and eventual POP! routine, they're always diving for the structural safety of the doorway. Years of California experience with earthquakes have taught them to hurriedly seek the protection of a door frame when the rumbling begins, to avoid the crush of bricks and mortar, as the floor above you crashes down. Of course in an ice house there is only one level to the building and the only thing that crashes down around their Golden Gate shoulders is a torrent of laughter from all the Mid-Westerners they were ice fishing with, who have no clue about earthquake safety and most likely would have been squashed flatter than a palmetto bug if the rumbling had actually taken place in urban San Francisco.

But this is January, and that seasonal "crack and bang" show (no that's not a cheesy X-rated ploy at keeping your attention) should be a couple of months away. I should still be struggling to determine if the fishermen are from the Napa Valley or Apple Valley. However the ice has been as vocal and restless as I've ever felt in mid-winter and dives for the door have been quite common. There are several reasons for the unsettled nature of the sheet.

First, and most obviously, the temperatures do not reflect January. While the ice may be 20-some inches thick, it's not cold ice. This ice is still December ice in terms of its core coolness, while January ice would normally have the benefit of a string of 20 to 40 below nights to supercool it. The result is an incessant, firecrackery nighttime crack and snap pattern as the sheet forms ice at a rate more usual for pre-Christmastime.

Secondly, and most responsible for the big boomers that shake the fish house and slosh water through the holes, is the lack of snow cover. A typical sheet of January ice is covered by anywhere from four to 12 inches of insulating snow. This year's Sacramento-like weather has left the ice naked, exposed to the warming rays of a quickly intensifying sun. The dark color of the ice lends itself to quite a level of heat absorption during the daylight hours, while the ice's bare character makes it cool quickly during the cover of night. As a result, the daily temperature swings of the ice are more like March than January and the expansion and contraction of the sheet is greatly exaggerated.

And finally, the temperature of the air itself is well above what it should be, making the expansion of the already frozen water even more pronounced.

What we have is March ice movement nearly two months ahead of time. As the sheet expands and contracts, pressure is created and, inevitably, breaks occur. Usually the nighttime occurrences are gentle, if audible, cracks, pulling apart as much as an inch or so, and doing little more than testing the confidence of someone who is not used to the formative nature of ice.

The daytime breaks are the ones that send the West-Coasters for the door. Ice expands and pushes against itself with such inexorable power that the only reconciliation is the abrupt snap of a two-foot thick sheet over as much as a 10-mile line. The force is impressive enough to knock pop cans off the table and the wit from the tip of my tongue. The result is a jagged fissure that puddles water around it as one or both sides of the break are forced down into the lake by the overwhelming pressure of its now parted brethren sheet.

A little more seasonable consistency to the cold and a little bit of snowy insulation should go a long way in quieting down the lake. But don't worry, even if winter finally makes it this far north and you still want to have a chuckle at the expense of a few nervous Californians, you can always go fishing in March. But remember, if you're west of the Rockies and you hear that tell-tale March rumble in the background, it's probably best to ignore the hook set and simply head for the nearest doorway.

ronment will include agriculture and natural resources, and 4-H and parenting will be among the programs encompassed in the Youth Development and Family Living area. The three areas draw on Extension's existing strengths and expertise and include some of its most well known programs such as 4-H, Master Gardener and food safety.

Enhanced accountability is another element of the Extension plan, and new systems of program evaluation will be developed to measure effectiveness. Also important is the assurance of program relevance and vitality, and to that end, Extension will replace at least five percent of programs in its existing portfolio annually.

Technology will also play an important role in programming as Web sites are expanded with more courses offered on-line to those who are unable to attend classroom programs. The University's goal is to have 20 percent of Extension's programs electronically accessible by 2005.

Markell stressed the importance of working together in implementing changes. "The University" she said, "cannot make this happen by itself." Extension would like to maintain current contracts with counties for its county Extension director and regional educator positions. Local input, she said, is sought with regard to generating additional revenue in creative ways as well as funding the 4-H program assistant positions.

In closing, Markell stated that while change is not always easy, the University believes that by focusing on its strengths, developing a sustaining financial model and changing how it delivers its services, Extension will survive and thrive in the 21st century. The financial realities, however, must be faced. Staff reassignments and reductions will be announced in early February with orientation slated for March.

Before county representatives were divided into smaller discussion groups, Deb Zak fielded questions from those attending the meeting. Zak is director for the Northwest District, which includes the counties of Kittson, Roseau, Lake of the Woods, Marshall, Beltrami, Pennington, Red Lake, Polk, Clearwater, Norman, Mahnomen and Hubbard.

Duplication of services was a popular concern as Extension's role in such areas as community development was brought to question. Markell backed up Zak as it was noted that such duplication is also o concern of the University.

The county Extension director position required additional definition as attendees expressed their concerns that the creation of the position would create additional administration at the expense of programming. Zak explained that the county director will work to access each county's needs, resulting in more effective, individualized programming rather than less.

An attendee from Roseau County expressed concern about the Memorandum of Agreement and was assured that the University wishes to maintain its 60 percent state/40 percent county funding split. He was particularly concerned about his county's 4-H program and needed reassurance that dollars raised locally for the program stay local.

Another question prompted Zak to tell those in attendance that the pain of budget reductions will be shared "across the board." In addition to county staff reductions, the pain will be felt on University campuses across the state as $750,000 is cut from its budget this year, and $750, 000 is cut next year.

The representatives from the various counties were then divided into smaller groups where participants were asked to complete surveys as to how they think the county Extension directors and regional Extension educators should be paid.

Ken Olson, a member of Pennington County's Extension board, said that basically participants were given two options with regard to compensating Extension educators. The first is for the county where the educator is housed to be responsible for paying him or her and the second option involves a pro-rated formula. Because of the fact that the educator will be serving a region rather than just the county where he or she is housed, it was generally agreed, Olson said, that the first option is unfair, and therefore, the second option is the better of the two.

Determining how to compensate Extension directors, whose duties would be split between two neighboring counties, is easier, Olson said.

He also noted that a lot of discussion took place about the proposed redistricting plan and the new county 4-H assistant positions that would be the financial responsibilities of the individual counties. University personnel continued to answer concerns and share information.

While Olson said the overall mood remained positive, there is concern about the restructuring plan adding additional burden to counties which are already facing budget constraints.

The University Extension three-year plan to ensure it remains financially stable to meet the needs of the state's changing communities was introduced and endorsed by the University Board of Regents in December.

Staff decisions will be announced at a meeting in St. Cloud on Friday, February 1, and by March, a clearer view of what Extension services will be provided, and by whom, in each county.

TRFAHA sponsors Teddy Bear Toss Tuesday

Thief River Falls Amateur Hockey Association will sponsor a Teddy Bear Toss during the Thief River Falls vs. Crookston boys high school hockey game Tuesday, Jan. 29, at the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center that will serve as both a TRFAHA fund-raiser and good-will donation to the Northwest Medical Center and the Pennington County Law Enforcement Center.

Fans attending the 7:30 p.m. game are asked to bring a stuffed animal that will be given to the two local agencies, who will distribute them to young patients or victims at accident scenes.

Upon entering the arena, participants in the Teddy Bear Toss should check in at the TRFAHA registration table that will be located near the office. For $1 donation, you will have your name taped to the toy, making the stuffed animal eligible for the "toss" that will be held after the first period of the varsity game.

Upon instructions from the public address announcer, fans will be asked to throw the toys on the ice, aiming for the center ice face-off dot.

The registered owner of the stuffed animal landing closest to the target will win half of the 50/50 drawing from the promotion's prize pot. The rest of the money will go to the Thief River Falls youth hockey program.

Mothers of the senior members of the Prowlers' 2001-02 team, along with a selected helpers, will then collect the toys. The animals should be of good quality.

The idea of the Teddy Bear Toss came from the Florida Everblades professional hockey team, whose current roster includes former Thief River Falls and St. Cloud State hockey player Keith Anderson

Olson Family in concert at Faith Lutheran Brethren

The Olson Family of the Viking and Newfolden areas will present a concert on Sunday, January 27, at 7 p.m. at Faith Lutheran Brethren Church.

The group plays a range of musical instruments to complement its musical variety. Everyone is welcome.

Chairs named for Riverview building campaign

Riverview Healthcare Foundation has named the chairpersons for the upcoming capital building campaign that will begin this month. Co-chairs Allan and Judy Dragseth have agreed to lead the foundation's efforts to raise funds throughout the region to support the estimated $18 million construction project Riverview will begin this spring.

The Dragseths have been area residents their entire lives and have both been active volunteers in many aspects of the community.

While the regional campaign goal for the building project has not yet been established, it is not expected to exceed 10 percent of the total project cost.

The renovation and expansion will impact every area of the facility with the primary programs affected including the nursing home, outpatient surgery, emergency services, radiology and rehabilitation services. Another major outcome of the project will be the connecting of the clinic and hospital buildings.

Johannessohn Family to perform at Embassy Center

The Embassy Community Center's monthly gospel sing-along will feature the Johannessohn Family gospel singers on Sunday, January 27, at 3 p.m.

Those who play musical instruments are encouraged to bring them for accompaniment during the sing-along portion of the program. The event will also include a short devotional, the awarding of an attendance gift and potluck refreshments.

Everyone who enjoys gospel music is invited to attend. Embassy Community Center is located in Fosston.

closest of which is probably between 50 to 100 miles or more away from most of these rural communities.

With the focus so firmly on hazardous materials, many also wonder whether the risk to citizens has become greater in recent years.

Mozey said he doesn't think there's any more danger today than there was, say 10 years ago. But, citizens are more aware of the danger.

That's not bad either. A more alert citizenry could result in faster response times to hazardous materials accidents or incidents. In fact, Mozey encourages citizens to contact authorities when they see something suspicious.

Delray Sparby appointed to MN Lawyers Ethics committee

The Minnesota Supreme Court recently appointed Thief River Falls attorney Delray Sparby as chair of the 14th District Bar Association's Ethics Committee. The 14th District includes the counties of Kittson, Roseau, Marshall, Polk, Pennington, Red Lake, Norman and Mahnomen. Sparby replaces Ada attorney Susan Rantala Nelson, whose term as chair has expired.

District Ethics committees are established in each of the 21 district bar associations to investigate complaints of unethical conduct against Minnesota lawyers for the state Lawyers Professional Responsibility board.

District Ethics committee members are volunteer attorneys and public members. Complaints about a Minnesota lawyer's professional conduct must be filed directly with the Office of the Director of Lawyers Professional Responsibility, 25 Constitution Avenue, Suite 105, St. Paul, MN 55155-1500. These complaints are then referred to the appropriate District Ethics Committee for investigation and recommendation

EDITORIAL OPINIONS

Dave Hill, Editor

Editorial opinion published under this heading is intended to stimulate thinking and discussion among our readers. Opinions in items from other publications may not coincide with the editor's own views but are offered for their general interest.

National identity cards may be an invitation for identity theft

In the wake of Sept. 11 we all understand the need for better security, but whoa, slow down there. Let's consider the ramifications of creating national identity cards before we rush to create them, and haul out the fingerprint and retina scanners.

We already live in a nation that requires us to show identification for the purchase of alcohol, tobacco, apply for a job, and obtain assistance, even board an airplane. Now, in the name of national security, they want us to create an information card that contains even more personal information. This "smart card" as some are calling it, would provide name, date of birth, social security number, arrest record, phone number, address, fingerprint, weapons permit request and tie it all into a national hub.

I have concerns that such information would be foolproof — secure from those who might take advantage of an opportunity to create a new identity. If I'm not mistaken, it's been done before. In fact as I was writing this editorial, a news release from the Federal Trade Commission, reported that identity theft was the leading consumer fraud complaint reported last year. Of the 204,000 complaints compiled by the Federal Trade Commission, 42 percent involved identity theft.

Don't you think we should discuss what information should be available before we are required to have these national identity cards? And, what information and how much should be on the cards? Who would carry them? When would they be issued? How much would it cost to implement such a system, and who would pay? Who would have access to that information, and what safeguards would be in place to prevent this information from being abused?

Additionally, I think it's important to understand that the card may do nothing more than provide a false sense of security, as well. It won't be a card that stops a terrorist.

Charlie Weaver, commissioner of the Department of Public Safety, and Brian Lamb, director of Driver and Vehicle Services, announced recently that Minnesota is taking steps to enhance the security and integrity of Minnesota driver's licenses and state identification cards. Proposing changes to prevent fraud is the correct step to take and is far less intrusive into our privacy than creating national identity cards.

Just this week, the American Association of Motor Vehicle Administrators announced plans to improve security following the attacks of Sept. 11. According to the story that was released, several of the terrorists who struck on that day are believed to have fraudulently obtained licenses in Virginia and other states known for their weak license controls. The "moral of the story" is that there are a lot less high-tech and intrusive ways to improve the system — like including photos on all licenses, making sure people are who they say they are before issuing a license.

Reforms may be long overdue, but reform is a long way from creating a national identity card. There are too many unanswered questions at this time to rush to that decision.

Common Detection Advisory Committee seeking new members

Minnesota Department of Agriculture (MDA) monitors vulnerable groundwater and surface water resources for pesticide impacts from normal use in agricultural and urban settings. Several years ago, an advisory committee was established to review pesticide use and water resource monitoring data collected by the MDA and other entities. The MDA is now looking for new members to serve on this committee, called the Common Detection Advisory Committee.

The purpose of the committee is to recommend to the MDA commissioner which pesticides should be declared in "common detection" in the state's water resources. Common detection is defined in law as "not being due to misuse or unusual or unique circumstances, but likely to be the result of normal use of a product or practice." Common detection status triggers the development of voluntary pesticide-specific best management practices according to the state Pesticide Management Plan.

The committee has representatives in the following categories: environmental group, pesticide retailer, and local unit of government. Members of the committee must have scientific or technical expertise in areas such as hydrology, natural resources, pesticide chemistry, pesticide labeling, production economics, public health, soil chemistry or toxicology. It is anticipated that committee members will have access to and seek advice from various sources outside their areas of expertise.

The next committee meeting will be in early 2002. Members serve two-year terms. The committee does not expire.

Anyone wishing to join the committee must complete an application form. Applications will be taken by the Office of Secretary of State through January 29, 2002. Applicants must complete the Open Appointments Application for Service on State Agency form, which can be obtained from the Secretary of State's Web site at www.sos.state.mn.us/openapp/index.html, by calling Nancy Breems at 651-297-5845, or by e-mail at open.appointments@state.mn.us

TRF girls get by Roseau 46-44

Together, Brooke Brekke, Jenny Blazejewski and Melissa Skjerven totaled only eight points. But all of them came off the bench to serve in a fourth quarter comeback that produced a 46-44 Thief River Falls win over Roseau in the girls' portion of a high school basketball doubleheader hosted by the Prowlers Tuesday.

The contributions by that trio supplemented a game-high 21-point night by Meghan Nelson and set up two final-minute driving lay-ups by Nikki Tvedt for the game-tying and game-winning points.

First Thief River Falls lead of the night came on a Nelson 3-pointer with 3.5 seconds remaining in the first quarter that broke a 12-12 tie.

The Rams finished the first half with a 6-0 run to take a 20-19 edge into intermission, but after matching their biggest lead of the night at 32-26 on two Bethany Lisell free throws with 59.3 seconds left, they had to settle for a 32-30 third quarter advantage when Nelson put in a rebound and Shara Guldry scored on the inside with 1.8 seconds showing.

It stayed close the rest of the way. Over the final eight minutes there four ties, the lead changed hands five times, and the biggest spread was three points.

A string of five straight points by the Rams that ended on a free throw by Stef Timmersman with 58.5 seconds on the clock turned a 42-39 Thief River Falls lead into a 44-42 Roseau advantage.

But Tvedt, who scored eight of her 12 points in the fourth quarter, went through traffic for a lay-up to tie it with 47.4 seconds to play, then followed that with another drive down the lane for the game-winner with 7.3 seconds left.

Timmersman and Lisell both finished with 14 points for the Rams, who beat the Prowlers 52-34 earlier this winter.

"This was a big win," said Thief River Falls coach Jeff Loe. "It would have been a tough one to lose."

Loe handed out plenty of post-game tributes. "Meghan had a nice game," he said. "She got some points and she did a good job defensively on Timmersman. Nikki took over at the end. We talked about becoming more aggressive on offense, about taking the ball to the basket, and she did. Brooke, Jenny and Melissa all came in and did a good job for us."

Thief River Falls, after a 26 percent 7-for-27 first half, came back to shoot 43 percent from the field for the night (20/47). Roseau had a more consistent, albeit poorer, 31 percent 18-for-58 shooting performance.

The Prowlers went to the free throw line just six times, hitting three of them. The Rams had a 7-for-13 free throw game.

A 32-22 Roseau rebound advantage included a 15-5 difference on the offensive boards. Turnovers were even at 18-apiece.

The Prowlers took an 11-4 record to Crookston Thursday.

Roseau - Ellie Holmgren 2, Kathy Johnson 2, Trudy Eidsmoe 2, Heidi Evans 9, Bethany Lisell 14, Becky Dilese 1, Stef Timmersman 14.

TRF - Nikki Tvedt 12, Chelsee Haviland 3, Melissa Skjerven 2, Brooke Brekke 4, Jenny Blazejowski 2, Shara Guldry 2, Meghan Nelson 21.

Roseau defender Paul Rudebusch kept Thief River Falls' Matt Stuckey away from the basket during the second half of the Tuesday boys high school basketball game in the Lincoln gym. The Prowlers beat the Rams 52-47.

Green Wave 4-0 winner vs. TRF in boys hockey

East Grand Forks became the first team to keep Thief River Falls off the scoreboard this winter Tuesday when goalie Shaun Knutson recorded an 18-save shutout in a 4-0 Section 8A boys high school hockey win for the host Green Wave.

The Prowlers, who had won nine of 10, lost their third straight game and fell to 11-7 for the year.

Matt Stengl and Jason Ellis scored in the first and second period, respectively, for the Green Wave, who doubled the margin on third period goals by Chris Spicer and Ellis.

"We've played worse and won," offered Thief River Falls coach Scott Bergland. "We had as many scoring chances as they did, but theirs went in the net and ours didn't. They maybe out-played us in the first period. We took it to them in the second period, but we just didn't capitalize on our opportunities."

It was also the second straight loss at the hands of a Section 8A opponent for the Prowlers.

"We're in a little slump right now," admitted Bergland. "Every team has them. The biggest thing is that we want to be playing our best hockey at the end of the year, and there's a lot of hockey left."

Finish wins game for NCTC

■ Northland men beat Central Lakes 85-73

A shot clock-beating 3-point basket by 6-8 center Reggie Gaddis sparked a furious Northland finish Wednesday that stunned Central Lakes 85-73 in Minnesota Community College Conference men's basketball.

The visiting Raiders, ahead 41-36 at the half, had a 73-72 lead following two free throws by Travis Janich with 2:01 remaining. It was the sixth time the lead had changed hands, to go along with with four ties, during a 8 1/2-minute span.

There was one more lead change – when Gaddis, after running out of options as the shot clock expired, launched his trey that put the Pioneers up 75-73 with 1:26 left.

Beginning with that shot, Northland out-scored Central Lakes 12-1 to the final horn.

"One good play changed the whole game," pointed out Northland coach Rick Nikunen, who had no problem with the tallest player on the floor shooting from that distance instead of hanging around the basket. "Reggie is a good shooter," he said. "He's capable of making those. He hits them in practice all the time. It might have surprised them (Raiders) when he made it, but it didn't surprise me."

Moments after his long-range dramatics, Gaddis, a freshman from Madison, Wisc., tipped in a follow-up rebound off a miss on a Northland fast break lay-up.

The Raiders' failure to convert a two-shot free throw opportunity with 53 seconds left all but sealed their fate. They lost the first chance on a line violation by the shooter, and the second one was off the mark.

A Northland rebound and a Nate Sorvig fast break lay-up produced a 79-73 spread with 40.8 seconds on the clock.

Justin Skjerven followed a Central Lakes turnover with a basket from underneath; Gaddis made two free throws; and Skjerven was given a free rebound basket at the buzzer to finish it off.

"We found some heart," said Nikunen, whose 10-5 team had lost three of its first four MCCC Northern Division starts. "We've been talking about competing, and the effort it takes to win in this league. Tonight they stepped it up and got it done. We made some plays when we needed them."

Gaddis finished with 25 points, while Jerry Shorter netted 21 and Skjerven had 16. Garth McFadden led Central Lakes with 14 points, but he fouled out with 5:16 remaining.

Northland was 33-for-63 from the field (52 percent) and 17-for-27 at the free throw line. Central Lakes went 26-for-60 from the floor (42 percent) and 16-for-20 at the line. The Pioneers finished with a 33-30 rebound edge. The Raiders topped the turnover charts 25-18.

Second half wins it for Pioneers

Northland cranked things up in the second half Wednesday to beat upset-minded Central Lakes 64-48 in Minnesota Community College Conference women's basketball.

The 3-8 Raiders saw a 27-25 halftime lead over the 12-1 Pioneers disappear during the final 20 minutes when the visitors were out-scored 39-21.

"We made it harder work than it maybe should have been," admitted Northland coach Mike Zachow. "But give Central Lakes credit. They worked hard in the first half. They out-hustled us. They deserved to have the lead at halftime."

The Pioneers' work ethic improved after intermission, according to Zachow. "I thought we played much better basketball in the second half," he said. "We did a much better job on the boards; we got back on defense, and we got to all the loose balls."

Jenny Weiss led the host Pioneers with a game-high 20 points that included 4-for-9 shooting from 3-point range. Candice Solie had a 13-point, 7-assist night; Nicole Wiseth scored 10 points; and Misten Hoie grabbed a team-leading 13 rebounds from her guard position to go along with nine points.

Weiss, Solie and Hoie are starters. Wiseth got her points off the bench. A 3-pointer from the corner by Wiseth, followed by a rebound basket/free throw combination from Solie, clinched it for the Pioneers, turning a 49-44 game into a 55-44 affair with 3:33 remaining.

Wiseth's efforts are not lost on Zachow. The Thief River Falls graduate saw limited playing time as a freshman, but through hard work has become one of the top reserves off a deep bench. "Nobody worked harder in the off-season than Nicole," noted Zachow. "She gives 100 percent all the time. She's a real asset to the program."

Northland shot 32 percent from the field (24/76). Thirty of those shots came from 3-point range, with nine of them finding their mark. The Pioneers were 7-for-8 at the free throw line. Central Lakes shot 37 percent from the floor (19/52) and had a 9-for-12 free throw night. The Raiders controlled the boards in the first half, but the Pioneers finished with a 39-38 rebound edge for the night. Central Lakes topped the turnover charts 27-15.

The win put the Pioneers at 4-1 in the MCCC Northern Division.

Shots fall for Wolverines

Shandrae Marquis scored 22 points and Anna Anderson added 14 as a struggling Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke offense came alive in a 60-29 girls high school basketball win over Tri-County Tuesday at Karlstad.

In their previous five starts, the 5-10 Wolverines had broken the 40-point barrier only twice. They were coming off a 43-31 Thursday loss to Warroad. But that changed with a 41 percent 26-for-64 shooting performance against the Wildcats.

"That's the best game offensively we played all year," reported Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke coach Justin Lunsetter.

The Wolverines led at the quarter stops 14-9, 26-15 and 44-26.

Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke went 8-for-19 at the free throw line, where Tri-County had an 8-for-14 night. The Wildcats turned it over 25 times; the Wolverines had 14 turnovers.

Natalee Holte grabbed 12 rebounds for the winners.

Warroad hands MCC first loss

Warroad, beaten by Marshall County Central 52-33 in the 2001-02 season opener, ended the Nordics' season-opening 14-game boys high school basketball winning streak Tuesday with a 43-42 home court victory.

Marshall County Central started with a 12-9 first quarter lead, but fell behind 21-18 at halftime and trailed 30-29 heading into the final quarter.

"We did a good job defensively," said Marshall County Central coach Ron Ueland. "The main fault was tempo control. We got beat in the second quarter, and that allowed them to dictate the tempo, and usually the team controlling the tempo is going to win."

A key basket, pointed out Ueland, came from Warroad's Brian Gustafson, who hit a 3-pointer to tie the game with just under two minutes remaining. It was his only basket of the night.

Final possession of the game belonged to the Nordics, who rebounded a Warroad miss with 10 seconds left. But the visitors weren't able to put themselves in position for a shot until the horn, when a desperation attempt was blocked.

"I guess it (the loss) was inevitable," offered Ueland. "Nobody goes undefeated nowadays."

Andy Larson scored 15 points and Garett Swan netted 11 for Marshall County Central. Ryan Orvis and Aaron Phillipe scored 10 points apiece for Warroad.

Marshall County Central was 15-for-41 from the field (37 percent) and 6-for-9 at the free throw line. Warroad shot 50 percent from the floor (18/36) and at the line (6/12). The winners had a 24-16 rebound advantage and topped the turnover figures 13-7.

TRF boys beat Roseau 52-47...

Prowlers snap six-game losing streak

Players off the bench can be a key to a team's success. But the contributions generally come in the form of solid play on defense while giving the starters – the scorers – a chance to catch their breath or extend a foul-plagued outing. Offense from the ranks of reserves is a bonus. But Tuesday, Joe Field and Matt Stuckey did just that, combining for 21 points in relief work to help the Thief River Falls boys beat visting Roseau 52-47 in the second half of a high school basketball twinbill.

Field, a 5-10 sophomore, finished with a game-high 13 points. Stuckey, a 6-1 freshman, netted 8 as the 3-9 Prowlers snapped a six-game losing streak.

"All the kids contributed defensively," noted Thief River Falls coach Chris McLean, "and we got some offense off the bench tonight."

Roseau never trailed until the final quarter. The Rams led at each of the breaks 12-6, 23-18 and 33-31.

A free throw by Jason Koch, who joined Field in double figures with 11 points, gave the Prowlers their first lead of the night, 34-33, with 7:03 remaining.

The lead changed hands four times before Thief River Falls went ahead for good on a 6-0 run that made it 42-38 after two Eric Grembowski free throws with 3:08 left.

Dustin Timmersman sunk two free throws with 2:19 showing to pull the Rams within 44-42. But a press-breaking lay-up by Field, single free throws by Field and Grembowski, then a pair of foul shots by Field opened up a 50-42 scoreboard gap with just 65 seconds to play.

"The guys responded very well to the challenge," said McLean. "They haven't been in that situation all year."

A 10-point night by Jordan Erickson was the Rams' only double figure production.

It wasn't a pretty game. The Prowlers shot 32 percent from the field (16/50) and the Rams shot 36 percent (14/39). Both sides put up 27 free throws and both made 18 in a game where five players fouled out. Thief River Falls finished with a 25-23 rebound edge. The Rams had 29 of the game's 44 turnovers.

Moorhead skates to a 7-1 win over TRF hockey girls

Six Moorhead players scored goals Tuesday in a 7-1 girls high school hockey win over visiting Thief River Falls.

The Spuds led only 1-0 after one period, but had a 4-0 cushion through 30 minutes.

Tunaya Reitz scored twice for the winners. Sara Halseth collected three assists.

Steph Hoard scored for the 9-11 Prowlers, who lost a 9-2 home ice decision to Moorhead two weeks earlier.

"We played a decent game, but we ran out of gas in the third period," said Thief River Falls coach Tim Magnusson. "They run a different-type forecheck. We had trouble adjusting to it, and it gave them some easy goals."

Panthers first team to top TRF in swim dual

Park Rapids Area turned the tables on Thief River Falls Tuesday, beating the host Prowlers 96-89 in boys high school swimming. It was the first loss in six dual meet outings for the Prowlers, who defeated the Panthers 95-84 earlier this month.

"It was a heart-breaker," said Kelly Weets, Thief River Falls' co-head coach, along with Luke Miller. "We took a win away from Park Rapids earlier this season, and they returned the favor. The boys swam well – that's all we can ask. If we swam the same meet over again tomorrow, we could win."

Nathan Browning led the Prowlers by winning the 50 freestyle and 100 backstroke while also swimming on first place 200 medley and 200 freestyle relay teams.

Josh Swenson, Jason Swenson and Aaron Field followed Browning into the pool in the 200 medley relay. Field, Jason Swenson and Cody Sorvig joined him in on the 200 freestyle unit.

Jason Swenson also picked up a win in the 100 breaststroke.

Personal-best swims were turned in by the Prowlers' Andre Thibodeau in the 200 freestyle and Nathan Bylander in the 200 I.M.

Park Rapids Area had a 40-28 scoring edge in the junior varsity portion of the meet.

It was the final home appearance of the year for the Prowlers, who finish the regular season with meets at Park Rapids, Grand Forks and Moorhead.

Swanson, Kelly Kvick and Lori Surteberg are new board members, succeeding Kurt Marhen, Marilyn Hoglo and Dunne Kjono.

Gators taken by Storm, 67-47 in boys basketball

Twenty-six turnovers were just too many mistakes for underdog Badger/Greenbush-Middle River to overcome Tuesday in a 67-47 boys high school basketball loss to Stephen-Argyle.

"They pressed us and we didn't handle it very well," pointed out Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Eldon Sparby. "If we would have cut those turnovers to around 15, I think we would have been in the game."

Riley Henrickson scored 18 points to lead the winners. Jake Peterson had a 16-point game and Ricky Larson netted 13 for the Gators, who fell to 3-14.

David Mattson contributed to the Badger/Greenbush-Middle River efforts by taking three charging calls and scoring 9 points.

"I was pleased with our performance," said Sparby. "Considering the size advantage they had, I thought we did a pretty good job on the boards. I thought our two seniors (Larson, Mattson) had their best games of the season."

The Gators enjoyed a 50 percent 22-for-44 shooting night from the field, but they had a 1-for-7 at the free throw game. The Storm went 33-for-67 from the floor (49 percent) and 1-for-4 at the line while finishing with a 32-24 rebound advantage and 14 turnovers.

Nordics lose 47-46 decision to Ponies

Marshall County Central let one get away Tuesday when a lack of timeouts and a mix-up on defense led to a press-breaking, buzzer-beating Warren-Alvarado-Oslo lay-up and a 47-46 Ponies win in Sub-Section 31A girls high school basketball.

It was a come-from-behind effort by the winners, who trailed at the quarter stops 13-8, 27-17 and 32-21. The rally began when the Ponies scored seven points in the final 20 seconds of the first half to give them life in a game that seemed out of reach.

"That flurry at the end of the first half set them up for the third quarter," said Marshall County Central coach Tom Mjelde. "After that, we played like a team that was behind instead of like a team that was ahead."

The Nordics had a rally of their own down the stretch. Trailing by eight with 3 1/2 minutes left, they charged back behind Alicia Halvorson, who had a 3-pointer, a field goal and two free throws in a sequence that helped pull her team within 45-43.

Kari Holmstrom then stepped up to hit a 3-point basket for a 46-45 Marshall County Central lead with just nine seconds on the clock.

Out of time-outs, Mjelde wasn't able to get his team set up on defense. Instead of falling back across the time line, the Nordics put pressure on the ball, opening a lane for the game-winner by Brittany Johnston.

"It's a game we should have won, plain and simple," said Mjelde. "It might have been one of the toughest losses I've ever experienced."

Jordan Holthusen scored a game-high 16 points for the Nordics. The Ponies were led by Brittany Johnston with 10 points.

Marshall County Central was 10-for-33 from the field (30 percent) and 14-for-19 at the free throw line. Warren-Alvarado-Oslo went 19-for-43 from the floor (44 percent) and 9-for-14 at the line. Rebounds and turnovers were even – 27 rebounds apiece; 14 turnovers each.

The loss ended a four-game win streak for the 8-6 Nordics.

Huskies double Bears

Goodridge found a way to come up with some offense in the second half Tuesday and finished with a 50-25 boys high school basketball win over visiting Lake of the Woods.

The Huskies started with a 15-9 first quarter lead, but even though they shut out the Bears in the second quarter, the winners mustered just three points themselves in a yawn-suppressing eight minutes of basketball that led to an 18-9 halftime score.

With Goodridge center Casey Jones scoring 12 of his game-high 19 points in the second half, the Huskies pulled away. It was 31-19 through three quarters.

"We did okay in the first quarter," noted Goodridge coach Eric Mickelson. "In the second quarter, they collapsed around Casey, and nobody else took it to hole. They kept working it around without taking a shot. It was like an unintentional stall."

Sophomore guard Adam Johnson scored 7 of his 10 points in the third quarter to help open up the inside for Jones.

Goodridge was 21-for-47 from the field (45 percent) and 6-for-12 at the free throw line. Lake of the Woods struggled through a 10-for-44 shooting night (23 percent) and turned in a quiet 1-for-2 free throw game. Jones completed a double-double with 11 rebounds as the Huskies beat the Bears on the boards 33-20.

Lake of the Woods had 10 turnovers, Goodridge finished with 9.

Grygla-Gatzke 54-37 winner vs. Cougars

Cory Ostby scored 14 points, handed out seven assists and came up with six steals to lead Grygla-Gatzke past Kittson County North 54-37 Tuesday in boys high school basketball at Lancaster.

Tony Nordby and Nathan Gust joined Ostby in double figures for the Eagles with 12 and 10 points, respectively. Seth Whitlock led the Cougars with 13 points.

Gust scored eight first quarter points as Grygla-Gatzke grabbed an 18-8 lead at the initial break. But it was just a 22-19 difference at halftime. The Eagles out-scored the Cougars 20-11 over the final eight minutes to open up a 34-26 third quarter edge.

"We got off to a good start," said Grygla-coach Vern Johnson. "We went a little flat in the second quarter, but give Kittson County North credit; they never quit. Third quarter, we played pretty even, then we jumped on them early in the fourth quarter to open things up a bit."

Grygla-Gatzke enjoyed a 55 percent 24-for-44 shooting night from the field. Kittson County North shot 38 percent on a 14-for-37 showing. At the free throw line, the Eagles were 6-for-9, the Cougars went 6-for-10.

Mustangs beaten by Sacred Heart, 51-47

Momentum gained at the end of the third quarter carried East Grand Forks Sacred Heart past visiting Red Lake County Central 51-47 Tuesday in boys high school basketball.

Red Lake County Central, trailing 12-10 through one quarter and down 26-19 at halftime, pulled even at 32-32 late in the third quarter. The Mustangs had the ball with a chance to take the lead, only to see a turnover fuel a 5-0 quarter-ending run by the Eagles for a lead that carried through the final eight minutes.

It was the turning point in the game, according to Red Lake County Central coach Randy Huie. "If we score and go up by two, the momentum was ours," he noted. "Instead, they got it."

All 47 Red Lake County Central points came from three players – Carl Dugstad with 24, Nick Brustad 13 and Ryan Paradis 10. Matt Marek had a 20-night game to lead the Eagles. It was a double-double night for Brustad, who pulled down 10 rebounds.

Huie was happy to see his team get through the first quarter without a major breakdown that has led to huge early-game deficits faced by the 2-12 Mustangs in most starts this year. "We played strong in the first quarter, which gave us a chance to win the game," he pointed out. "The kids played hard, hustling all over the court."

From the field, Red Lake County Central was 21-for-63 (33 percent), while Sacred Heart went 22-for-48 (46 percent). Free throws were few and far between, with the Mustangs going 1-for-3 and the Eagles turning in a 3-for-5 night at the line.

Sacred Heart finished with a 29-24 rebound edge, but the Eagles also had more turnovers, 18-10.

Six artists with disabilities receive VSA grants

Six Minnesota artists have been awarded $1,800 grants through the VSA Arts of Minnesota Artist Recognition program. The sixth annual competitive grant, fund by the Jerome Foundation of St. Paul, recognizes excellence by Minnesota artists with disabilities.

From a field of 44 applicants, the following artists were selected to receive the grants: Robert K. Anderson of Minneapolis, a writer of creative non-fiction; Ruth Waukazo of Nay-tah-waush, a visual artist who specializes in headwork and costumes; Theresa Wanta of St. Paul, a visual artist whose work includes still-life oil paintings; Kathryn Bakke of Richfield, pianist with a CD of Gershwin works; Serik Kulmeshkenov of Rochester, a visual artist whose work includes drawings and cartoons; and Gary Smolik of Eagan, a writer of essoys.

The grants were awarded following a jurying process conducted by seven individuals with extensive backgrounds in written, visual and performing arts. Members of the jury included: Jack Becker of FORECAST Public Works in St. Paul; Stephen Danko of the Jean Stephen Gallery in Minneapolis; Karen Helland of the Northfield Arts Guild; Bonnie Lauber-Westover, an artist and instructor from Brooklyn Park; Nicole Roberts, a Minneapolis writer; Rosy Simas, a St. Paul dancer/ choreographer; and John Townsend, a Minneapolis writer/performer/director.

VSA Arts of Minnesota is a non-profit organization working to make art forms accessible to people with all types of disabilities. It also offers grants for emerging artists and occasionally displays exhibits of work by artists with disabilities.

For more information about the organization's services and activities for individuals and organizations, call 1-800-801-3883, visit http://mn.vsarts.org, or e-mail jun.mn@vsarts.org.

The in's and out's of quilting session offered

What's better than snuggling under a warm quilt on a cold winter evening? Maybe knowing you made the quilt yourself. Quilts can express love and friendship, tell a story, or simply match the color of a room. For beginners, the idea of making a quilt can be overwhelming. For the experienced quilter, it is the challenge of combining colors, fabrics, and patterns into a pleasing design. Most important, it can be fun.

"The In's and Out's of Quilting" is the topic for February's Extension Home Study Group's lesson. Marshall County Program Coordinator, Linda Gomowicz, will be sharing information at the following sites:

• Thursday, January 31, beginning at 9:30 a.m. at the courthouse meeting room in Hallock.
• Friday, February 1, beginning at 10 a.m. at the courthouse meeting room in Thief River Falls.
• Friday, February 1, beginning at 1:30 p.m. at the Bremer Bank in Warren.
• Wednesday, February 6, beginning at 10 a.m. at the courthouse meeting room in Roseau
• Wednesday, February 6, beginning at 1:30 p.m. at First Lutheran Church in Baudette.

Topics to be covered include: basic tools needed for quilting, fabrics, battings, and quilting techniques. We will also cover proper display and storage of quilts, and touch on restoration of heirloom quilts. Participants may bring a favorite quilt, quilted item or quilting pattern along for a short 'show and tell' time. From the beginner to the experienced, there will be something for everyone."

There is no charge for this workshop, and it is open to the general public, as well as club sesson leaders. For further information or questions about the lesson in your area, contact your County Extension Office. In Pennington County, call Glenice Johnson at the Pennington County Extension office, 218-681-7030.

New small business development center opens in Bemidji

Minnesota Department of Trade and Economic Development (DTED) has announced the addition of a new regional Small Business Development Center (SBDC) to serve northwestern Minnesota. The new center, located at Bemidji State University, joins eight other regional centers that provide SBDC services throughout Minnesota.

Services will be offered through Bemidji State University's Center for Research and Innovation.

"We are very pleased to be a partner in the opening of the Bemidji Small Business Development Center," said DTED Commissioner Rebecca Yanisch. "To sustain Minnesota's economic health in the long run, we need to do all we can to support the locally grown, up-and-coming entrepreneurs with economic development and business experts, and current business information."

"Our newest center truly represents the ongoing collaborative relationships we have among our business partners and the local community," said Mary Kruger, state director, Minnesota Small Business Development Centers. "Bemidji State University had been a regional center until 1991. Colleen Falk and David Kingsbury of Bemidji State University; Leonard Sliwoski of Moorhead State University SBDC; and Kari Howe, DTED regional marketing representative were especially instrumental in re-establishing our Bemidji regional center," she said.

Other regional SBDC offices are located at Moorhead, Brainerd, Duluth, St. Cloud, Marshall, Mankato, Rochester and Minneapolis. DTED serves as the statewide administrative office for the Small Business Development program.

The Bemidji State University Small Business Development Center is open from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., Monday through Friday. For information, or to schedule an appointment, contact Colleen Falk, Bemidji State University, Center for Research and Innovation, 3801 Bemidji Avenue North, Bemidji, MN 56601; phone 218-755-4900, or e-mail cfalk@bemidjistute.edu.

TRF man dies in residential fire

Fire claims one

Donations being collected for TRF family

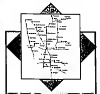
by David Hill
Editor

Law enforcement officials identified the man who died in a residential fire in Thief River Falls Tuesday as 72-year-old Theodore Louis Henry, Sr.

The Pennington County Law Enforcement Center received a report of a man trapped in a residence on fire at 105 East Fifth Street, Thief River Falls, at 11:46 a.m. Thief River Falls Police and Fire Department officials, Pennington County Sheriff's Department deputies, Minnesota State Patrol, and Great Plains EMS all responded to the 9-1-1 call. When officials arrived, however, the southeast corner of the house was on fire and the house filled with smoke.

Theodore Louis Henry, Sr., was taken from the residence, but officials said he had died during the fire. Officials also say, David Louis Henry, 18, Thief River Falls, was injured in the fire. Law enforcement officials said he suffered first- and second-degree burns. He was taken to Northwest Medical Center by private vehicle.

Officials are saying a grease fire in the kitchen caused the fire.



Donations of clothing, personal care items and cash are being accepted for the family. The Henry family lost all of their personal possessions as a result of the fire.

Items in need include: mens pants sizes 44 waist by 32, XXXL size shirts, size 13 shoes; women's pants size 9, large shirts, and size six and one-half shoes; boys pants size 32 by 34 and 32 by 32, XL shirts, and shoes size 11 to 13; and

Lake dispute goes to mediation

Detroit Lakes - The Long Lake saga involving the city of Detroit Lakes and two neighboring townships will head into a state-guided mediation process that will be overseen by a third-party facilitator.

Most of the proposed annexation area – more than 600 acres that includes the Detroit Lakes Airport – is in Detroit Township, and the southernmost sliver of the contested area, about 29 acres, is in Lakeview Township. The city has been unable to reach orderly annexation agreements with the townships. Detroit Lakes Tribune

Days of noon whistle may end

Warren - The sounding of the siren that, for many years, has marked the hours for dinner, supper and kids getting off the streets, may soon come to an end in Warren.

At a recent Warren City Council meeting, buildings and grounds committee members reported that emergency management specialists strongly advise against using the same sirens that warn of approaching dangers to also mark the hours of the day.

For years, the siren has sounded at noon, 6 p.m. and 10 p.m., although operation of the siren has been erratic in recent years. Warren Sheaf

Mahnomen motel destroyed by fire

Mahnomen - An early evening fire January 24 destroyed the main building of the 17-unit Travelers Motel on Highway 200 in Mahnomen.

While no one was injured, the blaze claimed one of the manager's two cats. In battling the fire, the Mahnomen Fire Department was aided by fire departments from Waubun, Twin Valley and Winger. The Mahnomen Pioneer

NORTHWEST AIRLINES

Airlines submit proposals to serve TRF Airport

■ Northwest and Great Lakes Aviation have submitted proposals to serve TRF airport

by David Hill
Editor

Northwest Airlines and Great Lakes Aviation have submitted proposals to provide air service to Thief River Falls.

Don Stewart, community development director for Thief River Falls, announced this week that they were pleasantly surprised by communication from the United States Department of Transportation indicating that two air carriers had submitted proposals to provide air service to Thief River Falls.

Earlier in January, United States Department of Transportation issued a hold order on plans by Northwest/Mesaba to discontinue air service to Thief River Falls. The hold order was issued because Thief River Falls is in the Essential Air Service (EAS) Program. As an EAS, Thief River Falls can receive federal subsidies, which it hasn't received. It is also an EAS city because it isn't within a certain distance of a Small Hub Airport (Sioux Falls, S.D.).

The Department of Transportation then ordered an RFP or Request for Proposals from potential air service carriers.

Stewart said last week the Department of Transportation reported receiving two proposals from Northwest Airlines. The first proposal was for two round-trip flights. The second proposal, which Stewart said was very encouraging, was a proposal for three round-trip flights.

Thief River Falls officials have been trying to encourage Northwest to add a third round-trip flight to accommodate business travelers ever since the third round-trip flight was discontinued about two years ago.

Stewart said Northwest has indicated that it would prefer to provide three round-trip flights. Northwest is proposing to provide the round-trip flights with the same 30 to 34 passenger Saab aircraft that been transporting Thief River Falls passengers. Stewart said Northwest is proposing to provide this service with a subsidy based on their best estimate on how many people will be served and its anticipated losses for the period of the contract, which is two years. He said under the EAS program requirements, Northwest would

Land acquisition for crosswind runway proceeds

■ Conditional approval given to proceed with acquisition of land

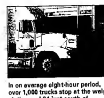
by David Hill
Editor

Tuesday, Thief River Falls city council accepted the preliminary report on the crosswind runway project at the Thief River Falls Airport, and gave its conditional approval to begin the acquisition of land for the expansion project.

"If" remains a major consideration for the city council — if the city isn't suddenly strapped for cash because of [illegible]; if the federal government agrees to a 90/10 cost split; if land acquisition proceeds as expected; if costs don't spiral out of control; and, if the council approves plans to proceed with the construction of the crosswind runway.

If these conditions are met and construction proceeds, the crosswind runway could be completed some time in 2003.

Tuesday night, the council learned that the entire cost of the project could exceed $4.4 million.



According to Roger DeLap, city administrator, the city's share of the project cost was not included in the 2002 budget. He said they could obligate future tax levies, but Mayor Mark Borsheim said it could come from future general fund dollars, as well.

Glen Kajewski asked the engineers whether they sensed if the FAA was agreeable to a 90/10 split.

The engineers said they didn't think that there would be any problem receiving a 90/10 split as long as the council agreed to the full project, and did not back out. In other instances, it's possible that the state could step in with a 60/40 cost split share.

Representatives of Freeberg and Grand, project engineers, walked the council through the project — land acquisition, grading, drainage, paving, fencing, electrical improvements, and improvements

In an average eight-hour period, over 1,000 trucks stop at the weigh station on I-94 just south of Moorhead. This is just a small example of the number of commercial vehicles on area roads.

Education as a solution

Officials hope high cost of fines will encourage truckers to take advantage of offer

Duane Amundson is one of three commercial vehicle safety education officers in the state. He will be providing free safety education courses in the northern part of Minnesota to commercial truck drivers.

MN State Patrol offers free commercial vehicle safety education program

■ Overweight vehicles can damage highways by creating potholes, cracks, and eroding asphalt. Minnesota weight limits include 20,000 pounds for single-axle vehicles, 34,000 pounds for tandem-axle vehicles, and gross vehicle weight of no more than 80,000 pounds.

A pilot program designed to help educate commercial vehicle operators of changes in regulations one year ago, is making its way to the mainstream.

Three factors played an important role in the decision to implement an educational program: efforts to enforce federal truck laws, homeland security concerns, and high fines.

The state has intensified its efforts to enforce federal truck laws in the interest of safety. Add concerns about homeland security to the mix and truckers may begin to feel the pinch.

Lt. Marvin Field said they asked themselves whether steep fines are the best way to educate commercial vehicle operators.

Duane Amundson, one of three commercial vehicle safety education officers in the state, pointed out that fines can range from $95 to over $700. "That's a pretty high tuition," said Amundson.

Additionally, Amundson noted that statistically, the smaller firms and independents are more likely to get a violation. He quickly added that's not because most of the truckers [illegible], but because they aren't aware of all the regulations.

The educational sessions being offered by the safety education officers are free, and they are being taught by people with experience in the industry and knowledge of regulations.

Before becoming a safety education officer, [illegible] a mechanic for 20 years and drove a truck, so he knows what truckers go through.

Mary Hutchinson of Hutchinson Transfer in Thief River Falls agrees with the assessment that it's more difficult for small operations to keep up with the changes. "How can they read while they're driving," he quipped.

SOUPÇON

Sherry LaCoursiere
email: lacoursi@spacestar.net

We have one more special fondue recipe and then it's time for something just right for the cold weather: a few more soup recipes. By the way, I tried the beer bread recipe last week and it was great. Very nice texture and soft inside.

Here's one more fondue recipe. This is from Judy Whaley, who says this is the "best one ever." It also sounds like one of the easy ones that you can make often:

FONDUE

1/2 cup milk
1/4 cup white wine (dry is best, but any will do)
1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1/4 teaspoon dry mustard
1 cup mayonnaise
2 cups shredded Cheddar cheese

Mix together and heat until blended and melted. Serve from chafing dish with French bread cubes.

I think I've given you this one before, but we need those veggie vitamins now in the end of winter and this will give you those:

BEST BROCCOLI SOUP

2 cups water
4 cup chopped fresh broccoli (about 1 1/2 pounds)
1 cup chopped celery
1 cup chopped carrots
1/2 cup chopped onion
6 tablespoons butter
6 tablespoons flour
3 cups chicken broth
2 cups milk
1 tablespoon fresh minced parsley
1 teaspoon onion salt
1/2 teaspoon garlic powder
1/2 teaspoon salt

Remember not to throw away the broccoli stems. Peel off the tough outside and chop them to go along with the flowerets.

In large soup kettle, bring water to a boil. Add broccoli, celery and carrots and boil 2-3 minutes. Drain and set aside.

In same kettle, sauté onion in butter until tender. Stir in flour to form a smooth paste. Gradually add broth and milk, stirring constantly. Bring to a boil and boil and stir for 1 minute.

Add vegetables and remaining ingredients. Reduce heat, cover and simmer 30-40 minutes or until vegetables are tender. Recipe makes 2 quarts, serves 8.

For those of you who want to try something different, here it is - wonderful with a fresh loaf of bread and a glass of wine:

GARLIC SOUP

40 cloves of garlic, stemmed and thinly sliced
4 cups sliced onions
2 cups sliced green peppers
3 tablespoons olive oil
6 cups peeled, seeded, sliced ripe tomatoes
4 cups beef broth
2 cups beef bouillon (cubes or granules)
1/2 teaspoon sweet basil
1/2 teaspoon oregano
6-8 slices crustless dark bread, cubed
3 cups small pasta, cooked (bow ties, small shells, alphabets, etc.)
Fresh ground pepper to taste
Grated Parmesan cheese

Mix onions, garlic, tomatoes, peppers and spices in a large saucepan. Heat to boiling, reduce heat and cover tightly. Simmer 30 minutes.

Add broth and bouillon and heat just to boiling. Add bread cubes to thicken soup to desired consistency. Just before serving, add 1/3 to 1/2 cup cooked pasta to each serving. Serves 8. Freezes well.

(Per serving: 298 calories, 20 mg chol, 2891 mg sodium, 44 g carb including 0 sugars, 11 g protein.)

Here's another one that is filled with good things for you, and very elegant:

CREAMY CARROT SOUP

1 pound carrots, coarsely chopped
1 medium onion, coarsely chopped
1 medium potato, diced
3 cups water
1/2 teaspoon ground ginger (or 1 tablespoon ginger root)
Salt to taste
Pepper to taste
1 cup skim or soy milk

Garnish with fresh parsley, chopped walnuts or grated cooked beets

Simmer vegetables in water in covered pot until almost cooked. Add ginger.

Put soup in blender or food processor and blend smooth. Pour into cooking pot and add milk. Reheat but do not boil. Garnish with one of the above.

Serve with crusty bread and sharp cheddar cheese with or without your favorite fruit chutney or cold marinated tofu. Recipe serves 4.

(Per serving: 150 calories, 173 mg sodium, 1 mg chol with 2 g dietary fiber and 0 g sugars, 31 g carb, 5 g protein.)

How about something that is quick and easy:

TORTELLINI AND BEAN SOUP

3 1/2 cups water
2 vegetarian vegetable bouillon cubes (or beef or chicken)
1 (14.5 ounce) can diced tomatoes with basil, garlic and oregano, undrained
1 cup frozen cut leaf spinach
1 (15.5 ounce) can kidney beans, drained
1 (9 ounce) package refrigerated cheese-filled tortellini

In large saucepan, combine water, bouillon and tomatoes. Bring to a boil over medium high heat.

Add spinach, beans and tortellini. Return to a boil. Reduce heat and boil gently 5 minutes or until tortellini is tender and soup is heated through, stirring occasionally. Recipe serves 4.

(Each 1 3/4 cup serving has 5 g fat, 35 mg chol, 1170 mg sodium, 53 g carb with 7 g dietary fiber and 5 g sugars, 13 g protein.)

One more hearty soup - this one is served over toasted slices of Italian bread:

RIBOLLITA

3 tablespoons olive oil
1 medium onion, chopped
2 garlic cloves, minced
3 cups chopped red cabbage
3 cups chopped Swiss chard or spinach
3 small carrots, thinly sliced (1 1/2 cups)
2 medium russet potatoes, peeled and cut into 1/2 inch cubes (2 cups)
1 (28 ounce) can crushed tomatoes, undrained
1 (15.5 ounce) can cannelli beans, drained and rinsed
5 cups water
2 teaspoons salt
3/4 teaspoon crushed dried rosemary
1/4 teaspoon pepper
8 (3/4 inch thick) slices firm Italian bread

Heat 1 tablespoon of the oil in large saucepan over medium high heat until hot. Add onion and garlic and cook and stir 2-3 minutes until onion is tender.

Add all remaining ingredients except bread and remaining 2 tablespoons olive oil. Bring to a boil, reduce heat and cover and simmer 25-30 minutes or until vegetables are tender, stirring occasionally.

Meanwhile, place slices of bread on ungreased cookie sheet. Broil 3-4 inches from heat for 1-2 minutes or until golden, turning once.

To serve, place 1 toasted bread slice in each individual soup bowl. Ladle hot soup over bread and drizzle with some of remaining olive oil.

Recipe makes 8 1 1/2 cup servings. Each has 7 g fat, 0 mg chol, 960 mg sodium, 41 g carb including 7 g fiber and 8 g sugars, 8 g protein.)

EDITORIAL OPINIONS

Dave Hill, Editor

Editorial opinion published under this heading is intended to stimulate thinking and discussion among our readers. Unless specified otherwise, the editorials are written by Editor Dave Hill and do not represent opinion of other staff members. Getting an overall perspective

Sometimes it's helpful to step back and take a look at the "big" picture.

Thursday, Wells Fargo brought Dr. Michael Swanson to the Seven Clans Casino, Hotel and Water Park near Thief River Falls to address a group of producers, consumers and investors on global agriculture. Dr. Swanson is an expert who provides data to the "heavy hitters" who invest billions. At the conclusion of his presentation, Swanson said the two most important things participants could take away from the presentation is that China is a threat as well as an opportunity; and, we cannot fix one side of the supply chain without fixing the other side.

That evening, Congressman Collin Peterson appeared on KVLY Channel 11 and provided viewers with some hope that a Farm Bill might soon be approved. (As with all bills, we can expect that compromises were made to get approval.)

When Bush was running for the Presidency, Peterson characterized him as a regular-kind-of-guy who could fit in with residents of the Valley. As a rural Texan, he might be the kind of guy born with the common sense typical of rural residents. To the disappointment of Peterson, Bush was in no hurry to pass a Farm Bill. Peterson explained that President Bush turned out to be a "Free Trader," who as we all know is a person who supports free trade, which does not exactly work for farmers.

Two separate stories falling on the same day that should tell us that sometimes it's a good idea to step back and take a look at the "big" picture. It's not exactly rosy, is it? But then again, there are threats, and then there are opportunities.

President taps into nation's resolve

There's work to be done. The President's State of the Nation speech Tuesday night was on target with the public.

"Our nation is at war, our economy is in recession, and the civilized world faces unprecedented dangers. Yet, the state of our union has never been stronger." The statement was at the heart of the State of the Nation address delivered by President Bush Tuesday night.

However, in a candor rarely shared with the public by a President of the United States, his speech was far from reassuring. War continues. He issued strong warnings against North Korea, Iran and Iraq. He detailed plans, which were discovered in Afganistan, that identify terrorist targets in the United States. He told us that the war is costing us $30 million a day.

These words are hardly reassuring or the typical boiler-plate list of proposed policies. Yet, they were well accepted.

As a rallying cry, his speech was a great success. Although there will be differences of opinion, even Democrats seemed to fall in line.

Perhaps it was such a success because it pinpointed the nation's resolve. There's plenty of support, and I suspect, an even greater willingness for sacrifice.

Yes, Mr. President, the state of the nation is great.

Sen. Stumpf: Good news about our region's essential commercial air service

There's been plenty of bad news over the airwaves in recent months, from concerns about the recession and the state's budget deficit to international turmoil that has many of us dreading what will be seen next on the nightly news.

With the 2002 Legislative Session just kicking off in St. Paul and many tough decisions coming relating to our state's future, I'd like to begin the session with a note of good news. In recent days, it's been announced that commercial air service will continue in Thief River Falls, giving people and businesses in our region a vital transportation link.

In early January, thanks in part to some hard work by our U.S. Congressman, Collin Peterson, the Department of Transportation ruled that Mesaba Aviation is required to continue providing two daily round-trip flights between Thief River Falls and the Minneapolis/St. Paul International Airport.

In the wake of September 11, and the crisis faced in the airline industry since then, Mesaba had announced plans to discontinue air service to our region on January 1. Along with providing safe and affordable transportation for families and businesses, I stand with Congressman Peterson in a firm belief that it is the responsibility of the airline industry to provide vital transportation links to the people of our region and other rural areas throughout the nation. To simply cut air services and leave countless residents of northwestern Minnesota without air service would be wrong.

The Department of Transportation's ruling came due to a Federal Aviation Administration initiative known as the Essential Air Service Program, which was put in place when the airlines were deregulated in 1978. Under the federal law, the Department of Transportation ensures that air service is maintained at all airports that received commercial air service prior to deregulation.

With budgets being tightened in St. Paul and in Washington, funding to administer the Essential Air Service Program has been threatened in recent years. I am proud to have supported Congressman Peterson in his efforts to maintain the viability of the program. Those efforts were instrumental in making sure that flights to and from the Thief River Falls airport remain a transportation option for the people and businesses in our part of the state.

The session that began on Tuesday will involve many such efforts and many tough decisions as the state deals with the looming budget crisis. As always, I appreciate the input I receive from constituents who take the time to call, write or e-mail my office. If there are questions or comments related to the business of state government, please don't hesitate to contact me.

MREA calls on legislature to find better budget solution

The Minnesota Rural Education Association is calling on the House and Senate to find better budget balancing solutions than those proposed by the Governor in his "Big Fix."

"Last year's tax reform forces the state to guarantee students everywhere stable, long-term, and fair funding," Vernae Hasbargen, Executive Director, told legislators today, "The Governor's Big Fix fails to do all three."

The Governor fails to provide stable revenue for education and erase the permanent $1 billion deficit caused by taking K-12 off the property tax last year. Therefore MREA is calling for a return to a statewide property tax rather than local excess levies to fill the gap.

Further, MREA wants fairness in any K-12 cuts. The Governor's $58 per pupil funding cap hits rural students the hardest and undoes a major part of last year's tax reform which the Governor promised not to touch.

In last year's tax reform, the state promised to take over $415 of excess levy along with the basic education cost. The two takeovers sent 67 percent of the aid to metro and 33 percent to rural Minnesota. Although all districts were treated the same, some received property tax relief for their taxpayers and others state aid for their schools.

The Governor now caps the state aid for schools at $58 instead of the $415 promised and does not cut tax relief. The move is absolutely devastating to some districts because it forces them to wait years for the state aid promised this year. Rural students must not be asked to pay the price for Minnesota's property tax buy-down, Hasbargen said.

MREA also believes the Governor is shortsighted when he cuts special education by taking money out of next year's base funding. The Governor wants the federal government to pay 40 percent of the cost but cuts state funding, which takes the money from other students instead, Hasbargen told legislators.

She also urged the legislature not to accept the Governor's recommendation to fund ECFE/Community Ed with local property taxes. "The Governor wants Minnesota to be competitive, but cuts state funding which gives our future workforce of disadvantaged and immigrant children throughout the state a head start," she added.

The MREA does not support the Governor's sales tax on schools which would cut $50 from student funding because it fails to meet the Governor's self-imposed rule of not cutting the formula, being honest with the public, and using no gimmicks to balance the books.

The MREA is a coalition of 150 school districts advocating for rural students. For more information call Vernae Hasbargen at 320-766-4211.

Newfolden man taken into custody after domestic

Hibbert gets Silver at Winter X Games

Submitted by Derle Gunshur
ESPN

Blair Morgan successfully defended his gold medal, coming from behind to defeat silver medalist Tucker Hibbert in a close race at the ESPN Winter X Games VI. Hibbert, of Goodridge, was the only American rider to place in the top three this year, but he is no stranger to the medalists' podium. The SnoCross event will be featured on ABC during Wide World of Sports broadcast of the Winter X Games VI airing Sunday, Feb. 3, at 1 p.m. ET.

Hibbert won the gold medal in the Winter X SnoCross in 2000, then placed a disappointing tenth in last year's event. He found it difficult to ride the course this year, as snow showered down on the competitors all day in Aspen. "It was a rough course with bad vision, which made it harder to see the lines," Hibbert said. Hibbert started the final in last place but charged to the front for a second-place finish. He is only the second rider in Winter X Games Snowmobiling history to have two medals.

Additional coverage of the SnoCross event will be aired on ESPN and ESPN 2 Saturday, Feb. 2, at 5 p.m. and 10 p.m. ET respectively. ESPN, ESPN2 and ABC Sports will combine to televise 15 original hours from Winter X Games VI, held at the new venue of Aspen, Colo. The signature winter action sports competition, will premiere on ESPN, Friday, Feb. 1, from 3-5 p.m. ET and continue with at least one show per day through Tuesday, Feb. 5. ESPN's Selema Masekela will host coverage.

Polk County Triad hosts Taste of Italy

Polk County Triad will host its first Taste of Italy Dinner and Baked Goods Silent Auction this evening (Saturday, February 2) from 5 to 7 p.m. at the Crookston American Legion.

Matching funds will be provided by Aid Association for Lutherans Branch 6722 and West Polk County Lutheran Brotherhood Branch 8679.

Polk County Triad is a partnership between the Polk County Sheriff's Department, Crookston Police Department, Retired and Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) and AARP. Its purpose is to address crime and safety issues that affect older persons and enhance delivery of law enforcement services to them.

Zach Anderson of Thief River Falls picked up Dane Sorum of Warren-Alvarado-Oslo in a 130-pound match during a high school wrestling quadrangular hosted by the Prowlers Tuesday. Anderson won 10-4 and the Prowlers beat the Ponies 51-21.

Prowlers are 2-1 in quadrangular meet

■ Crookston rally beats TRF wrestlers

Thief River Falls wins over Warren-Alvarado-Oslo and Red Lake County Central were tempered by a loss at the hands of Crookston Tuesday in the Northwest Quad high school wrestling meet hosted by the Prowlers.

A 51-21 Thief River Falls win over the Ponies in Round I of the round-robin dual format was followed by a 39-31 Round II loss to the Pirates. The Prowlers finished the night with a 42-30 victory over Red Lake County Central.

All six matches opened with 160-pound wrestlers, followed by 171, 189 and heavyweight before returning to the lighter weights who make up the traditional top of the line-up.

Thief River Falls trailed Warren-Alvarado-Oslo 18-12 before winning seven of the final eight matches. The Prowlers caught the Ponies at 18-18 on a pin by Daniel LeDuc at 112, and went ahead for good on forfeit points at 119. Chad Olson (heavyweight), Beau Abrahamson (125) and Jeremy Anderson (135) joined LeDuc as winners by pins. Zach Anderson (130) won by decision.

It was another come-from-behind effort for the win in Thief River Falls' Round II contest, but this time the late rally came from Crookston. Down 31-24, the Pirates ended the match with three straight wins – an overtime decision for Isaac Perala at 140, then second period pins by Mark Proulx and Joey Perreault at 145 and 152, respectively.

It was a see-saw match that found the Prowlers overcoming a 24-3 deficit to take the lead with four straight wins, only to have the Pirates supply the knock-out punch at the end.

Jon Swanson opened the match with a win at 160. The Prowlers recorded four consecutive pins by LeDuc (112), Chris Bergeron (119), Abrahamson (125) and Zach Anderson (130) to go along with a major decision by Jeremy Anderson at 135.

A match-opening pin by Swanson gave the Prowlers an early edge over Red Lake County Central in Round III, but it was 24-6 before Thief River Falls stepped back into the winner's circle. Trailing 30-12, the Prowlers finished with six straight wins, including a pair of forfeits.

LeDuc, Abrahamson, and Ben Poissant joined Swanson with wins by pins against the Mustangs. Zach Anderson and Ryan Broggeman won decisions.

Results put the Prowlers' dual meet record at 13-5 for the year.

Early lead stands up for Nordics in win vs. Wildcats

Marshall County Central fashioned an early 12-2 lead into a 59-51 boys high school basketball win over Tri-County Monday at Karlstad.

The Nordics had a 19-8 first quarter lead and a 33-22 halftime advantage. The Wildcats pulled within 42-40 at the end of the third quarter and had a brief one-point edge midway through the final period.

Marshall County Central won it thanks in part to 4-for-4 free throw shooting down the stretch by Tad Davidson.

"It was a good game," reported Marshall County Central coach Ron Ueland. "We played an excellent first half, although we missed a few shots that could have given us a bigger lead."

It was the third win over the Wildcats for the 16-1 Nordics this winter. They won an 83-65 shootout Dec. 21, then came right back with a 45-44 in the finals of the Thief River Falls Russ Smith Northwest Holiday Classic.

"They have an quality team," noted Ueland. "To beat them three times is a real accomplishment."

Andy Larson scored 21 points to lead the Nordics, who were 22-for-61 from the field (36 percent). Zach Green netted 15 points to lead the Wildcats, who went 19-for-52 from the floor (37 percent). The Nordics won the rebound battle 30-25.

Crookston beats TRF in boys high school hockey...

Pirates win in overtime, 3-2

Crookston dodged a bullet, then came out a 3-2 overtime winner Tuesday in a Section 8A boys high school hockey game against Thief River Falls at the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center.

Kit Gilbert got the game-winner 3:04 into the eight-minute sudden-death extra session by slamming home a centering pass that he corralled between the face-off circles on either side of Thief River Falls goalie Ben Worker.

His goal came moments after a Thief River Falls flurry around Crookston goalie Nick Noah that included a combination of saves and just plain luck – like a miss on a wide open net 55 seconds into overtime.

"We certainly had plenty of chances to win," said Thief River Falls coach Scott Bergland. "We had five chances on one shift in overtime and missed. Nine times out of ten in a case like that, the other team will turn right around and score. And that's what happened."

The loss dropped the Prowlers to 12-8, but Bergland found little to fault in the Prowlers' performance. "It might have been the best game we've played all year," he said. "It was a good high school hockey game. Give credit to Noah. He made six-seven great saves to keep them in the game."

Thief River Falls scored in the first minute of play when Dane Kjono snapped a hard shot off the right wing over Noah's shoulder at the 57-second mark.

The 1-0 score stood until the five-minute mark of the third period when Crookston's Jake Abrams blasted a shot as he crossed the blue line that stayed on the ice and skipped under Worker.

Thief River Falls regained a 2-1 lead at 12:44 on a goal by Aaron Bendickson. The puck was centered from behind the net and onto the stick of the sophomore, who tucked in a point-blank backhand.

But it was a short-lived celebration. The Pirates scored a quick 24 seconds later when Jeremy Yeager drilled slap shot while on the move at the top of the slot past Worker for another tie.

The Pirates last two earlier decisions against their long-time rivals, including a 7-2 decision when they ran into each other during a holiday tournament in Grand Forks, N.D., and a 4-2 rematch on Jan. 10. The outcome reinforced the feeling that a Section 8A tournament field headed by teams like Warroad, East Grand Forks, Thief River Falls, Lake of the Woods, Crookston, and Detroit Lakes will be a wide-open affair during its Feb. 21, 22, 23, 25, and 28 run in Thief River Falls.

Scoring

First period - TRF, Dane Kjono (William Fomey), :57.

Second period - no scoring

Third period - Crookston, Jake Abrams (un.), 5:00. TRF, Aaron Bendickson (Jeff Schneider-Robby Anderson), 12:44. Crookston, Jeremy Yeager (Matt Hann-Scott Strom), 12:52.

Overtime - Crookston, Kit Gilbert (Ross Oliver-Adam Olmstead), 3:04

Goalie saves - TRF, Ben Worker 6-7-8-0–24. Crookston, Nick Noah 9-6-9-1-24

Jeff Schneider of the Prowlers had control of the puck as Colin Reynolds of the Pirates looked on during the Thief River Falls vs. Crookston boys high school hockey game played Tuesday at the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center. The Pirates won 3-2 in overtime.

Fosston adds TRF to win streak

Fosston out-scored Thief River Falls 46-21 in the second half Tuesday en route to a 68-49 girls high school basketball win over the visiting Prowlers.

The unbeaten Greyhounds trailed 15-11 at the end of the first quarter and faced a 28-22 halftime deficit, but carried a 49-35 lead into the final eight minutes.

"Another case of a third quarter letdown," explained Thief River Falls coach Jeff Loe. "We have to learn how to play more composed when we get ahead of a good team."

Fouls played a major role in Fosston's second half success. After shooting just four first half free throws, the Greyhounds went to the line 26 times in the second half, including a 12-for-15 third quarter.

"We missed some easy shots in the first half and early in the third quarter," noted Loe. "We couldn't get a break from the officials or the rims in the third quarter."

Four Fosston scorers hit double figures as Shelly Francis netted 18 points, Kelly Roysland 17, Casey Francis 13, and Kayla Bagaason 11. Chelsea Haviland and Shara Guidry led the Thief River Falls offense with 12 points each.

Fosston, having broken Rochester Lourdes' record of 56 straight girls basketball wins set from 1989-91, is now just shy of the overall state record of 69 consecutive wins by the Edina boys from 1965-68. The Greyhounds were 22-for-58 from the field (38 percent) and 21-for-30 at the free throw line.

Thief River Falls struggled with a 29 percent 19-for-65 shooting night. The Prowlers were 8-for-14 at the line. They were out-rebounded 42-39 while falling to 12-9 for the year.

Scoring

	1	2	3	4	T

Northland men start stretch run

A Minnesota Community College Conference state tournament berth remained the objective as Northland began its second trip through the 2001-02 Northern Division men's basketball schedule.

The Pioneers took a 3-4 MCCC record and 11-6 overall mark into a scheduled Friday trip to Rainy River. They are in Hibbing today (Saturday).

That will leave five games on the regular season schedule for the Pioneers, who will host Vermilion and Mesabi Range in a Friday/Saturday, Feb. 8/9 weekend set; visit Central Lakes Wednesday, Feb. 13; then finish with home games Monday, Feb. 18, vs. Fergus Falls; and Friday, Feb. 22, against Itasca.

Top four Northern Division regular season finishers earn state tournament spots.

Northland finished the first half of its home-and-home match-ups with division rivals Monday in a 78-71 loss at Fergus Falls.

The Spartans grabbed an early 17-4 lead and held off a late-game comeback to beat the Pioneers.

"They beat us at the start, then we out-scored them the rest of the way," pointed out Northland coach Rick Nikunen.

The Pioneers chopped the difference to a single point with 2 1/2 minutes remaining, only to watch Justin Retzlaff turn a Northland defensive mistake into a back-breaking 3-pointer.

"We played hard, but that shot really hurt," said Nikunen. "Fergus Falls is such a tough place to play. It's a great atmosphere, but it's tough on the freshmen. It took them six-seven minutes to adjust."

A Fergus Falls edge at the free throw line played a part in the outcome, with the Spartans hitting 14 of 18 foul shots while the Pioneers went 8-for-9.

Scoring

	1	2	T
Northland	31	38	71
Fergus Falls	45	33	78

TRF girls beat pair of Section 3A foes

Freshman goalie Trudy Erickson gave up just one goal in two games as the Thief River Falls girls climbed to .500 with Section 3A high school hockey wins over Roseau and International Falls.

Erickson and the Prowlers shut out the Rams 3-0 in a Thursday (Jan. 24) match-up at the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center, then notched a 4-1 Tuesday road victory over the Broncos that pushed the Thief River Falls record to 11-11 heading into a Thursday regular season finale at Detroit Lakes.

Kara Larson, Steph Hoard and Jamie Dahlen were the goal scorers against Roseau. It was a 1-0 game until Hoard and Dahlen put the puck in the net 59 seconds apart late in the third period.

Erickson finished with a 22-save shutout.

"We had to work pretty hard for that one," acknowledged Thief River Falls coach Tim Magnusson, whose team beat Roseau 8-0 earlier this winter. "They (Rams) played really well defensively. They've improved a lot."

The Prowlers gave up a goal just 30 seconds into the game at International Falls, but shut down the Broncos the rest of the way.

Goals by Kelly Bendickson, Hoard and Michelle Johnson gave the Prowlers a 3-1 lead by the end of the first period. Hoard tacked on a second period goal to complete the scoring.

Erickson stopped 17 shots.

"After they scored, we pretty much controlled the game," pointed out Magnusson.

NCTC women post win at Fergus Falls

Northland picked up a rare win on Fergus Falls turf Monday when the Pioneers beat the Spartans 78-49 in Minnesota Community College Conference women's basketball.

Misten Hoie scored 17 points, Nicole Wiseth had 12 and Kylie Rogalla 11 in the Northern Division win. Naomi Moerke netted a game-high 25 points for the Spartans, but she was their only double figure scorer.

Northland led 35-23 at halftime. The Pioneers shot 49 percent from the field (29/59) and went 11-for-20 at the free throw line while winning the rebound battle 45-42. Fergus Falls struggled through a 26 percent shooting night (16/62) while making 13 of 24 free throw attempts.

The Spartans topped the turnover charts 27-21.

It was the final game in the Pioneers' first swing through the Northern Division schedule that features home-and-home match-ups for all eight teams. Northland took a 6-1 MCCC record and 15-1 overall mark to Rainy River Friday to begin the second half of the Northern Division schedule. The lone loss for the Pioneers, who are in Hibbing today (Saturday) came at the hands of the Voyageurs, 55-46 two weeks ago.

Sophomore forward Megan Gunderson had her first career double-double for the winners with 13 points and 12 rebounds. Michelle Halvorson had a 25-point, 9-assist game, while Kelsey Lambert scored 16 points and AnnaMarie Fore netted 12.

With Halvorson (10) and Fore (8) combining for 18 points, the Mustangs had a 27-9 lead at the end of the first quarter. It was 38-21 at halftime and 55-37 through three quarters.

Red Lake County Central was 30-for-73 from the field (41 percent) and 9-for-16 at the free throw line. The Bears finished with a 27-26 rebound edge, but they also had more turnovers, 28-12.

"Our press got to them right away," pointed out Red Lake County Central coach Rick Koivisto. "It got a little sloppy after we built a lead."

Defense carries G-G past Kittson Central in boys game, 43-39

It was a tough night for the offense, so Grygla-Gatzke relied on its defense Tuesday to produce a 43-39 boys high school basketball win over visiting Kittson Central.

The Eagles had quarter leads of 8-8, 23-19 and 33-29.

"It wasn't pretty," admitted Grygla-Gatzke coach Vern Johnson. "We really weren't in sync. I thought they (Wolfpack) played pretty good defense, and I thought we played fairly well on defense, too."

Grygla-Gatzke shot 45 percent from the field (20/44); Kittson Central shot 46 percent (16/35). The Eagles had just a 3-for-8 night at the free throw line, including a 2-for-6 fourth quarter that gave the Wolfpack a chance to eat into a seven-point lead down the stretch. Kittson Central was 3-for-5 at the line.

The Eagles are 13-3.

B/G-MR boys notch 59-48 win over KCN

Jake Peterson and Cody Severts scored 12 points apiece, while Tim Dion had an 11-point, 10-rebound double-double to lead Badger/Greenbush-Middle River to a 59-48 boys high school basketball win over Kittson County North Tuesday at Lancaster.

It was just the fourth win in 19 starts for the Gators, who led at the quarter stops 13-9, 33-15 and 44-25.

Seth Whitlock of Kittson County North led all scorers with 18 points, but 10 of those came in the final quarter when the outcome was all but decided. Kelvin Johnson netted 14.

"We played a good, solid ball game all the way through," reported Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Eldon Sparby. "Our pressure defense kept Whitlock and Johnson out of the scoring area. They had to come out to break the press, and they never really got into a scoring rhythm."

Both sides shot well, although the number of attempts was limited on both sides. The Gators were 19-for-38 (50 percent), the Cougars went 16-for-28 (57 percent).

Badger/Greenbush cashed in on 17 of 23 free throw attempts. Kittson County North went 12-for-25 at the line. The Gators finished with a 30-22 rebound advantage. The Cougars topped the turnover charts 24-18.

Huskies beat Eagles

Casey Jones continued to put up impressive numbers, but the 6-9 Goodridge center had a strong supporting cast Tuesday as the Huskies beat host East Grand Forks Sacred Heart 65-40.

Jones added another double-double to his list of accomplishments with 23 points and 11 rebounds. Cole Halvorson joined him in double figures with 17 points, while Joe Rubischko (9) and Andy Rindahl (7) chipped in 16.

Goodridge led 14-11 at the end of the first quarter and had a 28-20 halftime lead before opening up a 47-27 third quarter spread.

"We came out and hit some shots in the third quarter," pointed out Goodridge coach Eric Mickelson.

With the Eagles collapsing their defense on Jones, Halvorson came through from the outside. The 5-9 junior, who has stepped into the Huskies' injury-plagued starting line-up, was 2-for-3 from 3-point range and scored 11 first half points.

"We've been waiting for somebody to start doing that – hitting those outside shots," said Mickelson, who was also impressed with the play off the bench by Rindahl, a 6-5 junior.

Goodridge shot 46 percent from the field (26/57) and went 11-for-15 at the free throw line. Sacred Heart shot just 29 percent from the floor (14/49) and had a 10-for-15 free throw night. The 9-5 Huskies out-rebounded the Eagles 31-18. They also had more turnovers, 15-11.

RLF sweeps games against RLCC boys

Red Lake Falls beat rival Red Lake County Central for the third time this winter, 56-37 Tuesday in boys high school basketball on the Eagles' floor.

Matt Largis had a 24-point, 10-rebound game and Sam Pahlen netted 16 points for the Eagles, who beat the Mustangs 64-44 in a season-opening tournament match-up at Northland Community and Technical College, then won a rematch two weeks later in Oklee 54-35.

Carl Dugstad had a 21-point game for the Mustangs, but none of his teammates produced more than six points.

Red Lake County Central has had game-opening trouble all year, and they ran into problems again by being shut out 11-0 in the first quarter. It was 28-11 at halftime and 48-23 through three quarters.

"The first quarter snake is still biting," quipped Red Lake County Central coach Randy Huie. "We simply got out-played."

Red Lake County Central went 16-for-45 from the field (36 percent) and had a quiet 3-for-4 free throw night. Red Lake Falls was 22-for-61 from the floor (36 percent) and made 10 of 16 free throw attempts. The Eagles finished with a 31-22 rebound edge over the Mustangs, who were charged with 16 of the game's 24 turnovers.

The loss dropped Red Lake County Central to 2-15.

Fishing for All the Fish

Fifteen years ago you would've have irritably told me that there were no fish down there to catch and the fish house would have to be moved immediately. Ten years ago you would've have been a little more cordial when I entered the shack, dejectedly complaining that there seemed to be something fishy underneath, as evidenced by the lights and buzzers on your depth finder, but they must not be hungry and could I possibly reposition the house over a more active school. Five years ago you would have smiled faintly when I came in, pointing to a reasonable, if small, catch in the pail but explaining that every fish had to be coaxed into biting, sometimes for several minutes, long after its flashing shape had been identified tight to the bottom by your electronics. And the past couple of years you've been nearly exuberant at my entrance, jumping up from your chair, smiling broadly, waving wildly at a bucket full of legitimate "summer-sized" walleyes and saugers, and smothering me with appreciative hugs. Isn't technology wonderful?

I sang high praises for the Vexilar several years ago. Its applications through a sheet of ice were revolutionary. It identified fish while other depth finders only identified depth. It showed you where your bait was. It was easy to read and even simpler to use. In short, it kept ice fisherman interested in fishing all day long, which meant that those who used it were generally more successful than those who didn't. I believed strongly enough in the machine that I sent the company a copy of that gushy 1998 column and told them to use it for promotional purposes if they saw fit. They were obviously overwhelmed by my offer, eventually mailing me a hat and a handful of magic beans.

And yet, despite the cold shoulder I received from Vexilar four years ago (I've recently traded the magic beans for four shares of Enron stock), I stand before you today (is it grammatically possible to stand before someone in print?) and not only reiterate my claim that you can expect to catch 20 percent more fish by using their device, but I will add one step to your evolutionary fishing progress and suggest that the two biggest fish you catch each day in January and February will be a result of your Vexilar investment.

O.K. I realize that the enthusiasm of the last paragraph might have reached a level normally reserved for "infomercials". I won't go so far as to imply that a Vexilar can be used to slice, dice and dehydrate your fish. It will, however, increase the size of the average mid-winter catch.

January and February have always been a tough time on Lake of the Woods for walleyes. The saugers bite well and the perch come out of hiding, but the walleyes are always a little less plentiful than at other calendar dates. If an angler aims his efforts and his transducer towards the bottom of the lake, his catch will reflect that mix, being heavy on the first two and light on the walleye end of things at the end of the day. That's not all bad because it still means fish in the pan at the end of the day, it's just that the size of the fish will mean that there's room for a lot of them in the pan at one time.

However, viewing the water more three-dimensionally, as a Vexilar does, helps the size quite a bit. Walleyes, you see, suspend and become relatively inactive during this cold 6-8 week period. You'll see the telltale green and red flashes show up on the spinning dial six, eight, even 20 feet off the bottom. Their metabolism has slowed so much that active feeding is no longer a necessity, though they will suck something down if an easy enough meal presents itself. Quickly raise your jig off the bottom until its green flash coincides exactly with the one signaling the suspended fish and set the hook at the slightest nudge. On a good day you'll get one out of four flashes to take a poke at your bait; on others it'll be one out of 20.

Most of the suspended fish are walleyes, with the occasional tullibee or northern thrown in for excitement. By taking saugers out of the mix you've increased the potential for average size and generally the bigger the walleye the more quickly they tend to pull themselves off the bottom. At least for a mid-winter date, it's like we've got a brand new school of fish to keep us happy.

Fifteen years ago we didn't know they were there. Ten years ago we knew something was there, we just weren't quite sure what it was. Five years ago we become better at what we were already pretty good at. And most recently we've not only begun to put our finger on exactly what's underneath us, but learned how to put our jig in front of it, as well.

And if all this fishing progress makes you really happy — great. However, next time I walk through the door of your fish house and you're well-pleased with your pail of fish, please remember that I'm an Episcopalian at heart and a little shy of those hearty north-woods embraces. A simple handshake will do. Save the big hugs for the guys at Vexilar, they're the ones who really deserve it. Maybe they'll send you some magic beans, too.

The family of Tom "Sonny" Braaten would like to thank everyone who helped make the benefit a success, and also those who had prayers, a hug, or a pat on the back, we thank all of you.

Sincerely, The family of Thomas Braaten

Land acquisition for crosswind runway proceeds

■ Conditional approval given to proceed with acquisition of land

to the air carrier apron, and parking lot.

In addition to expressing concern about the mounting cost of the project, council representatives expressed concern about some of the elements of the project, including the required drainage impoundment.

Engineers explained that the impoundment was required, but they were trying to convince the state to agree to a dry system. They said they were concerned that a pond on the property could attract birds and create another problem for aircraft.

The council took no action on the preliminary report. Later in the meeting, the council did agree to proceed with acquisition of land for the project. This motion was approved on condition that the cost did not exceed a certain dollar amount.

The preliminary report to the council was prepared by HNTB Corporation in Minneapolis in association with Freeberg and Grund, Inc., Powrtek Engineering.

be allowed costs plus a five percent profit. Regardless, the amount will be a matter for negotiation.

Stewart said the final agreement will not include any incentives or disincentives to the air carrier. He said if the air carrier selected to provide service does not meet its projections, it could cause them to lose money.

Stewart said he was told the city will have input in the negotiation process. During this conversation with a representative of the Department of Transportation, Stewart was encouraged to contact both carriers.

As of Wednesday afternoon, the City of Thief River Falls had not received a copy of the proposal coming from Great Lakes Aviation Ltd.

The original hold order issued by the Department of Transportation has been extended to March 4, however, Stewart said he was told that the negotiation process could take weeks but may not be finalized for months. He anticipates that the hold order will be extended again.

State Patrol offers free commercial vehicle safety education program

Truckline in Thief River Falls said Hartz Truckline operates 35 to 40 trucks continuously and throughout the 48 contiguous United States. In an effort to keep up with the regulatory and safety changes, they pretty much have one person working with safety and regulatory issues on a full-time basis. Hartz Truckline also belongs to the Minnesota Truckers Association, which Higginbotham said, helps keep them up-to date on regulation changes. He believes that smaller firms and independents would benefit by belonging to a truckers association, and also believes the free education sessions offered by the State Patrol could help.

"We're trying to educate the public about various state and federal laws that apply to commercial vehicles," said Lt. Field.

In a news release from the Minnesota Department of Public Safety this week, Lt. Field said in Polk County, near the North Dakota border, the State Patrol often sees out-of-state vehicles weighing more than 10,000 pounds that have not stopped, as required by law, at a weigh scale facility. Failure to do so can result in a $582 fine, said Lt. Field.

Lt. Field explained that commercial vehicles include school busses, motor coaches, trucks and vehicles with a combined weight of more than 10,000 pounds. That includes most vehicles used to transport hazardous materials.

"Security and safety have become a national focus," said Field. "You can bet that vehicle inspectors and other law enforcement officers will be paying close attention to drivers' paperwork."

Those interested in more information about the Commercial Vehicle Safety Education program should contact Sgt. Jay Sletten at 651-405-6196 or 1-888-472-3191.

RLC fund-raisers receive award

Red Lake Falls – Red Lake County unit of the American Cancer Society received an award at a recent meeting in Brooks. The county's Relay for Life was eighth in the nation in 2001 for per capita fund-raising for counties under 10,000.

Fund-raisers raised $9.58 per person in the county during last year's event. The award was presented at the kick-off meeting for the fourth annual Relay for Life, which will be held May 31 and June 1 at the football field in Oklee. Red Lake Falls Gazette

UMC students lobby for new building

Crookston - Approximately 90 University of Minnesota, Crookston students boarded charter buses Tuesday to travel to St. Paul to take part in the Student Legislative Coalition's Lobby Day at the Capitol.

The main thrust of the local group's efforts was to press legislators to include the construction of a new Bede Student Center in this year's bonding issues. The $7.7 million project to replace Bede Hall involves the demolition of the old building, as well as constructing its replacement by August 2004. Crookston Daily Times

Fish houses targets for break-ins

Detroit Lakes - A number of fish house break-ins and equipment thefts have been reported to the Becker County Sheriff's Department recently.

A deputy investigating break-in reports advised ice anglers and spearers to not leave anything in their shelters they don't want stolen. Merely locking the shelter, he said, only discourages honest individuals from breaking or entering and indicate to thieves there is something valuable inside. Detroit Lakes Tribune

Drug raids net six arrests in January

Bemidji - Six people were arrested in January during a series of raids by the Paul Bunyan Drug Task Force, according to Bemidji Public Safety Director Bruce Preece.

Since January 15 task force agents have seized about $13,000 in cocaine, methamphetamine, and marijuana and $8,900 in cash. A handgun was also seized, Preece said in a news release. Pioneer

Lake home prices hit all-time high

Alexandria - People desire to live in Douglas County, especially around the lakes, and some of them are willing to pay considerable sums to reach that goal.

Last year, 153 lakeshore homes in the county were sold at an average cost of $220,314. A year earlier, in 2000, 170 lakeshore homes sold at an average cost of $185,632. That represents a one-year jump in value of 18.6 percent.

Increased demand coupled with limited supply has translated into higher prices. "It's basic economics," said Kevin Mahoney, a realtor who has been tracking home sale trends. "There are only so many lakeshore homes that come on the market, and demand for them drives up the value." Echo Press

Preparing for an infestation again

Barb Liukkonen, shoreland management, visits with representatives from several communities in northwestern Minnesota and eastern North Dakota about how to address the problems associated with the Forest Tent Caterpillar. The meeting, which was held last week in Thief River Falls, dealt entirely with the Forest Tent Caterpillar. Experts are indicating that the region could experience another year of severe defoliation because of the nuisance pest.

Officials expect another year of Forest Tent Caterpillars

by David Hill
Editor

Officials from communities throughout northwestern Minnesota and eastern North Dakota attended a meeting in Thief River Falls last week to discuss Forest Tent Caterpillars, the nuisance pest that denuded trees of foliage throughout the region last spring.

Officials say residents of northwestern Minnesota and eastern North Dakota can probably expect another year of dealing with Forest Tent Caterpillars, but - said it's mostly a people problem. Unless there are other stressors, such as drought, trees should easily survive an infestation of caterpillars. Complaints from citizens are more difficult to deal with than the caterpillars. "It's really a people problem," said Alan Jones, Minnesota Department of Natural Resources entomologist.

Howard Person, University of Minnesota Extension Service, Pennington County, reminded those in attendance just how difficult that can be. Person recounted one call from a resident who wanted an insurance company representative to look at her roof, stating that the caterpillars had caused the roof tiles to lift off her roof.

Person said the caterpillar defo-

Poor Snow Conditions

Organizers cancel events

The 2nd Annual Hometown Tour that was originally scheduled for January 11, 12 and 13, and then rescheduled for February 15, 16, 17 has now been canceled, due to poor snow conditions in our region.

Arctic Cat is mailing a letter to all registered persons notifying them of the cancellation, as well as following up with a personal phone call. Anything you can do to spread the word would be much appreciated. All registered participants will receive a full refund.

The Ironman, originally scheduled for January 19-20 at the Pennington County Fairgrounds in Thief River Falls and postponed until February 23 and 24, appears to be in jeopardy.

Thursday afternoon, race organizers issued the following statement: "The Thief River Falls Sno-Drifters Ironman Race Committee will meet on Friday evening (tonight), February 8, to make a decision on the status of the Ironman Sno-Cross Race scheduled for February 23 and 24 at the fairgrounds in Thief River Falls. With snow conditions as they are and no measurable snow in the forecast, it appears unlikely that the race will be held."

Flood stage level changes

National Weather Service changes flood level at Highlanding

by David Hill
Editor

Last week, the National Weather Service announced plans to change the flood stage for the Red Lake River at Highlanding from nine feet to 10 feet, effective March 1. This move has generated some concerns among landowners.

Property owner Verner Arveson said that when the water reaches nine feet it tops the riverbanks and that causes damage. To his way of thinking, that constitutes a flood. His main concern, however, was that this change doesn't mean a change in the operation of the Red Lake dam.

The National Weather Service has no plan to change the operation of the Red Lake dam. According to the news release it issued last week, the plan to change the flood stage is for reporting purposes, and will not affect the operation of the Red Lake dam. "The flow in the Red Lake River is largely regulated by the releases from the Red Lake Dam operated by the U.S. Army Corp of Engineers. The current water release operating plan is to reduce Red Lake dam outflows to minimum levels when Highlanding is at 8.75 feet during the summer, and at 11 feet otherwise. This plan will not change with the change in the flood stage."

Edward Stucy, another property owner along the river, is concerned that raising the flood stage from nine to 10 feet will further delay control at the Red Lake dam. Stucy said it already takes 24 to 36 hours for a change at the dam to affect the levels of the river near Stucy's residence. Stucy said he thought 10 feet was a little out of line for their safety. His main concern, however, was that the operation at the dam would not change.

The current level of the river has him concerned. It doesn't make sense for the flood stage to be three inches above the normal operating level.

Stucy said he would like to see the level of the river in the summer reduced from 8.75 to 7 feet. At 8.75 feet, he believes the river is too full. When the area gets three to four inches of rain, there's nowhere for it to go but over the banks.

Loren Sanderson of the Red Lake Watershed District stated that the flood stage change has been under consideration for about a year. At a meeting last May, he said the major concern expressed by property owners was that the operation of the dam at Red Lake would not change.

The National Weather Service explained that there were several reasons for the decision to change the flood stage from nine feet to 10 feet. Last year, the river at Highlanding was above nine feet for about 31 days, while it was above 10 feet for only six days.

Mike Lukes of the National Weather Service, said they have been worried that people will stop taking them seriously when they issue a flood statement. He also explained that they put out a product. This product — a flood statement — goes to county and state

Viking Postmaster retires

Richard Audette retires after 32 years of service

by Kathi Carlson
Reporter

After 32 years of service to the United States Postal Service, Viking's retiring postmaster, Richard Audette, is looking forward to a change of pace.

During his first week of respite from his long career, Dick is trading the quiet small town life for big city lights and action. "I'm going to Vegas," he announced Friday, February 1, his last day of employment.

Last November, Dick moved to an East Grand Forks condominium, where he will continue to reside when he returns. By summer, he plans to have his trucker's license and he says, "join the boys on construction." That's the change of pace he was talking about.

Audette began his postal service career in 1970 as a part-time carrier out of Crookston. Wages for the 32-hour per week job, he recalled, were $3.06 hour back then, and the split-shift position frequently meant two trips to Crookston a day from his home in Terrebonne. He stuck with it, however, and the part-time position led to his full-time position as a city carrier in Crookston. After working in Crookston, he spent three months in Pisek, N.D. before moving to Viking in 1980. He was appointed postmaster in April 1981.

When Dick began his employment in Viking, the post office was located in the old bank building until 1983, when it was moved to its current site. Virgil Hjelle was the rural mail carrier at the time, and Edna Gustafson was the clerk. Both retired within months of each other, Dick said, about 14 years ago.

Viking's current rural carrier is Judy Yutrzenka, who will note 28 years with the postal service in July, and the rural carrier associate, is JoAnn Peters. Several people have held the position of postmaster replacement, including Joy Knutson for nine years, Karyl Grochowski for 18 months, and Gloria Ness who currently holds the position.

The Viking Post Office, Dick said, has 38 rented boxes and 131 residences and businesses on its carrier route. The Viking office also manages Route 7 for the Thief River Falls office, adding another 300 boxes to Yutrzenka's 113-mile-a-day route.

Audette's replacement is Paulette Nelson of Middle River, a former clerk at the Middle River Post Office.

He and his late wife, Beverly, raised six children who attended school in Viking and Newfolden.

While Dick said his initial question was, "Where's Viking?" he says he isn't one bit sorry his career took him there. "The people," he says, "have been wonderful."

February 1 was Postmaster Richard Audette's last day of work at the Viking Post Office. On hand to congratulate him on his retirement and commend him for his 32 years of service to the United States Postal Service was Gloria Haugo of Grand Forks, manager of Post Officer Operations. Audette spent his first week of retirement in Las Vegas and plans to obtain his trucking license. He will be making his home in East Grand Forks.

Not only for potlucks or parties, good old hot dishes are on the menu for everyone this week.

This dish is a winner, and it can be eaten by those who are watching their diets:

TATER NUGGET HOT DISH

3/4 cup chopped onions
1/2 cup chopped celery

1/8 teaspoon pepper
1 cup frozen green beans
1 (16 ounce) package frozen potato nuggets

Heat oven to 375 degrees.

In large saucepan, brown ground beef, onions and celery. Drain well. Stir in soups, garlic powder, pepper and green beans. Spoon into ungreased 2 quart casserole. Top with potato nuggets.

Bake at 375 degrees for 40 to 50 minutes or until bubbly and nuggets are golden. Recipe serves 6 (1 1/4 cup) servings.

1 teaspoon sugar
1/2 teaspoon garlic powder
1/2 teaspoon chili powder
1/8 teaspoon pepper
3/4 cup shredded Cheddar cheese
Biscuit Topping:
3 tablespoons yellow cornmeal
1/2 teaspoon paprika
1/8 teaspoon garlic powder

In large, ovenproof skillet, brown beef and onion. Drain.

Stir in picante sauce, corn, tomato sauce, sugar, garlic powder, chili powder and pepper. Bring to a boil, then reduce heat to low. Simmer, uncovered, 10-15 minutes, until most of the liquid is absorbed. Sprinkle with cheese and keep warm.

Meanwhile, in small bowl, combine cornmeal, paprika and garlic powder.

Separate biscuit dough into 5 biscuits. Cut each in half, dip in melted butter then in cornmeal. Arrange over hot beef mixture and bake at 375 degrees for 15-20 minutes, until biscuits are golden.

Sauerkraut, apples, caraway seed and brown sugar make this dish a hit:

Cook and stir onion in drippings until tender. In ungreased 9x13 inch baking dish, combine sauerkraut, apples, brown sugar, caraway seed, apple juice and onions. Mix well.

Place pork chops in sauerkraut mixture and sprinkle with pepper and paprika. Cover with foil.

Bake at 350 degrees for 1 1/2 hours or until chops are tender.

Make a quick meal out of what you have in the fridge:

HAM AND EGG PASTA

8 ounces uncooked whole wheat or regular fettuccine
2 tablespoons olive oil or oil
1/2 cup sliced green onions
1/2 cup dairy sour cream
2 tablespoons milk

Remove pan from heat, reduce heat to medium, and stir in sour cream, milk, parsley, salt and pepper.

Cook, stirring constantly, until hot. Do not boil. Stir in ham, egg wedges and fettuccine. Toss gently.

Johnston herd tops DHIA top 15 in January

The Todd and Kathy Johnston dairy herd topped the Top 15 list, according to Randy and Margaret Rasmussen, supervisors of the Red Lake-Pennington Dairy Herd Improvement Association (DHIA).

The Top 15 dairy herds included: 1. Todd and Kathy Johnston, 58 cows, with 90 percent in milk, producing an average of 78 pounds of milk, 2.7 pounds of fat, and 2.3 pounds of protein; 2. Gary and Polly Bakken, 29 cows, 86 percent in milk, producing an average of 76 pounds of milk, 2.4 pounds of fat and 2.3 pounds of protein; 3. Northwest Agricultural Experiment Station (large) 44 cows, 86 percent in milk, producing an averag of 72 pounds of milk, 2.6 pounds of fat and 2.3 pounds of protein; 4. Northwest Agricultural Experiment Station (small), 68 cows, with 82 percent in milk, producing an average of 71 pounds of milk, 2.4 pounds of fat and 2.3 pounds of protein, 5. Morlyn and Debbie Omquist, 41 cows, 85 percent in milk, producing an average of 69 pounds of milk, 2.9 pounds of fat and 2.2 pounds of protein; 6. Walter Brothers Farm, 257 cows, with 88 percent in milk, producing an average of 69 pounds of milk, 2.3 pounds of fat and 2.0 pounds of protein: 7. Mark and Darla Lehmann, 41 cows, with 93 percent in milk, producing an average of 68 pounds of milk, 2.2 pounds of fat and 2.1 pounds of protein; 8. Beyer Brothers Frm, 62 cows, with 92 percent in milk, producing an average of 67 pounds of milk, 2.4 pounds of fat and 2.0 pounds of protein; 9. Greg Zak, 33 cows, with 88 percent in milk, producing an average of 62 pounds of milk, 2.1 pounds of fat and 1.9 pounds of protein; 10. Wayne Nelson, 42 cows, with 88 percent in milk, and producing an average of 60 pounds of milk, 2.2 pounds of fat and 1.9 pounds of protein; 11. Wayra Dairy (Wayne Vettleson), 173 cows, with 87 percent in milk, producing an average of 60 pounds of milk, 2.0 pounds of fat and 1.8 pounds of protein; 12. Tom and Diane Kolstoc, 40 cows, with 90 percent in milk, and producing an average of 59 pounds of milk, 2.0 pounds of fat and 1.8 pounds of protein; 13. E. Duane and Faith Knutt, 90 cows, with 90 percent in milk, producing an average of 55 pounds of milk, 1.8 pounds of fat and 1.7 pounds of protein; 14. Gary and Grant Gullekson, 57 cows, 81 percent in milk, producing an average of 54 pounds of milk, 2.0 pounds of fat and 1.6 pounds of protein; 15. Hamrick Farms Inc., 73 cows, with 86 percent in milk, producing an average of 53 pounds of milk, 2.0 pounds of fat and 1.7 pounds of protein.

The herd averages are affected by the number of dry cows in the herd. The amount of milk or butterfat is averaged out over all the cows. This gives the farmer a record of the earning power of the herd for the month. If too many cows are included in the herd, then the average for the month may be low, even though the cow that is milking produces a lot of milk.

Border Agency names Vagle as Roseau manager

Jon Vagle has assumed the position of manager for Border Agency in Roseau. Jon, an insurance agent for Border Agency over the past three years, has done an outstanding job providing excellent service to many area residents.

"I enjoy my job and the people I meet. I look forward to serving the needs of Roseau and surrounding area residents," said Vagle.

Vagle, originally from Roseau, obtained his bachelor of science degree in business administration from Bemidji State University. He is licensed for life and health insurance, property and casualty insurance and securities.

Vagle is active in the Roseau Lions Club, the Roseau Community Church and other various community organizations. He enjoys taking part in the area golf league, summer and winter volleyball leagues, softball league, and helps coach girl's fast pitch softball. He also officiates for other sports in his spare time. When not playing sports, Vagle enjoys fishing and being outdoors.

A full service independent agency, Border Agency offers property, farm, commercial and personal property, health and life insurance.

Chad Alberg joins Central Livestock Association

Chad Alberg, Roseau, recently came to work for Central Livestock's Branch in West Fargo. Chad will be an Area Sales Representative in Northwest Minnesota.

Chad was raised in the Roseau area with over 30 years of farming experience. He has successfully raised and sold Red Angus bulls for the 13 years and is a director of the Minnesota Red Angus Association. He built his Red Angus herd over the past 13 years using Artificial Insemination (AI). In addition, he has been an active member of Central Livestock and serves on the Roseau Cooperative Shipping Association Board of Directors. Besides a very good knowledge of the cattle business he has good computer and communication skills. Chad is a graduate of Roseau High School.

Chad's duties with CLA will be soliciting livestock for CLA's West Fargo Market, obtaining consignments for CLA's Internet Auction, selling beef semen, order buying feeders for customers, working with truckers on transportation and with the various University of Minnesota County Extension offices and area farmers/ranchers on Beef Quality Assured Programs and Sales.

Central Livestock Association, a subsidiary of Cooperative Resources International, is a livestock marketing cooperative. Central was started by farmers in 1921 and has operated in West Fargo since the market opened in 1935. Chad is looking forward to serving the many area farmers and ranchers. He can be reached at his home phone 218-463-3007, cell phone 218-689-0166, or leave word at the West Fargo office 1-800-753-4620, or e-mail: albergredangus@wiktel.com. Chad has a 17-year-old daughter, Breann, who is a big help around the farm.

Area students receive UND scholarships

Seven returning University of North Dakota students from Thief River Falls are scholarship recipients for the 2001-2002 academic year. Scholarships are awarded on the basis of scholastic ability.

Private donations from individuals, foundations and groups account for almost all of the funding for UND's academic scholarship program. The UND Student Financial Aid office awarded approximately $2,161,000 in scholarships, with the Alumni Association and UND Foundation funding the majority of that, for the 2001-2002 academic year. The support of these benefactors has been invaluable both to the University and the recipients of these scholarships.

Becky Brandt, Susan Field, Elizabeth Goddard, Katy Hook, Brent Nelson, Curtis Ness and Jeffrey Rislov of Thief River Falls were among students receiving scholarships.

Becky Brandt received the Nancy and Michael Didonato scholarship, which is awarded to students majoring in elementary education who have demonstrated academic excellence.

Susan Field was awarded a Chester Fritz Scholarship, which is awarded to North Dakota residents who have high scholarship and show promise of future leadership and achievement.

Elizabeth Goddard was awarded the Arthur P. Anderson scholarship, which is awarded to students chosen for past academic performance and the promise of future academic success.

Katy Hook received the Neil C. Macdonald scholarship, which is awarded to students based on past academic achievement and leadership. The scholarship was established by UND benefactor Chester Fritz in honor of Macdonald, who was Fritz's high school superintendent at Lidgerwood, N.D.

Brent Nelson received the Egbert Rotnem and Harold B. Wright scholarships. The Egbert Rotnem scholarship is awarded to students who have attained academic excellence. The Harold B. Wright scholarship is awarded to students majoring in engineering who have demonstrated academic excellence.

Curtis Ness was awarded the Elizabeth J. Larimore and Sadie P. Mathews scholarship, which is awarded to students chosen for past academic performance.

Jeffrey Rislov was awarded the Arthur P. Anderson scholarship, which is awarded to students chosen for past academic performance and the promise of future academic success.

EDITORIAL OPINIONS

Dave Hill, Editor

Editorial opinion published under this heading is intended to stimulate thinking and discussion among our readers. The shattered Olympic dream

I'm looking forward to the Olympics. They should provide a wonderful and overdue break from news stories about Enron, Afghanistan, and terrorism. But did you see or hear the story about how many people are involved in providing security at the Olympics? What was it – six times the number of athletes?

I remember in 1976 when our family packed up our camper and drove to the Montreal Olympics. It was a wonderful time and a time when I still believed in the Olympic ideal – a place without borders, where the best athletes from around the world competed, free of politics, commercialism and war.

Today, we are overcome by cynicism, a bitter attitude due to continued exposure to scandals.

The Olympics start tonight (Friday), but I wonder whether people will be watching the athletes, the commercials, or the latest scandal.

Even as the Olympic Site Selection Committee was making its decision several years ago, news about bribes began to leak out of Salt Lake City. Not much has changed since then, just the scandal.

Last week, they tried to keep the tattered American flag found at the site of the Twin Towers from being carried into the Olympic stadium, perhaps afraid that it would inspire Americans into a patriotic fervor. It's a "world" event, after all.

They're right. The flag will inspire us and it is a world event. But it has happened in all host countries.

The IOC, International Olympic Committee, eventually realized that it was futile, perhaps even foolish, to attempt to stop it from happening and will allow the flag to be carried into the stadium. But maybe it wasn't that at all. Maybe they were worried that chants of USA, USA, USA would become a bit overbearing – too loud and boisterous – like many Americans. Even worse yet, maybe they were expecting that we would start shouting an advertising slogan. Can you imagine?

Of course, there's already talk about athletes being accused of using performance-enhancing drugs.

So, it seems we have a new Olympic sport – discovering the latest scandal. Tune in for the latest at . . . .

It's a shame really. It's a shame because the Olympics are supposed to be a showcase for athletes, a place where nations can gather away from influence and complications of war and politics. But here we are, wondering whether security will be tight enough to protect the athletes and spectators, or whether we should tune in to watch the commercials, or catch the latest scandal.

Still, I'm looking forward to the Olympics. My "idealist" dream has not been crushed. Tomorrow is another day, and hope is eternal.

Let's appreciate a true gift

by Marvin Lundin
Former Times Editor

Announcement early this week that Ralph and Betty Engelstad of Las Vegas, Nev., would donate $10 million for construction of a new ice arena for Thief River Falls has reverberated throughout the community, the area and the state. It was received with elation by local people involved with all phases of skating sports, but especially by hockey enthusiasts and supporters at the early youth and high school levels.

Despite the magnitude of this gift, I am concerned that there may be a few among us who are not hockey enthusiasts, and are something less than thrilled by it. If there are those in our community who believe that it does not apply to them or that they will not benefit from it, they need to take a few moments to look outside themselves and consider several things. There is no room for even a hint of question or negativism regarding this gift.

First and foremost, the residents of the Thief River Falls community are fortunate recipients of the good will and generosity of a man who lived here for only a fourth of his present 72 years. That he cherishes the memories of his early years here and still considers Thief River Falls to be his hometown is great, but it is not the result of anything most of us have done as individuals to deserve such affection. If we can pride ourselves in anything, it may be that we have conducted ourselves so as not to diminish the positive image of Thief River Falls in the eyes of Ralph Engelstad and any other present or former residents.

Second, as the recipients of a true gift, it is not for us to question what that gift is or how it is to be used. It is not our prerogative to choose what we are given, nor should we expect a choice. Ralph Engelstad loves hockey and apparently he still loves the community where he learned to play and enjoy the game. He wants local young people and others to have the opportunity to enjoy a first-class arena, and he supports that desire to the extent that he will reach into his pocket and give us $10 million to make it reality. We should be gracious enough to accept this well-intended donation in the good faith in which it is given and with nothing other than the greatest gratitude and appreciation.

Third, we must recognize that Ralph Engelstad doesn't owe Thief River Falls a dime. He has absolutely no obligation to our town or our people. He achieved financial success through hard work and sacrifice without help from any of us, and none of us should presume to advise him on how to share his wealth. Others have grown up in Thief River Falls and achieved some degree of financial success without any thought at all of giving something back to their hometown.

Those who may be tempted to feel left out of Ralph's largesse because they are not skating enthusiasts need to reflect on their sense of community. What is good for Thief River Falls in general is good for everyone in Thief River Falls in particular. None of us should be so selfish or narrow in our thinking to fail to see great benefit for all in this extraordinary gift.

It should also be known that there are few words in Ralph Engelstad's vocabulary that mean as much to him as the word "loyalty." He expects it from his employees and he appreciates it in his family, friends and business associates. He expects and appreciates it in others because he has made it a part of the way he has conducted himself throughout his life. Ralph steadfastly stands by those he feels have dealt fairly with him or have helped him in some manner along the way. His latest gift to Thief River Falls, like his donations to the University of North Dakota, I am sure, is rooted in that sense of loyalty.

We ask those in other communities that do not have a benefactor such as Ralph to resist any feelings of jealousy or resentment and to rejoice with us in our good fortune. When the Ralph Engelstad Arena is built, follow your teams that come to play in Thief River Falls. Join us in enjoying our new arena for hockey and other activities.

Residents of Thief River Falls and surrounding area are encouraged to rally around this gift and the new facility it will provide. Use the arena as a focal point for community pride and improvement. Be proud of your community for what it is and what it can be. Think and talk and act positively and good things will continue to happen for Thief River Falls

And let us not forget the last sentence in Ralph's letter to the Mayor and City Council regarding this gift: "I hope that my giving is an inspiration to others to give and help others when they are able." Certainly he has set an admirable example in helping where he felt there was a need and charted a challenging course for others to follow. We can best honor him by accepting his true gift with gratitude and putting forth our own effort to maximize what he has started.

Skaters can still sign up for 2002 ice show

Families who have not registered their skaters for the 2002 Thief River Falls ice show can still do so by contacting the Park and Recreation Department at 681-2519 or stopping by the area during any recreational skating time slot.

All skaters who participated in either the clinic or skating season are invited to take part in the upcoming production.

The 27th annual Fantasy on Ice will be held March 23 and 24 at the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center. This year's show will feature a radio broadcast theme, "Hot Rocking 2002."

Tryouts were held in January, and solo skaters and small groups are currently practicing for the two shows. Practice for all skaters will begin at the end of the month.

The Thief River Falls Recreational Skating board met recently and will be meeting every other week to help put this year's show together. Anyone who would like to help is invited to call Ila Anderson at 681-2056.

Pancake brunch at Embassy Center Sunday, Feb. 10

Valentine's Day will be the theme of the pancake brunch at Embassy Community Center on Sunday, February 10, from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

A freewill offering will be accepted with matching funds provided by Aid Association for Lutherans Branch 9462.

Sunday's menu will feature buttermilk pancakes, sausages, juice and coffee. A number of Valentine's Day attendance gifts will be awarded. Everyone is invited to attend.

Nothing To Grouch About

The fourth and final chair in the fish house creaked and splintered its way stubbornly to the floor, proving an immensely inadequate adversary for the portly pachyderm posterior that had tested it.

"Ah, ha-hah-ha!" guffawed the fuzzy green creature sticking halfway out a plastic seven gallon pail. "That's all of them, you fat lummox — that's every chair in the house. Why do think that Bombardier driver told you to fish standing up? Hoo-hoo! I can't wait to see the look on his face when he comes back to pick us up tonight."

"Oh, leave Snuffy alone Oscar," scolded a large yellow fowl with its head wedged awkwardly against a top corner. "He's just trying to get comfortable. We are, after all, on vacation and would just like to relax a little."

"Yeah, and that's just what I'm doin', Bird Brained, havin' fun. So don't spoil it by giving me some namby-pamby speech about hurting the feelings of a Snufflufagous. He knows he could lose a few pounds and just becuz' no one back on the Street is willing to point it out to him doesn't mean it shouldn't be said. Besides, I'm not saying anything he didn't already hear from that guy at the casino we hit on the way up. Har — taking up all six chairs at the same Blackjack table at the same time — that was precious! He doesn't care, anyway, look at him!"

Snuffy, obviously having lost interest in destroying the chairs, had pushed his trunk through a fish hole and was now blowing air under the ice, forcing it to bubble up violently through the other seven holes in the house. The gurgling sound was not unlike a powerful hot tub, though the smell that accompanied the boiling bubbles of elephant breath was more reminiscent of a stagnant, festering cesspool. The combined powers of a three day blend of venison jerky, pork rinds, and cheap beer made for a rather "distinct" aroma.

"Please don't do that Snuffy," pleaded Big Bird, "it reminds me of that day when you plugged up the toilet in the actors bathroom back on the set. And every time I think of that I begin to vomit uncontrollably."

"Har, har, har," chuckled Oscar the Grouch, "This is great! I get to see Snuffy trash furniture and watch Bird Brained puke all on the same day! This ice-fishing trip was the best idea that dimwit Elmo ever had. No wonder he laughs like such a fool all the time. He's just remembering ice fishing trips."

"Oscar, you could have a little more compassion. You know how weak a stomach I have," whined Big Bird, folding his stubby wings dramatically across his midsection to exaggerate his pain.

"Oh, all right Bird," offered Oscar apologetically. "I'll be nicer. And to prove it, I'd like to remind you that the Sesame Street letter of the day is F and just coincidentally, that begins the word 'Fire' which is exactly what your tail is on right now! Hee-he!"

"EEEK," screeched Big Bird as he turned to see flames rising from his tail plumage. Bending over to hold his queasy stomach, he had inadvertently pushed his back end against the briquettes of the wall-mounted, ventless fish house heater. "Help! Put me out! Quickly!" he shouted running erratic circles in the confined space of the fish house until whacking his head against a ceiling beam and falling limply to the floor.

"Well, we know now that Big Bird isn't a Phoenix; they're supposed to rise from a pile of ashes-not go down in one! Ha-ha-ha-ha! Better put him out, Snuffy," giggled Oscar, "I hate the smell of burning feathers."

The Snufflufagous obliged, filling his trunk with lake water and thoroughly hosing down the motionless bird. He then rolled the soaked and smoldering pile of feathers out the door and onto the decaying stack of tulibees and eelpout that had been tossed there by previous fishing parties.

"Get the camera out and take a picture of him like that," cackled Oscar, wiping tears from the corners of his eyes. "I want to show it to Telly and Maria when we get back to Sesame Street. They'll get a hoot out of it, too."

"O.K. Now let's get down to the business of some serious relaxing. Throw me a minnow and one of them ice-cold Schmidtties. And I'm gonna tell you this one last time, elephant. When you catch a fish, it goes in that pail over there. This one here is where I hang out and I don't want to have to wrestle with another of those 10 pound Northerns — they're toothier than that numbers nerd the Count. Got it?"

Oscar settled comfortably down into his pail and cracked open his beer.

"And remind me next time we do this to invite that wing-nut Mr. Rodgers to come along. I'd like to get a little Burbot slime on that pretty sweater he always wears. Whoo-wee!"

Home Buyer Series

Buying a home is one of the most important decisions that a person makes today. In order to prepare home buyers for this important step, the University of Minnesota Extension Service and Minnesota Housing Financing Agency will offer a "Home Stretch" Home Buyer Workshop on Thursdays, February 28, March 7 and March 14. The workshops will be held from 7 to 9:30 p.m. at the Courthouse meeting room in Thief River Falls.

The three-session workshop is designed for the first-time home buyers of low to moderate income, for homeowners ready to finance a contract for deed, or for persons just interested in exploring the possibilities of home ownership.

Participants will gain a thorough understanding of the home buying process. They will find out how much home they can afford, what lenders look for in a buyer, how to eliminate the barriers to home ownership, and what kinds of mortgage assistance programs are available.

A certificate of completion will be provided to all participants who attend all three workshop sessions. Many lending programs now require completion of a home buying workshop to be eligible for their mortgage products.

The registration fee for the workshop is $15 per household. Call the Pennington County Extension Office at 218-683-7030 or 1-800-681-2116 to receive a registration brochure with more information. Seating is limited, so register now. Registration deadline is Monday, Feb. 25.

MCC boys clinch No. 1 seed in 31A by beating W-A-O

Andy Larson out-scored Nathan Steer 33-29 and Marshall County Central beat Warren-Alvarado-Oslo 74-62 Tuesday in a Sub-Section 31A boys high school basketball showdown at Newfolden.

Larson added 11 rebounds to his night's work for a double-double, while Garrett Swanson and Matt Wagner contributed 13 and 10 points, respectively, to the Nordics' offense. Steer was the Ponies' only double figure scorer.

It was the 18th win in 20 starts for the Nordics, who led at the quarter stops 23-14, 36-26 and 54-37.

"It's huge," said Marshall County Central coach Ron Ueland in describing the win that clinched the No. 1 seed in the upcoming Sub-Section 31A tournament and also guaranteed the Nordics at least a title tie in the Star Six Conference. "First half we did a really good job executing our offense. The last three games we've scored over 70 points. We've given up a few points, but we've managed to out-score teams."

Holding the Ponies to 37 points through three quarters was an accomplishment, too, acknowledged Ueland. "We did a nice job keeping them off the offensive boards," he said. "We knew we couldn't stop Steer, but we hoped we could limit a few of the things he does."

Marshall County Central shot an eye-catching 61 percent from the field (28/46) and went 14-for-22 at the free throw line. Warren-Alvarado-Oslo shot only 39 percent from the floor (25/64) and had a 7-for-12 free throw night. Rebounds were even at 27-apiece. The Nordics topped the turnover charts 19-17.

Shooting figures catch up to TRF in loss to Jacks

Thief River Falls missed 13 free throws Tuesday and wound up losing by five to Bemidji, 59-54, in boys high school basketball.

The Prowlers, who were 19-for-32 at the line, didn't fare well in the field goal department, either, with a 30 percent 16-for-54 night from the floor.

"We need to be better at the free throw line," acknowledged Thief River Falls coach Chris McLean. But he said that was just part of the reason why his team let a 25-22 halftime lead and a 43-41 third quarter edge slip away down the stretch. "We missed a lot of opportunities that could have given us a bigger lead in the first half," he added. "We missed a lot of easy shots – a lot of close-in shots and lay-ups."

The visiting Lumberjacks won by shooting 48 percent from the field (22/46), by hitting 11 of 14 free throw attempts, and by out-rebounding the Prowlers 31-24. Those three things compensated for 25 Bemidji turnovers. Thief River Falls lost the ball 15 times.

The loss dropped the Prowlers to 5-10. The win snapped a five-game losing streak for the now 8-11 Lumberjacks.

"Again, you can't fault the effort," offered McLean, "but we gave them too many second shots."

Mike Houge, who was 7-for-7 at the free throw line, finished with a game-high 15 points for the Lumberjacks. Teammate Jason Fairchild picked up 10 points. Thief River Falls had a trio of double figure scorers as Jon Fomey scored a season-high 14 points, Tyler Bosh netted 12 and Nick Ricks had 11. Eric Grembowski was right behind that group with nine points.

"Walter (Fomey) and Eric had great games," noted McLean.

TRF boys top Bemidji 44-33 in JV basketball

A 14-7 first quarter lead carried Thief River Falls to a 44-33 junior varsity boys high school basketball win over Bemidji Tuesday.

The Prowlers led 19-16 at halftime and had a 30-24 third quarter advantage.

Eight points apiece by Jesse Sich, Kyle Gerardy and Josh Tanner led the offense for the 10-6 Prowlers.

Steph Hoard of the Prowlers (left) watched as her backhand shot was turned aside during the first period of the Thief River Falls vs. Greenway Section 3A girls high school hockey tournament game Tuesday at the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center. Katie Kessler of the Raiders stayed with Hoard on the play. The Prowlers advanced into the quarterfinals with a 9-1 win.

TRF girls beat Greenway 9-1...

Section 3A hockey playoffs underway

Steph Hoard scored five goals and picked up two assists as Thief River Falls overwhelmed Greenway 9-1 Tuesday in an opening round Section 3A girls high school hockey tournament game at the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center.

Kara Larson added a pair of goals to the Prowlers' total, with Kelly Bendickson and Michelle Johnson completing the list of goal scorers. Alissa Holmaas joined Hoard in the two-assist column.

Tim Magnusson didn't think his team would be playing Tuesday. Looking for regular season results to produce an opening round bye, the Thief River Falls head coach anticipated a home quarterfinal game Friday. Instead, by a vote of coaches, the Prowlers missed a top-five seed and fell into the group of six teams needing a first night win to make the top eight.

There was a considerable talent gap between the No. 6-seeded Prowlers and No. 11 Raiders, whose youthful roster listed one senior, one junior, four sophomores, 10 eighth graders, and a seventh grader.

"We didn't think we'd be playing tonight, but we made the most of it," said Magnusson. "We didn't play really well, but we played well enough to win. It's tough to play well when you know you're that much better than the other team."

A quick, hard slap shot from the face-off circle to the left of the Greenway net produced Hoard's first goal 2:25 into the game.

A strong solo effort down the center of the ice by Kara Larson made it 2-0 at 4:21.

After an eight-minute lull in the action, the Prowlers exploded, scoring four goals in a 1:38 span late in the first period to go up 6-0.

Greenway goalie Jenny LeClair made a stop on a Hoard breakaway, only to have Michelle Johnson put the rebound in the net at 12:25.

Hoard came right back to score on a backhand at 12:58 and on a rebound at 13:49 to complete a first period hat trick.

Larson capped the outburst with a goal at 14:03.

Ashley Moran, the lone Greenway senior, and the Raiders' best player, was set up on the side of the net 1:17 into the second period to put the visitors on the board.

An end-to-end rush by Hoard rebuilt the six-goal difference at 11:19 and Bendickson scored on a deflection at 14:50 to ensure third period running time.

Hoard wrapped it up by skating through the Greenway defense for her fifth goal at 6:42 of the third period.

Prowlers, Lumberjacks play to 3-3 overtime tie

Overtime failed to break a 3-3 tie Tuesday in a boys high school hockey match-up between long-time rivals Thief River Falls and Bemidji.

The host Lumberjacks saw the Prowlers bounce back from three one-goal deficits for the tie. Bemidji led 1-0 after one period, had a 2-1 second period edge and owned a 3-2 third period lead.

William Fomey, Dan Kjono and Danny Almquist scored Thief River Falls goals, with Almquist picking up the final one of the night at 6:37 of the third period – two minutes after the Lumberjacks' Thor Josephson had snapped a 2-2 tie.

Mike Hendricks and Nate Woessner scored the earlier Bemidji goals.

"At times we played well," reported Thief River Falls coach Scott Bergland. "It was a game of spurts. We would control play for two-three minutes, they would control play for two-three minutes; and there would be two-three minutes of play in center ice. It wasn't back-and-forth hockey."

Justin Klinkhammer was given a start in goal for the Prowlers, and the official score sheet credited the sophomores with 36 saves. Bemidji goalie David Goldberg stopped 22 shots.

"Justin played well," said Bergland. "He did a nice job, and we did a good job keeping things to the outside so our goalie could get a good look at things."

The Prowlers had some golden scoring chances slip away, according to Bergland, who said his team came up empty on two breakaways and four 2-on-1 opportunities.

Thief River Falls took a 13-8-1 record to Roseau Thursday. The Prowlers host East Grand Forks in their final regular season home game Tuesday. Bemidji is 5-15-1.

Scoring

First period - Bemidji, Mike Hendricks (Nate Woessner-Derek Hanson), 13:10.

Second period - TRF, William Fomey (Dane Kjono-Jeff Schneider), 8:55; Bemidji, Woessner (Hanson-Hendricks), 12:28.

The event will include Thief River Falls, Detroit Lakes, Crookston, Roseau, Fosston/Bagley, and East Grand Forks.

Seeding positions were expected to list either Detroit Lakes or Thief River Falls No. 1, with Crookston and Roseau competing for the No. 3 spot. Fosston/Bagley and East Grand Forks will likely draw the No. 5 and 6 positions, respectively.

Section 8AA individual tournament will take place Friday and Saturday, Feb. 22 and 23, at Fosston.

Grygla-Gatzke tops RLF 59-48

A height advantage for Grygla-Gatzke helped produce a 28-18 rebound edge and a 59-48 boys high school basketball win over Red Lake Falls Tuesday.

A dozen of those rebounds came on the offensive boards. "The rebounds were a big part of it," said Grygla-Gatzke coach Vern Johnson. "It was close all the way. Red Lake Falls has really improved. They play very, very tough defense, and they do a good job executing their offense."

Grygla-Gatzke led 16-12 at the end of the first quarter. Red Lake Falls went ahead briefly, 17-16, at the start of the second quarter, but a 3-point basket by Tony Nordby gave the winners a lead they would never relinquish. It was 34-27 at halftime and 46-40 through three quarters. The 11-point margin at the end was the biggest spread of the game.

Nathan Gast scored 17 points and Nordby had 16 to lead the Grygla-Gatzke offense. Matt Largis of Red Lake Falls shared game-high scoring honors with Gast.

Grygla-Gatzke shot 51 percent from the field (23/45) and had a 12-for-20 free throw night. Red Lake Falls shot 47 percent from the floor (20/43), but only went to the line three times, making them all.

In the turnover department, Red Lake Falls had 10; Grygla-Gatzke finished with nine.

Grygla-Gatzke is 15-4.

Goodridge shuts down RLCC

Goodridge shut out Red Lake County Central 18-0 in the second quarter, turning a 10-8 first quarter deficit into a 27-10 halftime lead that wound up as a 59-26 boys high school basketball win over Red Lake County Central Tuesday.

The visiting Mustangs found themselves trailing 37-17 at the end of the third quarter.

Casey Jones had a 29-point, 19-rebound double-double for the Huskies, getting 11 of those points in that second quarter turnaround.

"We came out kind of flat, and they hit some three-pointers on us in the first quarter," explained Goodridge coach Eric Mickelson.

The Huskies tossed out their game-opening zone defense and made some adjustments to their offensive patterns, with both changes producing positive effects, according to Mickelson.

"We played well in the first quarter, both offensively and defensively," said Red Lake County Central coach Randy Hute. "The second quarter, they switched defenses and it just shut us down."

Adam Johnson and Joe Rabischko added 10 points each to the Huskies' offense. The winners were 22-for-61 from the field (36 percent) and 10-for-22 at the free throw line.

Only three Mustangs put their names in the scoring column, led by Carl Dugstad with 13 points. Red Lake County Central struggled through a 10-for-48 shooting performance (21 percent). The Mustangs were 2-for-2 at the line.

Goodridge finished with a sizeable 41-22 rebound edge. The Huskies also had more turnovers, 11-7.

The results put the Huskies at 10-7 and left the Mustangs at 2-17.

"We played pretty well defensively," said Red Lake County Central coach Rick Koivisto.

It was not a good shooting night for either team. Red Lake County Central was 16-for-64 from the field (25 percent) and 12-for-30 at the free throw line. Climax/Fisher went 14-for-58 from the floor (24 percent) and 2-for-13 at the line.

Jenny Weiss led the assault with 25 points, while Kylie Rogalla netted 18, Misten Hoie 13, Lindsay Wegge 12, and Sara Jensen 12.

Northland won an earlier meeting between the two teams 107-22, giving the Pioneers a 224-57 scoring advantage in the first-year series.

Rams use free throws to defeat Gators 54-45

Roseau made the most of its free throw opportunities Tuesday in a 54-45 boys high school basketball win over Badger/Greenbush-Middle River.

The Rams went to the free throw line 26 times, making 17 of them. The visiting Gators, meanwhile, had a quiet 3-for-4 free throw night.

Roseau also had a much better shooting night from the field with a 50 percent 18-for-36 showing, compared to the Gators' 30 percent 18-for-61 figure.

"The foul count was one-sided, and we didn't shoot very well," pointed out Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Eldon Sparby.

Roseau started with an 18-10 first quarter lead, maintained a 36-16 halftime cushion and carried a 49-30 advantage into the final quarter.

Double-doubles were recorded by the Rams' Paul Rudebusch with 16 points and 11 rebounds and Mitch Anderson with 14 points and 17 rebounds.

"They beat us pretty good on the boards," noted Sparby, looking at the 42-25 Roseau rebound advantage. The Rams also had more turnovers, 24-13.

Brian Thompson scored 14 points to lead the Gators, who were still within three points with a little over two minutes remaining before three consecutive turnovers sealed their fate.

It was the 16th loss in 21 starts for the Gators.

liated over six million acres of trees in 2001.

Starvation, predators, and the life cycle of the Forest Tent Caterpillar will play a role in determining whether a community will see an infestation. Experts say they are on a downward slide, but residents will probably see one more bad year, then it will be just a bad memory.

The worms tend to run in cycles of eight to 13 years with extremely high numbers occurring for three to four years during their peak. Adults live for about five days, during which they deposit something between 100 and 350 eggs in gray cylindrical masses around the smaller branches of threes.

In time, disease and predators will catch up with the worm and their numbers will fall quickly from that point on. Last year's outbreak was actully smaller than anticipated, according to Jones.

Jones said spraying is the most efficient way of dealing with the nuisance. Other than complaints from citizens, how citizens are dealing with the issue may also play a factor in whether a city decides to spray or not.

It was explained during the meeting that residents have found many inventive ways of dealing with the pest. Residents have used tin foil and Vaseline, Saran wrap and spray cooking oil, Dawn dish soap, and even bleach. But what concerns many is the fact that residents may be improperly using insecticides or even herbicides. The use of these chemicals may have a significant impact on the local ecology. Residents may also be spending more time and money on non-traditional and sometimes home-style remedies, that it becomes more efficient to spray an entire city.

Once a community has been infested, home-style remedies may be less effective. The Forest Tent Caterpillar lays its eggs on tree branches, and more than likely in the upper branches; therefore, wrapping the base of a tree in tin foil and covering the tin foil with Vaseline may be have no effect.

There has been some success with spraying. Experts noted success in Detroit Lakes and Roseau, last year. If city leaders decide to go with the spray, the experts suggest spraying the entire city and a 100-yard buffer zone. Forest Tent Caterpillars migrate, and a 100-yard buffer zone will limit a new infestation from an unsprayed area.

Jones said the State of Minnesota does not intend to spray the entire state for the Forest Tent Caterpillar, because they have little or no impact on the health of trees. He said it would be different if they were talking about the Gypsy Moth.

The experts at the meeting encouraged city officials to begin the process of deciding whether or not they intend to spray. Right now, residents can examine their trees and, upon close examination, count egg sacks on trees. Each egg sack contains hundreds of the caterpillars. If the egg sacks are found in abundance, there's a pretty good chance that the city will have a significant infestation. It is also the time to decide whether to include citizens in the decision-making process or rely on the experts.

All remain in the area. Sons Robert and Ronald reside in Viking, and Randy and daughters Barbara Asp and Brenda Johnson live in Thief River Falls. Rodney lives in Salol. Two children, Rodney and Randy, are part-time postal service employees, and there are 15 Audette grandchildren.

In Viking, Dick served as treasurer of the town board for six years until his wife's illness forced him to quit. After a four-year battle with breast cancer, Beverly Audette succumbed to the disease in May 2000.

While Dick said his initial question was, "Where's Viking?" he says he isn't one bit sorry his career took him there. "The people," he says, "have been wonderful." Last week, many of those folks turned out at a retirement reception for Dick at the Viking Café, across the street from the post office. With 93 people in attendance, Dick said, "It was a good turnout – for Viking!"

Although things were quiet in the small Marshall County town on Friday, his last day of work at the Viking Post Office didn't go unnoticed. Co-workers were at the post office to witness Dick receiving a certificate commemorating his 32-year career from Gloria Hauge of Grand Forks, manager of Post Office Operations for 131 offices in an area that spans from Willow City, N.D. to Angle Inlet. In commending the 55-year-old for his many years of service, Hauge noted that such ceremonies were her favorite part of her job.

In parting the Viking community and his longtime position as its postmaster, Dick looks forward to a change of pace while looking back with the fond memories that spurred one of his final comments, "I'd do it all again!"

Nursing program outlined in TRF Tuesday, Feb. 12

On Tuesday, February 12, Dr. Riki Scheela, chair of the Department of Nursing at Bemidji State University, will present an informal meeting outlining a program in northwest Minnesota that enables registered nurses to obtain baccalaureate nursing degrees.

The meeting will be held at 11:40 a.m. in room 627 at Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls.

BSU Department of Nursing provides a nationally accredited nursing program designed for diploma and associate degree registered nurses to obtain their bachelor of science degrees in nursing. A major departmental goal is providing the educational mobility and articulation of registered nurses to the baccalaureate level and preparing them for advanced study.

The degree program features both full-time and part-time options for students with class times scheduled in block times that accommodate nurses' schedules. Classes alternate between the BSU campus and interactive television classes at NCTC.

Clinical experiences are arranged in a variety of locations as close to the student's home as possible.

Graduates are eligible for public health nurse certification. The BSU Nursing program is accredited by the National League for Nursing.

More information on the program is available by writing Department of Nursing, Bemidji State University, 1500 Birchmont Dr. NE, Box 15, Bemidji, MN 56601-2699 or calling (218) 755-3860.

emergency directors, radio stations, television stations, the Web site and to many other people. Lukes said this takes resources away from other activities.

There are differences in flood statements. Lukes explained that although water flows over the bank at nine feet, the statement issued is for "minor flooding." The "moderate flood stage" at Highlanding is 12 feet, and the "major flood stage" at 13 feet. Other than changing the flood stage for minor flooding from nine feet to 10 feet, none of this will change.

According to the National Weather Service, the flood of record was 13.44 feet on July 3, 1975.

The National Weather Service stated that a change to the higher flood stage would still provide those living near Highlanding with warnings that protect lives and property when they are really needed.

(River conditions, long range outlooks, and in-flood river forecasts are available at www.crh.noaa.gov/fgf/hilps.)

Hey, who's that guy on the cover?

TRF man on cover of State fishing regulations

by David Hill
Editor

It's not the cover of the Rolling Stone, but when you live in northwestern Minnesota, the cover of the 2002 Minnesota Fishing Regulations is just as good.

Last September, Brad Dokken of the Grand Forks Herald called Greg Habedank in Thief River Falls and said he had a friend who needed a picture of someone with a walleye. Not thinking the request was for anything special, Greg agreed; only the day they chose to go out turned out to be September 11. The photographer, Eric Hylden, was called back to the office, so they agreed to go out a week later.

Greg said he didn't know exactly what the picture would be used for, but it was explained that they had lots of pictures but no one with a DNR-approved life jacket. That next weekend they went out and took a lot of pictures and Greg promptly forgot about it.

Shortly after the first of the year, a Chester Yanke came up to Greg at work at Digi-Key where he is employed as a packaging floater (problem solver), and asked him if it was his picture on the cover of a magazine. Greg, who has also had his picture taken for the Chamber of Commerce

Greg Habedank of Thief River Falls appears on the cover of the 2002 Minnesota Fishing Regulations. About 1.3 million copies of the guidebook were printed and distributed throughout the state.

Fertile newspaper notes 116 years

Fertile - The Fertile Journal is celebrating a new year this week, changing its volume number to 116.

The Journal established its first newspaper in 1882. Fred Puhler was the founder, and the first issue on file in the Journal office is dated 1891.

Current Publisher Rod Thoreson, who purchased the newspaper just 17 month ago, has made noticeable changes, but has tried to keep the tradition of the small town weekly alive. Fertile Journal

DL City Council approves plan

Detroit Lakes - Detroit Lakes resident Clayton Olsen prophetically hit the nail on the head Tuesday night with his views about the proposed Highway 10 realignment improvement plan.

"The Good Book says we should take the crooked way and make it straight," Olson said at a public hearing Tuesday evening concerning the controversial highway project proposed by the Minnesota Department of Transportation.

Following the hearing, Detroit Lakes City Council aldermen voted 5 to 3 in favor of MnDOT's final layout. The project was initially estimated as a three-phase, $20 million, 10-year project to fix one of Detroit Lakes' biggest traffic flow headaches and safety concerns. Becker County Record

Most to receive smaller tax bills

Warren - When Marshall County mails out tax bills for 2001 in late march, most county property owners are likely to see a welcome reduction in the total due compared to last year, according to JoAnn Kerian, county assessor.

While computing and mailing out tax bills is the responsibility of the county auditor/treasurer's office, Kerian's assessor's office is responsible for some important preliminary steps in the property tax process. Warren Sheaf

Pericles Tsellos wins Grygla bee

Grygla - Eighth grader Pericles Tsellos was the winner of the Grygla district Spelling Bee Tuesday. Others who kept the competition going were second place finisher Ramey Nordby and third place winner Stephanie Klamar. Nordby is also an eighth grader, and Klamar is in the seventh grade.

Awards and cash prizes, donated by Grygla area organizations, were awarded to the winners, and Tsellos will represent Grygla in the regional contest in Thief River Falls on March 9. The Grygla Eagle

Meeting held to discuss new clinic

Erskine - A recent meeting was held at Pioneer Memorial Care Center regarding recommendations for the development of a new clinic attached to the center.

Under the proposal, the center would own the clinic building with the Pioneer Memorial Care Center, First Care Medical Services and Riverview Healthcare Association operating as partners for the community-based primary care clinic. The Erskine Echo

TRF looks at spraying for caterpillars

by David Hill
Editor

Thief River Falls City Council is investigating the feasibility of spraying for the Forest Tent Caterpillar. Tuesday, February 12, the council approved a motion calling for quotes to spray approximately 3,540 acres, which would include a buffer zone outside the corporate limits of the city.

Last year in Thief River Falls, the caterpillar caused everything from minor feeding to total defoliation of area trees and woodlots. Counts of egg masses around Thief River Falls this winter range from very high to very low. From this information, officials anticipate problems similar to those last year.

Damage to the trees does not generally cause trees to die. Other stress factors combined with defoliation by the caterpillars, however, may cause a tree to die. The Forest Tent Caterpillar, therefore, is mostly a nuisance. One expert recently called it a "human problem."

But after last year, officials aren't likely to push off complaints, and tell citizens to wait out the life cycle of the caterpillar. Complaints were almost as numerous as the caterpillars. Some residents refused to go outside. Some complained the caterpillars were causing damage to their homes. Many were using homemade remedies to keep the pests out of their trees and homes. Some experts are concerned that misused remedies may cause damage to the environment, and, officials estimated that the combined costs of those pesticides and home remedies may be more expensive than spraying. Before committing to spraying, however, officials want to find out how much it will cost.

Tuesday, John Johnson, Thief River Falls city forester, and Howard Person, University of Minnesota Extension agent in Pennington County, presented the Thief River Falls City Council with a map indicating the proposed spray area — 3,539 acres — which includes 589 acres of land outside the corporate limits of the city.

Johnson explained that a buffer zone is needed to limit migrating caterpillars from entering the area after spraying.

The caterpillar will travel anywhere from 100 feet to 100 yards, depending upon the size of the worm and how much food they find along the way.

The prevailing thought among city officials has been that the city will charge residents for spraying for the pest. Johnson hinted at just how difficult that might be by suggesting that each household should be charged $15, but noted that it could be added to utility bills, as well. He also suggested that property owners, not located within the city limits be charged $13 to $15 per acre. But Johnson said who is charged and how, is up to the city council, he only wanted authoriza-

Love is Ageless

After 65 years, they're still in love

Patience and kindness are two words Gertrude and Orville Hanson use to describe their love

by Kathi Carlson
Reporter

Love comes in many forms and is probably the most frequently discussed human emotion, albeit the least understood.

While for some, love strikes like a bolt of lightening and passes as quickly, for others, love is quiet, simple and enduring.

Gertrude Hanson was a teacher at Little Oak School in Hickory Township of Pennington County when she met Orville Christianson.

Although he was the fifth of seven children and the second son, Orville had accepted responsibilities of the family farm at an early age. To supplement the farm income, he worked out some, too, and said he was hauling gravel to help build a road north of Trail when he began stopping by the school to visit with Gertrude on his way home from work.

Responsibility had taken precedence in the early years of Gertrude's life as well. Born in southern Minnesota at Echo, she moved with her family to Hickory Township in 1912 when she was eight years old. She worked out as she completed her high school education, first in Gully and then in Thief River Falls. After being trained as a teacher in Mayville, N.D. in 1927, she began teaching at a North Dakota school and contributing toward the educations of her four younger siblings at the Northwest School of Agriculture in Crookston.

> "We get along good," Orville says of his relationship with Gertrude. "She's a little older, but that's O.K."

After the courtship that began with Orville's stops at the country schoolhouse, the couple was married on July 2, 1936 at Nazareth Lutheran Church near Trail. Although the wedding had been planned for June, Orville said that they had to wait a few weeks until he could get a car.

With her marriage, Gertrude's teaching career ended as she assumed the role of homemaker on the Christianson farm 16 miles north of Gully on the River Valley Road. In 1938, the couple motored to Thief River Falls where their first daughter, Arlene, was born. In 1944, the couple's twin daughters Corrine and Corella, were born in Crookston.

The couple remained on the farm until March of 1998 when they moved to Valley Home in Thief River Falls. Since April of 2001, they have resided at Oakland Park Nursing Home.

Gertrude and Orville continue to speak of their daughters with pride. Arlene is a journalist who lives in Washington and works in Portland. Corrine is a registered nurse who resides in Moorhead and is employed at MeritCare's clinic in Fargo. Corella followed in her mother's footsteps and enjoyed a 13-year teaching degree before assuming the role of homemaker. She lives in Plymouth. Corrine and Corella each have two children, and Arlene has stepchildren and a step grandchild.

At the nursing home, the Christianson's caring relationship is

Wienermobile to visit TRF on February 26

The Oscar Mayer Wienermobile is expected to pay the Hugo's store in Thief River Falls a visit on February 26. Hugo's grocery store has flyers available for youngsters to color, and is looking forward to the arrival of the historical Wienermobile.

by J.J. Stalte
for The Times/Northern Watch

Thief River Falls can look forward to the arrival of the Oscar Mayer Wienermobile in the Hugo's grocery store parking lot on Tuesday, February 26, from 1 to 4 p.m. as a promotional appearance from Oscar Mayer and Hugo's.

The Wienermobile has an interesting background. First built in 1936 by Carl G. Mayer, the nephew of the founder, the automobile was seen driving around the streets of Chicago promoting Oscar Mayer "German Style Wieners." The first Wienermobile was 13 feet long and cost about $5,000 to build.

Approximately 1,000 applicants have applied to drive the Wienermobile, and Oscar Mayer hired 30 of those applicants (all college graduates) to drive one of its six Wienermobiles to publicity and charity events.

If you're lucky enough to cut the mustard, they'll send you to "Hot Dog High" at Oscar Mayer's headquarters in Madison, Wis. There, students learn how to handle the vehicle, and apparently, also learn how to turn any sentence into a pun about hot dogs.

The phrase "German Style Wieners" was dropped when the second Wienermobile hit the streets in 1940. After America entered World War II, the Wienermobile retired from the road due to gas rationing, and Oscar Mayer focused efforts on canning meat for soldiers overseas.

Between the years of 1950 and 1954, five new wienermobiles were built. It is one of these models that resides in Dearborn, Mich., in the Henry Ford Museum. Several styles and models have been built over the years, but one fact still remains, kids love seeing the wienermobile when it comes to town. The Oscar Mayer Company takes great pride in having the Wienermobile tour the United States, and Thief River Falls is on the list of visits. Several other Wienermobiles travel around the globe to countries like Japan and Australia.

When it makes a stop in a community, kids receive treats from members of the Oscar Mayer team of representatives. Many older youngsters may remember the Wienerwhistle that was given out by team members from the Oscar Mayer Wienermobile. Did you

Spring is in the air, whether it snows or not. Once we've got a whiff of it, we can't quit thinking about it. Let's cook like spring this week.

I love lemon, and this would be a wonderful dessert to serve to guests - It's an anticipation of spring:

PINK LEMONADE DESSERT
2 cups crushed butter-flavored crackers (about 50 crackers)
1/4 cup powdered sugar
1/2 cup butter, melted
1 (14 ounce) can sweetened condensed milk
3/4 cup pink lemonade concentrate
1 (12 ounce) container whipped topping, thawed
2-3 teaspoons red food coloring, if desired

In bowl, combine cracker crumbs and sugar. Stir in butter and press in 9x13 inch dish. Set aside.

In blender or food processor, combine condensed milk and lemonade concentrate. Cover and process until well blended. Fold in whipped topping and food coloring. Spread over crust, cover and refrigerate for 2 hours or until firm.

Just the thing to fill up the cookie jars after the Christmas cookies - these are plain but oh, so tasty and really easy. I made them last weekend and they are really good:

ALMOND SUGAR COOKIES
2 cups butter-flavored shortening
1 cup powdered sugar (or granulated)
1 cup packed brown sugar
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1 teaspoon almond extract
4 cups flour (plus enough to handle easily - the less flour, the more tender cookie though)
2 teaspoons soda
1 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons cream of tartar
Additional sugar for top

In large bowl, cream shortening and sugars. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each. Beat in extracts.

Combine flour, soda and cream of tartar and gradually add to creamed mixture.

Roll into balls and place on greased baking sheets. Flatten with a glass dipped in sugar and bake at 350 degrees 10-12 minutes until lightly browned. Recipe makes 5 dozen or more.

Here's another yummy treat to serve to the card club next time that will get them in a spring mood:

PRETZEL FRUIT PIZZA
3 cups finely crushed pretzels
2/3 cup sugar
1-1/4 cups cold butter
1 (14 ounce) can sweetened condensed milk
1/4 cup lime juice
1 tablespoon grated lime peel
1-1/2 cups whipped topping
7-8 cups assorted fresh fruits

In bowl, combine pretzels and sugar. Mix well. Cut in butter until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Press in 14 inch pizza pan. Bake at 375 degrees for 8-10 minutes or until set. Cool on rack and then refrigerate for 30 minutes.

Meanwhile, combine milk, lime juice and lime peel. Fold in whipped topping and spread over crust. Cover and chill.

Top with sliced fruits just before serving.

Sometimes we just need a little Jell-O - you can serve this one to guests as a dessert or with a "Hot Dish" any time:

FRUITED LEMON GELATIN SALAD
1 (6 ounce) package lemon gelatin
2 cups boiling water
1 (12 ounce) can lemon-lime soda pop
1 (20 ounce) can crushed pineapple
1 (15 ounce) can mandarin oranges, drained
2 cups halved green grapes
1 egg
1/2 cup sugar
2 tablespoons flour
1 tablespoon butter
1 cup whipping cream, whipped

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Stir in soda pop. Refrigerate until partly set.

Drain pineapple, reserving juice. Set aside. Add water to pineapple juice, if necessary, to measure 1 cup. Set aside.

Stir pineapple, oranges and grapes into gelatin. Pour into a 9x13 inch dish. Refrigerate.

In saucepan over medium heat, combine egg, sugar, flour, butter and reserved pineapple juice. Bring to a boil, cook and stir for 2 minutes or until thickened. Cool completely.

Fold in whipped cream. Spread over gelatin and refrigerate until firm. Cut into squares to serve.

To make something really spring-like, get some frozen rhubarb from the store freezer and make this tasty dessert:

RHUBARB CUSTARD CAKE
1 package yellow cake mix (18 1/4 ounces)
4 cups chopped fresh or frozen rhubarb
1 cup sugar
1 cup whipped cream
Whipped cream
Fresh mint, if desired

Prepare cake mix according to package. Pour into greased 9x13 inch pan. Sprinkle with rhubarb and sugar and slowly pour cream over top.

Bake at 350 degrees for 40-45 minutes or until golden brown. Cool for at least 15 minutes before serving.

Garnish with lots of real whipped cream (whipped topping will melt on warm cake) and mint if desired.

Here's a spring time taste treat for those who are watching their diets - fancy "bowls" of fruit with the best fruit sauce you've ever tasted:

HONEYDEW FRUIT BOWLS
1 large honeydew, halved
1 large red apple, diced
1 large navel orange, sectioned
1 medium firm banana, sliced
1 kiwifruit, peeled and sliced
1/2 cup blueberries, divided
2 tablespoons orange juice concentrate
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 cup unsweetened raspberries
2 tablespoons half and half cream

Remove fruit from honeydew. Set melon bowls and fruit aside. In a bowl, combine apple, orange, banana, kiwi, 1/4 cup blueberries, orange juice concentrate and lemon juice. Spoon into melon bowls. Set aside.

In blender or food processor, combine honeydew, raspberries and remaining blueberries. Cover and process until blended. Stir in cream. Pour over fruit. Set bowls in bed of ice and serve immediately.

Recipe serves 16 (both halves). Nutritional Analysis: 1 2/3 cup serving equals 58 calories, 9 mg sodium, 1 mg chol, 14 gm carb, 1 gm protein, trace fat, 2 gm fiber. Diabetic exchange is 1 fruit.

EDITORIAL OPINIONS

Volunteers make fundraising efforts very successful

I had the pleasure of attending the kick-off celebration for the Red Lake County American Cancer Society Relay for Life in Oklee last summer. It was well organized and inspirational. In our coverage of the event, we noted that it was ranked among the best in the nation. I read in The Oklee Herald last week that the local chapter had been informed that it was eighth in the nation for per capita fundraising. That's an amazing accomplishment. Organizers of the event ought to be very proud, but knowing these individuals, I know they never rest on their laurels. During a quick news announcement of the award, they announced that their Relay For Life 2002 will be held May 31 through June 1 at the Oklee Football Field.

Cancer education and research funding will be on all of our minds in the near future. I'm not trying to scare you, but instead, I'd like to announce that the Daffodil Days fundraising campaign is nearing. For the ACS chapter in Thief River Falls, it is the most successful fundraising campaign of the year. Volunteers will soon be visiting businesses and offices throughout Pennington County, collecting donations and selling daffodils. The daffodil is the symbol of hope in the fight against cancer.

Thursday morning I had the pleasure of covering the Muscular Dystrophy Association (MDA) Lock Up For Good event held at the C'mon Inn in Thief River Falls. I thought it would consist of a couple of individuals manning a couple of telephones in an attempt to raise a few dollars. Instead, I discovered a room packed with more than a dozen individuals making calls and filling out pledge cards. Once again, volunteers in our communities were making a difference.

The most important aspect of this news is that it is being done by volunteers, hundreds of volunteers. In northwestern Minnesota, one doesn't have to look far to find individuals willing to step forward and help their neighbors. Why? Volunteering to help our neighbors is a value residents of northwestern Minnesota strongly support.

The color of words and actions

I won't argue that how skaters are judged should be determined by the general public. Let's face it, most of us know very little about what it takes to be an Olympic skater, much less how to do what they do so well. Most any of us are capable of is an expertly stated "oooh," when one falls, or a "that looks purhity." So much for our expertise. So why are so many outraged by the results of the pairs short program at the Olympics? Was it because we've heard of past indiscretions and scandals, politics in the ice skating world, the fact that judging is a subjective evaluation; or, was it because we got carried away with the descriptions and outrage expressed by the television announcers?

Okay, probably all of the above. But, I think our perceptions were colored by what we heard the announcers say. I now think that that we need to sit back and listen to experts who are not caught up in the heat of the moment. Frankly, the situation kind of reminds me of problems we've had at the newspaper. Sometimes the complaints have been about headlines, which may seem a little more similar to the current controversy. Of course, mistakes are made, but sometimes the reader didn't bother to read the rest of the story. Sometimes even reading the first few sentences is not be enough, because some situations are complex and require a great deal of time and effort to explain. Sometimes even after reading a story, an individual's entire interpretation of what was written may hinge on their personal interpretation of a single word.

There is a point, of course. After listening to a very enlightening discussion between experts on MSNBC, I became a lot less convinced of my first impression of what happened at the Olympics, and what the proper course of action might be.

Quite often we need to read beyond the headlines, take a little time to listen to the experts, actually put a little effort into learning a little more about what's taking place, and allow time for the proper course of action to be taken.

Rep. Penas authors bill to build better roads in region

Representative Maxine Penas (R-Badger) does not want poor quality roads to stand in the way of economic development in rural Minnesota. She has introduced legislation calling for $100 million of state bonding money to upgrade roads in rural areas to year-round 10-ton capacity.

"It's extremely important for businesses in small towns and our farmers in rural Minnesota to be able to transport their products in and out of the area," Penas said. "Without good roads, our potential for a booming local economy is crippled."

Penas' bill was heard in the House Transportation Finance Committee last week. Joining her to testify in favor of the bill was Roseau Mayor Jeff Pelowski, Tim Dejong from Polaris and Troy Schroeder from Northwest Regional Development.

"It's important for our employers in northwest Minnesota to have roads that are adequate to get materials into their factories and to get products out to the consumers," Penas said.

The legislation would put first priority on upgrading existing five-ton roads to 10-ton roads, and then second priority to upgrade the seven-ton roads. The first $20 million of the bonding money will go to upgrade state trunk highways with the other $80 million going toward grants to counties to upgrade county state-aid highways.

"Having a good road system in place not only helps us attract new businesses, it will help ensure that the businesses we have don't close down or relocate," Penas said, "and with a lot of local jobs depending on these businesses, it's pretty important for me to do what I can to keep them around."

House proposes plan to balance the budget

by Rep. Tim Finseth

My fellow representatives and I in the Minnesota House of Representatives announced last week our plan for balancing the $1.9 billion budget deficit the state of Minnesota faces. The plan reduces spending, taps reserves, and cuts the state workforce to balance the budget without compromising local schools, nursing homes, or shifting the burden onto local property taxpayers.

Our plan bridges the gap between tough economic times and good ones, while safeguarding the priorities and pocketbooks of hard-working Minnesotans. The centerpiece of the long-term budget plan is an elimination of the automatic spending increases built into the budget process each year.

Our main goal is to be responsible with this budget plan. It balances the budget without digging into Minnesotans' pocketbooks with higher taxes, or lowering the quality of education. Our plan is also the only one that does not cut critical state funding for roads and bridges.

The budget plan released last week eliminates the state's budget deficit while safeguarding the top priorities of Minnesotans without raising taxes. It includes $653.5 million in spending reductions in 2002-2003; $2.1 billion in spending reductions in 2004-2005; enacts a state hiring freeze, and uses money from the tobacco prevention endowment. In comparison, the Governor's plan raises taxes and cuts schools to finance a $31 billion state budget in 2004-2005, while the Senate DFL plan makes deeper cuts in higher education funding.

Balancing the budget should be about responsibly controlling the growth and size of state government while protecting working Minnesotans and their values. We accomplish this by prudently cutting spending, tapping into reserves, and protecting taxpayers, schools and the elderly.

LETTERS

To the Editor:

Marvin Lundin, former Times editor, succinctly expressed in the Northern Watch, the appreciation and gratitude people in the area, and particularly Thief River Falls' residents, should feel about the generous gift from Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Engelstad — what a wonderful gesture!

When one hears and reads all the negativism in the news these days, it is encouraging to know there are people in the world, like the Engelstads, who are willing to share their good fortune.

In the past, it has been difficult for the physically handicapped to access the restroom facilities or the refreshment area on the second floor of the existing arena.

We are excited about seeing this beautiful new building take shape, and hopefully watching some exciting games being placed there.

Hats off to the Engelstads!

Sincerely,
Tat and Mary Marvin

Senate, Stumpf address education funding in Greater Minnesota

Only one week into the 2002 legislative session, the Minnesota Senate took charge to address the deficit facing the state and preserved stable funding for public education in Greater Minnesota.

"The DFL leadership places a high priority on protecting funding directly affecting students in the classroom," said Sen. LeRoy Stumpf, chair of the E-12 budget division. "The Senate E-12 Budget Balancing Bill reflects that priority. The proposed bill emphasizes the need for stable funding for public education in Minnesota."

In contrast, Gov. Ventura's proposed budget threatens to place even greater burdens on rural schools and local property taxpayers, Sen. Stumpf noted.

"Ventura's plan imposes sales tax on schools, increases property taxes, and cuts special education, early childhood education, community education, and general education programs. Ventura's plan is unacceptable," Sen. Stumpf said.

Sen. Stumpf added that the unintended consequences of last year's hasty tax reform measures placed an undue burden on local school districts. It forced communities to either pass new levies or raise fees, cut services, close schools, lay off teachers and increase class sizes.

"Strong public education is the cornerstone of healthy communities," said Stumpf. "The Senate is committed to maintaining educating funding and not balancing the budget on the backs of our children. As the session continues, the Senate vows to maintain its commitment to public schools and the communities it serves."

A vote on the education package could come soon.

Visitors Guide, thought it was a picture him and another individual. But his Yonke said "no," and went to get the magazine. When he returned with the 2002 Minnesota Fishing Regulations, Greg said he was totally floored.

Since that day, Greg said a day hasn't gone by that someone hasn't asked him if he was the guy pictured on the cover of the 2002 Minnesota Fishing Regulations.

One day while shopping at Hugo's, he noticed a young boy watching him. The boy ran away, but Greg saw him short time later watching him. The boy ran away again. A short while later he was pushing a cart down an aisle when someone said "Excuse me." Thinking he was in someone's way he pushed his cart aside, but when he looked up, the boy who had been watching him was standing there with his father. The man said, "My boy seems to think you're the guy on the cover of the 2002 Minnesota Fishing Regulations." Greg said he's sure he turned bright red.

Greg said wherever he goes, he sees copies of the fishing regulations, and people ask him if he's the guy.

It's likely he'll be asked that same question for some time to come — the state printed 1.3 million copies of the fishing regulations.

Greg said he gets a lot of questions about being pictured on the cover of the 2002 Minnesota Fishing Regulations.

The second most frequently asked question is whether he got any compensation for the picture. The answer is "No."

The third most frequently asked question is where does he fish. Habedank said he made a couple of trips to the Lake of the Woods last year, but hasn't been in a boat in several years. He mostly fishes in the river between the Red Lake reservoir dam in Thief River Falls and Hoot State Park because "it's that good."

Habedank says the attention is as flattering as it is embarrasing. "It's really nice and something I never expected."

Although Habedank says he's just an average angler, I'll let you be the judge. Last year he estimated that he went fishing during at least 100 days. He admits he doesn't usually fish a whole day like he used to, though.

When asked how big the walleye he's holding is, he said he thought it weighed three to four pounds and was 22- to 23-inches long. He wasn't exactly sure, but he could check his diary. His diary? Yes, he has kept a diary of every fishing trip he has ever made since he was 15 years old.

But no, Habedank says he's just an average angler and he knows that in northwestern Minnesota there are a lot of good outdoorsmen. "I just happen to be the guy holding the fish," he said.

the envy of the employees who observe the gentle, caring ways the couple exhibits toward each other. "She's still my girl," Orville declares fondly. "She's an awfully good woman ...too good for me."

Family photographs, old and new, are neatly arranged on a bulletin board in the couple's room. The walls include a family portrait of Orville, Gertrude and their adult daughters and several of Orville's paintings. The hobby he realized later in life, after receiving money for art lessons with artist LaVonne Forsberg as a birthday gift from daughter Arlene, continues in the activity room at Oakland Park.

The music that has been part of the Christiansons' long lives continues as well, as Orville plays the autoharp for his wife and friends at the nursing home.

"We get along good," Orville says of his relationship with Gertrude. "She's a little older, but that's O.K." He's particularly proud of the fact that in more than 65 years of marriage, he and Gertrude have never argued. That fact is attested to by daughter Corella who said the loving, structured home she and her sisters grew up in did not include harsh words.

If at 91 and 97, Orville and Gertrude know the secrets of what it takes to achieve success in love and marriage, they're not talking about it. Rather, they're setting an example.

Obviously, they've spent their married lives taking the time to think before they've spoken, with each putting the other's feelings in front of his or her own.

"Patient" and "kind" are the first two words used to describe love in the New Testament book of I Corinthians. They are also the words that describe the love that has brought Orville and Gertrude Christianson, and so many others fortunate folks like them, full circle.

Local charities to benefit from Miss TRF and Friends Variety Show

■ Tonight (Saturday, Feb. 16) at LHS Auditorium

While one might have expected her to be preening for June's Miss Minnesota Scholarship Pageant, Miss Thief River Falls, Kelsi Holland, has instead been pounding the pavement gathering donations and rounding up local talent to perform a benefit variety show.

The Miss TRF and Friends Variety Show will be held on Saturday, February 16, beginning with a silent auction at 6:30 p.m.

Benefactors of the show will be two local charities, the Pennington County Humane Society and the Kid's Vote program. Kelsi is a member of the local Humane Society, an organization dedicated to caring for and finding homes for unwanted, abused and neglected animals. With citizen as her pageant platform, she is also involved with Kid's Vote USA, a program that enables students to visit official polling sites on election day with their parents and cast ballots similar in content to the official ballot. The Kid's Vote program in Thief River Falls is currently being coordinated by Carol Ihle.

In organizing the show, Kelsi has realized many successes. The lineup of talented performers will include Vanessa Anderson, Derek Mosloff, Jane Anderson, Robin Silverman, Mya Zutz, Luke Torgerson, Katie Bjornstad, Brianna Drevlow, LeeAnn Szetso, Laura Rude, and Mary Mickelson's fourth grade class. Kelsi will present several vocal numbers as well, including "Time To Say Goodbye," the operatic piece she will perform in the Miss Minnesota Scholarship Pageant. Art Heinze will serve as the master of ceremonies.

Service clubs assisting with the event are the Kiwanis who will help with ticket sales, programs and on stage, and the Thief River Falls Women of Today who are donating the treats and beverages they will serve following the show. Individuals who will be helping backstage include Susie Koland, Deb Ernst, and Mary Twistol.

Thief River Falls area businesses have responded whole-heartedly to Kelsi's effort, donating more than $2,000 in merchandise and gift certificates that will be auctioned off, both during a Silent Auction, which will begin at 6:30 p.m. and continue during intermission, and during a Live Auction with auctioneer Maryel Anderson calling for bids.

Kelsi, who did much of the legwork for the event over Christmas break, is grateful for the community's outpouring of support for the event and excited about the prospects of raising funds for two worthwhile local organizations.

Tickets are $5 and will be available at the door.

Pioneers hit 20-win mark vs. Raiders

Four Northland scorers hit double figures Wednesday as the Pioneers beat host Central Lakes 73-60 in Minnesota Community College Conference women's basketball.

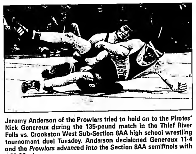
Candice Sohe led the balanced attack with 18 points, while Misten Hole netted 15, Sara Gross 12, and Sara Jensen 11.

The Pioneers built a 37-21 halftime lead as they reached the 20-win plateau for the year. They are 20-2 overall and 10-2 in the MCCC Northern Division.

"Not many teams in the country win 20 games," noted Northland coach Mike Zachow. "Defensively we were pretty outstanding, especially in the first half. We were pitching a shutout for the first five-six minutes."

The Raiders did match the Pioneers' four double-figure scorers, led by Val Diedrich with 17 points. But the Raiders found themselves down by 26 with 14 minutes left. They made it respectable at the end by cashing in on Northland's penchant for fouling.

Northland was 26-for-67 from the field (39 percent) and 11-for-16 at the free throw line. Central Lakes went 19-for-47 from the floor (40 percent) and 19-for-26 at the line. The Pioneers had a 33-32 rebound edge. The Raiders topped the turnover charts 27-15.



The Pioneers finish the regular season with 6 p.m. games Monday (Fergus Falls) and Friday (Itasca) in Thief River Falls.

Jeremy Anderson of the Prowlers tried to hold on to the Pirates' Nick Genereux during the 135-pound match in the Thief River Falls vs. Crookston West Sub-Section 8AA high school wrestling tournament duel Tuesday. Anderson decisioned Genereux 11-4 and the Prowlers advanced into the Section 8AA semifinals with a 39-26 win.

TRF is 3-2 overtime winner against EGF

Two top contenders in Section 8A boys high school hockey put on a tournament preview Tuesday when Thief River Falls got by East Grand Forks 3-2 in overtime at the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center.

The Prowlers' Dane Kjono scored the game-winner 4:01 into the extra period when he was fed the puck along the boards, then cut toward the middle of the ice as he fired the puck past East Grand Forks goalie Shaun Knutson.

Thief River Falls appeared to be headed to a 2-1 regulation time win before Matt Stengl of the Green Wave tied it on a goal with just 10 seconds left.

Both teams were trying to improve their Section 8A stock heading into the tournament seeding vote the next morning.

"That's as close as you're going to get to a tournament atmosphere in a regular season game," said Thief River Falls coach Scott Bergland. "It was just like a section final. You could cut the tension with a knife. It was a lot of fun to be part of."

Thief River Falls started the game with a 2-0 lead on goals by William Forney at 1:36 and 7:40 of the first period.

East Grand Forks cut the difference in half when Tyler Scholand scored a mere two seconds before the third period horn.

It stayed that way until Stengl's equalizer.

"We carried play at the start," pointed out Bergland, whose team lost a 4-0 game at East Grand Forks back on Jan. 22. "We could have easily been up four or five to nothing if we score on our chances."

Thief River Falls goalie Ben Worker stopped 23 shots. Knutson finished with 26 saves.

The Prowlers took a 15-8-1 record into their regular season finale Friday at Fergus Falls.

Scoring

First period - TRF, William Forney (Dane Kjono-Jay Tuthill), 1:36. TRF, Forney (Preston Johnson-Travis Collins), 7:40. EGF, Tyler Scholand (Matt Stengl-Chris Spicer), 14:48.

Second period - no scoring

Third period - EGF, Stengl (Kyle Weber-Scholand), 14:50.

Overtime - TRF, Kjono (Jeff Schneider-Tuthill), 4:01.

Goalie saves - TRF, Ben Worker 8-4-8-3-23; EGF, Shaun Knutson 10-4-11-1-26.

High school wrestling tournament...

Prowlers advance to 8AA semifinal round

First period pins through the first five weight classes propelled Thief River Falls to a 39-26 win over Crookston Thursday in the West Sub-Section 8AA high school wrestling tournament hosted by the Prowlers.

The Pirates beat the Prowlers 39-31 in Thief River Falls' Northwest Quad Jan. 26, but that was against a line-up minus several regulars. This time the winners were at full strength, and the 33-0 score after six matches showed it.

At the same time Thief River Falls was beating Crookston, Detroit Lakes was out-scoring Roseau 61-12 on mats laid side-by-side in the Lincoln gym. The Prowlers and Lakers both advanced to the Section 8AA team tournament Friday at Park Rapids.

Roseau defeated East Grand Forks 41-31 and Crookston eliminated Fosston/Bagley 39-26 in first round matches earlier in the evening.

Thief River Falls' rapid-fire match-opening pins against Crookston were recorded by junior Colt Bergeron in 55 seconds at 103 pounds; eighth grader Daniel LeDuc in 40 seconds at 112; sophomore Chris Bergeron in 1:24 at 119; senior Beau Abrahamson in 1:34 at 125; and freshman Zach Anderson in 56 seconds at 130.

The Prowlers ran their match-opening win streak to six when junior Jeremy Anderson turned a 4-1 second period lead into an 11-4 decision over Nick Genereux at 135.

"Our lightweights really, really rolled," said Thief River Falls coach Rick Yanke. "They came out of the gates wide open. They've been a source of a lot of points for us this year."

Crookston finally broke through at 140, where Isaac Perala emerged a 4-2 winner over Ryan Bruggeman with an overtime takedown.

That was the first of four straight wins by the Pirates as Mark Proulx, after finding himself caught in a pin situation, quickly turned things around and stopped Gavin Martell with a first period fall at 145; Joey Perreault fashioned three two-point periods into a 6-1 decision over Adam Lian at 152; and Joey Couette surprised Jon Swanson by breaking a 3-3 third period tie for a 6-3 victory at 160.

"Crookston is real solid in the middle weights, from 140 to 160, and again at 189 and heavyweight," explained Yanke. "I kind of expected things to slow down for us."

Senior Aric Berg returned to the Thief River Falls line-up and remained unbeaten with a second period pin at 171 that pushed his record to 15-0 and provided the Prowlers with a 39-14 scoreboard cushion.

It ended on pins by the Pirates' Elliot Steinbrink at 189 and Vince Gonzales at heavyweight.

The Prowlers took a 17-5 dual record to Park Rapids, where a Class AA state team tournament spot awaited the winner. Hibbing and Blackduck/Cass Lake-Bena advanced through the East Sub-Section 8AA matches at Blackduck Tuesday.

Section 8AA individual tournament will take place Feb. 22 and 23 at Fosston. Friday competition begins at 12:30 p.m., with semifinals set for 7 p.m. The Saturday schedule includes wrestle-backs starting at noon and championship matches at 4 p.m.

Add Andy Larson to MCC 1,000-point list

A 28-point night by Andy Larson gained admission into the 1,000-Point Club for the Marshall County Central senior during the Nordics' 73-47 boys high school basketball win over Badger/Greenbush-Middle River Tuesday at Newfolden.

A 6-0 guard, Larson came into the game 22 points shy of the career scoring milestone. He reached that figure on a third quarter put-back. Play stopped momentarily while the feat was acknowledged and Larson was presented with the game ball.

He is the seventh Marshall County Central boy to surpass the 1,000-point mark. The last to do it was David Wilcox in 2000. The others, and the year they hit that figure, include Micah Ranum, 1996; Tim Olson, 1993; Jeremy Underdahl, 1991; Mike Fincher, 1977; and Donny Engelsrod, 1959.

The Nordics made sure they didn't spoil the occasion by putting together a top-notch first half that produced a 17-9 first quarter lead and a 38-21 halftime advantage. It was 53-35 through three quarters.

"We had a great first half," said Marshall County Central coach Ron Ueland. "We shot the ball well and we ran the floor really well."

Justin Magner and Garrett Swan were also double figure scorers for the Nordics with 13 and 10 points, respectively. Josh Larson contributed with 12 rebounds, eight assists and five loose ball recoveries.

Brian Thompson led Badger/Greenbush-Middle River with 14 points.

"We got out-played bad in the first half," said Gators coach Eldon Sparby. "They ran us off the court. We got out-hustled. We just did not play very good basketball."

Marshall County Central was 31-for-60 from the field (52 percent) and 7-for-19 at the free throw line. Badger/Greenbush-Middle River struggled through a 15-for-52 shooting night (29 percent) while going 13-for-19 at the line. The Nordics finished with a 35-25 rebound edge over the Gators, who topped the turnover charts 18-16.

The win put the Nordics at 20-2 for the year and clinched title ties in both the Star Six and North Border Conference. The Gators, who lost an earlier meeting between the two rivals 81-55, fell to 6-18.

Slow start costs NCTC

Northland paid the price for a slow start Wednesday, losing a 75-65 Minnesota Community College Conference men's basketball game to Central Lakes. The Northern Division game was played at Brainerd.

Central Lakes doubled Northland 42-21 in the first half. The Pioneers won the second half by 11, but that still left them 10 points short at game's end.

"It was a tale of two halves," reported Northland coach Rick Nikunen. "We turned it over too many times in the first half, we just didn't play well at all. I was pleased with the way we played in the second half, but it was too little, too late."

The Pioneers out-scored the Raiders 23-5 at the start of the second half to chop the difference to just 47-44, and they were within two points with 3 1/2 minutes left before the comeback ran out of steam.

Both sides had four double figure scorers, led by the Pioneers' Jerry Shorter with 19 points and the Raiders' Garth McFadden with 16.

Central Lakes made the most of its free throw opportunities, hitting 19 of 20 foul shots. Northland went 10-for-13 at the line.

The Pioneers are 12-10 for the year, 4-8 in the Northern Division, where they have lost three straight to drop out of MCCC state tournament contention. They beat Central Lakes 85-73 in Thief River Falls earlier this season.

Northland will finish the season at home, hosting Fergus Falls Monday and Itasca Friday in 8 p.m. games.

Warroad shuts down TRF

Points were hard to come by for Thief River Falls Tuesday in a 50-36 boys high school basketball loss at Warroad.

The winners led at the quarter breaks 11-9, 27-17 and 38-23.

It was the start that most concerned Thief River Falls coach Chris McLean. "We were out-hustled in the first half," he said. "They did a really good job offensively spreading us out and making the plays. We dug ourselves a hole. We tried to come back in the second half, but we don't have enough fire-power."

Kent Peterson of Warroad and Jason Koch of Thief River Falls shared game-high scoring honors with 21 points each.

Warroad had a 50 percent 17-for-34 shooting night from the field and cashed in on 16 of 23 free throw opportunities. Thief River Falls struggled through a 27 percent 13-for-47 shooting night and had just as much trouble at the free throw line, where the Prowlers were 5-for-13. The winners finished with a 25-20 rebound edge. The Prowlers' stat sheets show the same numbers on the turnover charts.

The loss dropped the Prowlers to 5-12.

Otters, Jacks defeat TRF girls

Back-to-back Thief River Falls road games against Section 8AAA girls high school basketball rivals resulted in a nine-point defeat at Fergus Falls and a 10-point setback at Bemidji.

The Prowlers fell to the Otters 61-52 Friday (Feb. 8) and lost to the Lumberjacks 50-40 Tuesday.

Free throws set up the Fergus Falls win. The Otters were out-scored from the field 42-40, but they were 21-for-25 at the free throw line, where the Prowlers went 10-for-15.

"Statistics were pretty even; free throws were un-even in their favor," pointed out Thief River Falls coach Jeff Loe.

Fergus Falls led at the quarter stops 13-12, 28-20 and 40-35.

"We shot one free throw in the first half, and 14 in the second half," noted Loe. "The big difference being that we got more aggressive offensively. We didn't back down from their pressure in the second half, which was the reason for 15 turnovers in the first half."

The Prowlers wound up with 26 turnovers for the night, two more than the Otters.

Nikki Tvedt and Brenda Kapan led the Thief River Fall offense with 13 and 11 points, respectively. Jessica Holicky scored a game-high 18 points for the Otters.

Fergus Falls was 19-for-52 from the field (37 percent); Thief River Falls went 19-for-43 (44 percent).

Turnovers proved to be the tide-turner against Bemidji. The Prowlers lost the ball 23 times; the Lumberjacks 16.

Thief River Falls, after trailing 16-10 at the end of the first quarter, out-scored Bemidji 12-2 in the second quarter for a 22-18 halftime edge, only fall behind 35-28 in the third quarter.

"It was a frustrating loss, again," offered Loe. "We had some costly turnovers in the third quarter, and missed some opportunities to score early in the second half."

The Prowlers' defense limited Bemidji scoring leader Kristy Wallner to four points, but Megan Spaulding filled the gap with a 26-point night. Chelsea Haviland scored 13 points and Meghan Nelson had 11 for the visitors.

Thief River Falls was 15-for-40 from the field (38 percent) and 9-for-14 at the line. Bemidji went 18-for-50 from the floor (36 percent) and 14-for-22 on free throws.

The Prowlers are 13-7 overall and 2-3 against Section 8AAA foes.

Huskies fall to Eagles 49-42

Red Lake Falls lit it up on the outside early and went on to beat visiting Goodridge 49-42 in Tuesday boys high school basketball.

The Eagles hit six 3-pointers en route to a 19-8 first quarter lead. They led 32-22 at halftime and carried a 38-34 edge into the final quarter.

Goodridge did pull even briefly at 38-38 with six minutes left, but Red Lake Falls' Matt Largis then took charge with a couple of baskets that added to his game-high 22 points.

The Eagles complemented their offense with a defense that contained Goodridge standout Casey Jones. The 6-9 center finished the game with 18 points.

"Offensively they were on fire," said Goodridge coach Eric Mickelson, "and defensively they did the best job we've seen all year bottling up Jones. They made it extremely difficult to get him the ball."

Red Lake Falls shot 51 percent from the field (18/35) and went 6-for-9 at the free throw line. Goodridge shot 37 percent from the floor (18/49) and had a 4-for-6 free throw night.

The loss dropped Goodridge to 11-8.

Wolverines beat RLF

Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke, beaten by Red Lake Falls 44-26 earlier this winter, won a 38-33 Feb. 9 "Super Saturday" rematch at Northland Community and Technical College.

The Wolverines led the low-scoring contest at the quarter breaks 10-7, 22-15 and 30-23.

"We were up by 11 in the fourth quarter, then we turned it over and they got within three," pointed out Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke coach Justin Lunsetter. "But we did a good job taking care of the ball in the last minute-and-a-half."

"This was a big win for us," said Lunsetter. "I thought we played pretty well – a lot better than we have been playing lately."

Wolfpack runs by B/G-MR

Kittson Central overwhelmed Badger/Greenbush-Middle River 72-31 in a girls high school basketball game played Thursday, Feb. 7.

Ashley Langen scored 25 points to lead a trio of double figure scorers for the winners, who had quarter leads of 21-6, 46-12 and 61-15.

"They just smothered us," said Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Tom Neihauer.

Kierah Kimbrough overcame early foul trouble – she had three personals in the first five minutes of the game – to score 23 points and grab 12 rebounds for the Gators.

The Gators shot 31 percent from the field (12/39) and went 7-for-11 at the free throw line, where the Wolfpack had a 12-for-19 night.

"We have to shoot better than that," noted Neibauer. "We were missing lay-ups."

MCC girls watch results improve in busy stretch

In a three-game, 10-day span, performances by the Marshall County Central girls high school basketball team went from worst to best, according to Nordics head coach Tom Mjelde.

It was a stretch that included a less-than-satisfying Tuesday (Jan. 29) showing in a 46-36 road loss at the hands of Stephen-Argyle, an improved Thursday (Jan. 31) effort in a 63-56 home court loss to East Grand Forks Sacred Heart; then a top-of-the line Thursday (Feb. 7) outing in a 53-41 victory over Lake of the Woods at Baudette.

"That was by far our best game of the year," said Mjelde after the win over the Bears. "The Stephen-Argyle game was pathetic – our worst game of the year. Sacred Heart was better – we actually played pretty well."

Offense took center stage in the win as the Nordics turned in a 55 percent 23-for-42 shooting performance and came up with a season-first four double figure scorers. The balanced attack included Jordan Holthusen with 12 points, Shantel Magner 11, Kari Holmstrom 10, and Jana Lokstad 10.

"Jordan and Kari have been pretty consistent scorers for us," mentioned Mjelde, "but we told the girls we needed some other kids to step up and score some points, too."

Magner, in particular, met the challenge. The freshman, limited to two quarters of action because of her court time in the junior varsity game, was 3-for-4 from two-point range, 1-for-2 from behind the three-point circle, and 2-for-2 at the free throw line.

The Nordics led the Bears at the quarter stops 9-8, 26-19 and 38-27.

Kimbrough, Gators roll to 58-34 victory vs. Stephen-Argyle

Kierah Kimbrough has had a habit of collecting double-doubles this winter. Tuesday, the 5-10 Badger/Greenbush-Middle River freshman fell short in the rebound department. But that was only because of the lack of opportunities on the offensive end, where she rarely missed on a 14-for-17 shooting performance that netted her 30 points in the Gators' 58-34 girls high school basketball win over Stephen-Argyle.

Kimbrough had 20 points by halftime as the Gators grabbed a 16-7 first quarter and and built a 32-19 cushion by intermission. It was 44-26 through three quarters.

Rachel Sang led the visiting Storm with 18 points.

The Gators, who climbed to 10-10 with the win, shot 51 percent from the field (27/53). They were 4-for-6 at the free throw line. The Storm had an 8-for-13 free throw game.

It was a solid offensive outing, but Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Tom Neibauer was still looking for an all-around game out of his team. "We still have some work to do defensively," he said.

Eagles shake free from upset bid by Mustangs with fourth quarter run

Grygla-Gatzke picked up a 68-50 boys high school basketball win over Red Lake County Tuesday, but the 17-4 Eagles couldn't shake the 2-19 Mustangs until the final quarter.

Red Lake County Central was within 15-10, 35-27 and 47-38 at the quarter stops, but faltered down the stretch.

"They hung around," said Grygla-Gatzke coach Vern Johnson. "Even though we led, I thought they out-executed us and at times out-played us in the first half."

Tony Nordby had a 29-point game for the Eagles, with teammate Cory Ostby adding 12 points to the offense. Nick Brustad and Carl Dugstad led the Mustangs with 16 and 14 points, respectively. Ryan Paradis handed out eight assists for the visitors.

"The team did a nice job in the first three quarters," offered Red Lake County Central coach Randy Huie. "We just ran out of gas in the fourth quarter."

Grygla-Gatzke shot 47 percent from the field (27/47). Red Lake County Central shot 37 percent (19/52). At the free throw line, the Eagles were 13-for-20, the Mustangs went 9-for-12. The winners had a 30-21 rebound edge.

Humble Thanks for far too little, or "Please don't beat me again"

16th century Italian political diplomat and philosopher Nicolo Machiavelli advocated a harsh rule for those monarchs interested in maintaining a long-term reign in their countries. Himself the subject of occasional periods of physical torture as the Italian political landscape revolved and evolved, Machiavelli understood first-hand the advantages carried by absolute fear over the fickle nature of love. "Don't simply defeat your enemies" he advised in his famous treatise The Prince, "but crush them mercilessly." "Do not invite hatred upon yourself," he admonished in a promotion for the death penalty, "by separating your subjects from their possessions. It is easier for them to forget the death of their parents than it is to forget their inheritance." "Foster loyalty among those who support you by treating them cruelly and severely so that when you finally offer even the tiniest crumb of reward they are overwhelmed with gratitude." In short, Machiavelli demands similar character traits for his monarchs that more recent decades have witnessed for successful Big-Ten basketball coaches. Had Machiavelli been alive this winter, he might have made a good weatherman.

Of course we're looking for cold — this is, after all, winter in northern Minnesota. A few years back I might have seen the torture as coming from the other end of the spectrum. -45 F to -55 F seemed like such common numbers in the mid 90's that I begged not fund for daytime highs approaching 0. But if Machiavelli were in charge of the pattern, he would have crushed my spirit most thoroughly with nothing more than the mild patterns of the past few years. Consider this winter for example. The obviously tepid swing from November into December, a brief flirtation with sub-teens temps in January, and then the spring-like thaw of more recent weeks. I continue to beg for mercy, pledging everything from an abstinence at the local taverns to rational behavior at the next high school hockey game, all in exchange for the tiniest morsel of relief from the onslaught of warming.

And it works. I am rewarded by the occasional lagging of temperatures back into the single digits — and I am relieved!! Four years ago I would have scoffed at such a feeble drop in the mercury. 5 degrees! Heck, that barely warranted long underwear. And now I've reduced myself to such a puling, pitiful ice-creature that I lick the Machiavellian weather boots in groveling gratitude for such a gift.

And if it's not the thermometer, it's the precipitation that I fawn over. A snowstorm in the 90's meant a foot of the white stuff. Two to three inches was simply a daily expectation for covering up the Burbot blood around the fish-houses. Now I drool and wag my tail enthusiastically at the words "up to an inch of accumulation" when it scrolls across the bottom of the T.V. screen. Where has my dignity gone? Am I not pumping the same blood through my veins that warmed the extremities of Nanook?

Or the thickness of the ice. Have I been beaten so much that I now consider 28 inches of frozen water as a reason for breaking out the auger extension? I don't believe it was too many years ago that we were using chisels and spud bars for all ice-holes less than two feet thick. This is not mid-winter ice we're tackling, happily convincing ourselves that we are macho northwoodsmen who could drive a freight train across the lake if the track were laid for us. Where did we begin to accept so little and do so gratefully? Am I beaten?

Machiavelli's notions about political duration were not intended for the soft-stomached idealists of 16th Century Italy. They were offered as realistic, if somewhat harsh and extreme, ideas for retaining monarchal power. Machiavelli had actually witnessed the frail, backsliding character of human nature when it is confronted with severe extremes and that mercy is a quality reserved for weak leadership. When approached properly, the populous will accept what is offered and with great relish. Machiavelli would have been a success as a modern day weatherman.

Sen. Dayton seeks input on Farm Bill

Senator Mark Dayton will seek input on the new farm bill currently under review in Washington, D.C. The senator will be a host on the Jim Reitmeier farm north of Crookston on Monday, February 18, at 9 a.m. This meeting is open to the public.

Sen. Dayton explained that two very different farm bills are currently being proposed. There is a great deal of controversy over how large payments to farmers should be, what constitutes a family farm and what kinds of conservation and natural resource provisions should be included in the new farm bill.

"The new Farm Bill is critically important to farmers and communities across Minnesota," Dayton said. "As we put in place new national farm policy, I want to meet with Minnesotans about the impact it will have on them. This Farm Forum will allow me to hear from producers and to update them on efforts to get it signed into law as soon as possible."

The Reitmeier farm is located four miles north of Crookston on Highway 75. Turn left on County Road 65, and travel one and one-half miles. Sen. Dayton will meet with farmers and agribusiness people later that same day in Glyndon.

Middle School parent/teacher conferences set

Franklin Middle School will once again be taking telephone calls for scheduling of parent and teacher conferences. Starting on Wednesday, February 20, and again on Thursday, February 21, from 4:30 to 8 p.m., volunteers will be on hand to help with the scheduling of conferences. We ask that you please call 681-8813 between the hours listed and let us know which day you would prefer — Monday, February 25, or Thursday, February 28. Your call will then be given to the appropriate volunteer for that day.

Conferences will be scheduled only by telephone calls. Please do not come into the office to schedule a conference.

Staff members and volunteers realize that calling can become a long process due to the number of phone calls being made. They ask for patience, as there is only one volunteer per scheduled day of conferences. All calls will be taken in the order that they are received. They thank you for your patience and understanding.

The Franklin Middle School staff looks forward to visiting with each and every parent/guardian during conferences this spring.

Region's festival managers learn and share together

Many communities in northwest Minnesota host festivals and events, both as a way to celebrate their communities, and to bring visitors to the area. Many of the region's festival and events managers gathered in Crookston recently for a three-day workshop, hosted by the University of Minnesota Northwest Partnership and the University of Minnesota Extension.

Certified Festival Management, a curriculum developed by the University of Minnesota Extension Tourism Center, combines resources from the industry with the working knowledge and practical experience of the people in the region.

"People really liked the opportunity to share ideas and learn from one another," said Jeannine Windels, President and CEO of the Crookston Chamber of Commerce, "and the written materials are a great reference."

Brenda Nelson, UM Extension Educator in Lake of the Woods County, is compiling a list of regional resources for the participants. For more information on the resource book, or to contribute information, contact Brenda Nelson at 218-634-1551 or nelso406@umn.edu.

To learn more about Certified Festival Management, contact Kent Gustafson at 612-624-494 or visit the website at www.tourism.umn.edu. Visit the Regional Partnership website at www.regionalpartnerships.umn.edu.

tion to call for quotes to spray the area for caterpillars.

There may be many ways to pay for the spraying. Mayor Mark Borsheim said he still has concerns with putting the item on utility bills. He said he will concede that the city will have to bill citizens for spraying, if the council decides to go ahead with spraying, but doesn't think it should be on the utility bill. He suggested that may it should be separate, but included in the envelope with the utility bill. In any event, Borsheim said they were a long way from billing residents for spraying.

Howard Person said he shared the map and information about the spraying with county commissioners. He said the county board suggested that it be presented to township authorities and ask them to participate in the spraying plan.

When asked when the city would spray, if it is decided to spray, Person said it would have to take place after the hatch and before the caterpillars were one-half inch long. He thinks that spraying might take place sometime during the first two weeks of May.

Extension Educators stay

■ Area Extension Educators have received their new assignments from the state

by David Hill
Editor

Pennington County Extension Educators Howard Person, Glenice Johnson and Van Swanson accepted new University of Minnesota Extension assignments this week.

Extension educators throughout the state have been waiting to hear what their new assignments would be after the Extension Service announced this fall that it would introduce a new Extension Service program and staffing model, making substantial cuts due to funding reductions in the process. Extension Service agents have until March 4 to accept their new assignments.

Deb Zak, Northwest District Director, said there is strong support and interest for the Extension Service program in northwest Minnesota. County commissioners and citizens filled rooms wherever meetings were held to discuss the changes.

Educators have been working across county lines and across disciplines for several years, said Zak, so she does not believe consumers will see much of a change when the new program is fully implemented July 1. And although many educators will be covering larger territories, the new extension staffing and program model will allow educators to focus on their discipline.

Zak acknowledged that there has been discussion about charging fees for programs to help recover some of their expenses, but she said they have already been doing some of that. For example, they already charge participation fees for continuing education programs. She added, though, that there are a number of other options still being discussed.

In the recent staffing model change, the northwest Minnesota region lost seven staff members. Prior to the announcement of plans to reduce staff numbers, however, three staff members had retired, and three positions were open.

The three extension educators located at the Pennington County courthouse have been retained, and given the option to retain their office space at the courthouse, presuming the county is willing to allow them to continue to occupy office space.

Duties for Person, Johnson and Swanson have changed, but what they will be assigned to will not be announced until after March 4. Counties affected by the change will also have to agree to the

New Extension model to meet community needs

The University of Minnesota Extension Service has restructured its staffing model as part of a strategic three-year plan to address financial shortcomings, while continuing to serve the people and communities of Minnesota.

"Our goal is to retain Extension staff in every county in the state, and this model meets that goal," said Charles Casey, dean of the Extension Service. "The model aligns our staff expertise with the local needs of communities to ensure that our staff addresses the critical needs of Minnesotans by connecting the research of the university with real life issues."

In the new staffing model, 236 Extension educators will remain housed in county and university offices around the state, and will serve more than one county. Of those educators, 160 will specialize in one of five key areas: 4-H and youth development; agriculture, food and environment; family development; natural resources and environment; and community vitality.

Bemidji retailers take on Wal-Mart

Bemidji - Wal-Mart opened Wednesday in Bemidji with the community's established business people saying they are willing to work hard to compete with the super store and to attract the expected influx of shoppers downtown and to other parts of town.

"Downtown's strategy is to continue to try to upgrade our services to our customers," said Bob Larson, president of the Downtown Development Association. "Try to offer some personal touch to the customers. Retail material not available at the big box."

Larson also pointed out the cultural draw of downtown with the Headwaters School of Music and Arts and the Sculpture Walk, and that downtown would work on beautifying the area. Pioneer

Eryn Clow always has a hug for her coach, Lisa Samenko, after a successful skate. Earlier this week in a testing session in East Grand Forks, Eryn became the second-ever Thief River Falls skater to pass the Senior (Gold level) Moves in the Field test. (Submitted Photo)

Local skater accomplishes notable feat

by Kathi Carlson
Reporter

As the United States' women figure skaters were preparing for this week's Olympic competition in Salt Lake City, a young Thief River Falls skater was accomplishing a notable feat of her own.

Earlier this week, Eryn Clow, who will turn 17 tomorrow (February 24), became the second-ever Thief River Falls figure skater to pass the Senior (Gold) level in Moves in the Field.

The testing took place in East Grand Forks, and while it's far removed from Salt Lake City, there are certain things Eryn has in common with the Olympic contenders.

Like them, she does not remember a time when she did not skate. Eryn began skating at the age of three in the Thief River Falls Park and Recreation Department Rec Skating program.

"We've been working together a long time. It's all fun." — Clow

Was there ever a time when she didn't want to skate? "No," Eryn says. "I loved it from the start."

In testing, like the Olympic competition, Eryn says keeping a handle on one's nerves is important. You have to control your jitters, she says, and not let it affect your performance.

Eryn recognizes, too, that the commitment that was necessary for her to excel in her sport extends beyond herself. Her parents were the ones who took her to practice, and Eryn says it has been a joint effort on their part. Her father, Galen Clow, is the superintendent of Goodridge and Grygla schools, and her mother, Cindy, is employed at Pennington County Abstract. Her family also includes her older brother, Jeremy.

Eryn says she has had the same coach since she was in the third or fourth grade. Like Eryn, coach Lisa Semanko has skated for as long as she can remember as well and passed up through the ranks of the local skating program. Semanko is also an instructor in the communications department at Lincoln High School where Eryn is a junior.

While she says her favorite part of school is seeing her friends, Eryn owns up to being a good student and pressed to name a favorite subject matter, says she favors science and math.

At Lincoln, she plays tennis and golf. She also participates in band, playing the trumpet, and is a piano student of Jan Lee.

Eryn is a member of Lincoln High School Skating Club that was organized last year for the purpose of providing more competitive opportunities for skaters. However, because the local club is one of less than a handful of clubs of its kind in the state, it has been difficult to organize competitions.

On Sundays during the skating season, Eryn can be found at the arena helping out with the Park and Recreation Skating program by assisting Junior Advance level skaters.

Section 8A Hockey!

Teams and fans pack the Huck for the Section 8A hockey tournament in Thief River Falls

◀ Trevor Christensen and Trent Christensen were just two of the many workers helping during the Section 8A boys high school hockey tournament. They hammed it up for the camera just prior to the start of the tournament, which began Thursday night at the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center in Thief River Falls.

Some day, Tyler Bergh of Hallock wants to play hockey in the Engelstad Arena in Thief River Falls. Spectators and fans attending the Section 8A hockey tournament held in Thief River Falls beginning Thursday, have an opportunity, like Tyler, to look at the artist's drawings of the future Engelstad Arena in Thief River Falls. The display is in a display case on the second floor of the arena.

Warroad - At its February 11 meeting, the Warroad City Council passed a unanimous motion to include a Sunday liquor sales referendum on the November 2002 ballot. The motion was preceded by a discussion among council members and interested business representatives.

A spokesman for the American Legion had proposed the referendum at the council's December 10 meeting. Warroad Pioneer

SOUPÇON

Sherry LaCoursiere

Here are some super recipes that will make good everyday meals or something special for you to bring to a potluck supper.

Here's one of those old favorites that everyone loves:

GRANDMA'S GELATIN FRUIT SALAD

2 cups boiling water, divided
1 (3 ounce) package lemon gelatin
2 cups ice cubes, divided
1 (3 ounce) package orange gelatin
1 (20 ounce) can crushed pineapple, liquid drained and reserved
2 cups miniature marshmallows
3 large bananas, sliced
1/2 cup shredded cheddar cheese

Cooked Salad Dressing:

1 cup reserved pineapple juice
1/2 cup sugar
1 egg, beaten
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1 tablespoon butter
1 cup whipped topping

In a mixing bowl, combine 1 cup water and lemon gelatin. Add 1 cup ice cubes, stirring until melted. Add pineapple and pour into 9x13 inch baking pan. Refrigerate until set.

Repeat with orange gelatin, remaining water and ice. Stir in marshmallows. Pour over lemon layer and refrigerate until set.

For dressing, combine pineapple juice, sugar, egg, cornstarch and butter in saucepan. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until thickened. Cover and refrigerate overnight.

The next day, arrange bananas over gelatin. Combine dressing with whipped topping. Spread over bananas. Sprinkle with cheese. Serves 12-15.

Prepare this dish one day and bake it the next for easy serving - it would be wonderful for a potluck, too:

SCALLOPED CHICKEN

1/2 loaf white bread, cubed
1 1/2 cups cracker crumbs, divided
3 cups chicken broth
3 eggs, lightly beaten
1 teaspoon salt
3/4 cup diced celery
2 tablespoons chopped onion
3 cups cubed cooked chicken
1 (8 ounce) can sliced mushrooms, drained
1 tablespoon butter

In mixing bowl, combine bread cubes and 1 cup cracker crumbs. Stir in broth, eggs, salt, celery, onion, chicken and mushrooms. Spoon into greased 2 quart casserole.

In saucepan, melt butter and then brown remaining cracker crumbs in the butter. Sprinkle over casserole. Bake at 350 degrees for 1 hour. Serves 6-8.

So simple, this family favorite can be eaten for brunch or breakfast, as well as for dessert or a snack. It would also be good to share at a potluck:

CRUMB CAKE

2 cups packed brown sugar
2 1/2 cups flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup butter, softened
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 cup chopped pecans
1 cup milk
1 tablespoon baking powder
Whipped topping and pecan halves, if desired.

In mixing bowl, combine sugar, flour and salt. Cut in butter until mixture resembles coarse meal. Reserve 1 cup mixture and combine with cinnamon and nuts and set aside.

To remaining crumb mixture, add milk and baking powder. Spread in greased 9x13 inch pan and sprinkle with reserved topping. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes or until cake tests done.

Cut into squares and serve with whipped topping and a pecan half, if desired.

If you don't want a casserole for a main dish tonight, try this delicious soup - the Irish family down the street probably used to bring one like it to potlucks at your church:

CABBAGE AND BEEF SOUP

1 pound lean ground beef
1/2 teaspoon garlic salt
1/4 teaspoon garlic powder
1/4 teaspoon pepper
2 celery stalks, chopped
1 (16 ounce) can kidney beans, undrained
1/2 medium head cabbage, chopped
1 (28 ounce) can tomatoes, chopped and liquid reserved
1 tomato can water
4 beef bouillon cubes
Chopped fresh parsley

In Dutch oven, brown beef. Add all remaining ingredients except parsley. Bring to a boil. Reduce heat and simmer, covered, for 1 hour. Garnish with parsley. Soup freezes well.

And bring these brownies to your next potluck - they'll gobble them up:

RICH, QUICK AND EASY BROWNIES

1 cup sugar
1/2 cup evaporated milk
1/2 cup butter
16 bars (2 [8 ounce] packages) semi sweet baking chocolate, cut into pieces
4 eggs
2 teaspoons vanilla
1 1/2 cups flour
1/2 teaspoon soda
1/2 teaspoon salt

Heat oven to 325 degrees. Grease 9x13 inch baking pan.

Combine sugar, evaporated milk and butter in saucepan. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture boils. Remove from heat and add chocolate, stirring until melted.

Beat in eggs and vanilla. Stir in flour, soda and salt until well blended. Pour into prepared pan.

Bake 30 to 35 minutes, or until brownies just begin to pull away from sides of pan. Cool completely in pan on wire rack.

Brownie Frosting:

4 bars (1 ounce each) unsweetened baking chocolate, broken into pieces
4 tablespoons butter
3 1/2 cups powdered sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
4-6 tablespoons water

Place chocolate and butter in small micro-safe bowl. Microwave 1 minute, then stir. If needed, microwave an additional 10 seconds at a time, stirring after each heating, until chocolate is melted when stirred.

Combine powdered sugar and salt in medium bowl. Stir in chocolate mixture and vanilla. Add water and beat with spoon until of spreading consistency.

Shawn Newland of Northwest Beverage was presented a $7,976 rebate check from Chris Forkenbrock of Northern Minnesota Utilities for the purchase and installation of high efficiency natural gas heating equipment for the new Northwest Beverage warehouse. The high efficiency systems were designed and installed by Brodin Sheet Metal, Inc. and Lee Plumbing and Heating. The commercial rebate program is for commercial and industrial customers installing energy efficient natural gas heating technology. This program is offered for new construction, replacement and retrofit projects. The energy efficient equipment provides savings for many years and the rebate helps to offset the original cost of the equipment.

Comments sought on hunting, trapping seasons...

DNR hosting public meetings

Department of Natural Resources will conduct a series of meetings around Minnesota in late February and early March to take public comments and recommendations about hunting and trapping season regulations, according to Ed Boggess, DNR Wildlife assistant director.

Public comments and suggestions will be taken on small game, big game, waterfowl and wild turkey hunting seasons, and on trapping seasons. In addition, some DNR proposals for season changes will be discussed.

DNR Proposals

■ Clarify provisions of the deer baiting regulation to make it more enforceable. Deer baiting has been prohibited since 1991, but the regulation is written in a very general way that is difficult to enforce. Baiting activity has increased dramatically in some areas of the state over the past several years. The proposal is to develop more enforceable language that will maintain the original intent of the regulation, without unduly increasing complexity of hunting regulations.

■ Allow purchase of leftover wild turkey licenses by those who have not previously applied. Last year, for the first time, surplus wild turkey licenses were made available for unsuccessful applicants through over-the-counter Electronic License System sales. Not all surplus licenses were sold to unsuccessful applicants. This recommendation would allow people who had not previously applied to purchase a surplus license, beginning on the second day of over-the-counter sales.

■ Allow hunting of snow geese, Ross' geese, and white-fronted geese in the Lac qui Parle Zone after the close of the Canada goose season. Since 1989, the Lac qui Parle Zone has been closed to all goose hunting after the close of the Canada goose season. At that time there were essentially no other geese available to hunt except for Canada geese in that zone.

However, in recent years, more snow geese have been using the area. Given the continental objective of increasing snow goose harvest and the increased presence of snow geese in the zone, the proposal is to re-open the Lac qui Parle Zone to hunting of geese, other than Canada geese, after the close of the Canada goose season.

■ Allow use of snares on land in the farmland furbearer zone. In the past, use of snares on land has been allowed only in the forest zone. Coyote populations have increased in southern Minnesota, and use of snares is one of the most effective techniques for capturing coyotes, particularly after snow cover or when the ground is frozen. The proposal would allow use of snares on private lands, outside of road rights-of-way.

■ Establish new waterfowl refuges. Two new waterfowl refuges are being discussed as part of the overall goal to improve fall waterfowl migration habitat and reduce disturbance to improve waterfowl hunting in Minnesota. The proposed refuges would be on Willis Lake in Waseca County and Donkey Lake in Cass County.

■ Department will be exploring the possibility of establishing refuges to benefit migratory waterfowl. Refuges can be an important tool in reducing disturbance and allowing migrating birds adequate opportunity to build energy reserves for long distance flights. Refuges can also play an important role in enhancing hunting opportunities by encouraging migrating birds to stay in Minnesota for longer periods.

■ Tentative season opening dates. Most proposed opening dates for 2002 were previously announced, except for the bear and waterfowl seasons. The bear season opener will be decided and was expected to be announced the week of Feb. 18 so that hunters and outfitters can make plans and bear hunter application materials can be printed. A final decision on the waterfowl opener cannot be made until after federal frameworks are announced in August.

■ U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service is considering expanding the framework dates both earlier and later for the allowable times that states can open their duck seasons.

All meetings will run from 6:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m.

Area hunting and trapping season input meetings will be held Tuesday, Feb. 26, at Bemidji (Northern Town Hall) and Monday, March 4 at Grand Rapids (Shooting Sports Center).

People unable to attend a meeting can send written remarks to Season Comments, DNR Division of Wildlife, 500 Lafayette Road, St. Paul, MN 5515504007; or e-mail: info@dnr.state.mn.us.

Bear season opener will return to Sept. 1

The 2002 Minnesota bear season will open on Sept. 1, the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources announced. DNR officials noted, however, that the Minnesota Legislature is currently debating a bill that would delay the opener until the day after Labor Day (Sept. 3 this year).

The Minnesota bear population is about 30,000 and has been estimated to be increasing at a rate of 6 to 7 percent each year. Through managed hunting, the DNR is trying to stabilize the bear population to minimize the potential for unacceptable levels of bear-human conflicts, many of which involve actual property damage.

In 2000 and 2001, the DNR experimentally opened the bear season approximately one week earlier in an effort to increase bear harvest and stabilize the population. (Openers in those years were Aug. 23 and Aug. 22, respectively.) Because opening the season one-week earlier in 2000 and 2001 did not measurably increase the bear harvest, and because more than 50 percent of surveyed bear hunters did not support continuing the earlier opening date, the DNR has decided to return to the historical Sept. 1 opener.

In 2001, the bear limit was increased to two bears per hunter in a further attempt to stabilize the population. The two-bear limit has the advantage of increasing potential harvest without increasing hunter crowding. A final decision has not yet been made about whether to continue with a two-bear limit in 2002.

Details on the 2002 bear season and application materials will be announced by April 2. The application deadline will be Friday, May 3.

No one's celebrating in the streets

Last week legislative leaders announced that they had reached a compromise on a budget balancing bill, sidestepping Governor Jesse Ventura in the process. If cheering on the sidelines is a bit muted it's because we don't know the details of the bill; and, because we know that Governor Ventura can never be marginalized.

In an update to constituents, Rep. Tim Finseth said, "I am very pleased that the House and Senate were able to put aside partisan differences, and together, work to solve the budget crisis."

He said, the plan reflects all of the priorities that House Republicans outlined months ago - controlling state spending and refusing any new taxes, while making no cuts to local schools or nursing homes. The agreement permanently cuts state spending by more than $2.3 billion in the next three and a half years and takes state government off of automatic pilot by eliminating the automatic spending increases put into the budget each year. It also has $131 million in one-time spending cuts.

What may be good news to local governments is his announcement that there will be no reductions in the education formula, local aids to counties and cities are untouched, and a cap will be placed on the state payroll. He also announced that the tobacco endowment fund will not be touched, but used only for cash flow purposes.

Apparently, one of the reasons Governor Ventura was left on the sidelines was because of his proposal to increase taxes, a proposal which both Democrats and Republicans found unpalatable. Interestingly, Governor Ventura has succeeded on many levels in the past by simply counting on the divisiveness of partisan politics. He may yet win on that account, as House DFL'ers led by Tom Pugh, still want to argue about the contents of the bill. We'll have to wait and see. The vote is expected this week, and the bill could be on the Governor's desk already.

But, of course, we also know by now not to count out Governor Ventura. He may feel his proposal is better, and veto the compromise bill when it lands on his desk. We've also heard his threats to begin cutting the budget if the legislature didn't pass a budget balancing bill in the first week, and we all know that until he signs the compromise bill he can still exercise some of his executive authority to balance the budget. That could certainly throw a wrench into plans, couldn't it?

And, of course, citizens don't know the entire contents of the bill. While there appears to be a consensus among Minnesotans that "we need to get on with the cuts because we know they need to be made," who knows, maybe we won't like it, or want it either.

LETTERS

To the Editor:

What does the United States Flag stand for?

I believe that our American flag stands for dignity, hope, peace, honor and love. I believe that the red stands for the blood of the people who lost their lives in the wars, the terrorist attack, and the brave policemen and firemen who lost their lives saving other people. I believe that the blue stands for the waves of the ocean that saw a lot of the bad events that happened in the past. I believe that the white stands for world peace and that everyone is equal. Most of all, I believe that the whole thing stands for love.

Sincerely,
Logan Peters

To the Editor:

Three goal judges with years of game experience are not going to be allowed to work the 2002 Section 8 Hockey Tournament in Thief River Falls. However, other local people, directly included with the game, will be on duty at the arena. The penalty boxes, game clock operator, and the officials scorers table, are each staffed by local residents! But yet, they are not ousted because they reside in Thief River Falls.

This tournament is a well-planned and very well-attended event, and our city does an excellent job of hosting it. But this last-minute decision to disqualify the goal judges tarnishes the big show.

Sincerely,
Dave Peteneck

ACS opposes raid on Tobacco Prevention fund

The American Cancer Society has expressed disappointment in the budget proposal announced by House of Representative leaders and believe that the raid on Minnesota's youth tobacco prevention endowment is very shortsighted.

"Not only does this action incur long-term costs, it also eliminates the significant progress we've seen in less than two years," explained Sara Mannetter, North Central Region Advocacy Coordinator for the American Cancer Society.

Early indicators show the tobacco prevention initiative is working. A survey conducted in June 2001 shows the number of 12 to 17 year olds using tobacco has dropped by 25 percent.

"No one can afford to stop this progress. Elimination of success like this will be a significant setback in the fight against cancer," said Mannetter.

According to a recent survey, 83 percent of Minnesotans believe the tobacco prevention endowment should be preserved to fund youth smoking prevention. Allocating money towards preventing youth from smoking is an effective way to increase the health of Minnesotans and save money:

• 90 percent of all people who smoke start smoking before the age of 18;

• Every year tobacco use causes an estimated 5,600 deaths in Minnesota and $2.64 billion in health-related economic losses.

The American Cancer Society is encouraging legislators and the Governor to keep the endowment intact. One-third of all cancer deaths are caused by tobacco. In order for the American Cancer Society to reach its year 2015 goals, Minnesota needs to see a significant reduction in the number of people who smoke. The experience of states like California and Florida suggests that the best hope lies in a comprehensive approach which includes statewide and local prevention programs, strong youth access laws, cessation programs, counter-marketing campaigns, local tobacco control ordinances and an increase in the tobacco excise tax.

The American Cancer Society is the nationwide, community-based, voluntary health organization dedicated to eliminating cancer as a major health problem by preventing cancer, saving lives and diminishing suffering from cancer, through research, education, advocacy, and service.

The $2 billion deficit question

by Rep. Tim Finseth

Three weeks into the 2002 Legislative Session, the GOP-led House and the DFL-led Senate have reached a bipartisan agreement solving the budget puzzle and will work together to quickly present a comprehensive legislative budget plan to Gov. Jesse Ventura.

The plan reflects all of the priorities that House Republicans outlined months ago - controlling state spending and refusing any new taxes, while making no cuts to local schools or nursing homes. The agreement permanently cuts state spending by more than $2.3 billion in the next three and a half years and takes state government off of automatic pilot by eliminating the automatic spending increases put into the budget each year. It also has $131 million in one-time spending cuts.

The legislation responsibly uses one-time and special reserve accounts. The tobacco settlement income will be used for cash-flow purposes and won't be spent. There will be no reductions in the education formula, local aids to counties and cities are untouched, and a cap will be placed on the state payroll.

The House and Senate budget agreement was shaped with input from all four legislative caucuses and includes fundamental reform of the state budget process. Gov. Ventura's office was not included in the negotiations because of his strong support for a $1.4 billion tax increase.

The reductions are being worked out between the committees. However, refusing tax hikes in this economy and fundamentally reforming the way the state spends tax dollars are major accomplishments, and I am very pleased that the House and Senate were able to put aside of partisan differences and together work to solve the budget crisis.

Old Mill ski event cancelled but open to hiking

The candlelight cross-country ski event scheduled for February 23 at Old Mill State Park has been cancelled. Six to eight inches of snow is needed before trails can be packed and a track set for a safe candlelight ski.

Now, however, is a great time to hike over seven miles of trail in the park. Park Manager Mary Broten encourages visitors to wear waterproof boots and enjoy the stark beauty of woodland and grassland.

Vehicle permits are required to enter all Minnesota State Parks and may be purchased at the park office. A daily permit is $4 and an annual permit is $20. The annual permit features C.A. Lindbergh State Park and commemorates the flight across the Atlantic made by Charles Lindbergh.

FFA day at the Capitol puts focus on ag education

FFA students from across Minnesota visited with Minnesota legislators and agricultural education leaders during FFA Day at the Capitol, it was announced today at the Minnesota State Capitol. Speaker of the House Steve Sviggum, Senator Dallas Sams, Rep. Bob Ness, and Rep. Elaine Harder were among the key legislators briefing the FFA delegation. Officials of the University of Minnesota College of Agricultural, Food and Environmental Sciences also announced new scholarship opportunities for agricultural education students as part of a comprehensive effort to enhance agricultural education programming. Barrett Keene, National FFA Vice President (Southern Region) from Florida, was also on hand to interact with Minnesota's FFA delegation at the Capitol.

"This was a great opportunity for FFA students from across Minnesota to visit with key legislators, FFA leaders, University of Minnesota officials, and policymakers on some of the important agricultural education public policy issues currently being discussed at the Minnesota Legislature," said Patrick Plonski, Executive Director of the Minnesota Agricultural Education Leadership Council (MAELC). Agricultural education issues under consideration currently include funding for high school agricultural education programs and their FFA chapters, funding for a new Agricultural and Food Sciences Academy facility to be located on the Minnesota State Fairgrounds, and key agricultural bonding requests for the University of Minnesota.

The University of Minnesota College of Agricultural, Food and Environmental Sciences also announced today that it will offer new scholarships to agriculture education students who enroll in the college. In addition, the College plans to build on its long-term commitment to providing scholarships to FFA leaders who enroll in a variety of majors including food science, environmental science and animal production systems. The college, in collaboration with MAELC, recently increased Agricultural Education Scholarships by $18,000. "The overarching priority of our college is to provide exemplary education, and these new scholarships will make it easier for FFA students to receive that exemplary education. Plus, the leadership skills of FFA members will help strengthen our college," said Charles Muscoplat, Dean of the College of Agricultural, Food and Environmental Sciences, University of Minnesota.

Minnesota currently has over 190 agricultural education programs and over 8,000 FFA student members. FFA is a career and technical education youth leadership organization dedicated to making a positive difference in the lives of young people by developing their potential for premier leadership, personal growth, and career success through agricultural education. "FFA Day at the Capitol provides our chapter leaders with an opportunity to meet their legislators and discuss issues that impact their futures. For many of these young people, it is their first chance to participate in our legislative process," concluded Joel Larsen, Advisor for the Minnesota FFA Association.

Approximately 160 FFA students from 36 chapters attended "FFA Day at the Capitol." Some of the participating chapters are the Agricultural and Food Sciences Academy, Albert Lea, Belle Plaine, Brainerd, Chaska, Fillmore Central, Foley, Goodhue, Kimball, Lakeview, LeRoy-Ostrander, Medford, Menahga, New Ulm, New York Mills, Oglivie, Owatonna, Pelican Rapids, Perham, Plainview, Randolph, Sauk Rapids-Rice, Sebeka, Tracy, Upsala, Watertown-Mayer, Waterville-Elysian-Morristown, Winona, and Zumbrota/Mazeppa.

Middle River Club to host Extravaganza

Middle River Community Club will be hosting its annual Extravaganza beginning at 5:30 p.m. on Saturday, March 16, at the Wagon Wheel in Middle River. Tickets for the fundraising event cost $30 per person, and includes dinner and entertainment.

Proceeds from the Extravaganza have gone to numerous community improvement projects, festivals, scholarships and communities in northwestern Minnesota.

The public is encouraged to buy a ticket and attend this fun community event. Door prizes will be given away, but winners need not be present to attend.

Unemployment in Minnesota up for January

Minnesota Department of Economic Security Commissioner Earl Wilson has announced that Minnesota's seasonally adjusted unemployment rate for January was 4.1 percent. The January rate was up slightly from December.

Nonfarm employment grew by a seasonally adjusted four-tenths percent in January, the first positive movement in 11 months. However, statistical anomalies sometimes occur in the period from December to January. Except for mining and nondurable manufacturing, this January's estimates remained flat or showed increases for all sectors. Services and retail trade posted the largest estimated gains.

The state's unadjusted unemployment rate was 4.9 percent in January, up by seven-tenths percent from a year ago.

"Minnesotans know how to adjust course if necessary. We will meet the current economic situation with our customary determination and plan for a brighter future," said Governor Jesse Ventura.

Brooke Brekke of the Prowlers chased down a loose ball in the corner to win a race against the Falcons' Brittany Benson during the third quarter of Tuesday's Thief River Falls vs. Fertile-Beltrami girls high school basketball game. The Prowlers won 73-39.

TRF girls post 73-39 win against Falcons

It was easy at the start. Maybe too easy, according to Thief River Falls girls high school basketball coach Jeff Loe, who saw his team open Tuesday's game against Fertile-Beltrami with an 8-0 lead, only to have the visiting Falcons turn around and go ahead 10-9. That's when a little refocusing was in order. The result was a 16-0 run that propelled the Prowlers to a one-sided 73-39 victory.

"We had some opportunities to score pretty easily early," acknowledged Loe, who admitted the Prowlers' intensity level dropped off sharply after Meghan Nelson hit one from the side. Nikki Tvedt scored off a drive, Nelson canned another outside jumper, and Shara Guidry scored from underneath – all in the first 2:48.

Fertile-Beltrami regrouped and answered with its own 8-0 run, then went ahead on a stop-and-pop jumper off a drive by Kristen Chisholm with 2:28 remaining in the first quarter.

That's when the Prowlers went back to work, scoring the final eight points of the first quarter and the first eight points of the second quarter to open up a 25-10 lead following a Nelson basket off a loose ball recovery in the lane with 6:08 left in the half.

There were no more rallies by the Falcons, whose offense over the final 10 1/2 minutes of the first half consisted of four free throws.

Thief River Falls led 41-14 at halftime and had a 59-26 third quarter cushion.

"I thought we executed things well offensively," said Loe after watching his team turn in a 54 percent 30-for-56 shooting performance.

Nelson scored 18 points and Melissa Skjerven had 10 off the bench to lead the Thief River Falls offense. Fifteen Prowlers saw game time and 13 of them scored points.

"We got a chance to play a lot of kids," mentioned Loe. "That's something we haven't been able to do a lot of this year."

Chisholm scored 15 points and Amy Larson had 10 for the Falcons, who were 12-for-40 from the field (30 percent) and 12-for-19 at the free throw line, where the Prowlers were 13-for-25.

Thief River Falls finished with a 30-18 rebound advantage. Fertile-Beltrami topped the turnover charts 31-19.

The Prowlers take a 15-7 record into their regular season finale tonight (Saturday) vs. Badger/Greenbush-Middle River.

Northland men find range vs. Spartans

Matt Ulmer was 6-for-8 from 3-point range to lead a 50 percent 32-for-64 Northland shooting performance that produced an 84-69 Minnesota Community College Conference men's basketball win over Fergus Falls Monday.

The Pioneers found themselves falling behind 8-2 out of the blocks, but with Ulmer, a 6-3 sophomore from Frazee, hitting four-in-a-row from behind the arch near the midway mark of the first half, Northland had a 42-37 lead at intermission.

"We started out slow, again," said Northland coach Rick Nikunen, "but we kind of got into a rhythm after that. We had some kids hit some shots, and that obviously helps."

Reggie Gaddis led the Pioneers with 22 points, while Ulmer finished with 18. Jerry Shorter 16, and Justin Skjerven 11. Greg Ormberg had a 17-point game to pace the visiting Spartans. Ian McVey, a 6-10 sophomore center who has signed an NCAA Division I scholarship letter for next year, was held without a second half field goal in a 12-point night.

"We did a really nice job defensively," noted Nikunen, whose team lost a 78-71 decision at Fergus Falls earlier this month.

Northland went 12-for-16 at the free throw line. Fergus Falls shot 35 percent from the floor (25/71) and had a 15-for-19 free throw game. The Pioneers had more rebounds (46-34) and more turnovers (21-18) than the Spartans.

The Pioneers took a 13-10 overall record and 5-8 MCCC Northern Division mark into their 2001-02 season finale Friday at home against Itasca.

Nordics' defense shuts down TRF

Going into Tuesday's boys high school basketball game at Newfolden, Marshall County Central sported an enviable 21-2 record, while Thief River Falls checked in at a sub-par 5-13. But coach Ron Ueland still considered the Nordics' 64-39 victory over the Prowlers a major accomplishment for his small-school program.

"It's always a big win if we can beat Thief River Falls," said Ueland. "Year in and year out, we're going to have trouble with the bigger school."

Not this time. The Prowlers stayed close at the start, trailing just 12-11 at the close of the first quarter. But they fell behind 25-17 at halftime and faced a 36-22 third quarter deficit.

"We just kind of chipped away," noted Ueland. "They (Prowlers) did a good job defensively. They work hard and they give you trouble."

A balanced Marshall County Central offense was led by Andy Larson with 12 points, Garrett Swan 11 and Josh Larson 9. Thief River Falls' Jason Koch finished with a game-high 16 points, but the Prowlers had nobody else with more than four points.

"They're a real good team," said Thief River Falls coach Rick McLean in describing the Nordics. "They probably don't get credit for their defensive abilities. We were able to do a few things at the start, but after coach Ueland called a time-out and made some adjustments, they took those things that were working on offense away from us."

Marshall County Central was 24-for-53 from the field (45 percent) and 13-for-23 at the free throw line. Thief River Falls went 17-for-50 from the floor (34 percent) and 4-for-8 at the line.

Rebounding and turnovers hurt the Prowlers in a big way. With Josh and Andy Larson grabbing eight rebounds each, the Nordics beat the Prowlers on the boards 31-17. Thirty-one Thief River Falls turnovers certainly didn't help, either. Marshall County Central lost the ball 18 times.

TRF JV basketball girls handle Fertile-Beltrami

Thief River Falls out-scored Fertile-Beltrami 22-0 in the first quarter and went on to win the Tuesday junior varsity girls high school basketball game 74-20.

Kelsey Christensen scored 14 points, Katie Olson 11 and Brittany Haviland 9 for the Prowlers, who led 39-4 at halftime and had a 54-6 third quarter advantage.

MCCC basketball teams eye state tourney spots

Battles for state tournament positions were being waged this week as the Minnesota Community College Conference wrapped up its 2001-02 regular season basketball schedule.

Top four finishers in each of the divisions advance to the MCCC state tournaments – the men Feb. 28, March 1-2 at Minneapolis; the women March 1-3 at Central Lakes.

After a four-year absence, the Northland Community and Technical College women will be making a post-season tournament. The Northland men, however, missed a top-four finish this winter. They last reached the state tournament in the 1995-96 season.

Grygla-Gatzke tops Sacred Heart 65-46 with 52% shooting

A 52-percent 26-for-50 shooting performance carried Grygla-Gatzke to a 65-46 boys high school basketball win at East Grand Forks Sacred Heart Tuesday.

"We took some good shots," pointed out Grygla-Gatzke coach Vern Johnson, whose team pushed its record to 19-4.

After falling behind briefly at 8-5, the winners took charge by posting quarter leads of 15-10, 31-18 and 50-30.

Four Grygla-Gatzke scorers hit double figures, led by Cory Ostby with 18 points. Matt Marek and Andrew Altepeter scored 12 points each to lead Sacred Heart.

Sacred Heart almost matched Grygla-Gatzke's shooting success with a 49 percent 20-for-41 night.

"I thought we were kind of sluggish on defense," noted Johnson. "We were a step slow."

Fosston uses 31-point second quarter run to beat RLCC boys 76-66

Randy Huie has few complaints about the offense, but the Red Lake County Central boys high school basketball coach would like to see the Mustangs elevate their defensive game. Tuesday, Fosston used a 31-point second quarter to win a 76-66 match-up at Plummer.

Red Lake County Central led 22-18 after eight minutes, but trailed 49-34 at halftime and faced a 66-46 third quarter deficit before cutting the 20-point gap in half at the end.

"We played a great first quarter," said Huie. "The second quarter hurt. Offensively we have improved. Defensively we still have work to do."

Four Fosston scorers hit double figures, led by Nick Illies and Ryan Swenson with 21 and 18 points, respectively. The Red Lake County Central offense featured Carl Dugstad with 26 points, Ryan Paradis 18 and Doug Melby 10.

Red Lake County Central was 23-for-56 from the field (41 percent). Fosston went 28-for-60 (47 percent).

Goodridge wins pair of games

Home court wins over East Grand Forks Sacred Heart 45-35 Friday (Feb. 15) and Kittson County North 55-34 Tuesday put Goodridge at 13-8 heading into the final two games of the 2001-02 boys high school basketball schedule.

Huskies coach Eric Mickelson wasn't about to turn down either victory, but don't expect the Sacred Heart game to make the Goodridge highlight film. "It was an ugly win," he said. It was a sloppy game on both sides of the ball."

Goodridge led at the quarter stops 10-9, 25-13 and 33-19 despite a 36 percent 19-for-53 shooting performance and 24 turnovers. That's because the Eagles had their own troubles with 31 percent 12-for-39 shooting, 17 turnovers and a 38-19 beating on the boards.

Casey Jones had an 18-point, 13-rebound game for Goodridge. Chuck Burd led Sacred Heart with 13 points.

The Huskies bumped their shooting to a 49 percent 18-for-37 level against Kittson County North as they turned a 10-8 first quarter lead into a 24-9 halftime spread and a 48-21 third quarter cushion.

"Offensively we did a decent job," offered Mickelson. "We moved the ball well. We did a good job moving without the ball. We've been standing around a lot lately."

Jones scored 22 points and Adam Johnson chipped in 10 vs. the Cougars, who were led by Seth Whitlock with 15 points.

Kittson County North shot just 32 percent from the floor (12/37) and went 5-for-9 at the free throw line, where Goodridge cashed in on 15 of 20 opportunities. The Huskies had a 23-22 rebound edge. Turnovers were even at 17-apiece.

The Huskies regained the services of junior Kjell Johnsrud, who was back on the floor against Sacred Heart after missing 3 1/2 weeks due to a broken thumb.

Gators split with Bears, Wildcats

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River enjoyed one of its best offensive games of the season Saturday when the Gators handled visiting Lake of the Woods 82-45 in boys high school basketball. Tuesday, the competition proved stronger in a 68-48 loss at the hands of Tri-County at Karlstad.

Rick Wilson scored 12 points, while Brian Thompson, Jake Peterson and Tim Dion had 11 each in the win over the Bears. The Gators turned a 16-14 first quarter lead into a 42-23 halftime cushion and opened up a 55-29 third quarter spread.

The winners were 28-for-57 from the field (49 percent) and 17-for-26 at the free throw line. The Bears went 17-for-49 from the floor (35 percent) and had a 5-for-10 free throw game. The Gators finished with a 37-26 rebound advantage and had only seven of the game's 30 turnovers.

"We played well," said Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Eldon Sparby. We took real good care of the ball."

Leonard Matthias of the Bears led all scorers with 21 points.

Tri-County rode the coattails of Brett Spilde in turning a 26-23 halftime lead to a 50-35 third quarter gap. Spilde was 11-for-18 from the field while scoring a game-high 26 points.

"Spilde had an unbelievable game," pointed out Sparby. "All of his shots were off the dribble. We played right with them until about halfway through the third quarter when they went on a run behind Spilde."

Dion and Thompson scored 13 points apiece for the Gators. Cody Severts added 12 points to the Badger/Greenbush-Middle River total.

The Gators shot 38 percent from the field (18/47) and went 7-for-12 at the line; the Wildcats shot 44 percent (28/63) and made 11 of 17 free throw attempts. Tri-County finished with a sizeable 40-19 rebound edge. Badger/Greenbush-Middle River had more turnovers, 18-16.

"They beat us up on the boards big time," pointed out Sparby, whose team went to 7-19 with the two-game split.

Marshall County Central shot 58 percent from the field (30/52) and finished with a 29-12 rebound advantage en route to a 78-57 boys high school basketball win over Kittson County North Friday at Newfolden.

"Both teams were hitting their shots early, but they cooled off," explained Nordics coach Ron Ueland, whose team had quarter leads of 18-12, 39-29 and 60-45.

Seth Whitlock of the Cougars led all scorers with 26 points. Teammate Kelvin Johnson netted 17. The Nordics' offense featured a 22-point game by Andy Larson and 16 by Garrett Swan.

Warroad shooters zap B/G-MR

ReNae Heppner (22) and Donna Thunder (20) combined for 42 points to lead Warroad past Badger/Greenbush-Middle River 55-50 Tuesday in girls high school basketball.

Heppner had 20 of her points by halftime thanks to 4-for-4 shooting from three point range as Warroad grabbed an 18-11 first quarter lead and had a 34-23 halftime cushion. It was 47-35 through three quarters.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Tom Neibauer was impressed with the Warroad offense. "I've been coaching girls basketball a long time and I've never seen shooting like that," he said. "It was unreal. We played a box-and-one on Thunder and Heppner hit everything."

And despite the defensive attention, Thunder had an 8-for-9 shooting night from the field.

Down 18, the Gators fought their way back. The rally was done, pointed out Neibauer, with a line-up featuring three freshmen.

Kierah Kimbrough scored 19 points and Breanna Holm had 12 for the 11-12 Gators.

High schoolers chosen for Region 8A "AAA"

High School seniors Kristen Chisholm of Fertile-Beltrami High School and Richard Larson of Greenbush-Middle River High School, have been selected to represent Region 8A in the Academics, Arts, and Athletics (Triple "A") award program.

Established in 1988, the Triple "A" award is sponsored by the Minnesota State High School League. The award goes to high school seniors with a 3.0 or higher grade-point average who participate in League-sponsored athletic programs and fine arts activities such as theater, speech, music and debate.

Both Kristen and Richard are active members in many school activities and have had outstanding performances in athletics and the arts in addition to being excellent students.

Triple "A" award recipients are selected by a multi-level process involving the League's member schools and administrative regions. League officials will announce the four award recipients (a girl and boy from both a Class "A" and Class "AA" school) at a special banquet at the Excel Center on Saturday, March 23. Each award recipient will receive a four-year $1,000 scholarship, and will take part in an on-court award ceremony following the banquet.

"THE PLACE WITH A PERSONALITY"

To maintain a strong local presence, 43 current Extension educators will serve as county Extension directors each covering one to three counties, and ensuring that those communities receive the services most needed from the university. In addition, 30 regional educators employed under contracts with other agencies and funding sources will continue to provide specific programs and education in agriculture and natural resources, according to their specific contracts.

"We must ensure that our programming addresses the most critical issues in Minnesota and ties directly to the research base of the university," said Casey. "We also must have the flexibility in our resources to respond efficiently and effectively to the needs of local communities."

Currently, 90 percent of the Extension budget is dedicated to personnel. In order to meet the goals of the strategic plan, Extension is making reductions in administrative, collegiate and field operation budgets.

Last week, Extension educators across the state received personal notification of changes to their individual assignments that will begin July 1. In total, the number of Extension educators across the state will be reduced by 43 positions, or 15.6 percent (of 275). Of the 43 positions eliminated, 23 were through retirements and attrition and 20 through non-renewal of appointments.

"Unfortunately, financial realities do not allow us to keep the current level of staff," said Casey. "We are working with the educators who lost their jobs, to offer counseling, job placement and any other support they need from us."

Staffing decisions were made based on the needs identified in the communities, and the experience, expertise and interest of the staff.

Because contracts have not yet been signed by educators, and the plan requires negotiations with counties that pay portions of educators salaries, specific personnel details will not be available until after March 4. Educators who were offered reassignments have until March 4 to decide whether or not they will accept their offers. Positions not accepted will be filled through an open search.

Extension currently has seven administrative districts. The following is the breakdown of staffing according to the seven Extension districts and the counties served.

change, as well. (Counties pay a portion of the salaries for the extension agents.)

Zak said she is very proud of the Extension educators in the region. She said she knows it has been a tremendously stressful time for them, but noted that all the while, they did not let it get in the way of doing good work.

Orientation for county agents and extension educators begins in March and will continue through May. July 1 has been determined as the starting date for the new extension service model.

For more years than she can remember, the annual Fantasy on Ice show is also a mainstay in Eryn's skating world. For several years, she's skated numbers with friends Katie Schommer and Jana Clow, and she's also had solos since her freshman year. This year's show, slated for March 23-24, will feature a radio broadcast theme, "Hot Rocking 2002" and include Eryn performing a solo to a disco tune.

After the skating season ends, Eryn won't be hanging up her skates for long. During the summer, she and others travel to Bemidji or East Grand Forks to practice on the year-round ice that is available in those communities. The frequency of their trips, Eryn says, varies from year-to-year and is determined by everyone's schedules.

Moves in the Field is one of three areas of testing. Others are Freestyle and Dance. While Eryn passed her Gold level in the Moves in the Field category on her first try, she missed in Dance, a test she hopes to pass, she says, by the end of the summer.

The only other Thief River Falls skater to pass the Moves in the Field level was Becky Mooney in 1999. Eryn is confident, however, that others will be meeting with success soon. "We're like sisters," she says of her skating peers. "We've been working together a long time. It's all fun."

While skating will always be a part of Eryn's life, she doesn't anticipate taking it beyond the recreational point after graduating from high school.

Currently, she says she plans to attend North Dakota State University where she will participate in its pharmacy program. There, and in years to come, the commitment and perseverance that she's displayed in skating will be part of the prescription that take her to other levels of success along life's path.

Helping others get health insurance

■ North Region Health Alliance contracts with NWRDC to deliver new program

North Region Health Alliance has contracted with the Northwest Regional Development Commission (NWRDC) to deliver a new program to residents in northwestern Minnesota. The Northwest Minnesota Health Care Access Program is a program connecting people to health care services in seven counties: Lake of the Woods, Roseau, Kittson, Marshall, Polk, Pennington and Red Lake.

North Region Health Alliance member facilities have seen, and continue to see, an increase in the number of uninsured. The new alliance and program is not a replacement for health insurance, but as Heather Strandell, executive director of North Region Health Alliance, described it, an outreach service that is "a proactive approach to the problem."

The Northwest Minnesota Health Care Access Program is designed to improve access to affordable health care for residents in northwestern Minnesota.

Strandel explained that the State of Minnesota has various health care programs that residents may be eligible for in the region. This program will offer free assistance in completing the necessary paperwork and even take it a step further by continuing to provide advocacy services if needed once residents are enrolled in state health care programs. The program will provide customer service through pre-enrollment screening and preparation, application and enrollment assistance, health care advocacy, consumer education and outreach activities.

Strandell said the North Region Health Alliance and NWRDC are excited and committed to delivering such a service in the region.

The two organizations will increase communication of health care options to decrease the rate of uninsured and underinsured in northwestern Minnesota, an area that already has a 14 percent rate of working uninsured. Other benefits of the program are to increase the visibility of health care providers and regional community organizations, to sustain and improve health care provider reimbursement, and to be a leader in addressing the health care crisis.

Strandell explained that the

RLF has new city administrator

Red Lake Falls - As of February 1, Marion Martell is Red Lake Falls' new city administrator.

Martell's past experience includes being deputy city clerk for Red Lake Falls from October 1993 to January 2001 and filling in as interim city administrator. She also worked for Red Lake Falls School District 630 as a finance payroll clerk from May 1986 to October 1993, and prior to that, had worked as a bookkeeper at Farmers Union Oil Company in Red Lake Falls.

Martell is a lifelong resident of Red Lake County and is originally from Brooks. Red Lake Falls Gazette

Home damaged, equipment destroyed in fires

Bagley - Two fires within a week's time kept Bagley firefighters hopping last week.

A home received heavy smoke damage and fire damage to its kitchen in a February 14 fire. The occupants of the house were not home at the time of the fire.

On February 16, a fire, fed by gasoline explosions destroyed a rural pole building and equipment valued at around $100,000. Farmers Independent

Warroad Lions host fly-in breakfast

Warroad - The 25th annual Lions Fly-In Breakfast was held Sunday in Warroad with 23 planes landing on the river and nine at the Warroad International Airport.

Pilots taking part in the event were from Cohasset, Apple Valley, Motley, Hastings, Thief River Falls, Grand Rapids, Badger, Williams, Bovey, East St. Paul, Tower, Little Fork, Newfolden, Greenbush, and Little Falls.

Among those feeding the hungry flyers and others attending the event were Frank Madachowski, Carroll Lunos, Charles Cran, and Steve Josephson. Warroad Pioneer

Bar brawl injures Trail man

Trail - Ronald Gunning, 51, of rural Trail, was hospitalized and treated for severe facial trauma after an assault at the Trials End Bar on Sunday evening, February 17.

A 911 call summoned Polk County deputies to a bar fight where Orville John Mathison, 56, of rural Shevlin was arrested and transported to Northwest Regional Correctional Center to await his court hearing. Gunning was taken to First Care Hospital in Fosston.

A 58-year-old suspect was also involved, and the incident remains under investigation. The Leader-Record

Schools on the chopping block

Bemidji - School closings are apparently unavoidable as the Bemidji School Board attempts to close a $4.1 million deficit for the current and upcoming school years.

A number of options were presented to the board Monday night, all involving the closing of Central, Paul Bunyan and Solway schools. Pioneer

FoodShare campaign begins in MN

When Minnesota FoodShare kicked off its 20th annual March Campaign this week, it saw little reason to celebrate as need is on the rise throughout the state.

On the local scene, Gloria Reierson, director of the food shelf in Thief River Falls, says, "This is a very important month for the Area Food Shelf." Reierson explains that what is collected in food and cash during this month helps determine the size of the grants, the food shelf will receive for the remainder of the year. She added that one of the big events taking place this month is the food drive that will be conducted by local Scout packs and troops. Reierson encourages everyone to watch for details about the event.

Due to layoffs and the slumping economy, food shelves across the state have seen a sudden upturn in clients with Minnesota food shelf visits totaling 1.32 million in 2001. This number represents a 10 percent increase, the highest yearly increase during the past decade, and some food shelves in the state saw a 50 percent increase in clients during 2001. Due to an increase in need, Minnesota FoodShare's 2002 goal is to raise six million combined pounds of food and dollars for the state's 261 food shelves.

"Although layoffs and the recession are part of why we've seen such an increase, we are still seeing an increase in seniors and working families seeking help at their local food shelves," says Sue Kainz, Minnesota FoodShare's March Campaign coordinator.

The average food shelf client earns about $8.36 an hour, and these low-wage workers are often the first to go when companies need to cut costs. Also, seniors on fixed incomes are fighting rising rent and prescription costs, and children continue to make up half of the hungry.

For 20 years, Minnesota FoodShare has worked to feed the state's hungry. The first drive in 1982 was a collaboration between

Black History Month

Njeri Gitau and her son Joseph, were guests at Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls on Thursday. Njeri was the guest speaker at a Black History Month luncheon. Njeri provided students, faculty and visitors with examples of how she has overcome obstacles thrown in her path.

Weinermobile cuts the mustard

Nearly nine months into their one-year contract as drivers of the wienermobile and representatives of Oscar Mayer, Mark Thudium and Brie Martin still enjoy the excitement the wienermobile generates wherever they go.

Tuesday, February 26, the wienermobile rolled into Thief River Falls for a pre-scheduled public appearance at Hugo's. Despite bitter-cold temperatures and strong northwesterly winds, a crowd gathered quickly to inspect, reminisce and take pictures of the unique vehicle.

The most surprising aspect of a visit by the wienermobile is the reaction drivers get from adults. Martin laughed and said, "adults are often more excited about the wienermobile than children."

Maybe because the wienermobile reminds them of their childhood. Maybe because, as one resident asked, "how often do you get to see the wienermobile?"

Maybe, Martin said, residents of smaller communities – like Thief River Falls – are more enthusiastic about the wienermobile precisely because they don't see it as often as residents of bigger cities.

The first wienermobile hit the roads in 1936. "When America entered World War II it was temporarily side-lined, but between 1950 and 1954, five new wienermobiles were built. Several styles and models have been built over the years, but one fact still remains; kids love seeing the wienermobile when it comes to town.

Because Oscar Mayer takes such pride in its product, the representatives and drivers of the wienermobile are chosen carefully.

David Thoemke of Thief River Falls holds his six-year-old son Glen up so he can take a look through the windows of the weinermobile. David, and his sons Glen and Logan, closely inspected the weinermobile Tuesday when it stopped for a visit at Hugo's in Thief River Falls. They weren't the only ones to inspect the weinermobile. Hundreds excitedly took the opportunity to inspect the weinermobile and take pictures in front of it.

Build a positive attitude so big no one can knock you down

by David Hill
Editor

She'd never thought of herself as a member of a minority. In her country, everyone is treated equally and she came here expecting to be treated as an equal.

Njeri Gitau is from Kenya. She came to this country about nine years ago. She now lives in Marshall where she works for Schwan's as a systems developer. And even though she works for a Fortune 500 company, being an African American and a woman means facing challenges every day. She does this with a positive attitude.

"It's all about attitude," said Gitau. "Build a positive attitude so big that no one can knock you down," she told students, faculty and visitors at a Black History Month luncheon at Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls Thursday.

Coming to America was a big change for Gitau. She never thought of herself in a minority. In fact, she did not even know what it was like to be a minority. But when she arrived in Chicago and eventually Iowa, where she attended a private university, she learned what it was like to be a minority. It occurred in long stares. It occurred in classrooms. It occurred, and still occurs, wherever there are African Americans. She learned that actions outside of school had an impact on all African American students at the school.

What surprised her was that very few were willing to speak up, but she would have none of that. She organized support groups and organizations and she encourages others to do the same. And, she did that when she changed colleges and attended Mayville State University in Mayville too.

It was interesting to many in the audience that the perception of America by Kenyans is what they see on television. Gitau said what they see are drug dealers and gang bangers.

It seems, that's the same perception residents of small towns in America have of African Americans, even though they are individuals with different personalities, beliefs, experiences and ideas.

When she went to work at Schwan's, an individual said she would be comfortable in the small

Lift Every Voice And Sing

by James Weldon Johnson

Lift every voice and sing,
Till earth and heaven ring,
Ring with the harmonies of liberty;
Let our rejoicing rise,
High as the listening skies,
Let it resound loud as the rolling sea,
Sing a song full of faith that the dark past has taught us,
Sing a song full of hope that the present has brought us,
Facing the rising sun of our new day begun,
Let us march on till victory is won.

(Black National Anthem)

Time for some of those good sweet things - one of these recipes should make you head for the kitchen:

You can be very fancy and use both dark and light brown sugars in this recipe, or just the same brown sugar for both the sauce and the brownies - either way, they're great - just the thing when you want something rich:

PRALINE BROWNIES
1/2 cup packed dark brown sugar
3/4 cup butter (divided)
2 tablespoons evaporated milk
1/2 cup chopped pecans
2 cups packed light brown sugar
2 eggs
1-1/2 cups flour
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 teaspoon salt

In saucepan, combine dark brown sugar, 1/4 cup of the butter, and milk. Stir over low heat until butter is melted. Pour into ungreased 8 inch baking pan and sprinkle with pecans.

In mixing bowl, cream light brown sugar and remaining butter. Add eggs. Stir in flour, vanilla and salt until moistened. Spread over pecans.

Bake at 350 degrees 45-50 minutes just until brownies test done. Cool 5 minutes in pan, then invert onto tray or serving plate. Cool slightly before cutting.

Oh, my, chocolate and peanut butter - what could be better - and it's so easy to make this elegant favorite:

PEANUT BUTTER PIE
Crust:
1-1/4 cups chocolate cookie crumbs (20 cookies)
1/4 cup sugar
1/4 cup butter, melted
Filling:
1 (8 ounce) package cream cheese, softened
1 cup creamy peanut butter
1 cup sugar
1 tablespoon butter, softened
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup heavy cream, whipped
Grated chocolate or chocolate cookie crumbs

Combine crust ingredients. Press into 9 inch pie pan. Bake at 375 degrees for 10 minutes. Cool.

In mixing bowl, beat cream cheese, peanut butter, sugar, butter and vanilla until smooth. Fold in whipped cream. Gently spoon into crust. Garnish with chocolate or crumbs. Refrigerate.

Moist and delicious, this big pan of easy bars with delicious frosting will be a hit:

FROSTED BANANA BARS
1/2 cup butter
2 cups sugar
3 eggs
1-1/2 cups mashed ripe bananas, about 3 medium bananas
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 cups flour
1 teaspoon soda
Pinch salt
Frosting:
1/2 cup butter, softened
1 (8 ounce) package cream cheese, softened
4 cups powdered sugar
2 teaspoons vanilla

In mixing bowl, cream butter and sugar. Beat in eggs, bananas and vanilla.

Combine flour, soda and salt. Add to creamed mixture and mix well. Pour into greased 10x15 inch jelly roll pan and bake at 350 degrees for 25 minutes or until bars test done. Cool.

For frosting, cream butter and cream cheese in mixing bowl. Gradually add powdered sugar and vanilla. Beat well. Spread over cool bars.

If you like to make special cakes, this will be a favorite - it will become the birthday cake everyone requests:

CHOCOLATE CHIFFON CAKE
1/2 cup cocoa
3/4 cup boiling water
1-3/4 cups cake flour
1-3/4 cups sugar
1-1/2 teaspoons soda
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup oil
7 eggs, separated
2 teaspoons vanilla
1/4 teaspoon cream of tartar
Icing:
1/3 cup butter
2 cups powdered sugar
2 squares (1 ounce each) unsweetened chocolate, melted and cooled
1-1/2 teaspoons vanilla
3-4 tablespoons hot water
Chopped nuts, if desired

In bowl, combine cocoa and boiling water until smooth. Cool for 20 minutes.

In mixing bowl, combine flour, sugar, soda and salt. Add oil, egg yolks, vanilla and cocoa mixture. Beat smooth.

In another bowl with very clean mixer, beat egg whites and cream of tartar until stiff peaks form. Gradually fold in egg yolk mixture. Pour into ungreased 10 inch tube pan (angel food pan).

Bake on lowest rack in oven at 325 degrees for 60-65 minutes until cake springs back when touched. Invert pan over bowl or glass to cool. Remove cake from pan, make sure cake is completely cooled, and ice.

To make icing, melt butter in medium saucepan. Remove from heat. Stir in sugar, chocolate and vanilla. Stir in enough water until desired consistency to drizzle. Drizzle over cake. Sprinkle with nuts, if desired.

You can still have a yummy dessert even if you are watching your diet:

SHERBET ANGEL TORTE
1 prepared angel food cake (16 ounces)
1 quart raspberry sherbet
1 (8 ounce) carton light frozen whipped topping, thawed
1/2 cup reduced sugar raspberry preserves, warmed
Fresh raspberries, if available

Freeze cake for at least 2 hours or overnight. Split cake horizontally into 3 layers. Place bottom layer on freezer-safe serving plate. Spread with about 1 cup sherbet. Repeat layers. Add top cake layer. Fill center of cake with remaining sherbet. Frost top and sides with whipped topping. Gently spread preserves over top of cake. Cover loosely and store in freezer.

Remove from refrigerator 30 minutes before serving. To serve, slice with serrated knife. Garnish with raspberries if desired. Cake makes 12 servings.

51st Annual Grass Seed Institute

Roseau is host to the 51st Annual Grass and Legume Seed Institute. It will be held at the American Legion on Wednesday, March 13, starting at 9 a.m. and will wrap up by 4 p.m.

The program for this year will identify how our areas producers can position themselves to meet the increasing consumer's demands. The interest in grasses and legumes from home gardeners to the Department of Transportation and Duck's Unlimited has opened up new opportunities and avenues for specialty markets.

We will hear the latest research on the exciting new varieties being developed through the University of Minnesota and the new relationships that are being developed nationally. Some of the new varieties of bluegrass and ryegrass exhibit superior traits than what has been traditionally produced. Some of these new developments could strategically boost the agricultural role in Minnesota and certainly northwest Minnesota.

The Northern Minnesota Forage and Turf Seed Advisory Committee (NMFTSAC) will be identifying their achievements, for the producers, the last few years. They will also discuss the role they have in directing research from the grass roots level and seeing its effects at the national level.

Everyone interested is encouraged to attend. The noon meal is free of charge, and is being sponsored by the county crop improvement associations and area businesses.

Livestock Mortality Workshop

What can and should a livestock producer do when animals die?

This is especially a problem in the wintertime because the animals cannot be buried. What usually happens is the dead animal is dragged into the woods and left for scavengers. This happens because there are no rendering services in northwest Minnesota.

Other issues regarding sending dead livestock off the farm are biosecurity and economics. Recent outbreaks of communicable diseases, such as anthrax have raised issues of rendering trucks spreading diseases from farm to farm.

A three-hour workshop has been created to help producers understand other disposal methods for dead animals. This includes burying, burning and composting.

Terry Boldingh, NW District Veterinarian with the Minnesota Board of Animal Health and Bill Head, State Sheep Specialist with the University of Minnesota West Central Research and Outreach Center at Morris will present the following topics at the Best Western in Thief River Falls on Wednesday, March 6 starting at 9 a.m.

Discussion subjects will include: alternative methods of dead livestock disposal, benefits and risks, rules and regulations of composting dead animals, the science behind composting, facilities and management, disease and biosecurity issues. All interested persons are invited to attend this meeting at no charge.

Goodridge School Choruses plan concert March 5

Red Lake County Sheriff makes several drug arrests

Red Lake County Sheriff's Department has announced the arrest and pending sentencing for several individuals. The arrests and sentencings were the result of investigations into several separate incidents in the county. All of the investigations were conducted by the Red Lake County Sheriff's Department.

On Thursday, February 21, Julie Ann Qualley, 35, and a juvenile were arrested for controlled substance crimes by sheriff's deputies pursuant to a traffic stop.

Charges against Qualley include possession of numerous scheduled prescription drugs without a prescription, felony fifth-degree controlled substance crime, gross misdemeanor contributing to the delinquency of a minor, and driving after revocation. Charges of possession of a controlled substance are pending against the juvenile.

Qualley and the juvenile were released on their promise to appear in court on February 22.

On Friday, February 22, Red Lake County Sheriff's department executed a search warrant at the Mark Alan Peterson residence located in Emardville township. Peterson, 39, was arrested and charged with three separate felony warrants for sale of marijuana. All three counts are fifth-degree controlled substance crimes. The maximum penalty is five years in prison, a $10,000 fine or both. Peterson was also arrested for possession of marijuana, and possession of drug paraphernalia. His first appearance in court was scheduled for February 25 in Red Lake county.

Jerry Ronald Juneau, 34, Red Lake Falls, was sentenced on February 19, following a guilty plea in District Court to possession of methamphetamine, a second-degree controlled substance crime. Juneau was sentenced to serve 48 months in prison in St. Cloud.

The charges against Juneau stem from an investigation by the sheriff's department and the results of the execution of a search warrant at his residence on June 4, 2001.

Jeff Allen Lacey, 23, Emardville township, Red Lake County, was sentenced on February 5 to 48 months in prison in St. Cloud. On November 13, Lacey plead guilty to possession of cocaine, a second-degree controlled substance crime. Lacey was arrested by sheriff's deputies on November 6, 2001.

Trent Jon Vettleson, 25, Oklee, is scheduled to be sentenced on April 1, after entering a guilty plea to three separate counts of second-degree criminal sexual conduct on February 22.

Vettleson was arrested by sheriff's deputies on January 25, 2002, and initially charged with two counts of criminal sexual conduct in the first degree and three separate counts of criminal sexual conduct in the second degree.

Each count of second-degree criminal sexual conduct carries a maximum penalty of 25 years in jail, a $35,000 fine or both.

Anthrax update information meeting March 6

In spite of all the scary news about anthrax in recent months, there is now good news for area livestock producers. The old rule requiring a vet to be present when giving anthrax vaccine is being changed.

The new rule will require producers to buy the vaccine from a vet but producers can administer it themselves. A meeting to present information on the rule change and vaccinating animals will be held at 7 p.m. on Wednesday, March 6 at the Greenbush Community Center.

Dr. Terry Boldingh, Northwest District Veterinarian with the Minnesota Board of Animal Health will address the following items: care and handling of anthrax vaccine by producers, timing of vaccine and length of effectiveness, who should be considering vaccinating, and a review of last year's situation.

A similar meeting will also be held at 7 p.m. on Monday, March 4, in Lancaster at the old city hall. All interested persons are encouraged to attend one of these important meetings.

A permit to carry is not a "get-out-of-jail free" card

Before jumping to the conclusion that there are too many concealed weapon permits in the state, one should ask whether there have been problems with people who have concealed weapons.

According to data from the Minnesota Department of Public Safety, there are 14,420 permits to carry concealed weapons (handguns) in Minnesota. The report further allowed readers to draw a comparison between the seven-county metro area and Greater Minnesota by stating that 1,647 permits were issued in the metro area, and 12,773 in Greater Minnesota. The obvious conclusion being drawn is that there are too many handgun permits in Greater Minnesota.

Quite frequently, I think the issue is clouded by many other issues, including emotion. Fear, for example, is perpetuated by unrealistic portrayals of violence. Lack of experience and knowledge about gun laws, perpetuates the idea that all guns can be obtained with ease, and enhances fear. Cultural differences, separates the metro area from Greater Minnesota.

In this particular situation, I think it would have been more helpful for the state to list the number of individuals with permits to carry concealed weapons who have used their handguns in the commission of a crime, or used them irresponsibly, or in a manner not consistent with the intended use of the handgun. Permission to carry a concealed weapon is not a crime. In fact, if you have committed a crime, it's highly unlikely that you will be granted a permit to carry. So, where's the problem? Applications for permits to carry are scrutinized, and background checks conducted. Permits are generally issued only to individuals who require a handgun for personal safety, or occupational need.

If there is a problem with the current system, it's that we need to make certain that we hold individuals who use any gun in the commission of a crime, or in a manner inconsistent with their intended use, responsible for their actions, and severely punish offenders.

Most of us have no reason at all to carry a concealed weapon. Most of us will never apply, and never want to apply for a permit to carry a concealed weapon, but we should not be prevented from applying for and receiving a permit if we act responsibly and within legal boundaries.

Most of us know that it's more difficult to accurately fire a handgun than it looks on television shows, and that there's more to carrying a concealed weapon than knowing how to use one. Most of us know that even if a permit holder uses a handgun to protect oneself, ultimately he or she will be held accountable for his or her actions. And all of us know that a permit is not a "get out of jail free" card.

It may not be wise to move MDA

by Gene Hugoson
Commissioner
MN Dept. of Agriculture

Coming from a farm community in rural Minnesota, I can understand how talk of moving the Minnesota Department of Agriculture to greater Minnesota sounds good at first glance. After all, what better agency to have in a rural area than the agriculture department? But when you take a closer look, there are many reasons why moving the agency out of St. Paul could easily hurt farmers more than it would help them.

First, there's a real concern that moving the MDA out of St. Paul would create an "out of sight, out of mind" syndrome for Minnesota's agriculture sector. A move outside the metro area would likely weaken the MDA's ability to represent the interests of agriculture at the center of state government. It would mean a loss of interaction with other agencies and organizations – including the legislature. It would weaken important working relationships and severely limit the department's ability to testify on and follow key legislation. Whether part of a Republican, Democrat or Independence Party administration, the MDA would not have a strong voice with which to represent the state's farm sector for decades to come.

Also, a move out of St. Paul would diminish the MDA's urban visibility and erode its perceived relevance among metro stakeholders. Right now the MDA provides many services to urban Minnesota, but as the state and its legislature become more urban the "out of sight, out of mind" syndrome could handicap the agency. After all, future legislatures dominated by a new generation or urban lawmakers would have little reason to support what they would see as a "rural" agency.

There's a good reason Minnesota Farmers Union, the Minnesota Farm Bureau and many other Minnesota farm groups have their headquarters within a 20-minute drive of the State Capitol. These groups represent Greater Minnesota constituents, but they found they can serve the interests of their constituents better by locating their headquarters where state government decisions are made.

Clearly, the state's farm organizations recognize the importance of being located close to the center of state government. In fact, Minnesota Farm Bureau, the Minnesota Association of Cooperatives and the Minnesota Crop Improvement Association feel so strongly about this that each has recently come out against moving the MDA.

Some argue that moving the MDA to a community in greater Minnesota will bring the agency closer to the farmers it serves. That may be true for farmers in the immediate area around that community, but a move to Steele County, for example, would not place the agency any closer to farmers in Stearns County, Lyon County or Polk County.

Another argument you may hear is that relocating the agency to a community in greater Minnesota would bring jobs and economic activity to the chosen community. That's true to a point, but keep in mind that almost half the MDA staff is already stationed outside St. Paul in 55 counties across the state. In fact, two of the employees most recently hired by the agency work out of Mankato and Willmar.

Lawmakers and farmers must ask whether a modest, one-time economic boost for one town is worth taking the very real risk of marginalizing Minnesota farmers' most important advocate in state government – especially at a time when agriculture is finding it more and more difficult to tell its story to the general public.

Peterson votes against phone company monopolies

Congressman Collin Peterson (DFL-7th District) has expressed disappointment at House passage of HR 15242, also known as the "Tauzin-Dingell bill," which would repeal certain anti-monopoly requirements imposed on the four Regional Bell operating companies. The legislation would allow Qwest, Verizon, SBC and BellSouth to revert back into long-distance companies for the purpose of routing a large portion of the phone line data flow that comprises the Internet. The Bells have claimed that they will increase their network capacity to speed up the Internet if Congress changes the law to allow them to carry long-distance data and restrict other phone companies' access to phone lines that were originally AT&T's.

"This legislation came up because the big Bell companies want into the successful high speed Internet industry but don't want to play according to rules set by the 1996 Telecomm Act," Peterson said. "Of course if you give them regional monopolies they'll have the power to deploy a lot of broadband. But speeding up broadband deployment does not justify squeezing competition from the industry."

The Telecommunications Act of 1996 set line-sharing requirements that the Bell companies must meet before they can re-enter the long-distance business. The restrictions allowed new companies to compete for Bell local customers. The House legislation virtually eliminates those requirements, providing incentive for the Bell local phone companies to enter long-distance data communications. Supporters of the bill believe the Bells will then bring high-speed Internet access to all homes and businesses. Critics contend that having such powerful companies in charge of Internet data flows will threaten the Internet's growth and variety, by stifling competition among service providers and applications producers. They also believe the Bells would continue their tendency toward improving access in urban areas at the expense of rural customers.

"In the past five years Qwest and Verizon have sold thousands of miles of rural Minnesota lines to smaller companies rather than improve them to carry broadband," Peterson said. "They're not interested in bringing broadband to rural markets. Local competitors are already doing more than the Bells to deploy broadband in towns and rural areas. In fact, it was Bell company competitors who introduced DSL to the market in the first place."

The Tauzin-Dingel bill would require the Bells to provide high-speed capability to all of their remote terminals within five years. In order to obtain Direct Subscriber Line (DSL) service from those terminals, the home or business would have to be no more than three miles away.

"This legislation doesn't help us in northwest Minnesota because the Bells in our area have virtually disappeared," Peterson said. "In their place, local high-speed Internet providers are growing and providing local jobs so that money from our phone bills stays in Minnesota. A year ago I co-sponsored better legislation called the 'Broadband Internet Access Act' to provide incentives for existing local companies to accelerate high-speed Internet access in areas that big industry has neglected."

The legislation now goes to the Senate for possible further consideration.

Morgan Claims Pro Open, Leads Ski-Doo To Manufacturer's Cup Win

Submitted Story

After a long absence, Polaris has returned to the top step of the podium in World Snowmobile Association (WSA) Snocross Worldwide Championship (SWC) competition. Carl Schubitzke claimed a thrilling win in Pro Stock at the series' seventh round, the second annual Castle Sales/HJC Manufacturer's Cup, presented by Arctic Cat, Bombardier ATV, Bud Light, C&A Pro, Ford and the Air Force. Blair Morgan won his fourth Pro Open final of the season, and helped Ski-Doo claim the prestigious Manufacturer's Cup with a win in that Open Class shootout.

In the Manufacturer's Cup final, after a series of single-brand heats and a last chance qualifier created the final field of 12, Morgan jumped to the early lead, while Semi-Pro sensation Shaun Cropo slipped into second with Tucker Hibbert in third. Hibbert soon moved to second, and help for Cropo from other Polaris riders started to evaporate with offs and mechanical woes. Yamaha's hope also dwindled early with an off-course excursion. Meanwhile, behind Cropo, TJ Gulla, Arctic, and Morgan's Semi-Pro teammate, Steve Taylor, Ski-Doo, started a furious war for fourth. Morgan held off the repeated attacks of Hibbert, but Hibbert's second combined with Gulla's fourth tied Morgan and fifth place Taylor's points total. The tiebreaker was highest finish, and Morgan's win gave the Cup to Ski-Doo. The Pro Stock final turned into a classic nail biter with myriad twists and turns. Finnish standout Tomi Ahmasalo, Ski-Doo, leapt to the early lead, with Justin Tate, Ski-Doo, and Schubitzke, Polaris, second and third. Schubitzke slipped into second, but Ahmasalo started easing away, while Morgan's poor start left him seventh but still far better off than Hibbert, buried in 12th! Hibbert started a now near patented charge to the front, absolutely flying. Morgan moved to fourth and started attacking Tate, but Tate received some relief when his teammate, Dennis Eckstrom, started pestering Morgan. Meanwhile Hibbert, easily the fastest pilot on the track, caught and somehow easily disposed of Eckstrom, Morgan and Tate. He set off after Schubitzke, who upped the ante, when suddenly approaching the finish double with two laps to go, the Ahmasalo caught a whoop wrong and dismounted in front of a stunned Schubitzke (not to mention crowd!), and a no doubt pleased Hibbert. Tucker dropped the hammer, closing but just not able to find a way past, and a jubilant Schubitzke returned Polaris to the winner's circle after a long victory drought. After a brilliant race-long defense, Tate finally succumbed to Morgan's relentless pressure right at the line, by a ski tip. Eckstrom grabbed fifth, while a dejected Ahmasalo recovered only for seventh.

In the Pro Open final, lo and behold, Hibbert finally got a great start in a final, but Morgan went with him and grabbed the lead. Hibbert attacked for the entire race, closing here, dropping away there, but just could never find the answer and followed Morgan to the checker. Trevor John, Polaris, settled into third early, with Gulla fourth and a very sick (pneumonia!) Todd Wolff, Ski-Doo, slipping into fifth. And after a rather processional race, that's how they finished. The points scenario got a bit more intriguing though, as third place points holder Carl Kuster, Ski-Doo, broke early and fourth placed Noel Kohanski, Polaris, struggled with problems. John, who was fifth in points, closed up some ground, and moved by Kohanski for fourth.

The next round of the WSA's Snocross Worldwide Championship was originally scheduled for next weekend, March 2-3, in Fargo, N.D. However, due to the ongoing weather situation and conditions in Fargo and at other sites considered, WSA officials and the management of Canterbury Park have decided to hold the circuit's eighth round right back here at Canterbury next weekend. More information on the WSA's affiliated circuits, including schedules and results, is always available on-line at www.WSARACING.com.

Animals featured at Strandquist fund-raiser March 3

A Siberian tiger will be among the animals making live appearances at a fund-raiser at Bethesda Lutheran Church in Strandquist on Sunday, March 3, at 2 p.m.

"Fingerprints of God" is the name of the show, and everyone is invited to attend.

Cauro Holmstrom of Paul Bunyan's Animal Land in Bemidji is the presenter, promising a bigger, better show filled with new animals. Holmstrom, who has presented her show at many area schools, encourages everyone to come early to get a good seat.

Marko is a seven-month-old Siberian tiger cub who has been bottle-fed and trained by Holmstrom since he was two weeks old. Other animals taking part in the show, include Emie, a ring-tailed lemur; Bailey, a coatimundi, Gordie, a hedgehog; and Eli, a tortoise. All of the animals will be handled by Holmstrom, offering audience members a close-up view.

Numerous displays depicting more animals will be set up as well, and in addition to teaching some interesting facts about each animal, Holmstrom will present some biblical truths and lessons each animal can teach us.

Sunday's event will offer a unique opportunity to all who attend. The Siberian tiger is one of the earth's most endangered animals. With adult tigers reaching nearly 800 pounds, it is also the world's largest cat. Those who study the Siberian in its native land on the eastern coast of Russia dream of catching a live glimpse of the magnificent creature. Many never do.

Argyle Rural Development invests in campaign

For the third year in a row the community of Argyle, will be investing time and money into a 'marketing' campaign that is designed to attract young working families.

Leaders in the Argyle community realize that in order to sustain a strong viable local economy and social fabric into the future, they are going to have to make every effort to attract those people who guarantee the future: young people. The marketing campaign uses several media to get the message, "please check out the Argyle community" to the young people. Besides the distribution of a tabloid designed to give people a broad cross-section view of the Argyle community, advertising is also done in local weekly newspapers, radio, and television.

The tabloid is expected to be distributed on or about March 1, and a new updated television commercial will be aired shortly after that.

The Board also spends time brainstorming and searching for ideas to pursue that would aid in the economic development of the Argyle community. If you or anyone else has ideas or suggestions about a viable community development project please contact one of the board members or call Noel at the Argyle city office. The members of the A.R.E.D.A. board of directors are Charlie Bremseth, Paul Crummy, Jim Feller, Al Larson, Karen Riopelle, Glenn Rivard, Craig Sundby, and Tim Urbaniak.

TRF boys rally in fourth quarter to beat Rams 43-41

A fourth quarter rally carried Thief River Falls past Roseau 43-41 Thursday in boys high school basketball.

Combined with a 53-50 Friday victory over Crookston, the down-to-the-wire finish against the Rams gave the 7-14 Prowlers back-to-back wins for the first time this winter.

Roseau had quarter leads of 16-12, 24-18 and 35-28. Thief River Falls did not own a lead until the final 62 seconds.

Tied at 41-41 with 17 seconds left, the Prowlers called a time-out to set up a final shot. The play didn't come off as diagramed, but Tyler Bosh came up with a short jumper in traffic that went in with four seconds left.

A final hurried Roseau shot was off the mark.

"The coach didn't call a very good play," quipped Thief River Falls coach Chris McLean about the Prowlers' game-winning sequence, "but the kids didn't panic and shoot too soon. They did a nice job."

Jason Koch led the Prowlers with 12 points. Mitch Anderson scored a game-high 16 points for the Rams.

Thief River Falls' 9-for-16 free throw night featured a 5-for-6 fourth quarter at the line.

"We got to the free throw line a little more in the fourth quarter, and we made them," pointed out McLean. "That gave us the opportunity to set up our press, and we made some plays off it."

Roseau kept turning back Thief River Falls mini-rallies throughout the night while going 13-for-20 at the line.

"The kids responded very well," said McLean. "They didn't quit."

A Friday trip to Detroit Lakes completed the Prowlers' 2001-02 regular season schedule. They will open Section 8AAA tournament play Thursday.

Bath Mattson qualifies for third national meet

St. Cloud State University senior Beth Mattson has qualified for the NCAA Division II women's national swimming and diving championships March 13-17 in Orlando, Fla.

A diver, Mattson began her high school swimming career in Thief River Falls before graduating from South St. Paul.

Mattson will be making her third national tournament appearance – twice in the one-meter event and once on the three-meter board. She will compete in both events at this year's meet.

St. Cloud women finished fourth at the North Central Conference meet held recently at the University of North Dakota.

Kelsey Holmes of Badger/Greenbush-Middle River tried to drive past Stephen-Argyle defender Keisi Swenson during Thursday's Sub-Section 32A girls high school basketball tournament semifinals at Northland Community and Technical College. The Gators won 38-25.

B/G-MR girls hold on against Storm, 38-25

In the end, Stephen-Argyle turnovers proved more harmful than Badger/Greenbush-Middle River fouls Thursday as the Gators beat the Storm 38-25 in the Sub-Section 32A girls high school basketball tournament semifinals at Northland Community and Technical College.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River never trailed. The Gators were up 14-4 at the end of the first quarter and had a 20-9 halftime lead. It was a tough half of basketball for the Storm: 15 turnovers, 4-for-13 shooting from the field and a 1-for-8 showing at the free throw line.

But it still wasn't a completely comfortable feeling for Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Tom Neibauer, who watched three starters pick up three first half fouls.

And when 5-10 freshman center Kierah Kimbrough, the team's top scorer and rebounder, picked up personal No. 4 just 1:33 into the third quarter, Neibauer's concern became real.

With Kimbrough on the bench, Stephen-Argyle center Rachel Sang took over. The 5-11 senior promptly scored three straight baskets to suddenly make it a 22-16 game. That forced Neibauer to put Kimbrough back on the floor.

"If they went ahead, I knew we weren't going to catch them," explained Neibauer. "We had to take a chance and put Kierah back in there."

Kimbrough immediately scored, but her foul load forced her to back off on defense, allowing Sang to pick up two more buckets on the inside. And when a 3-point basket by Holly Riopelle made it a 13-6 run, the Storm had the spread down to 26-23 with 1:51 remaining in the third quarter.

But that's as close as it got. Stephen-Argyle was out-scored 12-2 the rest of the way. The Gators closed out the third quarter with baskets by Kelsey Holmes, Kimbrough and Lyndsay Heggedal, then continued a 9-0 game-deciding swing when Holmes scored off a fast break to open the fourth quarter and Heggedal added a free throw for a 35-23 scoreboard gap.

Sang led all scorers with 18 points before picking up her fifth foul with 2:19 remaining. Kimbrough, who managed to avoid her fifth personal until the final 86 seconds, scored 13 points.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River shot 33 percent from the field (17/51) and went 4-for-8 at the free throw line. Stephen-Argyle shot 30 percent from the floor (10/33) and struggled through a 2-for-11 free throw game. The Storm finished with a 26-24 rebound edge, but also had more turnovers, 24-14.

"We got a lot of turnovers with our press," pointed out Neibauer. "We kept Sang from getting the ball down low. We got an exceptional defensive game out of Missy Bruggeman. I don't have the stats in front of me, but she must of had eight steals."

It was the fourth win of the year over the Storm for the Gators, who will take a 13-13 record into the Sub-Section 32A title game tonight (Saturday) against Kittson Central. The Wolfpack cruised to a 61-13 win over Tri-County in the first half of the Thursday semifinal doubleheader.

Sacred Heart ends year for MCC girls

Marshall County Central paid the price for early-game misses Thursday in a 47-40 Section 31A girls high school basketball tournament semifinal loss at the hands of East Grand Forks Sacred Heart at the University of Minnesota-Crookston.

The Eagles led from start to finish. In falling behind 7-2 during the first 2 1/2 minutes, the Nordics missed four lay-ups, pointed out Marshall County Central coach Tom Mjelde. "When you end up losing by seven, those shots come back to haunt you," he said.

Sacred Heart led at the quarter stops 10-8, 21-14 and 40-27.

The Nordics managed to chop that 13-point deficit into a four-point difference with 2 1/2 minutes remaining, but could get no closer.

"The kids didn't quit," pointed out Mjelde. "They could have easily given up when they were down by 13, but they kept playing hard and battled back."

Ali Sonstelie of the Eagles finished with 19 points to lead all scorers. Alicia Halvorson had 15 for the Nordics.

Marshall County Central was 16-for-51 from the field (31 percent), while Sacred Heart went 18-for-37 (48 percent). "Shooting has been a problem for us pretty much all year, and it caught up to us," said Mjelde.

At the free throw line, the Nordics went 7-for-10 and the Eagles were 8-for-18. Marshall County Central won the rebound battle 31-19. Sacred Heart had more turnovers, 17-15.

It was the third loss of the year at the hands of the Eagles for the Nordics, who finished at 12-14.

East Grand Forks wins Section 8A hockey title

East Grand Forks successfully defended its Section 8A boys high school hockey tournament title Thursday with a 4-2 championship game victory over Warroad at the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center.

The win sends the Green Wave to the Minnesota Class A state tournament for the fourth time in five years.

East Grand Forks will face Totino-Grace in the state tournament quarterfinals Wednesday at the Xcel Energy Center in St. Paul. Game time is 2:15 p.m. Totino-Grace beat Breck 3-1 in the Section 5A finals Thursday.

Halvorson scores 35 in 64-49 RLCC semifinal victory

Michelle Halvorson scored 35 points and Red Lake County Central went 24-for-34 at the free throw line Thursday in a 64-49 Section 29A girls high school basketball tournament semifinal win over Kelliher/Northome at Bemidji State University.

Halvorson hit a trio of 3-pointers, went 10-for-11 at the free throw line and handed out six assists as Red Lake County Central boosted its record to 13-12 and set up a championship game showdown today (Saturday) against Lake of the Woods.

"Michelle Halvorson had an outstanding game," said Red Lake County Central coach Rick Koivisto. "They pressed us – or tried to – and Michelle pretty much beat the press by herself."

Red Lake County Central had quarter leads of 18-8, 36-21 and 52-35. Kelliher/Northome comeback hopes were squashed when Halvorson and Brittany Berberich both had 5-for-6 fourth quarters at the free throw line. Berberich finished with 14 points and 11 rebounds. Ashley Hughes led Kelliher/Northome with 22 points.

The two teams had nearly identical 32 percent shooting nights from the field (Red Lake County Central 18/57; Kelliher/Northome 18/56). Kelliher/Northome simply didn't get to the line as many times in a 13-for-19 free throw game.

Nordics win in 31A tournament opener

■ MCC girls beat Wolverines 45-28

Strong defense and wins go hand-in-hand for the Marshall County Central girls high school basketball team.

A 45-28 Tuesday win over Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke in the opening round of the 2002 Sub-Section 31A tournament was the third straight victory for the 12-13 Nordics. In those three games, Marshall County Central has given up 29, 26 and now 28 points.

"We've been playing outstanding defense," acknowledged Marshall County Central coach Tom Mjelde. "We've been working on it really hard in practice, and it's paying off."

The Nordics led just 19-16 at halftime, but they out-scored the Wolverines 26-12 in the second half.

Pressure defense led to transition baskets for the Nordics, who had a hand in the 19 Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke turnovers. "Offensively we're starting to click," said Mjelde. "Our full court press forced some turnovers and gave us some easy shots."

When the scoreboard deficit forced the Wolverines to gamble on defense down the stretch, the Nordics met the challenge and added to their lead. "We did a good job running our press-breaker," pointed out Mjelde, whose team turned it over just 11 times.

Marshall County Central teammates Alicia Halvorson and Jordan Holthusen shared game-high scoring honors with 12 points each. Halvorson also picked up eight assists. Anna Anderson led the Wolverines with eight points.

Marshall County Central shot 38 percent from the field (17/45). Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke shot just 22 percent (9/41). The Nordics were 9-for-17 at the free throw line; the Wolverines went 9-for-13. The winners finished with a 32-17 rebound advantage.

It was the third win of the year over the Wolverines for the Nordics.

Tuesday's post-season doubleheader at Northland started with a 48-37 Tri-County win over Kittson County North in Sub-Section 32A.

Josh Larson completed the 2001-02 regular season as the single-season and career assist record holder for the Marshall County Central boys high school basketball program. Heading into the Sub-Section 31A tournament, the six-foot senior guard has 204 assists this winter and 523 for his career. He broke his own single-season record of 169 set a year ago and surpassed the career mark of 318 held by David Wilcox. To recognize the achievements, Larson was presented with a basketball by head coach Ron Ueland signed by many of his current and former teammates.

Huskies finish with a 47-46 win over Bears

A Kyle Wikert free throw with no time remaining on the clock gave Goodridge a 47-46 regular season-ending boys high school basketball win over host Clearbrook-Gonvick Tuesday.

It was the fourth straight victory for the 15-8 Huskies, who walked off the court with the North Tri-County Conference title in hand.

"It was a big win for us," said Goodridge coach Eric Mickelson. "We played a good, solid game, except for a few too many turnovers. It was a good way to end the regular season."

Clearbrook-Gonvick trailed 16-12 at the end of the first quarter, but pulled into a 22-22 halftime tie and went ahead 33-30 at the close of the third quarter.

The advantage went back to the Huskies, who began the final minute of play with a 46-42 lead. A 3-point basket by the Bears' Johnny Berg – his only points of the night – chopped the difference to 46-45 with 30 seconds to play.

That basket was followed by a Goodridge turnover with 15 seconds on the clock. Chris Westrum drove to the basket and drew a foul with 8.3 seconds showing. He made the first free throw to tie it, but missed a second attempt that was rebounded by the Huskies' Casey Jones.

Mickelson had drawn up a final-shot play in a time-out called before the free throws, with Jones being the designated shooter. But with time running out and unable to get the ball inside to the 6-9 center, Wikert wound up with a 3-point attempt at the buzzer.

Wikert missed the shot, but drew a foul on the play. He was awarded three free throw opportunities, but the 5-10 junior only needed one for the win. All four of his points for the night came on fourth quarter free throws.

Jones and Westrum were the game's only double figure scorers with 19 and 16 points, respectively.

From the field, Goodridge was 16-for-47 (34 percent) and Clearbrook-Gonvick went 16-for-45 (36 percent). The edge came at the free throw line, where the Huskies were 15-for-25 and the Bears went 8-for-11. Goodridge finished with a 20-19 rebound edge, but they also had more turnovers, 19-14.

Grygla-Gatzke ends regular season 21-4

Grygla-Gatzke capped a 21-4 regular season with a 75-58 boys high school basketball win over Tri-County Monday.

"It was a nice win for us," said Eagles coach Vern Johnson. "I've been wondering just where we are at. This told us a lot. We beat a good team."

Grygla-Gatzke jumped out to a 24-11 first quarter lead and never looked back. It was 44-30 at halftime and 57-33 after three quarters.

Tony Nordby scored 28 points to lead the Eagles. A 17-point night by Brett Spilde of the Wildcats put him over the 1,000 mark for his high school basketball career.

The Eagles shot 58 percent from the field (28/48). They were 12-for-20 at the free throw line and finished with a 33-27 rebound advantage. The Wildcats shot 39 percent from the floor (24/61) and had a 7-for-17 night at the line.

"Defensively we played well," reported Johnson. "We rebounded well, and that gave us a chance to push the ball down the floor."

School lunch project reaches out to uninsured children

Applications for insurance coverage in Minnesota Health Care Programs (MinnesotaCare or Medical Assistance) are being sent to families in Minnesota. These applications are being sent through a new project to get Minnesota children insured. This is a joint project with the Minnesota Department of Human Services (DHS) and several school districts throughout Minnesota.

Most children who are eligible for the National School Lunch Program are likely eligible for public health care programs. Families not already enrolled in MinnesotaCare or Medical Assistance (MA) may receive an application. Some information will be pre-printed on the applications. This is based on information families provided when applying for free- or reduced-price school meal programs. Applications will be mailed throughout the school year, depending on when families apply for the National School Lunch Program.

For more information about the application, please call county human services. To find out the name, address and phone number of your county office, please call 1-800-657-3659. Individuals may also chose to contact MinnesotaCare at 651-297-3862, or 1-800-657-3672.

Correction:

Moriah Otto of Roseau has been named to the Academic Excellence President's List for fall semester 2001 at Northland Community and Technical College. A semester grade-point average of 3.50 to 3.99 must be achieved for a student to be eligible for the Academic Excellence President's List. Otto had previously been included, inaccurately, on another President's List. Northland College apologizes for the error.

On That Road Again

I'm never completely excited about toking the hour-long drive west on Highway 11 to Roseau. There's a lot of emotional baggage that goes along with me on that trip and it's tough to overcome. I go there, for example, to see the dentist, and that's somewhat of a downer. Oh, he's a nice enough guy and all; it's just that I have that interminable 60-mile stretch of tar to allow my paranoia to envision horse-sized needles filled with Novocain and imagine the high-pitched static on the radio as the whirring of an electric drill as it grinds across the enamel of my bicuspids. By the time I walk into the office door I'm generally worked into such a frenzy that even the most basic of check-ups becomes a near-death experience.

Or, I'll go to Roseau with my family to shop for an afternoon and about halfway there it'll dawn on me just how small my cultural expanse has become. I'm actually looking forward — nay genuinely excited — about the prospects of going to "the Big City" — defined for me now as a town that has a Pamida and a fast food restaurant on the same street.

Or, as I drive through Roosevelt and Warroad reading the road signs, it occurs to me that Roseau continues to be one of the few towns along Highway 11 that doesn't run this column in their local paper. And I'm overcome with a sense of professional incompleteness and impotence which makes the drive that much tougher to take.

But when a weekend comes along, like last weekend, when one of my children's hockey tournaments demands that I drive that endless strip of Highway 11 three times in three days, I drool with anticipation. Roseau, you see, knows how to do hockey.

Now before I get too gushy with this, I want to make it clear that the closest my daughter's hockey team came to beating their Roseau counterparts this season was a 9 goal loss — that was the mildest of the three beatings. So my enthusiasm about heading there for hockey is not based on any kind of "easy win" mentality. However, the drumpings aside, we were never made to feel like unworthy adversaries.

Not once, in our three trips to Roseau, for example, did I enter the door to the arena without having someone shake my hand and at least pretend they were glad to see me. Once it was even a pre-school kid named Gabe who I'm pretty sure was not only not glad to see me but was probably even a little intimidated by the hairy guy from Baudette, but he still shook my hand and forced out something pleasant.

On all three trips west to the Roseau Memorial Arena, for instance, I encountered the same person staffing the concession stand. (I'm convinced he actually lived in there though I've yet to gather substantive proof.) Even more amazing than the consistency in his attendance, however, was the fact that he smiled and was polite and helpful every time I asked for a cup of coffee or a key to the locker room. As I remember it, in my own early winter week of obligation behind the Baudette counter, just day-one was privy to such a positive demeanor, the last six days given to grunting reluctantly at other hockey parents and cursing at their children. Either I'd encountered a genuinely pleasant person in Roseau or I wanted some of what he was having in his coffee.

The list continues. This last weekend's tournament was well run. The hockey is obviously good, the coaches first-rate and always willing to share opinions and tactics. The players weren't chippy on the ice and would make a genuine effort off the ice to establish human contact with members of the other teams. Heck, they actually stayed around after their games were done to cheer on some of their new acquaintances from the visiting tournament teams. (It is possible they were paid to do this but, once again, I have no proof.) The officials were competent and patient, accepting of the occasional coaching or fan outburst without letting it have a sway on the game. The facilities (three rinks in a town of 2,000!) are nothing short of impressive and their existence suggests that the entire town is well aware of how well Roseau does hockey.

Now, I realize that this is beginning to sound a little like a Chamber of Commerce promotional, but I want to make sure that I've overcome at least a little of the depression offered up in earlier paragraphs. Oh, I'll still dread the hour-long ride to the dentist, and I'll still worry about the size of the cultural horizons that my children can encounter in northern Minnesota as I drive excitedly into a Roseau merchant's parking lot. And I'll still tend to worry about the literary gap that exists in each Roseau resident's reading menu as I plow my way west through the small towns along Highway 11. But as long as I know that there's an occasional hockey experience to be had in Roseau, I'll happily make the drive.

reason the program will be located at member health care facilities is that this is usually where the uninsured are first identified.

Addressing the uninsured is a serious issue not only for northwestern Minnesota but also for the nation as a whole. 2.2 million Americans lost their health insurance in 2001, which has caused various business and labor groups, such as the American Medical Association and the American Hospital Association, to form a coalition called Covering the Uninsured. This coalition will begin to educate the public on the uninsured issue through an advertising campaign. The Northwest Minnesota Health Care Access Program, which is to be implemented March 1, 2002 will be a positive response for our region to begin addressing the uninsured issue.

Information on the Access Program can be obtained by calling 1-800-333-2433, 218-281-9352 or Northwest Medical Center at 218-683-4444.

The North Region Health Alliance is a health care provider cooperative comprised of nine independent health care organizations developed to collectively address the health care issues facing rural Minnesota. Members of the Alliance include Lakewood Health Center (Baudette), Roseau Area Hospital and Homes (Roseau), Kittson memorial Healthcare Center (Hallock), North Valley Health Center (Warren), Northwest Medical Center (Thief River Falls), First Care Medical Services (Fosston), Riverview Healthcare Association (Crookston), Northwestern Mental Health Services (Crookston), and Altru Health System (Grand Forks).

The NWRDC is a special arm of government, which provides support to a wide variety of economic and social development projects in northwest Minnesota. On-going programs include the Area Agency on Aging, which is the primary partner on the Health Care Access Program, Arts Promotion, Economic Development, Business Loans, Housing Development and Transportation Planning. The commission also partners with other groups on items such as flood recovery, agricultural development and tourism.

The services provide by the program will be kept strictly confidential.

We'll Be There — Peace Of Mind

The Oscar Mayer wienermobile stopped at Hugo's in Thief River Falls Tuesday. Hundreds of people gathered in the cold and brisk February winds to gawk at and photograph the wienermobile. After all, how many times do you get to see the wienermobile?

Come on adults. . . "Oh, I wish I had an Oscar Mayer weiner...." Adults seem more familiar with the advertising slogans and more excited about a visit to the community by the Wienermobile, but children, like the one above, were also excited about the visit. Tuesday, children and adults lined up for photos and a close inspection of the Wienermobile when it stopped for a visit at Hugo's in Thief River Falls.

Only college graduates are selected to drive the wienermobile and only for one year. Martin and Thadium are both college graduates. Martin has a degree in anthropology from the University of Kansas, and Thadium has a degree in journalism/advertising from the University of Missouri. They were chosen from over 1,500 applicants. Once they complete their one-year contract with Oscar Mayer both hope to start a career in advertising. One thing is for sure, their resumes will certainly attract a lot of attention.

Martin and Thadium have enjoyed their job with Oscar Mayer. Since they began in June and completed "Hot Dog High," they have visited several states. In the last month alone, they have traveled 4,000 miles.

During their travels they have had many wonderful experiences. But, the one thing they don't like to see are people not paying attention to the road and reaching for cameras when they pass the wienermobile on the road. Fortunately, Martin said, they haven't witnessed any accidents.

Jingos like – "I wish I we're an Oscar Mayer wiener," have boosted Oscar Mayer into the national, and perhaps international consciousness. And when the wienermobile pulled into Thief River Falls Tuesday, for example, people were clamoring for Oscar Mayer musical whistles. The special whistles, which have undergone several changes, were first introduced in 1951.

It could be said that Oscar Mayer has always believed music is important. Currently, the company is conducting a talent search. To enter, music teachers K-5 videotape their students singing an Oscar mayer jingle for a chance to win $10,000. Fifty-one schools will be awarded $10,000 for their music program. One grand-prize winning school will also get to star in an Oscar Mayer television commercial. For more information, or to get your child's school involved call 1-800-672-2754 or visit oscarmayer.com.

Our thanks to Mark Thadium and Brie Martin, and to J.J. Staite for his research.

Food Share campaign begins in Minnesota

the Greater Minneapolis Council of Churches (GMCC) and Pillsbury to raise food for struggling laid off workers in the Iron Range. That first drive was successful beyond the wildest dreams of organizers as more and a million pounds of food was raised. When GMCC decided to continue the annual drive, Minnesota FoodShare was born. WCCO AM Radio personalities Boon and Erickson helped kick off the original campaign and have agreed to reprise their roles as honorary chairmen of the 2002 March Campaign.

Donations of food or cash to Minnesota FoodShare March Campaign can be made at local food shelves, places of worship, any US Bank branch office, or the office of WCCO AM Radio or WCCO TV. Cash donations can be sent to Minnesota FoodShare's office or made on-line at www.gmcc.org/MFS. This year, online donations will be matched up to $50,000. All money raised by Minnesota FoodShare during the month of March will go directly for the purchase of food.

Minnesota FoodShare is a program of the Greater Minneapolis Council of Churches, co-sponsored by the Minnesota Rabbinical Association, Catholic Charities of the Archdiocese of St. Paul and Minneapolis, Jewish Community Relations Council of Minnesota, and the Dakotas, Minnesota Catholic Conference, Minnesota Council of Churches, and the St. Paul Area Council of Churches.

town of Marshall because there were other people like her there. "Who are my people?" asked Gitau. "We are one, we are United States citizens, North Dakotans and Minnesotans."

The luncheon on Thursday provided students, faculty and visitors an opportunity to learn more about African American heritage. And while the luncheon also celebrated the conclusion of a month of activity, it provided many with the tools they need to overcome obstacles deliberately placed in their path to success and happiness.

Olympic experience shines for local couple

by Kathi Carlson
Reporter

Lukewarm is how Mark Larson said he felt when he received an invitation in November to attend the 2002 Olympic Winter Games.

He warmed to the idea, however, when he mentioned the call to his wife, Jean. "She was all fired up," Mark said. Jean persuaded him to go, and the Larsons made the trip to Salt Lake City last month.

Mark Larson is the president of Digi-Key Corp., and the invitation was extended by Panasonic. Digi-Key is one of Panasonic's largest distributors, and Panasonic was one of the Olympic Winter Games 10 Worldwide Partners, a sponsorship that cost Panasonic $40 million. Also making the trip from Digi-Key were Stan Springsteen and his wife, Jennifer.

As Panasonic's guests, the local foursome had their choice of which five-day stay they preferred. The Larsons and Springsteens selected the first five days which included the opening ceremony on February 8.

Attending the opening or closing ceremonies of the Olympic Games is not something that most folks have the opportunity to do. And, with tickets to the opening ceremony costing a hefty $885 apiece, Mark estimates that, like them, the vast majority of those in attendance were the guests of one of the Olympic's many sponsors.

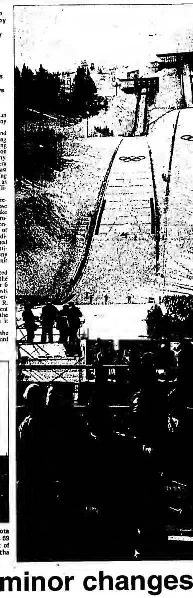
Security at this year's Games was a much-talked-about issue and something the Larsons experienced before reaching the opening ceremony or even Salt Lake City for that matter.

On the flight to Salt Lake City, passengers were required to remain in their seats for the final 30 minutes of the flight. Mark has flown many times since September 11 and said that he has not experienced such a rule on another flight, but that it is implemented on flights going in to Washington, D.C.

Security in and around Salt Lake City was no less, and there were a number of security rules guests were required to abide by during the course of their stays. One of the rules involved the size of a woman's purse that could measure no larger than 10" x 12" x 6".

A three-quarter-mile secured area surrounded the Rice-Eccles Olympic Stadium on the campus of the University of Utah where the opening ceremony was held. Detection devices were used to check everyone out before entering the stadium, and while the process was slow, the Larsons say everyone seemed to appreciate the significance of the security, and they didn't hear any grumbling or complaining.

The hour-long wait was worthwhile, however, and Mark and Jean agreed that the opening ceremony was nothing short of spectacular.



In a crowd of 55,000, Mark and Jean had front row seats, affording them a bird's eye view of everything that was going on and every person who took part in the ceremony. While one wouldn't describe them as "star-struck," they were at least slightly awed by the famous flag bearers and President Bush who, as the leader of the host nation, officially opened the Games.

In addition to an opening ceremonies cast of 5,000, each of those in attendance were asked to take part in the program as well and provided with props that were contained in the kits placed on each of the stadium's 55,000 seats. In addition, to the props the kits contained a cushioned pad to sit on, a beautiful, art-filled opening ceremony program book, and other souvenir items.

The audience members practiced for the opening ceremony during the preshow that began shortly after 6 p.m. The preshow featured hosts Matt Lauer and Al Roker and performers Daniel Rodriguez and R. Kelly. Adding to the excitement were periodic updates about the progress of Olympic Flame as it made its way to the stadium.

Audience participation in the opening ceremony included card

Board adopts new hot lunch policy

Clearbrook - The Clearbrook-Gonvick School Board approved a new hot lunch policy at its February 25 meeting.

Under the new policy, effective April 1, all hot lunch meals are to be paid in advance. The policy includes students, staff, and visitors. Students will be allowed five charges. If a student has exceeded the five charges, he or she will be offered a peanut butter sandwich.

Superintendent Russ Johnson told the board that the current situation is bad, and a new policy will send a message that the district means business, and there will be a cut-off point. He also noted that very large accounts owed the district have and will be taken to small claims court. The Leader-Record

DL church plans memorial garden

Detroit Lakes - Plans for a Memorial Garden project at the Detroit Lakes United Methodist Church have taken root.

The garden's first purpose will be to hold cremated remains of anyone who would like to have their cremains placed in a faith setting. The ashes will either be placed within the garden's soil or placed in a columbarium beneath it. The names of those remembered in the garden will be etched into a granite marker on the inside of the garden's circular wall.

Because it is intended as a multi-purpose garden, the space will also be available for outdoor baptisms, weddings, photograph backdrops, small receptions, worship, fellowship, meditation and prayer. Detroit Lakes Tribune

Charges are pending

Charges are pending following completion of the investigation into the accident at the intersection of Highways 1 and 59 west of Thief River Falls on December 30. Clayton Ardell Brandt, 69, Roseau, was killed in that accident, and his wife hospitalized.

Pennington County Attorney Al Rogalla said charges are pending, but he said, he wants to study the investigation reports further before making a final determination on the charges he plans to file.

In the accident, the eastbound van driven by Brandt was struck by a bus traveling south on Highway 59. After striking the van, the bus continued across the intersection, entering a ditch and going through a small grove of trees before colliding with the Westside Motors building. Charles Thomas Sullivan, 65, Winnipeg, driver of the bus and several passengers were treated at Northwest Medical Center for minor injuries and released.

Larger, brighter signs have been installed by the Minnesota Department of Transportation at the intersection of Highways 59 and 1 west of Thief River Falls. The Minnesota Department of Transportation has made a number of recommendations for the intersection as a result of a study.

Report recommends minor changes

MnDOT releases report on Hwy. 59 and 1 intersection

by David Hill
Editor

Minnesota Department of Transportation has completed a study of the intersection of Highways 1 and 59 just west of Thief River Falls, and is recommending a number of changes.

Officials have studied the intersection before, but following an accident at the intersection on December 30, 2001, which resulted in the death of Clayton Brandt of Roseau, there was considerable demand for a thorough study of the intersection.

Minnesota Department of Transportation is recommending the widening of the rumble strips, installing a 48- x 48-inch stop ahead sign on the left-hand side of the road and matching the size of the sign on the right side with the left, upgrading the Stop sign to a 48- x by 48-inch, high intensity visible sign, from a 36-inch x 36-inch Stop sign; adding a sign below the Stop sign that states "Cross Traffic Does Not Stop"; asking the State Patrol for increased speed limit enforcement in the area; install a flasher above the Stop sign and Stop Ahead sign if the county wishes; add additional streetlights.

Some of the recommendations have already been acted upon. Recently, the Minnesota Department of Transportation installed an additional 48-inch by 48-inch Stop Ahead sign on the left-hand side of the road. The existing 36-inch by 36-inch stop sign on the left side of the road was upgraded to a 48-inch by 48-inch sign. All the Stop and Stop Ahead signs were upgraded from high intensity sheeting to the brighter VIP sheeting material. MnDOT also installed Cross Traffic Does Not Stop signs with arrows below the Stop signs. It has also widened and improved the rumble strips.

Beverly Thompson wrote a Letter to the Editor last January, which was published in The Times. In her letter, Thompson stated that she was a relative of Clayton Brandt, who was killed in the December 30 accident, and his wife Mavis, who was left in critical condition at Altru Hospital in Grand Forks. Thompson indicated her concerns about the intersection, and noted that there are "so many signs along the road that the stop sign gets lost in the visual shuffle. I do believe that traffic lights or flashing lights must be installed so drivers are aware that there is an intersection and a stop sign ahead."

In an interview with The Times this week, Thompson said she had received a copy of the Minnesota Department of Transportation report. She said she had been in contact with the County Auditor and learned that the county had discussed the report, but were as surprised as she was at the cost estimate for installation of flashers ($15,000 to $30,000).

Pennington County Auditor Ken Olson said the board had discussed the report and were surprised at the cost estimate for flashers. They asked the county engineer to check into the estimates and get back to the county board with his findings.

Thompson said she understands the need to wait, but would be interested in learning what comes of the research and discussion.

The Study

The study revealed some interesting information that will help citizens understand the recommendations.

Hwy. 59 and 1 Accident Analysis

A review of the most recent available crash data for the three-year period from November 1, 1998 to October 30, 2001 indicates a total of 11 crashes at the Trunk Highway 59 and 1 intersection. Three other crashes occurred at abutting driveways.

The breakdown of the 11 intersection crashes during the three-year period is as follows:

- Six were right angle crashes involving southbound motorists on Highway 59, who were pulling out from the stop, and crashing with four eastbound and two westbound motorists.
- Of the six right angle crashes, four of the southbound motorists had identified the intersection and were turning left.
- Of the 12 motorists involved in the six right-angle crashes, eight were individuals familiar with the area, three were passing through, and one was unknown.
- Four crashes were rear-end crashes of which three were southbound and one was westbound. Of the four motorists causing the crashes, two were locals from the area.
- One crash was an eastbound motorist turning north in front of a westbound motorist.
- Of the 11 crashes, seven were property damage only, two were a possible injury, one was a non-incapacitating injury, and one was an incapacitating injury.
- Of the 11 crashes, six occurred during daylight conditions and five during the dark.
- Of the 11 crashes, all of them occurred on dry pavement.

Note: The recent fatal crash is considered a random fatal crash. A review of the crash history over the past 10 years, found that there were no fatal crashes and only the one incapacitating crash.

More sweets this week - it's always fun to try something new and different in the spring.

Here's an old favorite that makes a real treat in a short time - top with whipped cream or ice cream or eat just the way it is:

CHERRY COBBLER

5 cups pitted canned or frozen tart red cherries
2-1/2 tablespoons lemon juice
1/3 cup sugar
1/3 cup packed brown sugar
2-1/2 tablespoons cornstarch
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
Topping:
1 cup flour
1 tablespoon sugar
1 teaspoon baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1/3 to 1/2 cup milk

Drain cherries, reserving 1/4 cup juice. Discard remaining juice or use in another recipe. Combine cherries and lemon juice and set aside.

In saucepan, combine sugars, cornstarch, cinnamon and nutmeg. Stir in 1/4 cup reserved cherry juice. Bring to a boil, stirring occasionally. Boil 2 minutes. Add cherries and pour into ungreased 8 inch square pan.

To make topping, combine flour, sugar, baking powder and salt. Cut in butter until crumbly. Stir in enough of the milk to moisten. Drop by tablespoonfuls over cherries.

Bake at 450 degrees for 10-13 minutes or until golden brown.

Oh, ha - use your microwave to make these as fast as you can:

DOUBLE CHOCOLATE BROWNIES

1/2 cup butter
2 squares (1 ounce each) unsweetened chocolate
2 eggs
3/4 cup sugar
1/2 cup flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 cup chocolate chips
Confectioner's sugar

In micro safe bowl, combine butter and chocolate. Cook 1-2 minutes or until melted. Mix well.

In mixing bowl, beat eggs 2-3 minutes until light and foamy. Gradually add chocolate mixture, sugar, flour, baking powder and vanilla. Mix well. Fold in chocolate chips.

Pour into greased 8 inch square micro safe baking dish. Cook on high for 3 minutes. Rotate a quarter turn and cook 3 minutes more. Cool on wire rack for 10 minutes. Dust with confectioner's sugar before serving.

If you love the taste of raspberry and chocolate, these are for you:

CHOCOLATE RASPBERRY BARS

Crust:
1 cup flour
1/4 cup powdered sugar
1/2 cup butter
Filling:
1/2 cup seedless raspberry jam
4 ounces cream cheese, softened
2 tablespoons milk
1 cup vanilla-flavored chips, melted
Glaze:
3/4 cup semi-sweet chocolate chips
2 tablespoons shortening

For crust, in bowl, combine flour and powdered sugar. Cut in butter until crumbly. Press into ungreased 9 inch square baking pan. Bake at 375 degrees for 15-18 minutes or until browned. Spread jam over warm crust.

In small mixing bowl, beat cream cheese and milk until smooth. Add melted vanilla chips, beating smooth. Spread carefully over jam layer. Cool completely. Chill about 1 hour until set.

For Glaze, melt chocolate chips and shortening. Spread over cooled filling. Chill for 10 minutes. Cut into bars and chill another hour. Store in refrigerator Recipe makes 3 dozen bars.

Stir this up Saturday night for an extra special Sunday breakfast or brunch:

OVERNIGHT BLUEBERRY COFFEE CAKE

1 egg
1/2 cup plus 2 tablespoons sugar, divided
1-1/4 cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
3/4 teaspoon salt
1/3 cup milk
3 tablespoons butter
1 cup fresh blueberries (or well-drained frozen berries)

In mixing bowl, beat egg and 1/2 cup sugar. Combine flour, baking powder and salt. Add alternately with milk to sugar mixture, beating well after each addition. Stir in butter. Fold in blueberries.

Pour into greased 8 inch square baking dish and sprinkle with remaining 2 tablespoons sugar. Cover and chill overnight.

Remove from refrigerator 30 minutes before baking. Bake at 350 degrees for 30-35 minutes. Cut into 9 squares

You've heard about it - now here's the recipe - it's tender and delicious - and makes a cake big enough for a bunch:

CHOCOLATE POTATO CAKE

1 cup butter-flavor shortening
2 cups sugar
2 eggs, separated
1 cup mashed potatoes
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 1/2 cups flour
1/2 cup cocoa
2-1/2 teaspoons baking powder
3/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon each of allspice, cinnamon, cloves and nutmeg
1 cup milk
Mocha Frosting:
1/3 cup butter, softened
2 and 2/3 cups powdered sugar
2 tablespoons cocoa
1/4 teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons strong coffee

In mixing bowl, cream shortening and sugar. Add egg yolks, one at a time, beating well after each. Add potatoes and vanilla, mixing well.

Combine dry ingredients. Add to creamed mixture alternately with milk.

In small bowl, beat egg whites until soft peaks form. Fold into batter.

Pour into greased and floured 10 inch fluted bundt pan. Bake at 325 degrees for 1 to 1 1/4 hours, until toothpick near center comes out clean. Cool 10 minutes before removing from pan to wire rack.

To make frosting, combine all frosting ingredients until smooth. Frost cool cake.

Here's one for those of you who are watching your diets:

ORANGE LOAF CAKE

1 3/4 cups cake flour
1 cup sugar
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup oil
1/2 cup orange juice
4 egg whites
2 tablespoons powdered sugar

In mixing bowl, combine dry ingredients. Add oil and orange juice and beat smooth.

In another bowl, beat egg whites until stiff peaks form. Fold into orange juice mixture. Coat a 9x5 inch loaf pan with nonstick spray and dust with flour. Pour batter into pan.

Bake at 350 degrees for 1 hour or until toothpick inserted near center comes out clean. Cool 10 minutes before removing from pan to wire rack. Dust with powdered sugar. Recipe serves 12.

"ABOUT YOUR EYES"
DR. CHRIS BORGEN
OPTOMETRIST
EYE COMPLICATIONS OF DIABETES
Diabetes is a disease that prevents the body from making or using the insulin necessary to break down sugar in the bloodstream. This disease and its complications can affect many parts of the eye. For example, diabetes can cause changes in nearsightedness, farsightedness, premature presbyopia (the ability to focus on close objects) and blue/yellow color deficiency. It can also cause glaucoma and decrease corneal sensitivity.
There are certain visual symptoms associated with diabetes, including fluctuating or blurring vision, occasional double vision, loss of visual field, and flashes and floaters within the eyes. These are among the early signs of diabetes and may be detected first in a thorough examination by a doctor of optometry. If left untreated, diabetes can cause permanent vision loss.
If you have diabetes, it is vital that you follow your physician's instructions about diet, exercise, and medication. Regular examination by an eye care professional is also important to protect your vision.

Alissa Norland's banners created for the Butterfly Songs choir concert last year, which memorialized children caught up in the terror of the Holocaust, will be on permanent display at the Jewish Community Relations Council of Minnesota and the Dakotas (JCRC) in the Twin Cities. The JCRC will loan the banners out for Jewish events in the Metro area.

Banners being donated to Jewish community

Special banners created by Alissa Norland, a student at Lincoln High School in Thief River Falls, are being donated to the Jewish Community Relations Council of Minnesota and the Dakotas (JCRC). The banners were created for the high school choir's "Butterfly Songs" concert last year, which memorialized children caught up in the terror of the Holocaust. In addition, it has been announced that the banners will be on display for the choir's performance in the Twin Cities this year.

The choir will be taking their "Butterfly Songs" to Minneapolis April 8-10 where they will be performing four shows. They will be performing at The Dakota Jazz Club in St. Paul on April 8 for two shows to celebrate the official release of the "Butterfly Songs" compact disc in the Minneapolis and St. Paul area. They will also be singing for a Jewish School and the McPhail Center for the Arts on April 9, and at Beth El Synagogue in St. Louis Park on April 9 for the National Holocaust Remembrance Day Service. This service is sponsored by the Jewish Council of Minneapolis and St. Paul. During this performance they will perform the "Butterfly Songs" and some of the traditional Jewish songs from the May 2001 concert. The Concert Choir and Swingsations will be the featured performers for this event.

Alissa Norland's beautiful butterfly banners from the May 2001 concert will be hanging proudly at the synagogue, creating a beautiful backdrop for all to see. These unique banners have been given to the Jewish Council in Minneapolis where they will loan them out for Jewish events in the Metro area.

Norland said her study of Terezin and of the Shoah enabled her to create the banners. "the three banners are untitled, but they speak of every person who lived in the concentration camps. Each banner depicts a butterfly, which symbolizes the beauty and hopefulness of life."

Norland is currently enrolled in the Magnet Arts Program at Lincoln High School.

If you want to hear the chairs perform, you don't want to miss "A Singin' with Saul Celebration" performed by the Lincoln High School choirs and ensembles on Monday, March 11.

Nature Northwest Project seeks community input at public meetings

The inauguration of the Nature Northwest Project, an inventory and economic analysis of nature-related recreation across northwest Minnesota, was recently announced at the University of Minnesota, Crookston (UMC). The overall goals of the project are to develop an inventory, economic assessment, and guidebook of nature-related recreational opportunities available across a region with boundaries including all or part of 20 counties in northwest Minnesota. The boundaries follow the Red River of the North watershed boundary and also include a large portion of the Lake of the Woods region.

Input from local communities within the Nature Northwest region is important to the success of the project. Information and feedback meetings are scheduled throughout the region during March and April. The purpose of these meetings will be to present what is known about nature-related recreation in the area; to solicit insight into local resources not previously noted; and to receive input on possible features to include in the project's products: the source book and the nature guide.

Dates and locations of the meetings are as follows:

• 12 March - Breckenridge - City Hall, 420 Nebraska Avenue, Breckenridge, MN 56520, at 7 p.m., room to be posted (Tel.: 218-643-1431)

• 14 March - Mahnomen - Red Apple Café, 116 N. Main, Mahnomen, at 7 p.m., (Tel: 218-935-9918)

Going For The Gold

Recent State sponsored Fishing Roundtable discussions have mulled over the possibility of assigning "Olympic" designations to Minnesota's fisheries. The concept, in a nutshell, would offer three labels (Gold, Silver, and Bronze) to lakes and rivers around the state. The Bronze, for instance, might apply to bodies of water that allow full limits and relatively wide slot sizes. Silver would be a bit more restrictive both in terms of numbers and lengths. And Gold would allow for only a highly selective harvest, thereby assuring anglers of a quality catch and release experience for years to come. The timing of the proposal couldn't have been any more appropriate, coming just a few short weeks before the 2002 Winter Olympic Games actually began in Salt Lake City. What better sales pitch for a resource management plan than to attach it to the adrenaline and nationalism portrayed by the Olympic games? Athletes gathering from the world over, happy simply with their ability to participate and, like the true catch and release fishermen, unconcerned with the demands for bringing anything tangible home. Sport for the sake of sport, count me among that throng.

And now, a few weeks past the "special" character of the Olympic Games, I wonder if those fishing roundtable participants are thinking that they might like to jump aboard a slightly different bandwagon.

After being once again sucked into the media hype that has become the modern Olympic event, I can't honestly say I'd like to see Lake of the Woods receive a Bronze designation. There really wasn't anyone in Salt Lake that was truly happy about receiving a third place medal. Oh, sure, there were a couple of smiling faces on podium number three, but those were invariably on athletes that never expected to be there in the first place. How would the Lake of the Woods Tourism Bureau hope to promote a fishing business based on such lowly Bronze expectations? Their slogan would have to read something like "Lake of the Woods, where the less you expect, the happier you'll be!"

Or ask the Russian hockey team their opinion of receiving a Bronze designation. I think the final press release from the Russian hockey federation was fairly explicit about where the Olympic committee could stick both that third place medal and the possibility of Russian involvement in the 2004 summer games.

Normally I'd say the Silver medal was a little more acceptable, though apparently I'm living somewhere in the cloudy past on that one, too. It seems that in Salt Lake the Silver was just about as popular as the Bronze. Short track speed skating and ice dancing, for example, didn't seem to be able to award silver medals without protest and inquiry accompanying the athletes to podium number two. Am I supposed to woo the upper Midwest public to a "Silver" Lake of the Woods fishing experience when the recent Olympics have made it clear that no one is anymore content with second than they were with third? Though I have to admit, after years of international bickering across the Minnesota/Ontario border, it would be a tad appropriate to whine our way from a "Silver" to a "Gold" designation in just the same way that a pair of Canadian figure skaters did at Salt Lake.

Which brings us to the "Gold" standard, the highest possible rating in both the Olympics and the proposed fishing rating system. Or is it? In the 2002 winter games at Salt Lake, Gold was not a clear-cut label for objective excellence. Fastest, Farthest, and Strongest was more often overshadowed by the subjectivity of national origin, marketability, and under-the-table vote swapping. It really became difficult to tell who the winner was until a myriad of human considerations were applied to the actual process of the event.

Which, if you want to get really schlocky about it, is exactly what makes every lake in the state a Gold medal one. You don't know how any fishing event is going to turn out until you throw a little bit of human character into each situation.

This renews my faith in that French figure skating judge. Despite the fact that she probably set Olympic judging standards on their ear for years to come, she understood the need for bias in any human event and thereby created the possibility of Gold for everyone who participates, which is exactly why she would have been a first-rate tourism person for Lake of the Woods.

Colorectal education program at Riverview

Riverview Healthcare in Crookston will offer an evening education program on colorectal cancer on Monday, March 18, at 6:30 p.m.

The program is in recognition of March as Colorectal Cancer Awareness Month and will feature Dr. Basit Baig, the newest board certified internal medicine physician in Crookston. Dr. Baig has special training in gastroenterology and hepatology, completing internships in these two specialties at Chicago and Harvard Medical Schools.

Along with Dr. Baig's informational program, there will be a colorectal screening test for those interested in completing it. Dr. Baig will also cover the new Medicare guidelines for colorectal screening released in July 2001.

Colorectal cancer is a growing concern in the United States. It is estimated that 134,000 people are diagnosed with it, and 55,000 die annually from the disease. However, if diagnosed early, there is a 92 percent five-year survival rate, making colorectal cancer awareness and early dectection vitally important.

The program is open to the general public and should be of special interest to anyone over the age of 50, those who have a strong family history of colorectal cancer, or women who have a strong family history of ovarian, breast or colorectal cancer. There is no charge for either the educational program or the screening, and refreshments will be served.

Because the program will be held in Riverview's boardroom where seating is limited, pre-registration is required. For more information or to pre-register, call Riverview at (218) 281-9405 or toll free at 1-800-743-6551, ext. 405.

Budget debate outcome predictable?

Was the outcome really in doubt?

I think the legislature's effort to come up with a plan to deal with the S2 billion budget shortfall was successful largely because it was a bipartisan effort. Governor Ventura has met with considerable success in the past primarily because legislators couldn't get past political ideologies and party lines. Frankly, it confused citizens and left them wondering whose needs came first – legislators or citizens and taxpayers. The way a solution was reached could leave one with the impression that they came together in this "bipartisan" effort, just to spite the governor. Now contrast their response with that of the governor's blustery name calling, demands to increase taxes, cuts in education funding, and threats to enact his own harsh proposals. It's no wonder the governor's popularity ratings are on the decline. It's no wonder, citizens view the whole scenario as a three-ring circus.

Regardless, surveys seem to indicate that citizens approve the measures taken by the legislature and disapprove of the way the governor handled the whole matter. In fact, overriding the governor's veto might be seen as a sort of gauge for the governor's political future.

The response is not a reaction to rhetoric, however. I think citizens approve of the override because legislators appeared to solve the budget deficit problem without apparently raising taxes or hurting education. Contrast that with the proposal from the governor that raised taxes, which he said is "the thing we do during wartime" despite his election promises not to; and, his drastic cuts in educational programs, even after Minnesotans have repeatedly supported proposals that would improve education.

Yes, the legislature has made its bed and will have to sleep in it. But lost in the governor's rhetoric is that he has lost touch with the average working stiff. If he learns something from this experience it should be that it's important to listen to these people again. It also might be wise not to give the legislature an excuse to work together against his proposals.

Will there be more changes, and more cuts – more than likely. Will this be the end of the three-ring circus? Get real.

Fiddlers Delight concert March 10 at Warren

Fiddlers Delight will present a concert on Sunday, March 10, at 7 p.m. at the Evangelical Covenant Church in Warren.

The group is comprised of seven young women, between the ages of nine and 21, who represent the communities of Argyle, Karlstad, Stephen and Warren. Musicians include Erin Folland, Allie Kuznia, Kaarina Visness, Kirsten Visness, Kristina Visness, Sara Waldorf, and Emily Welin. The group's reertoire includes original Scottish folk, patriotic and religious music. Some selections will feature soloist Allie Kuznia with Jenn Schand on the saxophone.

The purpose of the concert is to raise funds for 18 youth and three adults from six Kittson County churches to travel to New York City July 18-27.

In New York, the northwest Minnesota team will be working with "Youth With A Mission" (YWAM), one of the few groups permitted by the New York Police Department to have a "prayer station" near Ground Zero, the site of the September 11 attacks. The youth will receive four days of training in evangelism and outreach and then go out to do a variety of ministries in the city for five days.

The youth are also in the midst of several other fund-raising activities through dinners, selling coupons, pizza sales, yard cleaning, housework and more. Any one wishing to donate to their mission adventure or who would like the youth to do some work for them should call Kennedy Covenant Church at (218) 674-4336 or Teien Covenant Church at (218) 455-3868. The fund-raising goal is to raise $1,000 per youth.

Team members represent the following churches: Teien Covenant Church of Drayton (N.D.), Kennedy Covenant, Resurrection of Karlstad, Lancaster Covenant, Lake Bronson Covenant, and Grace Lutheran of Hallock.

Youth include Josh Tungseth, Alyssa Tungseth, Lindsay Halcrow, Amy Petersen, Rachel Petersen, Micah Bengston, Andrew Carlson, Justin Nordin, Jason Olson, Seth Whitlock, Jamie Wilson, Nolan Solvedt, Craig Solvedt, Erin Folland, Kristina Visness, Kaarina Visness, Kim Anderson, and Leandra Wiese. The adult chaperones include Kari Visness, Erica Bengston, and Pastor Steve Thompson.

Warren Covenant Church, the site of Sunday evening's concert, is located at 112 North 6th Street.

NCTC women's basketball wins State

Northland Community and Technical College Pioneer women's basketball team came away with the state championship last weekend at Central Lakes Community College in Brainerd.

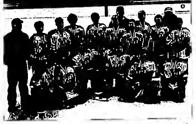
At winning the team's first ever state championship, Coach Mike Zachow said, "it's alright," and laughed.

Despite Coach Zachow's obvious understatement, the Pioneer women's basketball team played hard and won some hard-fought games. And much to Zachows chagrin, usually from behind.

On Friday, Northland played Rochester. Zachow said with four minutes to play in the game the Northland Pioneers were down by 12. Northland won 69-68.

On Saturday, Northland faced Minneapolis and again, Zachow said they were down for most of the game. Zachow said their free-throws, which were 17 of 17, helped win the game for them (65-55).

Northland met Ridgewater in the final and won 57-52. Zachow said once again, they were losing for most of the game, but won it in the end.



Northland standouts named to the All-Tournament team were Candice Solie, Jenny Weiss and Mistie Hoie.

Because Northland won the state championship they will host the NJCAA Regional game Saturday noon (today). They will be playing against Vermilion, a team they have played twice before.

Just because they've defeated them twice before, doesn't mean he's going to let his team let their guard down. Anything can happen, Zachow said. Vermilion played Rainy River, which was favored to win going into the tournament, but Vermilion defeated them.

Zachow said during the state meet, Jocqui Karl was hurt in the semi-final game and missed the final. He said he has hope that she will be back for the match-up against Vermilion.

If Northland wins the NJCAA Regional game they will play at Nationals in New York.

TRF Pee Wee A Team prepares for State Tournament

As Pee Wee A Coach Greg Bottem says, who wins the state tournoment "depends on who shows up to play." And, Thief River Falls has as good a chance as any of the eight teams that will participate in the State Championship Tournament in Warroad March 15-17.

This is the second year in a row that Thief River Falls' Pee Wee A team (ages 12 and 13) has advanced to the State Tournament. To reach that point, teams have to win at the District tournament, and win at Regions. The Thief River Falls Pee Wee A team was 6-0 at Districts and 8-0 at Regions.

Coach Bottem said this is a pretty good group of kids. Three of the players were on the team that went to State last year. Bottem said these three are very dedicated leaders.

It takes support from parents to make it happen, said Coach Bottem. Most of the games the team has played have been at out of town.

The Pee Wee A's first game at the State Tournament will be at noon on Friday, March 15, against Centennial. Coach Bottem said Thief River Falls played Centennial early in the season and won in an overtime shoot-out.

The eight teams playing at the State Tournament include: Thief River Falls, Centennial, Orono, Jefferson, Duluth East, Coon Rapids, Warroad, and Brooklyn Park. The championship game will be played at 2 p.m. on Sunday, March 17.

Bottem encourages family and fans to come out and support the local Pee Wee A team.

Arena walking program ends on March 19

Tuesday, March 19, marks the end of the 15th year of the Arena Walking Program at the Huck Olson Civic Center in Thief River Falls. The program, which is sponsored by Dakota Clinic - Thief River Falls, and Northwest Medical Center, encourages residents to exercise by providing a winter location for walking and incentives. The program is also available because of the cooperation of the City of Thief River Falls.

Gail Holland, public relations coordinator for Northwest Medical Center, is asking that all walkers enrolled in the program to report their miles by March 23 to her to receive awards for their effort.

Any questions regarding the program should be directed to Gail Holland. She can be reached at 683-4210.

DNR announces ATV initiatives

The Minnesota Department of Natural Resources has announced a series of initiatives to address concerns about the environmental impacts of ATVs. Speaking to reporters at an afternoon news conference, Commissioner Garber said, "The DNR's first priority is to protect the natural resources that all Minnesotans value." Garber said the DNR believes that most ATV users ride responsibly, but there's a need to protect public lands from those few off-roaders who abuse the environment.

The DNR announced several initiatives.

1) Prototype management plan for Moose Walk/Moose Run Trails

An agreement with Lake County to jointly manage the Moose Walk and Moose Run snowmobile trails for summer ATV use. The DNR and the county will prohibit cross-country travel on 25,000 acres in the Finland State Forest and county forest lands. The DNR will designate the area as a "limited" forest and Lake County has agreed to enforce those same restrictions on land it owns. Talks have been underway between the county and the DNR for some time. The next step will be a public comment period.

The DNR has issued its final Record of Decision on the environmental review process for the Moose Walk/Moose Run ATV trails. That decision means the DNR and Lake County may now proceed with implementation.

2) Environmental Review of the Spider Lake Recreation Area

The DNR will proceed with an EAW on the Spider Lake Recreation Area and may move to reclassify parts of the surrounding Foothills State Forest to "limited." That would prohibit cross-country travel and require that off-highway vehicles use only the designated trails.

As in Lake County, the DNR will be coordinating with the Cass County sheriff and prosecutor to maintain effective enforcement.

3) More Funding for ATV Management

Commissioner Garber called on lawmakers to approve the DNR's request for additional funding for ATV trails and enforcement. Under the Governor's budget plan, the DNR asked lawmakers to allocate money for maintenance, enforcement, monitoring and education. On Monday, the Senate Budget Division approved $1.215 million in additional funding, including money to pay for environmental review of ATV trails projects. The House Finance Committee is scheduled to hear the bill on Thursday.

This money comes from ATV and off-road vehicle registration fees and gas tax receipts, which are held in a dedicated account. So while the Legislature must authorize the DNR to use it, that spending has no impact on the current state budget shortfall.

U of M website lists resources to help with community emergencies

An emergency in our community is something we hope will never happen. But we also know that emergencies can and do happen. And we know the trauma that comes with an emergency is likely to be less severe if we have procedures in place and resources available to deal with it.

"Most communities have emergency plans," says John Shutske, farm safety and health specialist with the University of Minnesota Extension Service. "However, most of these plans have been designed to deal with natural disasters such as tornadoes and floods. Many other kinds of emergencies-including terrorism, school shootings and major transportation incidents-need to be planned for proactively. The planning needs to consider the needs and resources of the community, the environment, business, agriculture, families and individuals."

Shutske and several of his colleagues in the U of M Extension Service have developed a website with an organized list of resources to help communities and individuals prepare for and respond to emergencies. This website, entitled "Ready to Respond," is at http://www.extension.umn.edu/administrative/disasterresponse/term2.html. The site has separate sections on protecting the land, food and environment; preparing community response; and supporting families and children.

Resources for dealing with bioterrorism and agroterrorism are included in the section on protecting the land, food and environment.

"The events of last September 11 and the subsequent U.S. illnesses and deaths from anthrax exposure have heightened awareness and concern regarding several forms of potential terrorism," says Shutske.

The section has links to information on security of pesticides and agrochemicals, biosecurity, food safety, and many other topics. Numerous federal and state agencies and the U of M developed the information.

The section on preparing community response has links to resources for getting citizens involved in emergency response. It also has links to a disaster handbook, the Minnesota Office of Homeland Security, the American Red Cross and many other resources.

The website section on supporting families and children has links to information on talking with children about terrorism, coping with tragedy, restoring hope in the wake of terrorism and many other topics. Those without Internet access at home or work can check the website at a local library or a county office of the University of Minnesota Extension Service.

Roseau Area Friends of Library host fund-raiser

Smiles marked the faces of members of the board of directors of the Roseau Area Friends of the Library at the group's February 25 meeting at the Roseau Public Library.

The board members were basking in the success of their fund-raiser, a two-hour radiothon on KCAJ 102, held the day prior to the meeting.

Carol Fredrickson, Roseau Area Friends of the Library (RAFL) treasurer, reported that over $4,000 was pledged or paid on Sunday, February 24, and that 96 donors had proved their support by either calling or bringing in pledges.

When Sunday's tally was added to the flurry of gifts, totaling $7,000, that were received in advance of the day, the total climbed to more than $11,000, and far surpassed thee original radiothon goal of $3,000.

The amounts of the gifts and pledges ranges from 50-cents from a child to $1,000 from Wikstrom Telephone Company. In addition to local gifts, donations have arrived from both the East and West coasts and from former residents and relatives of residents in the Twin Cities.

The $3,000 figure is what was need to raise a total of $60,000 for Phase 2 renovations at the Roseau Public Library. Work is expected to begin this spring and will include wash rooms and a circulation desk that will be ADA compliant.

A "Many Thanks" sign that lists the names of the individuals, businesses, and organizations who contributed to the fund-raiser is posted at the library. More names will be added as post-radiothon gifts come in, and the sign will remain in place until Friends of the Library holds its annual meeting in April.

Friends of the Library is particularly grateful to KJ102 for making the event possible, and extended special thanks to radio pros Jack Swanson and Nick Gerdes for the calm patience they exhibited in a beehive of activity. They were able to steady the nerves of both the volunteer crew and panicky performers.

Friends also appreciated the coverage provided by the Roseau Times Region and Citizens State Bank, which handled incoming donations.

The event also included the participation of dozens of volunteers, including talented performers, student disc jockeys, the telephone crew, open house servers and cookie bakers, and the radiothon committee. The participation of all of these people combined to make February 24 a "Super Sunday Celebration."

The money collected will bring the Roseau community one step closer to solving the problem of overcrowding in its existing library space.

Phase 3 renovations will include constructing an addition to the existing building. In addition to local fund-raising, this phase will require major help from grants from foundations and/or the state.

To apply for grants, Friend of the Library must have available funds to pay for detailed architectural drawings and more. Available money in the Library Friends' expansion fund will help speed up the preparation process before proposed construction can proceed.

Donated funds will help in two ways – first, to help pay actual costs and secondly, to demonstrate community support when seeking grants.

The radiothon account at Citizens State Bank will be kept open for additional donations through the end of March.

Agassiz Audubon meeting March 23

Agassiz Audubon Society will meet for a potluck supper on Saturday, March 23, at the Betty and Bud Johnson farm near Roseau.

Following the supper, a special program, "All About Raptors," will be held at 7 p.m. in the meeting room at the Roseau Public Library.

Patricia Oldham of Bemidji, a licensed raptor rehabilitator, will be the guest speaker. She will have several live raptors with her. Discussion will include the birds' life histories and information about the care they received as she nursed them back to health. Oldham works under a subpermit from the Raptor Center at the University of Minnesota. Her program is expected to be entertaining as well as educational for children and adults alike.

The Johnson farm is located 2-1/2 miles north of Roseau on Highway 310.

Master Gardeners have been keeping Minnesota green for 25 years

For 25 years, Minnesota's lawns and gardens have been healthier and more productive thanks to thousands of hours of teaching and training offered each year by Master Gardeners, volunteers with the University of Minnesota Extension Service. Since the program began in 1977, about 4,800 Master Gardeners from every part of the state have taken horticulture training from University of Minnesota faculty and have used that training to answer consumers' questions and organize community gardening efforts, according to Mary Meyer, state Master Gardener program coordinator.

Meyer says Master Gardeners receive 48 hours of training and are expected to volunteer 50 hours of time during their first year in the program. In subsequent years, they receive 25 hours of continuing education and volunteer 25 hours of community service. In a typical year, Master Gardeners statewide contribute more than 75,000 hours to their communities, often answering consumer questions at gardening centers, over the phone or through e-mail and web sites. Other Master Gardener projects include teaching gardening at schools, community centers and nursing homes. Some Master Gardeners host radio and TV programs, write newspaper columns and work at information booths at garden shows, county fairs and the Minnesota State Fair.

Minnesota's program is one of the oldest Master Gardener efforts in the country, according to Meyer. Among the environmentally friendly gardening techniques that Master Gardeners study and teach are mulching, composting, erosion control and chemical runoff control. They study lawn care, tree and shrub care, pest and weed control, soil science, plant nutrition, fruit and vegetable cultivation and related topics.

In addition to classroom training for Master Gardeners, Minnesota was the first state to use the Internet to train Master Gardeners. The demand for the Internet Master Gardener class far exceeds the number of spaces available, according to Meyer. Currently, Minnesota has more than 2,000 active Master Gardeners in 86 counties.

In 1998, the University of Minnesota Extension Service's Yard and Garden phone line began. During the first year, Master Gardeners answered more than 8,000 consumer questions. The "Ask a Master Gardener" feature on the Extension Service's Yard and Garden web site (http://www.extension.umn.edu/projects/yardandgarden/askmg.html) allows consumers to post questions and receive e-mail responses from Master Gardeners.

"The Master Gardener program benefits the volunteers, the communities in which they live and teach and the people to whom they provide information and gardening advice," Meyer says. "The volunteers gain self-esteem and become connected to their communities and the people they help. Communities benefit from the Master Gardeners through planting projects that involve community groups and promote local pride."

For answers to your gardening questions, contact a Master Gardener through the University of Minnesota Extension Service in your county. Additional information sources include the Yard and Garden Line at (612) 624-4771 or (888) 624-4771; and Info-U, a free 24-hour tape and faxed-back information service at (800) 525-8636. The U of M Extension Service web site at http://www.extension.umn.edu also provides gardening information and links to county web sites and the Master Gardener web site.

stunts, flashlight cues, and flute accompaniment during the ceremony's Native American welcome. Wearing white capes that were found in the kits, the audience participants were cued on the huge television screens that also brought them even closer to the action on the stadium stage.

With so much going on around them, Jean and Mark did not lose sight the symbolism and beauty of the global event. "You could just feel the spirit of unity," Jean says.

Mark comments about the organization of the event. Considering, he says everything that could have gone wrong, the opening ceremony as well as the other events they attended were flawless and flowing.

That organization and the warm feelings they experienced at the opening ceremony carried over into the rest of their stay.

While security personnel were plentiful so were the yellow-jacketed volunteers who served as ambassadors, greeting visitors to Salt Lake City and the surrounding communities where Olympic Games events were held.

The host city was all decked out, too. Among the many sights that Mark and Jean enjoyed were the huge posters that depicted Olympic athletes and covered the sides of many of Salt Lake City's tall buildings.

The Larsons stayed at a Marriott hotel in Ogden, and Mark compares the spread of food laid out in a ballroom for them and Panasonic's other guests to that of what one would find on a cruise ship.

Their first night in Utah, however, afforded them little time to enjoy the buffet or sleep for that matter. After the opening ceremony, they walked about a mile to the bus that took them to Ogden, arriving at 12:30 a.m. They retired at 2:30 a.m., only to wake up at 4:45 a.m. to prepare for the bus trip to Park City where they took in a Nordic Skiing event.

Later on Saturday, February 9, the Larsons attended a men's preliminary hockey game in West Valley City, and on Sunday, they enjoyed a final ski event back in Park City and ladies' speed skating in Kearns.

Pin trading was a popular activity that occupied any idle moments or time that would otherwise have been spent simply waiting in line. Armed with the 10 pins Panasonic provided each them with, Mark and Jean set about trading them. By engaging in the activity Jean says she was prompted to meet and talk with people she more than likely would not have approached otherwise. In addition to the pins that were being traded, serious collectors could also purchase them from one of the many vendors who were set up in the downtown plaza.

The trip included time with friends, old and new. The Larsons met and spent time with Best Buy's new president and his wife, and Mark notes that he especially appreciated the opportunity to spend time with Panasonic's president in a social setting.

Ironically, however, the Larsons had to cut their trip short by a day to return to Thief River Falls so that Mark could keep an appointment with Panasonic representatives at Digi-Key. Had they stayed, their tickets would have gained them admittance to the ice dancing event that led to Gold Medal controversy and a curling event. Mark says he would have liked to have taken in the curling event as he once curled on a team with his late brother, John, and was also a member of a Thief River Falls team that took second in the state.

As to his initial lukewarm attitude about making the trip, part of Mark's hesitancy about going to Utah was the fact that it is winter, and he doesn't particularly enjoy being cold. However, host Panasonic took care of that, too, and outfitted the Larsons and Springsteens with jackets, caps, scarves and mittens.

Whether it was the warm outerwear or the sheer thrill of being at the 2002 Olympic Winter Games that kept him warm, Mark said he didn't mind spending six or more hours outside in the 20-degree, windy elements and that when it was time to go home, he yearned for more.

After witnessing the global event that brought committed athletes and enthusiastic spectators from around the globe together in unity, Mark and Jean Larson's hearts and minds are left with warm and vivid memories that will last them a lifetime.

Report recommends minor changes

Review of the most recent available crash data for the three-year period from November 1, 1998 to October 30, 2001, indicates a total of 11 crashes at the intersection. Three other crashes occurred at abutting driveways. The study details each of the accidents, stating when they happened and the conditions under which they happened.

In addition to the three-year period, they also reviewed the crash history for the intersection over the past 10 years and found no fatal crashes and only one incapacitating crash.

The intersection serves a fairly high volume of traffic. The Department of Transportation study stated that approximately 5,065,000 vehicles passed through the intersection during the three-year study period. Of these, 1,616,000 were southbound vehicles on Highway 59.

Because of the growing traffic volumes and number of crashes, the Department of Transportation has been periodically reviewing this intersection, and found there is nothing basically wrong.

Why Rumble Strips?

Minnesota Department of Transportation has found rumble strips to be very effective in certain locations since they increase the number of senses for detecting potential safety problems from just visual to sound and vibrations. This is especially effective for passenger vehicles. According to the report, "in many cases, this will greatly assist those inattentive drivers."

Rumble strips were installed in 2000 and redone in March of 2001. This spring the Department of Transportation plans to widen the rumble strips. During the inspection they also noticed that the bituminous appeared to be "somewhat soft/tender and not as durable as other locations. Because of this, we will redo the rumble strips twice a year."

Signing

In a review of the sight visibility of the intersection, the state detected a slight problem for the northbound CSAH 16 motorists stopping at the intersection and looking left, which resulted in a group of four route markers with arrows being relocated.

As stated, the size of the Stop signs was increased. All of the signs, including the Stop and Stop Ahead signs, were upgraded to a brighter sheeting material. Signs stating "Cross Traffic Does Not Stop" signs were also added below Stop signs.

Speed Limits

The reporters found that based on radar observations of 215 vehicles, the regulatory speed limits were in compliance with the state and national approach for setting such limits based on the average and reasonable driver. Reporters did note some problems with speeders along the posted 40-mile per hour section of Highway 1 at the intersection, which is why they recommended that the State Patrol step up patrols in the area.

Signal Lights

The report explained that signal light installations are justified by state and national warrants based on traffic volumes or crashes. The study indicated that Highway 59 southbound traffic minimums are met, but the west/east approach does not meet the requirement for any of the required eight hours.

In addition, the crash warrant for the installation of signal lights is five or more reported crashes susceptible to correction within a 12-month period for three consecutive years or a total of 15 crashes. The reported crash history over the three-year period for this intersection indicates seven crashes that may be impacted by a signal light, which does not meet the justification requirement.

The report also stated that signal lights will not automatically reduce crashes. "As a matter of fact, we recently installed a signal light about one and one-half years ago based on a traffic volume warrant, which resulted in an increase of crashes consisting of a very severe injury crash and a fatal crash, which had not occurred prior to the installation."

Flashers

Installation of flashers is justified when there are four or more reported crashes per year of a type deemed preventable by a flashing beacon within a 12-month period for three consecutive years, or a total of 12 crashes.

The report stated that, "We have found that such improvements do not always improve safety, which was the case when we installed an overhead flasher with a low crash history in the City of Blackduck resulting in a slight increase in the number of crashes. In addition, when the flasher was knocked down, we noted a slight increase in crashes."

The report added that there are serious concerns regarding the benefits of flashers, and a general feeling that such installations create a false sense of security and some confusion where motorists stop and pull out thinking that traffic on the side street also has to stop. Because of these concerns, it is anticipated that all overhead flashers will be removed within several years. Those that are to be replaced will be done by installing a red flasher over the Stop sign and an amber flasher over an advance warning sign on the through roadway.

As a result of the findings of the study, the Department of Transportation will not initiate the installation of a flasher at this location. However, it was stated that if Pennington County feels strongly that flashers should be installed, the Department will approve such an improvement in the interest of partnership. This means the county would be responsible for a quarter of the cost and be responsible for minor maintenance and power costs.

The estimate for installation of flashers ranged between $15,000 to $30,000.

Olson said county board members were surprised at the cost estimate. In addition, he said some board members were concerned that adding flashers to the Stop Sign Ahead sign and the Stop Sign would add to the confusion at the stop rather than alleviate confusion. As a result, the county board asked the county engineer to research the cost estimate.

Streetlights

There is a streetlight at the intersection, but the report found that additional streetlights have merit, with or without the installation of a flasher. "In addition, such an improvement could be extended east toward the city and include CSAH 30, which has generated some complaints in the past."

There is also a minimum warrant for lighting. Because the minimum has not been met, funding support from the county would be required.

"The installation of streetlights is one of those improvements that have little or no negative impact when not warranted other than the possibility of being hit by a run off the roadway vehicle. Such an installation also has benefits during the daylight hours because the silhouette of the poles against the background of the sky assists in identifying the intersection from a distance away from the intersection."

Intersection with four approaches

The report negated the impact of the addition of four approaches, stating that the adjustment period is over and it shouldn't be any more of a problem.

Four Way Stop

As part of this study, the State reviewed the intersection for the possibility of installing a four-way stop. "The crash warrant for a four-way stop is the same as that for a signal system and is not met. The traffic volume warrant is met for six of the required eight hours. In addition, this type of improvement is not desirable because most motorists are creatures of habit and there would be a very difficult adjustment period for the local residents, resulting in a high probability for crashes. Also, the increased braking action would create an ice problem during winter driving conditions."

Minnesota Department of Transportation plans to continue to monitor this intersection.

Grant to rebuild MR water system

Middle River - Middle River city officials learned recently that their city will receive a Small Cities Development Grant of $948,350 from the Minnesota Department of Trade and Economic Development (DTED).

The grant funds, along with $197,370 from other funding sources, will be used to rebuild the city's water distribution system and rehabilitate 18 homes occupied by low and moderate income households. The Tribune

Moylan Township notes centennial

Goodridge - Moylan Township of Marshall County celebrated its 100th anniversary at its annual meeting Tuesday, March 12.

The township, organized in 1903, was named for Patrick Moylan, an Irish settler who later moved to Washington or Oregon.

Other early settlers to the area included John and Cecilie Graff, John and Marie Kast, Carl and Alma Liedberg, Gulbrand and Toline Skogstad and Ole and Petra Wiseth.

Current township officers include Carolyn Pittman, clerk; Gary Kiesow, supervisor; Merlin Drangstveit, supervisor; Trent Stanley, supervisor; and Coleen Kiesow, treasurer. The Grygla Eagle

FBI arrests Baudette man

Baudette - Federal Bureau of Investigation officers from Bemidji arrested a Baudette man Monday, March 11.

William Eickstad, 61, was wanted for felony warrant of unlawful flight. Eickstad fled the state of Pennsylvania for selling firearms.

He is in custody at the Lake of the Woods County Jail pending LOW court hearings. He will then be transferred to Pennsylvania where he will face charges. The Baudette Region

Leaking pool remains open

Alexandria - The bad news is that the Lakes Area Recreation Pool is still leaking like a sieve, losing 46,570 gallons during one recent week. The good news is that recreation organizers are keeping the pool open and barring any other serious complications, it should accommodate swimming lessons as usual.

While "Save the Pool" funds have been used to keep the pool open thus far, the Lakes Area Recreation Board has no extra money in its budget for repairing the holes that are appearing in the pool daily. Echo Press

Open house kicks off centennial

Bagley - An open house will be held at the Clearwater County Courthouse on Sunday, March 17 from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. as part of the county's centennial celebration.

Old records will be on display, and the public is invited to attend the open house. More activities are scheduled to take place throughout the year. The Leader-Record

➤ Lois Steiger, owner of Annette's Fabrics in Thief River Falls displays the Healing Garden collection available at her store. A customer prompted Steiger to seek out the collection, and she credits her employees with coming up with the idea for the silent auction fund-raiser. Participants will make an item using the fabric and then donate it to the Pennington County Chapter of the American Cancer Society. Items sold by silent auction will be displayed after June 1 at Dakota and Altru clinics and the Pennington County Fair. The fabric, designed by Bonnie Benn Stratton, depicts plants whose properties are used for chemotherapy and cancer prevention medicines.

Fabric inspires Cancer Society fund-raiser

by Kathl Carlson
Reporter

Area sewing enthusiasts have a unique opportunity to stitch up a little goodwill when they participate in a new fund-raiser sponsored by the Pennington County chapter of the the American Cancer Society.

While the project has been dubbed "Quilting Towards a Cure," handmade items do not have to be quilted but rather at least partially include three fabrics from the Healing Garden collection of fabrics.

Fabrics from the Healing Garden collection are available at Annette's Fabrics in Thief River Falls, where the idea for the local fund-raiser originated. Store owner Lois Steiger won't take credit for coming up with the idea, however.

The availability of the unique fabric collection was brought to Steiger's attention by customer Peggy Loberg who had seen the fabrics featured in a magazine and asked Steiger to look for them at last Spring's market. Steiger found and ordered them, and after they had arrived at the store, employees came up with the idea for the fund-raising activity.

The Healing Garden print collection was designed by Bonnie Benn Stratton and is distributed by Timeless Treasures Fabric, Inc. Each of the fabric designs depicts a flower, plant, or tree of which the chemical properties are used in chemotherapy and cancer prevention. A portion of the proceeds from the sale of the fabrics goes toward cancer research. Stratton and her trademarked "Quilting Toward A Cure" designs have been featured in several women's publications, and she has appeared on a cable television program that features quilting.

When Annette's Fabrics employees suggested doing a local fund-raiser, the local chapter of the American Cancer Society was a natural choice as a local sponsor. To that end, Steiger says Julie Derosier, an avid quilter and member of the local American Cancer Society board, was contacted to help develop the local event, and a number of other sewing and quilting hobbyists helped as well.

To allow for individual creativity, project guidelines are very loose. The dimensions of the finished project must be larger than 12" x 12" and smaller than 120" x120", and it must include a hanging sleeve least two inches wide stitched to the top of its backside.

Three different fabrics from the Healing Garden collection must be used and account for at least 25 percent of the finished item. The 25 percent figure was chosen to represent the American Cancer Society's goal of reducing the overall age-adjusted cancer incident rate by 25 percent by the year 2015.

Finally, items must be finished and delivered to Annette's Fabrics by June 1.

Submitted items are donated to and become the property of the American Cancer Society to be sold at silent auction, with funds raised going to help find a cure for cancer.

Shortly after June 1, items will be displayed with bid cards at Dakota and Altru clinics in Thief River Falls. They will also be displayed with final bidding taking place in the booth of the Pennington County chapter of the American Cancer Society at the Pennington County Fair in July.

American Legion notes 83rd birthday March 21

William Goede

Minnesota Department Commander William Goede of Plainview will be the keynote speaker at the 83rd birthday celebration of the American Legion on Thursday, March 21.

The program will follow the meal. William B. Goede was elected commander of the Minnesota American Legion in 2001 at the Department Convention in Duluth. Goede, 56, is a native of Plainview and is employed as a customer service representative for Sprint.

After graduating from Plainview High School, he attended Brown Institute. In 1969, he began working for Pioneer Telephone, a company that eventually merged with Sprint.

Goede served with the U.S. Army from 1965 to 1968 during the Vietnam War, and he joined the American Legion shortly after returning to Minnesota. He has held numerous Legion offices including Plainview Post Commander, 1st District Commander, and Department Membership Director. At the national level, he serves on the American Legion's Naval Affairs Commission, and he previously served on the Americanism Council. In 1982, he represented the Department of Minnesota at the dedication of the Vietnam War Memorial.

His 23 years serving the Plainview Fire Department included five years as chief. He also served in leadership positions with the Lions, Veterans of Foreign Wars, 40 and 8, and Sons of the American Legion.

Goede and his wife, Marie, have three children, Brett, Tara, and Darcy. Marie is secretary for the principal at Plainview Community School. Goede attends Immanuel Lutheran Church. He and his family enjoy camping as a hobby.

Area cities receive DTED special grants

Middle River and Plummer have been notified that they are recipients of Small Cities Development Grants.

Middle River was notified that it will receive a Small Cities Development Grant of $948,350 from the Minnesota Department of Trade and Economic Development (DTED). The grant funds, along with $197,370 from other funding sources, will be used to rebuild the city's water distribution system and rehabilitate 18 homes occupied by low- and moderate-income households.

Plummer was notified that it will receive a grant of $600,000, which will be used to assist in the rehabilitation of 45 rental units in the cities of Plummer, Oklee and Brooks. The total project cost is $1.8 million. The vast majority of the occupants of the rehabilitated units will be low- and moderate-income people.

"It's terrific news," said Debbie DuChamp, Plummer's city clerk/treasurer. "I'm not sure when the project will start. In fact, we haven't received official notice, yet."

DuChamp said this means the senior housing rental units in the three communities will be rehabilitated.

Department of Transportation and Economic Development (DTED) Commissioner Rebecca Yanisch, congratulated the cities for the accomplishment. "These grants are highly sought after, and competition among applicants is

Northland wins NJCAA tournament debut, 60-37

from Heather Hauschild
Special for the Northern Watch

The Pioneers of Northland Community and Technical College took to the court Thursday for the first round of the National Junior College Athletic Association Division III National Championship women's basketball tournament, and in 40-minutes of play soundly defeated Manchester (Conn.) Community College 60-37.

"We didn't have much information on Manchester, and weren't sure what to expect," said Northland head coach Mike Zachow. "We played well defensively, which has been our key to success all season long."

The Pioneers' starting line-up included sophomores Candice Solie, Fertile; Jenny Weiss, Red Lake Falls; and Misten Hoie, Bagley; along with freshmen Kylie Rogalla and Sara Jensen, both of Thief River Falls.

Manchester took the first possession, but the Pioneers were first on the board. The game stayed close during the first half, with Northland going into the locker room up 30-21.

Hoie led the Pioneers with 13 first half points.

The Pioneers came out with the full-court press in the second half, and were led on the board by Weiss, who hit back-to-back 3's. Northland's aggressive defense held the Cougars to only 16 additional points, as they racked up another 30. Hoie led the Pioneers in scoring, with 17, and Rogalla led in rebounds with 10.

Northland's entry into the tournament was only the latest in what has become the most successful team career in school history. Now 27-2, the Pioneers won the Minnesota Community College Conference state tournament and the NJCAA Region 13B championship.

With the win over Manchester, the Pioneers moved to the semifinals against Montgomery College of Rockville, Md. Montgomery was unranked going into the tournament, but pulled off a come-from-behind 61-59 quarterfinal upset of No. 2-seeded Suffolk County Community College of Selden, N.Y.

The Pioneers were ranked No. 3 going into the national championships, behind the College of DuPage from Glen Ellyn, Ill. and Suffolk County.

In addition to Northland, Montgomery and DuPage, Passaic County Community College of Paterson, N.J. also notched a win among the Elite Eight.

Rounding out the roster for the Pioneers are sophomores Jacqui Karl, Waubun; Beth Olson and Nicole Wiseth, Thief River Falls; plus freshmen Sara Gross, Blackduck; Mandy Caspers, Bagley; Nikki Gustafson, Roseau; Jennifer Liebersbach, Fordville, N.D.; and Natalie Sirjord, Gary.

Karl, coming back from an ankle injury, was back on the court, but the Pioneers do have two injuries. Liebersbach twisted an ankle during Wednesday's practice and Gustafson is recovering from a shoulder injury.

■ For up-to-the-minute details on the Division III National Championships, log on to the official website at www.corning-cc.edu/athletics. Northland tournament games are being broadcast on Thief River Falls Radio.

■ First-round foes Northland and Manchester were the only schools in the eight-team field making their first national tournament appearance this year.

■ Manchester, a second-year varsity program with a 12-8 record coming into the tournament, upset defending champion Northern Essex 59-45 and Capital, the nation's No. 9-ranked team, 50-48, to win the Region 21 title.

■ Two of the tournament's top four seeds – No. 2 Suffolk County and No. 4 Hudson Valley – were beaten in Thursday's quarterfinals. College of DuPage is the No. 1 seed, Northland is No. 3.

Northland fans Jeremy Uhrich and Angela Schuelke wore colorful face paint to show their support for the Pioneers during the National Junior College Athletic Association Region 13 women's basketball tournament game against Vermilion in Thief River Falls. The Pioneers won 73-58 to earn a berth in the NJCAA Division III national tournament at Corning (N.Y.) Community College.

New DNR CD to aid in waterfront restoration

A new tool is available that will help Minnesotans restore the natural beauty and health of waterfront property and free themselves from unnecessary lawn mowing.

A new interactive CD-ROM produced by the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources, Restore your Shore, guides users through the process of protecting a natural shoreline or restoring a degraded shore with a natural buffer. A restored natural shoreline can help curb erosion, provide fish and wildlife habitat, and promote cleaner water, while not detracting from swimming, fishing, boating or other recreational uses.

The Restore your Shore program teaches users about shoreline habitat, provides innovative solutions to common shoreland problems, and provides a searchable database of more than 400 native Minnesota plants. The CD-ROM takes users through each step in designing and implementing a customized project plan and provides worksheets and forms to help organize tasks. Project profiles introduce users to four landowners, following the progress and challenges they faced in completing their shore restoration projects.

Restore your Shore expands on the popular book Lakescoping for Wildlife and Water Quality by Carrol Henderson, the DNR Nongame Wildlife Program supervisor. Incorporating informative pop-up windows, music, commentary and interactive graphics, Restore your Shore creates a multimedia experience that simplifies the planning of a shore restoration project.

Restore your Shore, which costs $29.95 plus tax and shipping, is available from Minnesota's Bookstore. For more information, contact Minnesota's Bookstore toll-free at 1-800-657-3757, or on the Internet at www.minnesotasbookstore.com.

SOUPÇON

Sherry LaCoursiere
email: lacoursiere@sparestar.net

I heard they had the Pillsbury Bake-Off recently. Then I found this old cookbook from the 11th Grand National Pillsbury Bake-Off in my collection. You might like to try some of these delicious recipes. Some of them have become old stand-bys.

Of course this recipe is a little late for Mardi Gras, but it would be great for Easter or the next birthday. I've made this one and it is a very special cake:

MARDI GRAS PARTY CAKE

2/3 cup butterscotch morsels
1/4 cup water
2 1/4 cups flour
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon soda
1/2 teaspoon baking powder
1 1/4 cups sugar
1/2 cup shortening (part butter is fine)
3 eggs
1 cup buttermilk or sour milk

Melt butterscotch morsels and water together. Set aside to cool.

Sift flour, salt, soda and baking powder together and set aside.

Cream sugar and shortening well. Blend in eggs, beating well after each. Blend in melted butterscotch mixture and mix well. Add dry ingredients alternately with buttermilk, beginning and ending with dry ingredients. (If using electric mixer, use low speed.)

Place in two greased and lightly floured (on bottom) 9 inch cake pans. Bake at 375 degrees for 25 to 30 minutes, until cake springs back when touched lightly in center. Cool.

Butterscotch Filling
1/2 cup sugar
1 tablespoon cornstarch
1/2 cup evaporated milk
1/3 cup water
1/3 cup butterscotch morsels
1 beaten egg yolk
2 tablespoons butter
1 cup coconut
1 cup pecans or walnuts, chopped

Combine sugar and cornstarch in 2 quart saucepan. Stir in milk, water, morsels and egg yolk. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until thick. Remove from heat and add butter, coconut and pecans. Cool.

Sea Foam Frosting
1/3 cup sugar
1/3 cup packed brown sugar
1/3 cup water
1 tablespoon corn syrup
1 egg white
1/4 teaspoon cream of tartar

Combine sugar, brown sugar, water and corn syrup in saucepan. Cook until a little of the mixture dropped in cold water forms a soft ball (236 degrees).

Beat egg white with cream of tartar until stiff peaks for. Add above mixture to egg white in slow stream, beating constantly, until thick enough to spread.

Spread filling between cake layers and on top to within 1/2 inch of edge. Frost sides and top 1/2 inch edge with Sea Foam Frosting or whipped cream.

It's lent, so maybe it's time to try a hearty meatless casserole:

SEASIDE SUPPER

2 medium (1 cup) potatoes, boiled and sliced
4 hard cooked eggs, sliced
1 (1 pound) can salmon, drained
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
3 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons flour
3/4 teaspoon salt
1/16 cayenne pepper
1 can cream of mushroom soup
2 cups milk

Place alternating layers of potatoes, eggs, salmon and parsley in 2 1/2 quart casserole dish.

Melt butter, flour, salt and cayenne pepper in saucepan. Stir until smooth. Add mushroom soup and milk and bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Pour over ingredients in casserole.

Biscuit Topping
2 cups flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/3 cup shortening
1 egg, slightly beaten
2/3 cup milk

Sift flour, baking powder and salt together. Cut in shortening until particles are size of small peas.

Combine egg and milk and add to dry ingredients. Mix until all dry particles are moistened.

Place rounded tablespoonfuls of biscuit topping over casserole. Bake at 425 degrees for 25 to 30 minutes.

BUTTERSCOTCH COCONUT DROPS

2 cups flour
1/2 teaspoon soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup butter
1/2 cup packed brown sugar
1/2 cup sugar
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup butterscotch morsels
1/2 cup walnuts, chopped
1 1/2 cups flaked coconut
Maraschino cherries or pecans, if desired

Sift together the flour, soda and salt.

Cream butter and gradually add brown sugar and sugar, creaming well. Add eggs and vanilla, beating well. Add dry ingredients, mixing thoroughly. Stir in butterscotch morsels and walnuts. Chill dough at least 1 hour.

Drop dough by rounded teaspoonfuls into coconut. Roll to coat. Form into balls and place on greased cookie sheets. Top with cherries or pecan halves, if desired.

Bake at 375 degrees to 10 to 12 minutes until golden brown. Remove from cookie sheets immediately.

SUNNY PECAN BRUNCH CAKE

1/2 cup milk
Rind of 1 medium orange
1 package active dry yeast
1/4 cup warm water
1/4 cup sugar
2 tablespoons shortening
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
1 egg
1 3/4 cups sifted flour
1/4 cup butter, melted
3/4 cup sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon
3/4 cup pecans, chopped

Scald milk with grated orange rind.

Soften yeast in warm water.

In mixing bowl, combine sugar, shortening, salt and nutmeg. Add scalded milk mixture. Cool to lukewarm.

Add egg and softened yeast. Gradually add flour to form a stiff batter, beating well after each addition. Cover and let rise in warm place until light and doubled in size, 45 to 60 minutes.

Combine melted butter, sugar, cinnamon and pecans.

Beat down batter and spread in well greased 9x13 inch pan. Sprinkle with pecan mixture. Let rise in warm place until light, about 30 minutes. Bake at 375 degrees for 25 to 30 minutes.

That coffee cake would be good with a cup of this special coffee:

PALAZZO COFFEE

3/4 cup instant coffee
5 1/4 cups boiling water
3 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon rum extract
1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
Whipped cream

Dissolve instant coffee in water. Add sugar, rum extract and cinnamon. Stir well to blend. Serve hot, topped with a spoonful of whipped cream.

Rosters are posted for Great Eight boys high school hockey games

■ Two Prowlers are alternates

Players have been selected for the 2002 boys high school Great Eight Hockey Festival, scheduled March 22-24 at Wakota Arena in South St. Paul.

The 21st annual event features 136 seniors grouped into eight teams that combine Minnesota State High School League Class A and Class AA sections.

They will play a quarterfinal, semifinal and championship bracket tournament.

Players are nominated by their high school coaches and chosen by the coaches from the combined sections that make up each team. The top two goalies, six defensemen, and nine forwards in the voting are selected for the series. Several alternates at each position are also named, but they do not play unless one of the active players cannot participate.

Thief River Falls' Justin Barron, a defenseman, and Danny Almquist, a forward, were named alternates on the Section 8A/8AA roster.

The event is sanctioned by the MSHSL, allowing participants to maintain their eligibility for high school spring sports.

Following the Great Eight tournament, 20 players who do not have a firm NCAA Division I scholarship commitment will be selected to represent Minnesota at the 24-team National High School Hockey Chicago Showcase Tournament April 17-21.

Minnesota's post-season hockey all-star event began in 1983 when the Minnesota High School Hockey Coaches Association and Minnesota Hockey (then known as the Minnesota Amateur Hockey Association) collaborated on a two-game series featuring 42 players.

First round Friday tournament match-ups include 5A/5AA vs. 1A/1AA, 1 p.m.; 6A/6AA vs. 2A/3AA, 3:30 p.m.; 7A/7AA vs. 4A/4AA, 6 p.m.; 8A/8AA vs. 3A/2AA, 8:30 p.m.

Tickets will be sold at the door.

TOURNAMENT SCOREBOARD

State and region championships won by the Northland Community and Technical College women have highlighted tournament results to date for area basketball teams.

Thief River Falls boys and girls were eliminated in first round Section 8AAA action.

The Oklee/Plummer Red Lake County Central cooperative won its first girls sub-section title by knocking off No. 1-seeded Lake of the Woods in the 29A finals. But the Mustangs' season ended when they met nemesis Fosston in the Section 8A semifinals.

Top-seeded Marshall County Central boys, after losing just two games all season, saw their dreams of an extended post-season run shattered by a Sub-Section 31A title game loss to Warren-Alvarado-Oslo.

The two Badger/Greenbush-Middle River teams struggled through portions of the 2001-02 regular season, but both wound up in the Sub-Section 32A finals, where the girls lost to Kittson Central and the boys fell to Stephen-Argyle.

A look at tournament results, along with a list of box scores involving area teams that missed earlier publication deadlines:

We need a bill to protect our right to fish

It's truly a sad day when you have to create legislation to protect your right to fish.

Congressman Collin Peterson has introduced legislation to protect your right to fish entitled "Freedom to Fish Act." The purpose is obvious, but a news story in the Star Tribune of March 6, states that this legislation would make it more difficult to establish no fishing zones.

I keep hearing the term "environmentalist" as if it represents some detestable being. I have yet, however, heard who they are. In any event, the bill is in response to efforts by environmentalist groups to ban fishing in some coastal spots. Jack Sobel, who is described as an angler and the director of the ecosystem program at the Ocean Conservancy, an environmental group in Washington, D.C., said "I don't think that right (to fish) exists or should exist. There's also a right to protect our natural heritage." I couldn't believe it when I heard it, but I read in the Star Tribune article, that Dan Shannon, a spokesman for People for the Ethical Treatment of Animals (PETA) campaign, said that fish experience fear, and that impaling them on a hook is tantamount to torture.

According to the article, Peterson's office estimates that nationwide there are more than 1.2 million jobs related to recreational fishing and that the industry pumps about $108 billion annually into the U.S. economy. If you don't think all this talk about fishing and comments about protecting "coastal" fishing areas give you a feeling of comfort, think again. The debate is also here in Minnesota. Again, environmental groups are trying to push anglers out of Minnesota's state parks. Imagine what impact that would have on jobs, fishing, and recreational opportunities.

State organizations have to give equal consideration to comments of all citizens. They represent all of us. Evidence may support fishermen, but what a nightmare for fishermen living in the state of 10,000 lakes. If I were a fisherman, I'd be setting my literal hook for environmentalists, and rigging my boat for rough water ahead.

MN DOT study and effort commendable

Minnesota Department of Transportation's study of the intersection of Highway 59 and 1 just west of Thief River Falls was a thorough study that is an excellent educational tool.

The report was a response to safety concerns and the inquiry about the addition of other warning devices at the intersection. While concerns reached a peak following a fatal accident at the intersection on December 30, 2001, they were not the first concerns expressed about the intersection.

What I felt was particularly educational were the verifiable studies done after installation of certain safety devices. Particularly, I found it interesting that after the installation of an overhead flasher in the City of Blackduck at an intersection with a low crash history, there was a slight increase in the number of crashes. And, when the flasher was knocked down, the Department of Transportation noted a slight increase in crashes.

It was also interesting to note that statewide, there are serious concerns regarding the benefits of overhead flashers because they create a false sense of security, and confusion where motorists stop and pull out thinking that traffic on the side street also has to stop. It's such a concern, that the state plans to eventually remove all overhead flashers.

I was also impressed that the Minnesota Department of Transportation acted quickly to enact recommendations found as a result of the study.

I hope that these changes will result in fewer accidents at the intersection, but as noted in the study and elsewhere, all roads are potentially dangerous, especially when there are careless and inattentive motorists present.

Overall, I will say that the study was educational, and a thorough, sensitive response to requests of concerned citizens.

Plummer farmers named Pennington County Valley Farmers

Lowell Peterson and William O. Peterson of Plummer were among the Valley Farmers and Homemakers honored March 2 at the 64th annual Red River Valley Development Association Honor Banquet at the Sahlstrom Conference Center at the University of Minnesota Crookston.

Other families in the Northern Watch area honored this year include Cliff and Alice Fischer of Gonvick, Clearwater County, Ron and Debbie Peterson of Lake Bronson, Kittson County; Norman and Helen Hortvedt of Baudette, Lake of the Woods County; Winton and Theresa Knutson of Oslo, Marshall County; Gordon and Shirley Sonstelie of Erskine, East Polk County; Lonn and Debra Kiel of Crookston, West Polk County; Henry and Marilyn Wieland of Red Lake Falls, Red Lake County; and Dale and Elaine Billberg of Wannaska, Roseau County. Valley Farmers and Homemakers from Beck, Clay, Mahnomen, Norman, East and West Otter Tail, and Wilken counties were honored as well.

The farming tradition carried out by William and Lowell Peterson was one that was begun by their parents when they bought the family farm in 1936.

The farm was the site of milking shorthorn cattle until William and Lowell sold the herd in September of 1998 and retired.

The dairy operation involved milking and raising cattle. William noted that throughout their years of milking, they strived to get quality milk with a low somatic cell count, and for their efforts, they received a number of trophies.

Over the years, the Petersons' cattle won numerous ribbons, plaques and trophies as they were shown at the Red River Valley Fair in Fargo, the North Dakota State Fair in Minot, the Minnesota State Fair, and the World Dairy Expo in Madison, Wisc. William and Lowell received the Herdsman Award at both the North Dakota State Fair and World Dairy Expo and also sold cattle at numerous state and national sales.

Both men have been involved in the community and various agricultural associations.

William serves on the council at Immanuel Lutheran Church in Plummer, and is the financial officer of the Plummer American Legion Post. He has also served as the Wyandotte Township clerk and as a member of the Pennington County Township Officers Association. He is also a member of the Red Lake County Fair Association and Pennington County president of the NFO.

Lowell has been a county officer of the American Dairy Association and served on the board of directors of the Minnesota State Milking Shorthorn Association. Since retiring from farming in 1998, he has worked as a night auditor at the Best Western Inn in Thief River Falls.

A highlight of the Petersons' farming years was when their farm was featured during a 1992 tour that was attended by more than 150 people. "Everybody liked our skit that we put on that day," William said, and he noted that everyone was talking about it the following year at the national meeting.

Congratulations to Lowell and William Peterson – 2002 Pennington County Valley Farmers

Agricultural History Minnesota's first farmers

Much of what we know about early farming in Minnesota we have learned through Native American history. Fort Snelling was the first farming community by European settlers in the 1820's. However, the Ojibwe and Dakota American Indians were farming hundreds of years earlier.

Early Ojibwe peoples lived in the northern lakes and forest regions of what would later become Minnesota. They hunted and fished, and harvested wild berries, fruits, and wild rice. They tapped maple trees for tasty treats, and Ojibwe people often had small gardens near their homes.

The Dakota lived in the southern and southwestern plains of what is now Minnesota. Their villages dotted the banks of the Mississippi, Minnesota, St. Croix, and Cannon rivers. Dakota women were active farmers, raising corn, squash, and beans in patterned fields near the village. Dakota people also gather many different wild foods.

Lately, archeologists are discovering fascinating facts about the agriculture of native peoples who lived in the area more than 1,000 years ago.

Groups known to archeologists as the Late Woodland and Oneota peoples lived in small family groups in winter and gathered together in large villages in summer. Around AD 1000-1200, they started spending less time in the woods over winter and more time in their summer villages near rivers and lakes. At the same time, they were learning to grow more crops instead of depending only on foods gathered from the wild.

What did they grow? Starting with wild seeds, they learned over time to grow giant ragweed, beans, corn, squash, goose foot (lamb's quarters), and sunflowers. Of course, they still gathered wild foods, like wild rice and different kinds of fruit. With a variety of plants, however, they had better nutrition and still had food if certain crops failed (from AgMag)

Where does Minnesota rank?

Minnesota ranks in the top ten producers in the nation in these products:

1st sugar beets and green peas for processing.

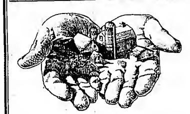
2nd in turkeys, American cheese, oats, cultivated wild rice, and sweet corn for processing.

3rd in spring wheat, soybeans, flax, hogs, and mink pelts.

4th in corn and all cheese

5h in milk cows, milk production, sunflowers, ice cream, butter, rye, and honey.

6th in Italian cheese, barley, and dry edible beans.



7th in red meat, potatoes, and ag exports.

8th in hay.

9th in eggs.

10th in cattle/calves on feed and chickens.

Do we need a milk marketing board in Minnesota?

By Richard A. Levins and William F. Lazarus
Economists with the University of Minnesota Extension Service, Department of Applied Economics

Minnesota has lost a quarter of its dairy farms in the past five years. Much of this loss is due to milk prices that are too low to support family-sized dairy operations.

Why are the prices so low? One cause is the familiar refrain that supply and demand are out of balance – too much milk chasing too little demand. In addition, there is the question of whether an imbalance of market power between retailers and processors versus farmers also plays a role in low milk prices.

A milk marketing board is primarily intended to address this second pricing problem, that of fairness. A marketing board might act something like the agencies the state already has to regulate public utilities. The board would collect economic information to insure that everyone, especially farmers, is treated fairly.

Perhaps the board would find that milk prices at any given time are fair to all. On the other hand, the board could find that farmers are operating at a loss and being forced out, while processors pay more for certain milk grades and still earn sufficient profits to allow them to operate and stay in Minnesota. Under those circumstances, the board would rule in favor of higher prices being paid to dairy farmers by the processors.

Market Power

The National Farmers Union released a report on concentration in the U.S. dairy and retailers industries in 2000. The report raised concerns about rapid consolidation in the retail sector and retailers' vertical integration back through processing and production. This makes it harder for smaller entities in all parts of the chain to compete.

Farmers and consumers are especially vulnerable. The threat to consumers was underscored by a recent study from the Food Marketing Policy Center at the University of Connecticut. Their analysis of the New England Buid milk market concluded that consumers lost $49 million between September 1998 and July 2000 because of prices distorted by market power.

We are not aware of any similar studies of the Minnesota milk market. As you might imagine, measuring whether a given price is lower than it should be can be tricky. Minnesota's milk price has been recently on par with the rest of the country.

But, this does not necessarily mean that either Minnesota or U.S. prices are where they would be under a perfectly competitive market with buyers and sellers having equal levels of market power. Milk prices at the farm could be depressed to some degree if the market operates more in line with that part of the economic theory known as "imperfect competition." Here, some factors in the economic system become so large and powerful relative to others that they can bargain for prices that favor the growth of so-called "excess profits."

The Processor Perspective

A principal argument against raising the farm price of milk is that dairy products are relatively inexpensive to transport across state lines. Any increase in the farm-level milk price could make it more costly to process milk in Minnesota, which would in turn lead processors to close plants in Minnesota and build new ones in other states.

The threat of plants leaving Minnesota is real – with or without a milk marketing board. For example, the older Land O'Lakes plant in Faribault was recently scheduled for closing.

The threat of plants closing, however, is not in itself a reason to reject a milk marketing board. If a board were to be implemented, it would be important to include safeguards such that it does not drive processors out of the state. A responsible board would become sufficiently familiar with processors' costs and returns as to balance their needs with those of farmers.

The Bottom Line

In several surveys Minnesota farmers have said they believe that lack of competition among buyers of their products is causing them to receive lower prices. There are almost 7,000 dairy farmers in the state, a relative handful of processors, and even fewer retail chains to sell the final products of dairy farms. It is therefore not out of the question that farmers' concern for fair prices could be justified in some cases.

With or without a marketing board, Minnesota's dairy farmers and processors will need to remain competitive if we are to maintain a strong dairy industry. But our commitment to family farms, and the importance of family-sized dairies to our rural economy, demand that those with low economic power be treated fairly.

Minnesota's irrigated crop acreage continues upward

Minnesota's irrigated crop acreage continues on the upswing. Over 6,000 new irrigated acres went into production in the state last year, according to engineer Jerry Wright of the University of Minnesota Extension Service. Wright bases the acreage figure on a survey of Minnesota irrigation suppliers. Most of the new acreage was irrigated with center pivots.

For detailed irrigated crop figures, Wright cites information from the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources annual pumping reports from irrigators. The most recent figures show 432,888 acres irrigated in Minnesota in the summer of 2000. That's up from 425,000 irrigated acres in 1999. The irrigated acreage for 2000 was registered under 4,150 DNR irrigation permits.

According to the 2000 DNR pumping reports, Minnesota growers irrigated at least 183,000 acres of corn, 96,000 acres of soybeans, 48,000 acres of potatoes, 31,000 acres of dry beans, 24,000 acres of alfalfa, 6,000 acres of sugar beets, and 15,000 acres of canning crops.

The irrigated soybean acreage was up at least 13,000 acres from 1999, according to Wright. The dry bean acreage was down about 8,000 acres.

Growers reported using center pivots on over 367,000 acres in 2000 and traveling guns on only about 16,000 acres.

The top 10 Minnesota counties in reported irrigated acreage for 2000 were, in order, Otter Tail, Pope, Dakota, Stearns, Sherburne, Swift, Wadena, Hubbard, Morrison, and Todd.

A detailed summary of permitted and irrigated acres by county is available from Jerry Wright, c/o West Central Research and Outreach Center, University of Minnesota, P.O. Box 471, Morris, MN 56267. Wright can also be reached by e-mail at jwright@tc.umn.edu or by telephone at (320) 589-1711.

Early Spring Fishing: Some of the People Some of the Time

Abraham Lincoln, 16th U.S. president, made a name for himself by occasionally mumbling forth with some simplistic observation about the world around him and then allowing whatever crowd of sycophants he was engaged with at the time to champion his words to the public. Perhaps they heard more in his words than initially seemed to be there because he was so impressively tall or because he was such a profoundly odd-looking man. For whatever reason, when he said something obvious it always managed to gather a noteworthy quality before the public got done with it. For example, when Abe spoke his now famous lines about early spring ice-fishing centuries ago, it wasn't like every resorter in the area hadn't already spoken a similar sentiment about a dozen times before. It's just that Abe's words seemed to stick in every fisherman's mind. "You can make some of the people happy all of the time, and you can make all of the people happy some of the time. But you can never make all of the people happy all of the time."

Abe knew that early Spring was the time to chase Sauger and Perch around in the mud of the Big Traverse basin while patiently waiting for the melting snow ashore to trigger the shallower water Walleye bite later in the season. The operative word in that last sentence, mind you, was "chase", as in a big game of fishy "Tag". And as in any game, there are winners and losers.

Spread ten fish houses at two hundred yard intervals across just about any muddy stretch of Lake of the Woods right now and five of them will be on fish. Maybe not tons of fish, but 15 to 20 keepable fish plus throwbacks before the day is done. Which should make you happy if you happen to be fishing in one of those five houses.

So, to begin with, we've made some of the people happy. A good starting point, eh Abe?

However, if you're in one of the other five houses, chances are good you won't be really happy with the four pencil-length Saugers that went under your house and got yanked unceremoniously up through the holes. Ah, even that one decent Perch thrown into the mix isn't going to put a smile on your face. Day One has been tough really for no other reason than good old random house placement.

So, on Day Two we try to remedy the situation by moving the five "unhappy" houses next to the five "happy" houses. This works just fine because by noon everyone has caught a decent number of fish and the world seems like a much better place. For whatever reason (food, temperature, the view?) the fish seem to school in these haphazard, unpredictable zones and really the only way to find them there is to fish them there. (Did that sound more like Abe or Yogi Berra?) In the summer we call it downrigging – in the winter we call it spreading ten fish-houses erratically across the mud.

Anyway, we seem to have made all of the people happy some of the time – right Abe?

Unfortunately, the limited number of Saugers and Perch which occupied that isolated chunk of mud become over-tapped by 1 pm and the fishing pretty much quits for everyone for the rest of the day. And while no one is genuinely unhappy yet, because they all managed a little morning action, the only prospect for Day Three is to spread all ten houses out again onto fresh holes and start the game all over. Which doesn't make me, the ice worker, happy in the least.

Confirming the last of Abe's incisive suspicions that you can never hope to make all of the people happy all of the time.

Which brings us back to the original nagging question you've had all along and it had nothing to do with ice fishing, did it? Of course Abe wasn't an ice-fisherman and of course those weren't his original words back there. But someone must have already known that. Otherwise everyone would have been fooled and that would have made a liar out of Honest Abe.

have been distributed to members of the Thief River Falls Quilters Guild and Thimbleberry's Club, a quilting club that meets at Annette's Fabrics on Sunday afternoons. Steiger reports that response to the event has been interesting, with enthusiastic sewers coming up with a variety of ideas for project ideas.

In addition to the obvious quilted wall hangings and bed coverings, other items are being considered as well and include fabric dolls, garments such as vests, and throw pillows. "Anything goes," Steiger says.

While the hanging sleeves would be a permanent part of a wall quilt, they can be basted on the reverse side of other items and later removed. They are necessary, however, so that items can be secured and displayed in a clothesline fashion at the clinics and at the fair.

Several items have already been submitted and are on display at Annette's Fabrics.

Annette's carries 15 fabrics from the Healing Garden collection. Plants depicted include Bleekeria, Purple Meadow Rue, May Apple, Sweet Potato, Pacific Yew and Western Yew, Rosy Periwinkle, Tree of Joy, and Aspidosperma.

Inspiration for Bonnie Benn Stratton's 1998 collection came when a friend, Lenore Parham, was undergoing treatment for ovarian cancer. Frequently, the friend and her husband, Walter, would find find comfort and solace in a garden near their home in Vienna, Virginia. One afternoon, they discussed the idea of having a garden comprised exclusively of plants and trees that have properties that are used in chemotherapy and cancer prevention medicines, believing that such a garden would encourage cancer patients during treatment.

Later, in his wife's memory, Walter instituted such a healing garden, and in June of 1998, its opening was celebrated with an exhibit of quilts, each representing one of the cancer-fighting plants. Since that day, the quilts, made by Lenore's friends, have been exhibited at hospitals, medical centers, universities and pharmaceutical companies across the country. New gardens have been planted, and hospitals are conducting quilting classes for patients, fulfilling the Parhams' vision of hope and encouragement.

Sewers from throughout the area who are inspired by Parham's touching story or simply the bright beautiful Healing Garden fabrics themselves are invited to participate in this worthwhile cause – raising funds to help find a cure for cancer.

Area cities receive DTED special grants

intense. These projects reflect our strong belief that good quality housing stock is an important factor in attracting jobs to the community. The benefits derived from prudent economic development are invaluable, and decent housing, sound commercial districts and adequate infrastructure are an important part of the package. I commend the officials and residents of Plummer and Middle River for stepping forward and creating a better community and climate where economic development can happen."

The Small Cities Development Program is administered by DTED's business and community development division. The program offers financial assistance for new housing, building conversion, housing and commercial rehabilitation, as well as municipal projects including drinking water, wastewater, storm sewer and flood control projects. Housing and commercial rehabilitation grants are used to provide individual loans to correct serious structural deficiencies and code violations in their homes and businesses.

This year's awards will help build or renovate 800 housing units and 144 commercial projects and support 11 municipal infrastructure projects. Of the 13 projects, nine are mixed use development or redevelopment projects. In the past 10 years, the Small Cities Development Program has provided assistance to more than 250 Minnesota communities.

Truck Winter Load Increases End

The Minnesota Department of Transportation will end winter weight increases on public highways in the north zone today (Saturday, March 16) at 12:01 a.m. In addition, the Winter Weight Increase Permit that allows a 10 percent weight increase on interstate routes will end at the same time in the north zone.

Spring load restrictions are not yet in effect for the north zone. The starting date for this zone has not been determined at this time.

Spring load restrictions for the south, southeastern, central, and metro zones of the state went into effect in February.

Weather-based models using actual and forecasted daily air temperatures determine the placement and removal of both winter load increases and spring load restrictions. Therefore, the end of spring load restrictions is no longer fixed at eight weeks.

Announcements of increases and restrictions are made with a three-day notice.

Further details regarding winter load increases, spring load restrictions, and exact boundaries of the frost zones can be found at the Mn/DOT Web site, www.mnroad.dot.state.mn.us. In addition to the Web site, a voice recorded message stating the starting/ending dates is provided toll-free at 1-800-723-6543.

Redistricting

Plan redraws the lines of power

Judicial panel redraws legislative district lines

by David Hill
Editor

A five-member panel of judges stepped in Tuesday, March 19, with a plan redrawing Minnesota's legislative districts. By law, the maps had to be completed by Tuesday, and although legislators and the governor had submitted several plans, they could not reach agreement on one plan. As a result, Minnesota's population was unconstitutionally malapportioned among the state's legislative districts.

The new boundaries established by the judicial panel will be used in the general election this November in which the entire legislature is up for election.

No one seems surprised by the fact that rural residents are losing representation. The redistricting is based on the 2000 census, and the census indicates a strong shift in the population to urban areas. In fact, it is estimated that nearly 60 percent of the state's population now resides in the 11-county Twin Cities area. It was inevitable then, that a shift of power follow the shift in population.

The shift in boundaries was not arbitrary. According to the final order implementing the redistricting plan, "... this plan achieves population equality to the greatest extent possible while respecting political subdivision boundaries. The median deviation for the senate districts is .28 percent, or 206 persons from the ideal senate district population of 73,425 people. The mean deviation for the plan's house districts is .32 percent, or 118 persons from the ideal house district population of 36,713 people. No house or senate district has a population deviation greater than .80 percent."

The redistricting led to some legislative incumbents being paired in districts, and significant changes in representation base. Senate District 1 in northwestern Minnesota, for example, was expanded to include a significant portion of Polk County, placing Sen. LeRoy Stumpf (DFL-Thief River Falls) and Sen. Roger Moe (DFL-Crookston) in the same district. Moe, however, has announced that he does not intend to seek re-election because he is running for governor.

Munstenteiger was born and raised in Anoka and graduated from the University of Minnesota with a degree in forestry in 1999. He spent one year as an environmental consultant in St. Paul before moving to the Wannaska Forestry District.

Neuman filled a vacancy in the Wannaska office before being transferred to Grygla. He was raised in rural Somerset, Wisc. and graduated from the University of Minnesota with a degree in forestry in 2000. The Grygla Eagle

MN Agri-Women promote Ag in the Classroom project

by Kathi Carlson
Reporter

Come next week at this time, area students will know a little more about agriculture. Some of them already do.

Members of the Pen-Mar-Red Chapter of Minnesota Agri-Women are making the rounds, distributing Ag Bags and offering information about Minnesota's largest industry during National Ag Week, March 17-23, and continuing next week.

On Ag Day, March 20, fourth and fifth grade students at Challenger Elementary School in Thief River Falls went from station to station, listening to presentations and participating in games that would help them better understand agriculture. Elementary students in Grygla enjoyed the program Thursday. Monday, it will be Oklee's turn, and later in the week, the Agri-Women will complete their education mission for this year at Goodridge elementary school on Thursday, March 28.

While the programs being conducted at each of the sites are different, they have one element in common. Norma Hanson of Goodridge, who founded the Ag in the Classroom project in 1982, will be there.

A long-time promoter of agriculture, Hanson organized women to form Minnesota Women for Agriculture in 1977, an organization which later became Minnesota Agri-Women. In 1982, when she wanted to create an agricultural education program for fourth and fifth grade students, Hanson says she used her horses and buggies as collateral to finance the printing and mailing of a booklet. The mailing involved 3,000 copies of a 40-page publication that was sent to fourth and fifth grade classrooms across the state. The loan was paid off within a couple of years through small donations and raffle ticket sales by Agri-Women for a handmade quilt that was made by Marianne Saetre of Grygla.

The Ag in the Classroom program is now sponsored by the Minnesota Department of Agriculture in St. Paul. The new program features a publication, AgMag that is full of activities and information about agriculture and includes a teacher's guide.

Minnesota Agri-Women continues to print its own publication, "Fun on the Farm," an activity workbook that is distributed by state chapters to schools during National Ag Week. This year "Fun on the Farm" was included in an AgBag that also included various brochures and information from the Wheat, Beef, and Dairy councils.

To aid her in her mission, Hanson has recruited the help of the following local Dairy Princesses: Gretchen Smeby, Marshall County; DeDe Vettleson, Red Lake County; and Ashley Tharaldson, Pennington County. She's also drummed up some donations to provide ice cream cones at Oklee, Goodridge, and Grygla Schools. Wayne Dairy Farm, Wayne and Deb Vettleson, will provide the treats at Oklee. Ice cream cones at Grygla were furnished by the Marshall County American Dairy Association, and Good-Vue Ayr Farms will provide the treats in Goodridge.

Pen-Mar-Red Agri-Women who presented the classroom program in Thief River Falls were assisted by members of Lincoln High School's FFA. Officers of the local Pen-Mar-Red Minnesota Agri-Women chapter include Deb Whalen of Oklee, president; Linda Hanson of Goodridge, vice president; Ginnie Armstrong of Thief River Falls, secretary; and Jan Freitag of Plummer, treasurer.

More information about the state-wide Ag in the Classroom program can be obtained from Minnesota Ag in the Classroom, 90 West Pluto Blvd., St. Paul, MN 55107.

Putting her hand into a bag of unknown contents must have been why this girl's expression appeared a bit apprehensive at Wednesday's Ag in the Classroom event at Challenger Elementary School. The game involved guessing what vegetables were contained in a series of brown paper bags. In addition to produce, fourth and fifth graders learned about wheat, oil-producing seeds, and beef and dairy cattle. Ag in the Classroom, sponsored by the Pen-Mar-Red chapter of Minnesota Agri-Women, was presented to fourth and fifth graders in Thief River Falls and elementary students in Grygla this week. Next week, elementary students in Oklee and Goodridge will take part in the program.

Dorreen Yellow Bird to speak at NCTC

■ Event is part of Northland's Women's History Month

Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge invites public to event

■ National Wildlife Refuge System celebrates 99th

In commemoration of the 99th year of the National Wildlife Refuge System, the staff at Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge invites the public to enjoy cookies and refreshments at the refuge headquarters weekday afternoons during the last two weeks of March.

Bird migration at Agassiz has begun with more birds arriving as temperatures increase. Great horned owls are nesting, indicating that it is time for life to renew itself. Also, the weather conditions during this year's mild winter have allowed for better wildlife viewing opportunities.

This year's birthday celebration is a kickoff for next year's centennial of the National Wildlife Refuge System. Nowhere is America's love affair with wildlife more apparent than on the nearly 540 unites of the National Wildlife Refuge System. In the 99 years since the first refuge was established, the system has evolved into a 95-million acre network of land and water that protects many of America's (and the world's) most unique natural areas, providing habitat for an amazing variety of wildlife.

As the system gears up for its centennial anniversary on March 14, 2003, refuges around the country are hosting special events, partnering with conservation organizations and private corporations, bolstering volunteers and reinforcing public support for its wildlife conservation mission.

"America's national wildlife refuges are great places to connect with nature, escape from our everyday surroundings, and enjoy outdoor activities such as hunting, fishing, and wildlife watching," says Steve Williams, director of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, which administers the refuge system. "The Centennial is an opportunity to reinforce growing interest in and support from Congress, conservation partners, and the American public to fulfill the promise of the refuge system into its next century."

The National Wildlife Refuge System story began in 1903 when President Theodore Roosevelt learned that brown pelicans and white egrets living on the tiny Pelican Island on Florida's east coast were being slaughtered for their feathers. Taking action to protect the birds and their habitat,

Here are more recipes from my 11th Grand National Pillsbury Bake Off cookbook. By the way, would you believe it cost 25 cents? I wish I knew what year it is. Oh, the good, old days!

This recipe was sent in by a Grand Forks native, Donald J. Spicer. He was 6 ft. 3 inches tall, weighed 213 pounds and secretly wanted to race stock cars. The cake sounds delicious.

SPUD AND SPICE CAKE
1-3/4 cups sugar
1 cup cold mashed potatoes
3/4 cup shortening
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
3 eggs
1 teaspoon soda
1 cup buttermilk
2 cups flour
3/4 cup walnuts
2 tablespoons flour

Preheat oven to 350 degrees.

In large bowl, combine sugar, mashed potatoes, shortening, cinnamon, salt and nutmeg. Cream thoroughly about 4 minutes. Add eggs and mix until thoroughly blended.

Combine soda and buttermilk. Add alternately with 2 cups flour, beginning and ending with flour. Coat walnuts with 2 tablespoons flour and stir into batter.

Place in 9x13 inch greased and floured pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 50-60 minutes. Cool and frost.

Quick Caramel Frosting:
1/4 cup butter
3/4 cup packed brown sugar
3 tablespoons milk
2 cups powdered sugar

Melt butter in saucepan. Stir in brown sugar and cook over low heat for 2 minutes. Add milk and bring to a full boil. Cool to lukewarm without stirring.

Add powdered sugar and beat until smooth and of spreading consistency.

These are nice Christmas cookies - they store well too:

MOCHA BUTTER BALLS
1-3/4 cups flour
1/4 teaspoon salt
2/3 cup butter, room temperature
1/3 cup cream cheese, softened
2/3 cup Quik chocolate mix
1/3 cup powdered sugar
1 teaspoon instant coffee
2 teaspoons vanilla
1 cup pecans
Additional powdered sugar

Mix salt and flour. Cream butter, cream cheese, Quik, powdered sugar, coffee and vanilla, creaming well. Add dry ingredients and blend.

Stir in pecans and chill dough for at least 1 hour.

Shape into 1 inch balls and place on ungreased cookie sheets. Bake at 350 degrees for 15-18 minutes. Roll warm cookies in powdered sugar.

Wouldn't these be good to make for lunch today:

KOFFEE KLATCH BARS
1 cup raisins, chopped
2/3 cup strong coffee
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1 1/2 cups flour
1/2 teaspoon soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup sugar
1/2 cup shortening
2 eggs

Combine raisins, coffee and cinnamon. Sift together flour, soda and salt and set aside.

Add sugar to shortening and cream well. Blend in eggs, one at a time, beating well after each. Stir in dry ingredients and then the raisin/coffee mixture, stirring well.

Place in well-greased jelly roll (15x10 inch) pan or 9x13 inch pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 25 to 35 minutes. Frost while warm.

Coffee Glaze Frosting:
1 tablespoon soft butter
1-1/2 cups powdered sugar
2-3 tablespoons strong coffee

Blend butter and powdered sugar. Add coffee until of spreading consistency.

This recipe was submitted by a man too - Donald Warren of Scranton, PA. He learned French gourmet cooking in the Air Force in France during WWII. This sounds like a really great dessert to serve at your next get-together:

PINEAPPLE LATTICE SHORTCAKE
4 cups flour
2 teaspoons salt
1 cup shortening
2 slightly beaten eggs (reserve 1 tablespoon)
3/4 cup sugar
1 cup sour cream
2 teaspoons soda
2 teaspoons vanilla
3/4 cup pecans, chopped
Whipped cream or ice cream

Sift flour and salt. Cut in shortening until particles are fine.

Combine eggs, sugar, sour cream, soda and vanilla and add to flour mixture, mixing well.

Knead on lightly floured surface for 8-10 strokes. Return to bowl and refrigerate while preparing filling.

After preparing filling, press three-fourths of dough into bottom and up sides of ungreased 15x10 inch jelly roll pan or two 9 inch square pans. Spread filling over.

Sprinkle with pecans.

Roll out remaining dough on floured surface to 1/8 inch thickness. Cut into 1/2 inch wide strips. Criss-cross over filling to form lattice top. Seal strips to edge with fork and brush with reserved egg.

Bake at 350 degrees for 30-35 minutes. Cut into squares and serve with whipped cream or ice cream.

Pineapple Filling:
1/2 cup packed brown sugar
1/4 cup sugar
3 tablespoons cornstarch
1 (1 pound 14 ounces) crushed pineapple.

Combine brown sugar, sugar and cornstarch. Stir in pineapple and juice. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until thick. Remove from heat and cool thoroughly.

If you're watching your diet, you can always use another chicken recipe - this one is grilled:

LEMON-GARLIC GRILLED CHICKEN
4 boneless, skinless chicken breast halves (1 pound)
2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 teaspoons olive oil
1 clove garlic, minced
1/2 teaspoon dried oregano
1/8 teaspoon cayenne pepper

Place chicken in resealable plastic bag or shallow glass container.

Combine remaining ingredients and pour over chicken. Seal bag or cover container. Refrigerate at least 20 minutes, turning once.

Drain and discard marinade. Grill chicken, uncovered, over medium coals, for 12-15 minutes or until juices run clear, turning once.

Recipe serves 4. One serving equals 153 calories, 64 mg sodium, 73 mg chol, trace carb, 27 gm protein, 4 gm fat. Diabetic Exchange: one serving equals 4 very lean meat.

Egad! Has Someone Been Here Before?

Outdoor scouting is not always undertaken at the most obvious of times. Deer hunters, for example, have long been aware of the advantages of scouring the woods for telltale sign in the spring, long before the thick summer foliage conceals clues as to a big buck's whereabouts. Summer fishermen, similarly, know the benefit of long midwinter study hours in front of lake maps and charts, months before a jig ever creases the surface of the water. And good ice-fishermen are no different, scraping kernels of vital information in the remotest of times. Take the season ending meltdown across the state's lakes, for instance, and the unique opportunity it offers you to pinpoint hotspots for next winter. Heck, armed with a GPS, a few hours of scouting effort and a keen eye, a diehard ice-fisherman can find an entire season's worth of new and worthwhile fish-house locations a year ahead of the crowd. It's easy, you just have to know how to read the signs.

As the warming March sun melts down the banks and drifts of accumulated lake snow, clues begin to emerge from underneath. Aluminum cans glint in the strengthening sun. The tattered ends of grocery bags and food wrappings begin to flap in the freshening spring breezes, liberated from their snow-crusted, winter prisons. Discarded fish carcasses reappear, offering easy meals to flocks of aggressive crows. Broken chunks of battered fishhouses pop up from the quickly disintegrating ice ridges that tore them apart in the first place. Ahh, spring on the big lake. It's like being a kid in a candy store.

Old house spots with quickly emerging piles of squishy, rotting fish guts are a no-brainer. Plug those into your GPS immediately. You can usually tell if this is a good December locale because all the entrails will have a greenish-yellow quality about them that only comes from exposure to several January and February thaws suggesting the mass has been there for quite some time. There's nothing that warms the cockles of my fishing heart any quicker than the sight and smell of a December pile of entrails as it decomposes its way through the March warm-up. This is a spot you'll see me in next early ice!

Beer cans, too are an easy read. For instance, piles of loosely gathered, uncrushed Old Milwaukee cans don't rate a GPS coordinate. All these tell me is that someone was merely out for cheap entertainment and didn't care much if anything bit on the other end of the line. Now, well-crushed and neatly collected Budweiser cans, that's another story. This ice-fisherman sported a little lake savvy, obviously realizing that uncrushed and randomly scattered aluminum cans would be subject to scattering by gusty winds. Heck, that'd be almost like littering! This guy certainly had a clue about the nature of ice-fishing. Carefully stacked and organized under the protection of January snows, this late March find is a necessity on your GPS!

Pop cans are a little dicier game. As common a sight on the melting lake as old burbot carcasses, they can quickly lead you astray in terms of fishing insights. As a rule, I ignore the larger piles of regular, sugared pop cans, especially when they're mixed in with a liberal dose of candy wrappers and chip bags. These have most likely been deposited by a more youthful group who were out during a mid-February warming trend, looking for nothing more than a winter weekend diversion. Instead, I like to concentrate on the diet variety of cans, which usually identifies the consumer as an older, perhaps more seasoned fishing type. Discarded water bottles are even more telling-probably left behind by a fisherman who has matured and now puts a good deal of thought about what enters his body. I make the assumption that he puts the same amount of consideration into his fishing. GPS it!

Other late March finds on the ice can be every bit as informative. A hefty build-up of cigarette butts suggests that there was a good reason for staying in the spot for a long time. Crushed, abandoned Styrofoam bait buckets hint that the one-time owner was also only a one-time fisherman. Fish breading boxes insinuate that there was actually some fish to bread. Cast-off remnants of clothing make me wonder if the fishing wasn't slow enough to allow time for something else.

And then, every once in a great while, you'll stumble across one of those rare, frozen-over ice holes that has absolutely nothing left next to it. No fish guts. No beer cartons or water bottles. No nothing. Just ice and snow. And if you're lucky enough to encounter one of these truly unusual sites in your spring scouting effort, make sure you slap it on your GPS before the next fickle March storm blows in and hides it from view forever. Because this spot has obviously been fished by someone who understands the entire ice-fishing experience. And it seems like knowledge like that gets harder to find every spring.

Redrawing legislative boundaries means a shift in power

In announcing the state's legislative and congressional districts, a judicial panel confirmed our fears this week – that rural Minnesota would be losing influence in the state legislature.

Redrawing the state's legislative boundaries was legally required by the 2000 census, and the fact that our legislative representatives could not reach an agreement on this very political matter – after all, a shift in boundaries could affect party influence – is not very surprising. Tuesday, March 19, was the deadline that had been established, after which the state was "unconstitutionally malapportioned." Therefore, on Tuesday, a five-member judicial panel ended speculation and ordered the redrawing of the state's legislative boundaries. Of course, its order was a factually based decision.

Population is key to the reason why the lines were redrawn and why a power shift has taken place. According to estimates, 60 percent of the state's population now resides in the 11-county Twin Cities metropolitan area. According to the final judicial order, "... this plan achieves population equality to the greatest extent possible while respective of political subdivision boundaries. The median deviation for the Senate districts is .28 percent, or 206 persons from the ideal Senate district population of 73,425 people. The mean deviation for the plan's House districts is .32 percent, or 118 persons from the ideal House district population of 36,713 people. No House or Senate district has a population deviation greater than .80 percent."

Stated simply, this means that fewer rural representatives will be covering geographically larger districts.

What this means to rural residents is that there is the potential for more and more of the state's resources to be directed at the metropolitan areas. While it may not be a pre-determined outcome, it will become more difficult for our representatives to ensure what we would call a "fair" distribution of resources. Rural concerns are legitimate. The reality of the situation is that rural counties rely more on state aid to provide basic services than urban counties. It's a function of the difference between tax bases.

The hope for rural Minnesotans therefore, is strong and effective representative leadership.

Where does chocolate milk come from?

No, chocolate milk does not come from a brown cow. Surprisingly, even in northwestern Minnesota some young students think it does – possibly because of some cute advertisements that encourage youngsters to drink milk. While the confusion among young students may be understandable, and humorous to me, it does point out a need for agricultural education in the classroom.

Elementary students at Challenger Elementary School in Thief River Falls, and other schools in the region in the near future, will be recipients of agricultural education from an Ag in the Classroom program sponsored by the Minnesota Agri-Women.

According to the Minnesota Department of Agriculture, Minnesota Agriculture in the Classroom is a school-based education program helping students in grades K-12 gain broad-based agricultural knowledge.

The MDA description of the program, states, "Agricultural literacy is important for everyone, especially K-12 students and educators. Today's youth are tomorrow's leaders. As leaders, they must have an understanding of agriculture and how it affects their world in order to make intelligent decisions. Agriculture-based career opportunities abound. In order to prepare tomorrow's leaders and scientists, the reality of agriculture as a science, a business and as an integral part of the community must be presented in the classroom setting."

While less than two percent of the nation's population is involved in production agriculture, we depend on agricultural products for food, clothing, and shelter. Agriculture is especially important in here in rural Minnesota. It is therefore important that our future leaders understand its role in our lives, and that chocolate milk does not come from brown cows.

Minnesota needs moratorium on welfare time limits

by Minnesota Editorial Board

On July 1, thousands of low-income families, including an estimated 6,000 children, will lose their cash benefits under Minnesota's Family Investment plan.

"There is no safety net for these families who lose their assistance after being on the program for the five year time limit," says Deb Konechne, a member of the Minnesota Welfare Rights Coalition, and Blanca Villarreal, a board member with the People Escaping Poverty Project. "Families already living on the edge will be pushed deeper into poverty, hunger and homelessness," the authors say in an article released by the Minnesota Editorial Forum.

"Those without jobs will be competing in an even tougher job market, thanks to the recession which has put thousands out of work," Konechne says. In one two month period alone, more than 23,000 Minnesotans lost their jobs.

Minnesota is considering a measure that would put a three-year moratorium on the time limit. The measure has the support of more than 150 church, labor, women and community organizations.

"The measure is a first step in taking care of the immediate needs of low-income families," says Villarreal. "We also need to enact provisions in our welfare policy to help families get out of poverty and off welfare for good."

"Unfortunately, Minnesota's welfare system was never designed to get people out of poverty," Konechne adds. "Instead, its thrust has been to push people into dead-end, low paying jobs that could never support a family."

While the federal government allows up to 30 percent of recipients in any state to be enrolled in education programs, Minnesota parents were systematically denied education and training.

"Worst of all, this man-made disaster could have been prevented," Villarreal says. "Over the past five years, legislators could have addressed the problems that create poverty and keep families poor."

"At the very least, Minnesota lawmakers must patch one of the holes in the social safety net by putting a hold on the time limit of cash assistance," the authors note. "Extending the time limit to cash assistance won't solve all the problems with our system. But it will help Minnesota buy some time while it comes up with lasting solutions for our working families."

Regional Job Fair held at NCTC April 17

The Seventh Annual Northwest Minnesota Regional Job Fair will be held from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Wednesday, April 17, in the gymnasium of Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls.

Over two dozen business representatives will be available. John Reitmeier of Blue Marble Technologies will also be on hand to answer specific job search and career questions. His "Afternoon Magazine" radio show (1590am) will be broadcast live from the Job Fair from 3 to 5 p.m.

At 1 p.m. an employer panel discussion on "Employer Expectations of Future and Present Employees" will be held in the theater of the college.

An American Sign Language interpreter will be available from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. for individuals who need assistance.

LETTERS

To the Editor:

The Minnesota House approved a budget-balancing bill that destroys the safety net for our most vulnerable citizens. Deep cuts were made in health care and benefits for the poor and disabled. Progress in providing coverage for children will be repealed, along with other cuts in Health and Human Services.

The House leadership stated that the only option to these cuts would be to raise taxes, and this they consider [illegible].

What I find morally unacceptable is to balance the budget on the backs of those who have the least. We need to let our legislators know that we would rather pay higher taxes than to participate in this callous disregard for the well-being of the less fortunate among us.

Sincerely,
Milo Mathison

Crop Disaster assistance program deadline nears

Marshall County Executive Director JoDell Poolman has announced that the federal regulations governing the Noninsured Crop Disaster Assistance Program (NAP) have been published effective March 19, 2002. As a result of this publication, the deadline to apply for 2002 NAP coverage has been established as April 18, 2002. Poolman said, "All producers in Marshall County who raise NAP crops need to have filed an application for coverage in their county Farm Service Agency (FSA) office and have paid the applicable fees by the close of business April 18, 2002, in order to have coverage effective for year 2002. In addition, all crop year 2001 NAP crop yields must be reported to the producer's FSA county office by close of business July 15, 2002, in order to count toward the NAP Actual Production History (APH) for 2002. All 2002 APH yields must be reported by the application closing dates for 2003 coverage which may vary by crop."

Any person who wishes to obtain a copy of the proposed regulations may do so by accessing the Government Printing Office (GPO) Web site: www.access.gpo.gov/ and clicking on GPO Access, Federal Register, 2002; Tuesday, March 19, 2002; Commodity Credit Corporation; TEXT. All comments should be submitted as directed in the proposed rules and must be received by April 17, 2002 to be considered.

Producers with questions concerning NAP should contact the Marshall FSA office at 218-745-4251.

Evidence of postal delivery problems sought

The effort to document problems with the postal delivery system in Thief River Falls remains a concern for local officials.

Valerie Solem, representative of Sen. Mark Dayton, said she would like anyone with post-marked envelopes that were either delivered late or in error to drop them off at her office, which is located in the Chamber of Commerce office building on Highway 59 SE. She can also be reached at 681-2166.
